PREPAREDNESS OF RUSSIA IS A COMPLED SURPRISE TO GERMANS

The Muscorites' Seems to Have Been Very Far Advanced Long Before War Was Declared--Berlin Claims That Russian Columns Had Been on the March Westward Since Last April, Another Surprise is That Czars' Generals Have Modernized Their Tactics

Berlin, Oct. 3.--German army officers are giving their views as to the fighting qualities of the Russian Emperor's soldiers. The East Prussian campaign is the most remarkable on record for the number of prisoners taken in so short a time and in field fighting. In less than three weeks, according to official statements, General Von Hindenburg made prisoners of nearly 160,000 Russians. The first surprise the Russians gave the German ;Military leaders was the aggressive way they pushed this. It had been supposed in military headquarters that they would occupy strong defensive positions behind the Vistula and other streams and await the attack of the Germans and Austrians. Instead of such strategy however, they pushed into East Prussia in great numbers at a very early stage of the war, and they are still moving forward in Galicia

From this fact it is inferred here that Russia's mobilization was very far advanced, and other preparations for war begun long before the St. Petersburg government admitted that even one soldier had been called to the colors. This inference finds strong support, too, in admissions declared to have been made by Russian prisoners. Soldiers of a corps from the Caucasus are reported to have said they had been on the march westward with entermittent drilling since March and April. The participation of the third Irkutsk Siberian corps in the later stage of the fighting in East Prussia, is given as still stronger evidence that Russia had long been getting ready to fight. 'Parts of this corps were in action at Lyck as early as Sept. 19, six weeks after the date when the order of mobilization was publicly announced.

The next surprise was that the Russian generals no longer send their troops into battle in close formation, as in previous wars, but have modernized their tactics an try to utilise all the advantages of the ground. The shooting of the infantry, however, was found to be very ineffective. This is no wonder, if prisoners told the truth in saying that they had no target practice whatever, and had only used their rifles shooting with blank cartridges in manoeuvres.

Even soldiers of the standing army appear to have had practice only in shooting at about 900 yards. At that range their work was fairly accurate, but at longer and shorter ranges nearly all their bullets went wild.

Mr. Keruoh arrived in Ottawa today and had a long interview with Mr. A. W. Campbell, Deputy Minister of Railways, and other officials of the department.

Russian's Advance In East Will Meet Big Opposition

London, Oct. 4.—A correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company at Rome says that a despatch has been received there from Fucharest, saying that after occupying the principal cities of Buckowina (a crown land of Austria-Hungary), the Russians have begun an advance on Transylvania. Austria hoping to defeat this serious attack has contracted in the west Carpathians several army corps, including those formerly on the Servian frontier, and a big battle is imminent.

SEEMS TO BE DEADLOCK IN FRANCE FIGHTING IN EASTERN PRUSSIA

Gen. Von Kluk Gets Reinforcements, So Do the Allies--Crown Prince's Army Tries to Relieve Pressure on German Right Wing, But is Thrown Back in Disorder--Report That Germans are Routed by Attacks of Russian Cavalry

London, Oct. 3.— French outposts discovered the advance guard of the crown prince's army coming through the forest of Grurie, in an attempt to create a diversion and relieve pressure on the German right. Following the alarm a brief but bloody engagement ensued, in which the sixteenth German army corps was compelled to fall back precipitately.

General Von Kluck is still hammering at the allied lines in the vicinity of Roye, without effect of consequence. Reinforcements have come up on both sides and the contest is likely to continue for some time. The situation is almost a deadlock.

In Paris the report is current that the armies of Von Kluck and Von Boehm have been amalgamated in a supreme effort to stop the turning movement of the allies. According to the report troops from Alsace-Lorraine and Rhine fortresses now occupy the position formerly held by Von Buelow.

With German veterans on the right wing the task of the allies is made harder, although military experts continue to predict the success of Franco-British arms.

RESTRICTION ON BUYING U. S. STOCKS

London, Oct. 3.—The committee of the London Stock Exchange decided today that under the present exceptional commercial conditions no member should purchase or sell any securities dealt in on the American market at a less price that the English equivalent of New York closing price on July 30.

It was furthermore ruled that all transactions must be settled for in cash.

Indian Troops Reported as Doing Effective Work In Argonne

Hard ann Trying Conditions Await the Allies in Future Operations Against a Defensive Germany--Aeroplanes Prevent Extensive Movements on Either Side Being Unknown to Opponents--Flanders is Free of Germans

Berlib, via London, Oct. 3.—A correspondent of The Lokal Anziger, who has witnessed the military operations in the Argonne forest and north of Nerdun, telegraphs that the bombardment of Verdun still continues Much activity at the Verdun railroad station has been noted and there are three captive balloons over the city. The wounded are coming in from the front in the best of spirits. the correspondent continues.

The English artillery he admits, is doing very efficient work in the Argonne forest and causing much trouble. these reinforcements are supposed to be partially composed of Hindus. But, says that the German position is "as of iron" and that up to the present time all the efforts of the enemy have been futile. While the developments are slow, the correspondent says, it is thought the final decision is not far off. The population of that district is starving.

BATTLE NOT YET OVER

London, Oct. 3.—A despatch to The Express from Bordeaux says ;

"The battle in France is not yet over. The military authorities recognize that the struggle will not be short or swift. The Germans are making good use of their aeroplanes for the allies to execute extended movements unknown to the enemy."

FLANDERS FREE OF GERMANS

London, Oct. 3.—A despatch to the Reuter Telegram Company from Amsterdam, says that west of Flanders, the western-most province of the Belgium, is now free of Germans.

TAKE A LONG TIME TO REDUCE GERMANY

London, Oct 3.—The military expert of The Times today says :

"However much we may bend back the German wing and relieve Antwerp, whatever confidence we have that the shock of the Russian masses in the east will prove decisive, we must not entertain the slightest illusion regarding the hard and trying condition which awaits all the allies in the future in operating against Germany reduced to the defensive.

CZAR OFF TO BATTLE

KAISER BARELY ESCAPES

Rome, Oct. 3.—By CentralPetrograd received here to-dayNews Cable—A despatch from Petrograd says Germans are evacuating Russian territory and that whole regiments of German troops have been drowned in the Niemen River. According to the despatch the Germans also lost siege artillery.

It is reported that Kaiser Wilhelm escaped with great difficulty.

The reference to the escape of the emperor is significent because he was reported last week to have gone to Suwalki, which is the scene of the retreat referred to in the Petrograd message.

GERMAN GENERALS SHIFTED.

London, Oct. 3.—A Reuter despatch from Amsterdam says it is officially announced irom Berlin that Major-General Von Voights Rhetz has been appointed on the quartermaster-general's staff in place of General Von Stain, who is now commanding an army corps.

NOT DRUGS
Food Did It.

After using laxative and cathartic medicines from childhood a case of chronic constipation yielded to the scientific food, Grape-Nuts, in a few days.

"From early childhood I suffered with such terrible constipation that I had to use laxatives continuously going from one drug to another and suffering more or less all the time.

"A prominent physician whom I consulted told me the muscles of the digestive organs were weakened and could not perform their work without help of some kind, so I have tried at different times about every laxative and cathartic known, but found no help that was at all permanent. I had finally become discouraged and had given my case up as hopeless when I began to use the pre-digested food, Grape-Nuts.

"Although I had not expected this food to help my trouble, to my great surprise Grape-Nuts digested easily from the first and in a few days I was convinced that this was just what my system needed.

"The bowels performed their functions regularly and I am now completely and permanently cured of this awful trouble.

"Truly the power of scientific food must be unlimited." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

Trial 10 days of Grape-Nuts, when regular food does not seem to sustain the body, works wonders. "There's a reason."

KAISER'S GIFT CAPTURED

Paris, Oct. 3.—The capture of Lieut. Count von Schwerin, the kaiser's nephew, and his troops of Uhlans, was carried out with great dash by a company of Chasseurs under the command of Lieut. Ghebeur, an officer of reserve.

Mme. Ghebeur, who lives at Saint Ouen, a suburb of Paris, has received from her husband the trophies of his brilliant feat of arms. These consisted of the helmet of the captured officer and his sword, the latter a gift of the kaiser, bearing an inscription to that effect.

MR. CHURCHILL'S FAMOUS SPEECH ON ONLY TERMS OF PEACE

By Thomas T. Lasecki in "Free Poland.

The speech which Mr. Churchill, the British first Lord of the Admiralty, delivered at a public meeting in London, Friday evening Sept. 11, was one of great significance as stating the attitude of Great Britain and its plans for the continuance of the war. Such phrases as "no compromise" and "our life against Germany" indicated unmistakably that the war will be pursued until Germany begs for peace and accepts it on the hard terms of the allies. This might have been expected. The extent of the British foreign commercial interests and even the safety of the empire demand, in the British view, that the menace of expanding German militarism be checked once for all.

But to the Poles and the other enslaved nations in Europe the speech was even of greater significance and interest. After the Russian manifesto to the Poles, it was the first ray of sunshine, emanating from one who may be considered a semi-official spokesman of the allies. Mr. Churchill's statement was much more sweeping than the Russian manifesto. It is the first recognition from a high peace from oppressing the lesser nationalities by superior force.

The French nation has always been friendly to Poles, and the sincere intercession of the French government may be safely expected.—Italy will, no doubt, support the cause of freedom. The eminent Italian historian, Guglielmo Ferrero, has already given expression to his sympathies for Poland in a carefully prepared newspaper article.—Such a prominent Englishman as H. G. Wells has also expressed very progressive views on the future role of downtrodden nations.

And now Mr. Churchill makes it known that in the terms of peace to be offered Germany and Austria, if defeated, will be incorporated a plan for a Europe reconstructed along ethical and logical ethnic lines.

Mr. Churchill evidently recognizes that a despotic rule of a disconcerted people is as much a menace to peace as selfish autocracy, rampant imperialism and the ruthless striving for power and expansion. The strength of national consciousness, especially under adverse conditions, must be conceded. Austria and even Germany recognize this fact in their belated courting of the Poles during the present crisis. In this respect Great Britain and the United States are the leading nations of the world.

Prussia's mistake in her treatment of the Poles is no less notable than that of Bismark, who, in a letter regarding the famous three Kaisers' alliance to combat advancing democracy, condemned the Austrian tolerant policy toward the Poles. The Prussian attempts to exterminate the Poles have been as systematic and thorough as possible, but the results are far from thorough.

As Ferrero puts it, Prussians took unto themselves the Germanization of Prussian Poland as a historical necessity. Conciliation or friendliness is foreign to Prussianism, which tolerates no rival neighbor whom it cannot subdue. Prussianism is anti-social and the embodiment of nihilistic force! Its activity has been the same in Alsace-Lorraine and Scheiswig-Holstein as in the Poland provinces. As to the Poles, the Prussians know but will not recognize the debt of gratitude they owe to them. The defeat of the Knights of the Cross was the first check to rampant Prussianism. The Knights, prototypes of modern Prussians, exterminated the natives of Prussia with the same ruthlessness with which the Prussians of to-day are endeavoring to implant their mailed first upon the Polish provinces.

SERVIANS DEFEATED AUSTRIANS

Paris, Oct. 3.—"After twenty days of the offensive," says a Nish, Servia, despatch to the Havas Agency, "the Austrian forces have stopped twelve miles from the Drina on the Bosnian frontier."

While these forces are awaiting reinforcements before they will be able to resume the offensive, their troops at the north have been trying desperately to advance over the plains between the Drina and the Save to get at the right flank of the Servians. All their efforts there were defeated in bloody battles.

Meanwhile the Servians and Montenegrins advance slowly but surely in Bosnia. Breaking the stubborn resistance, they occupied, on September 30, Roumania, and several other towns in the vicinity, and are now advancing toward Serajevo.

CHINA SAYS, NO EXCUSE FOR JAPAN'S VIOLATION OF NEUTRALITY

China Claims She Has Not Been Shown the Consideration Due a Friendly Nation--Chineses Government's Reply to the Japanese Latest Note--Says Occupation of Railroad in Shantung Would Constitute Further Violation

Pekin, Oct. 3.—The state council, under the chairmanship of Vice-President Li Yuan Heng, at its session of yesterday, postponed consideration of current business and discussed at length the Japanese violation of Chinese neutrality. The speakers contended that the Japanese would make Shantung Province another Manchuria, that the progress of Japanese troops along the railroad was unnecessary from the military standpoint, that Great Britain could not be excused for the disregard shown by her ally, Japan, of China's neutrality, particularly in view of her declarations concerning Belgian neutrality, and that Japan, in view of their outrages in Shantung, are not treating the Chinese as a friendly nation.

Council finally drafted a series of interpellations to the government and then entered into secret session. The government is permitting Chinese newspapers to report and discuss the Japanese activities in Shantung It still continues to prevent, however, the boycotting of things Japanese, which various Chinese cities have attempted to inaugurate.

The Chinese Government today replied to the latest Japanese note. It declared again that it considered the Japanese occupation of Weihsien, in Shantung Province, a breach of neutrality and asserted that if the rest of the railroad in Shantung was occupied such action would constitute a further violation.

Son of Lord Cowdray Killed While Trying To Escape

Paris, Oct. 4.—Lieut. Harold Pearson, son of Lord Cowdray, the noted oil financier, and head of S. Pearson & Son, Limited, who was taken prisoner at the battle of the Marne, was later shot and killed by a German sentry while trying to escape.

He and his orderly, a private named MacKay bolted from the prison enclosure while they thought that the attention of the sentry was engaged elsewhere. The sentry fired, killing Lieut. Pearson instantly.

MacKay escaped, and securing peasant clothing drove a calf through the German lines and reached the British forces. Lord Murray arrived here today to endeavor to locate Pearson's grave for his father.

The Hon. Weeman Harold Pearson was a British member of Parliament, representing the Liberal party in the Eye district. He was born on April 18, 1882, and was Lord Cowdray's eldest son.

War So Far Has Cost France $420,000,000

Paris, Oct. 4.—The war is costing France $7,000,000 a day. Minister of Finance Alexandre Ribot announced today that the outlay for the first sixty days of the conflict had been $420,000,000.

FIRST CANADIANS TO SMELL POWDER

Are Fifty Men From Calgary Who Were Sent to the Front by Lord Kitchener--Equipped Themselves

London, Oct. 3. Fifty men of the Legion of Frontiersmen from Canada who left their western home because they were tired of waiting for the call for active service, have turned up in London. They are, so far as can be ascertained, the first Canadians to report to the war office here. "When we left home," said one from Regina, "we intended to go to Valcartier camp, but on the journey across Canada we figured it out that to do so would mean going into training for some weeks so we came direct to London and after some trouble managed to secure an interview with a member of Lord Kitchener's staff. We were told that it would be necessary to go into training for some weeks, but we urged that we did not require training that we were in good condition and could shoot straight; and that we had the money in our pockets to buy our equipment and horses. As a last resort we asked if we might make our appeal in person to Lord Kitchener, and after some hesitation this was granted, and we not only had the pleasure of seeing the great soldier in person, but of having our services accepted. We are leaving for Southampton in a day or two."

ATHLETICS IN FRANCE

In the matter of training her young men for athletics France is going ahead very rapidly. At Rheims the Marquis Polignac has established a wonderful athletic college. It is the most complete school of its kind in the world—in fact there is nothing like it the world over. Every appointment for the teaching of physical training is absolutely perfect and nothing else is taught. There are now hundreds of young Frenchmen being taught physical training, athletics especially, in the college at Rheims. A large number of these coaches—that's what they are—will be graduated from the Rheims college each year and sent out to take up their work throughout France. It's not hard then, to picture the result of this—a nation of wonderful athletes. The French are taking up football, golf, tennis and other outdoor sports to an amazing extent.

SURVEY YOUR OWN FARM

Did you ever take an afternoon off and stroll over your own farm, viewing it in the impartial manner in which you would survey a neighbor's farm? Looking the farm in the face in this way is a wonderful educator, and all of us can afford to do it at least once a year.

Sticking too close to hard work makes us narrow in our vision. Obvious faults are apt to escape our notice. For instance, it is easy for one of us who has plowed for 40 years around a large boulder in the middle of an otherwise clean field, to come to regard that obstruction as a necessary evil; a few pounds of blasting powder and half an hour's work would remove the obstruction and improve the field immensely. The barn yard may be very unsightly and mussy to a stranger, but all right to us because we have become accustomed to seeing it that way. A gate that insists on sagging and dragging may lose us enough time and energy in a year to build half a dozen new ones to take its place, but we have become so accustomed to hauling that old gate around that it too is classed as a necessary evil.

It is wonderful how many small points in need of improvement we can find if we will only give our farm a square look in the face. Many of the most obvious faults may be remedied by half an hour of energetic work. There are few of us whose farms are so perfect that they would not be the better of an annual clean-up.

ANNIE EDNEY

Annie Edney is said to have screamed herself into a job once upon a time in London. She was looking for a position with a theatrical company, so the story goes. A consultation with the manager indicated that she would have to scream in the part assigned to her.

She "allowed" that she could scream to order in first class fashion. So a short synopsis of the play was given to her. Her husband was supposed to have dropped dead. She, seeing the figure of her loved one at her feet, then was to give a cry which would send shivers over the audience.

Miss Edney walked to the stage door, turned, and gave the requisite shriek—which drew stage hands, police, and people off the street to discover what was the matter.

She got the job!

Belgium's People Heaviest Drinkers

Belgium has the greatest number of public houses per head in the world. Whereas in Norway there is one to every 9,000 inhabitants, in Sweden one to every 5,000, in England to every 432, in the United States to every 340, in Germany to every 240, in France to every 82, Belgium has one public house to every 30 inhabitants. The drink revenue in Belgium amounts to $500,000,000, the Belgian working man being computed to spend two and a half months' wages on alcohol.

LITTLE BRAIN WAVES

Man's instinct is to kill, woman's to kiss;

Scandal comes out with tea as sure as rash with measles.

We have often wondered who furnished the tools for some of the self-made men.

The real hero of many a novel is the man who undertakes to publish it.

Women want everything a man has, except moustaches and bald heads.

A woman in her best clothes wants admiration; at all other times she prefers love.

The human race is divided into two classes—those who go ahead and do something, and those who sit still and inquire, "Why wasn't it done the other way?"

Refuse From Lumber

A Vancouver lumberman has estimated that "one ton of refuse goes to the burners for every thousand feet of lumber cut." In his own sawmill he has eliminated this waste by breaking up the refuse into small pieces which are manufactured into fuel briquettes at a cost of only $3 a ton.

HELEN ARMSTRONG

This little five-year-old girl gets a nice, thick pay-envelope every week for playing child parts before the moving picture film. She plays with her doll, mauls a big dog or whispers to her mother in such a natural and unaffected way that she is in great demand. All patrons of the "movie" shows have seen her very often.

The Canny Scot

Sir Thomas Lipton, having made his fortune out of tea, tells some good stories about the beverage. One of them, illustrating the "canniness" of the Scot, is as follows:

An old farmer of Dumfriesshire was the guest of a fine lady in that country. When the afternoon tea was served the hostess observed that the old man gulped down his before she could serve the other guests. Again and again the farmer passed his cup to be refilled. At the ninth cup the lady, becoming uneasy as to the supply on hand, ventured to ask:

"How many cups of tea do you take, John?"

Dog Buys His Own License

With an envelope containing a note and a half-sovereign attached to its collar, a fox terrier called at Prince's Avenue Post Office, Hull, for its dog license. On the license being placed in the envelope, together with half a crown change, the dog trotted off home.

Rich Man Reduced to Singing For Coppers and Asking For Crusts

A man who had been left several fortunes, and after spending all came to be charged with begging, found himself in the dock at Northwich, England.

He was John Marsh, aged sixty-nine, of St. Helens. He declared that he had been left by various relatives sums totalling $250,000, which had all been spent in drinking, gambling, and helping others. He had inherited his fathers's spendthrift nature and his mother's generosity.

He was formerly in a grocery and confectionery business at St. Helens, but now worked for farmers solely for his food, varying the monotony by singing in publichouses songs of his own composition, and dancing.

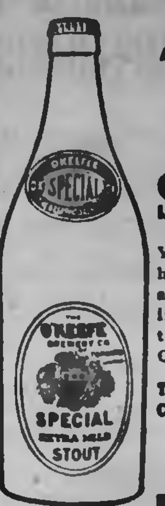
Reduced to hunger, he pleaded, he simply begged a crust. His one desire was to tide over another year to qualify for an old age pension, as he had an aversion to becoming a pauper. The magistrate gave him money to help him on his way, and dismissed the case.

FIFTY MILE GOLF DRIVE

Certain extraordinary facts with respect to Mars have been established by the astronomers, says an article in the "London Magazine."

It is known that the size and density of Mars are so much less than the size and density of the earth that a man weighing 200 pounds here would weigh only 75 pounds there. Lead there would weigh no more than stone with us, and stone there no more than water here.

A man on Mars would be eighty-three times more powerful than an earth-dweller. He could leap a wall 8 feet 4 inches in height with no more effort than it would cost him here to spring over a 2 foot fence, and he would be able to drive a golf ball no less than fifty miles!



Refreshing Sleep

A glass or two of the "Beer That Builds" at bed time, will bring restful, refreshing sleep. The tired business man—the woman who is nervous and run-down—will find this tonic and food most beneficial. Rich in food value—easily digested—and extra mild.

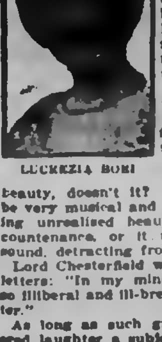
Hints on Beauty Culture

Do You Laugh in Tune and with Your Eyes?

By LUCREZIA BORI

Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York.

Special arrangements have been made with Senorita Lucrezia Bori, the famous prima donna soprano, who has created a wonderful impression in Europe and New York on account of her remarkable beauty and artistic attainment, to write for this paper a series of articles on beauty. There is probably no authority her equal in giving the newest and most approved methods of attaining and preserving "the divine right of women."



LUCREZIA BORI

It may seem strange to try to think of Epictetus as a beauty culturist, but he gives us an excellent beauty hint when he says: "Laughter should not be much, nor frequent, nor unrestrained."

What has laughter to do with beauty, you want to know? Anything that makes for attractiveness, or its antonym, concerns beauty, doesn't it? And a laugh may be very musical and fascinating, revealing unrealised beauty of nature and countenance, or it may be an empty sound, detracting from a lovely face.

Lord Chesterfield wrote in his famous letters: "In my mind there is nothing so illiberal and ill-bred as audible laughter."

As long as such great minds considered laughter a subject for serious discussion, why may not we take it for the text of a beauty talk?

So few of us know how to laugh—musically. So few of us know the fine distinction between laughter from the heart and the meaningless outburst of noise, which may signify dozens of things besides mirth. So few of us know the right key upon which to laugh. For each one of us has a certain musical key, which should act as the tuning fork for our natures. We are not all made in the same key. Some of us are sharps and some flats, some majors and some minors. And if as many musical instruments were out of tune as there are human beings off the key, this world would be a place of maddening discords.

Laughter, to be musical, must be spontaneous. It must come from the heart, It must express a feeling of genuine happiness, joy, appreciation. The laugh indexes the character. The laughter of the child is usually true because it is sincere.

As we grow older there is less need of noisy outlet for emotions, either joy or grief. A smile is more becoming, more eloquent, in most cases, than an outright laugh.

Continual laughter is often due to nervousness. It bespeaks a lack of poise. It is unbeautiful as well as foolish. It makes lines about the eyes, deep creases from the nose to the mouth.

Laughter that does not include the eyes is not laughter at all. It is a hollow mockery, a base imitation. It is merely muscular exercise and not good at that.

It is impossible to describe in words anything so delightfully musical and appealing as a genuine laugh. It is a ripple of melody, in which is the trill of birds, the sighing of breezes, the faint vibration of a far-off harp. It leaves a pleasing echo in the memory.

One of the difficult tasks of the singer is to learn how to laugh on the key and with spontaneity. It takes practice. Practised laughter may be of great value in teaching the right pitch for the voice and in giving an idea of elasticity of tones.

Laugh up and down the scales. It will help you in your speaking voice. The true laugh must be infectious. It must set other laughs in answering vibration. It should be the cue for the chorus.

And, unless your laugh can be all this, unless it can express yourself at your best, choke it and put a smile in its place. You can learn how to smile by looking in the mirror. And even the smile must spring from the heart. Otherwise it is merely a grin.

When you feel that you must laugh for joy, you will laugh in tune. Otherwise a smile will do nicely, thank you.

Lucrezia Bori

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

Have you time to listen to my long story? I shall try to explain as clearly as possible.

A year ago I began to keep company with a young man of my own age, with the consent of my mother. I had known him slightly all my life. He came to see me quite often, and, as he is a very pleasant young man, I grew quite fond of him. He, himself, I know, cares very much for me. At Christmas we became engaged, and I think I have been indiscreet in allowing so many caresses and privileges.

Lately I have begun to think that I do not care as much for him as I would like to care for the one man in the world. He is so different from myself.

I have had the advantage of a good education, while he has not. I am passionately fond of good books, art and the best of plays. My boy friend, though good, cares nothing whatever for literary or artistic things, and laughs at me when I speak of them.

Now I am anxious to be free, yet I do not want to do anything dishonorable. More than anything else I do not wish to lay myself open to gossip. I would a thousand times rather marry a man I did not love than have any person speak of me slightingly.

What shall I do? Would this engagement make any difference in years to come if I should meet a man I did love? I wish a thousand times I had not given myself to this man!

REMORSE.

So you wish a thousand times that you had not done what you have done—poor child.

If you could only see the shadowy procession of others who wish the same thing, who have gone before you, and will come behind.

You have been foolish, ill-advised to say the least—don't go on being foolish. Now is the time to be wise.

You have made a bitter mistake, and you will suffer for it—bitterly. Let the mistake end—so.

Break your engagement, and break it now, this very day, this very evening. It isn't fair to the man, and it isn't fair to yourself, to let it go on a day longer.

You never were really in love with him at all—you were just lonely. If you married him, feeling as you do, you would find that there is no loneliness in the world like what our clever cousins, the French, call "loneliness of two."

The man does not like books, and you do; he does not like music, and you do; he does not like pictures, and you do—what a life you'd lead him, and what a life he'd lead you.

Your head is far enough in the noose now. Take it out before it is too late—both for his sake and for yours.

As to marrying a man just for fear o' what some gossip might say if you didn't, that's a good deal like shooting yourself through the heart just to please the neighbors. Don't think of such a thing.

As to the years to come, when you meet the man you really do love and who really loves you, he'll doubtless have just some such affair as this back in his memory, so don't worry too much about him.

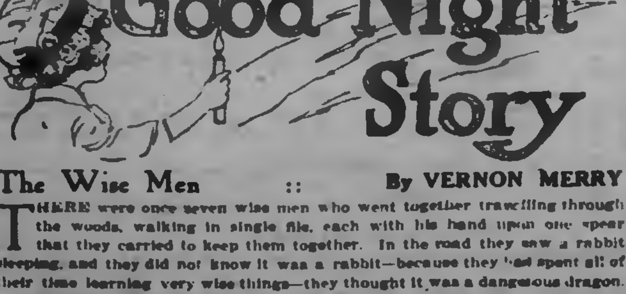
You've made a mistake—correct it—and forget it. That's the only way.

You seem lonely at home—why don't you try to get into some work that will interest you?

The world is full of all kinds of interesting things. find some of them, and be too busy to brood.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care of this office.



The Wise Men :: By VERNON MERRY

THERE were once seven wise men who went together travelling through the woods, walking in single file, each with his hand upon one spear that they carried to keep them together. In the road they saw a rabbit sleeping, and they did not know it was a rabbit—because they had spent all of their time learning very wise things—they thought it was a dangerous dragon.

So with fear and trembling the seven wise men grasped the spear firmly in their united hands and rushed at the poor sleeping rabbit, yelling with all their might: "What! What!" The noise woke the rabbit and frightened it so much that it ran away like the wind. This great adventure made the seven wise men think that they could conquer anything in the world.

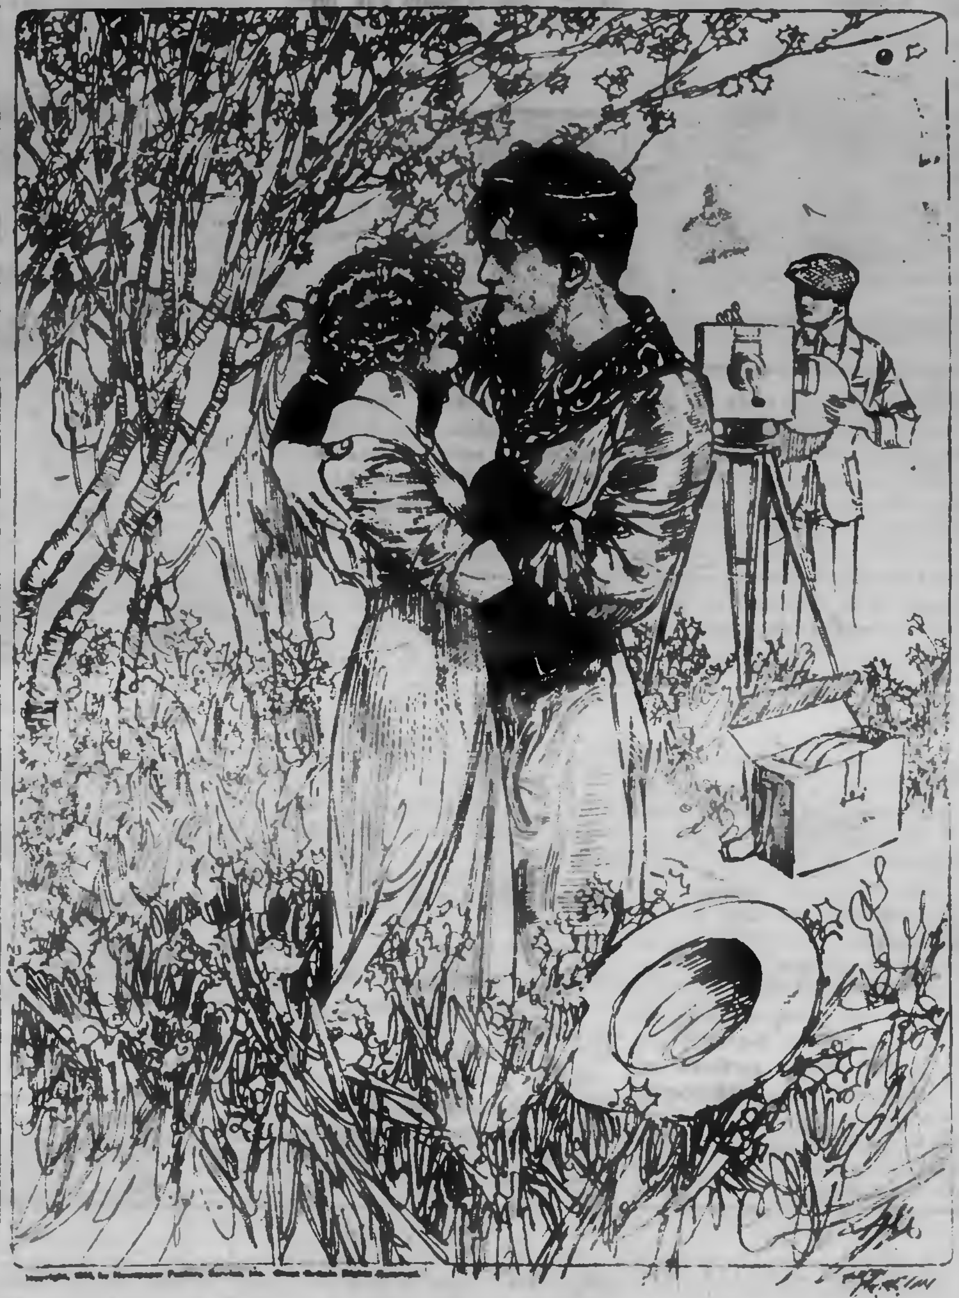
Consequently, when they came to a river a mile wide they thought nothing of pointing their spear at it and plunging in as they cried "What! What!" to frighten it away.

But the first wise man stepped into the mud and disappeared, and the remaining six wise men stood on the very edge of the river in doubt until a big bullfrog croaked "What! What!" and then they said one to the other:

"That is our brother calling us to come on."

So they rushed right into the river and every one of the seven was drowned. You see one bullfrog caused the death of many wise men.

THE END OF THE FILM :: By Michelson



Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain Rights Reserved.

THERE was a lot that went before—while the man was turning the handle—a whole romance that will be flashed on the screen in thousands of places all over the country. And they acted it well, these two.

Then in that "reunited" embrace of the film story, when the signal came that the scene and the play were ended, they lingered. THAT meant more to them than the make-believe romance—THEIR romance that had grown in the studios and in all the rough and tumble of the picture drama out-of-doors.

THIS extra scene that doesn't get on the films has words with it, softly spoken words that only occupy a few moments, but that are rich in meaning. Love can't be acted without HEARTS, and hearts can't always be making believe.

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By LEONA DALRYMPLE

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

Strained Relations.

LEONA DALRYMPLE

I RETURNED to my apartment in very little better spirits than when I left. I merely knew that the problem of extravagance that I was facing was being faced by men all over the continent. That, at least. I was young and beginning, and ought to take a stand once and for all.

Mary sat by the library table reading. I had devoutly hoped she would be in bed. She was evidently waiting for me. She still maintained the utter silence that might mean anything. Once more I felt that queer fury seething in my veins. Why, in heaven's name, didn't she say something—anything? This silence was getting on my nerves.

I went into my room and took off my shoes, dropping them purposely with a thunderous bang. I got into my slippers and looked at my watch. It was past midnight. I had no more than slipped into my dressing gown when there came a knock on the hall door, and the downstairs tenant's maid stood outside looking sleepy and disgruntled.

"Mr. Alvin's compliments, sir," she said crossly, "but would ye be makin' a little less noise. He's had no great lot of sleep for several nights, what with goin' about and tonight he thought to go to bed early and get a bit of sleep."

"The devil with Mr. Alvin!" I shot back fiercely, and instantly Mary was at my side.

"Please do tell Mr. Alvin we're awfully sorry," she said sweetly, "but Mr. Hunt is a little out of sorts tonight. He'll be feeling better in the morning."

The maid stared. I felt the hot color rising to the roots of my hair. It was a nasty way of getting back. If a man had done it I think I would have thrashed him on the spot. When the door was closed Mary and I confronted each other in silence. There was storm in her eyes, and certainly plenty of it in my heart.

"Mary," I said, "how dare you do such a thing as that? Do you want the neighbors to know that we quarrel? Do you want them to gossip and watch us?"

"I don't care," said Mary. "If they do."

"You do care," I flung back. "You care more for what people think than any one I ever knew. Women are always that way. They care a darn sight more for the superficial appearance of things than for actualities."

"Yes?" said Mary coolly.

"I don't see how in heaven's name you can be so inconsistent," I went on, whipped into fury by her maddening apathy. "Tomorrow you'll be sorry you spoke so to the Alvins' maid, and it wasn't decent anyway."

Mary's chilly indifference came to a sudden end.

"You're a brute," she blazed, and, in that instant the silly bickering over the maid and the shoes vanished from her mind and her thoughts, in the way of women, went flying back to the original cause of grievance. "How dare you speak to mother as you did tonight? Haven't you any more decency in you than to brow-beat a woman? How dare you drop your shoes that way in a fury, and then tell Mr. Alvin to go to the devil? Let me tell you that my mother was good and kind to me long before I ever knew or heard of you, and I won't have her talked to so," and Mary burst suddenly into a wild passion of tears.

I have never seen anything so childish and futile as her spasm of wrath. A great pity welled up in me suddenly. To war with a woman such as this, with her petty mind and her petty rebellions was like warring with a sparrow.

So, pitying my wife, somehow my anger dissolved. I apologized, and Mary cried, and we sat up until daylight talking. Once Mr. Alvin rapped on the ceiling below when the sound of our voices rose, but, when I rapped back, he stopped.

ODD and Interesting FACTS

A patchwork quilt which has taken 43 years to make is one of the many remarkable exhibits which members of the London Adult School Union are showing at the Memorial buildings, London. The quilt was made by Mrs. W. Newman of Greenwich, and is composed of 4200 separate pieces of vari-colored cloth. Each piece is octagonal in shape, and less than an inch in diameter, and 2000 yards of cotton were used in sewing them together. Another quilt, made by Mrs. Larman, contains 2000 separate pieces.

Approximately 285,000,000 tons of coal are annually consumed in Great Britain. A large portion of this—over 80,000,000 tons—is used for steam raising in factories, while for domestic purposes 34,000,000 tons are required, which is also nearly the figure of the iron and steel industries. Mines require 20,000,000 tons, while gas works use up only 15,000,000 and railways 13,000,000 tons per annum.

When royalty travels by train, it is customary for the railway companies concerned to print special timetables for the use of the distinguished passengers. For the King of England's recent journey from Calais to Paris the Northern of France and the State Railways issued an unusual royal timetable. This showed the departure from Calais at 12:30, and the arrival at the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne at "16:35," the 24 notation recently adopted by the French railways and the postoffice being used.

An inexpensive method of abolishing the noise of city traffic is being tried at Frankfort. The street paving is of stone blocks, and, the spaces between the blocks being cleaned out to a depth of about an inch, asphalt is flowed over the street in a layer an inch thick. Sand being sprinkled on, the surface is smoothed. Thus an almost noiseless surface can be produced simply and rapidly, and repairs can be easily made.

On the occasion of official banquets in Gwalior, India, a most ingenious American electrical device of silver is used for passing around the after-dinner coffee, cordials and cigars. This is in the form of a miniature locomotive and train of cars, which, operating from an electric battery and running over a diminutive track laid along the table, is so constructed that it automatically stops before each guest.

The New York Edison Company has perfected an apparatus for eliminating the smoke and cinder nuisance at its great Waterside station, New York. The smoke from the boiler plant, laden with soot and cinders, is driven at high speed through a sheet of water, by means of which practically all of the material which constitutes a nuisance is deposited in a big water tank. The recent test showed an average extraction of 95 per cent.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

How Sword Swallowers Have Assisted Science

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

ONE crow does not make a winter, and one swallow does not make a drunkard. One swallow, nevertheless, has been known to kill a man of "indigestion." You doubt it? Is not "indigestion" everything from superacidity to cancer of the oesophagus!

Even so, knife swallowing—not the habit so common in the home, so amusing in a lobster palace—has been dubbed a bizarre species of "indigestion." The physiological definition of sword swallowing is no worse than "indigestion."

Have you ever sat nonchalantly—or even nervously—while a doctor rammed his Gargantuan forefinger into your throat? The hen on the griddle is on a downy bed of roses compared to such a human situation. You hawk and hem, gurgle and gag almost to the point of topsyturviness. Yet the sideshow and the circus men who swallow swords do so as contentedly and gleefully as an infant gulping down its father's lost quarter. The sword enters the mouth, then the oesophagus, and, finally, the stomach. Now these structures are not in a straight line, yet these "internal acrobats" so twist their innards that the sword "gets there just the same."

Sword swallowers have often lent themselves to the progress of medicine and physiology. The Scotch physician, Dr. Stevens, made a number of experiments of digestion through the kindness of a friendly sword swallower.

He caused this fellow to swallow small metallic tubes pierced with holes. They were filled with pieces of meat. When he was ready the swordsman would disgorge the tubes. Thus the various stages and degrees of digestion were recorded.

It is now known just how long a throat can be made insensitive to touch. It was discovered by means of the sword swallowers. Indeed, the "oesophagoscope"—a tube to look down into the stomach—the stomach tube, illumination of that organ with a tiny electric light, were all learned from sword swallowers.

The other day Dr. Grossman of Berlin exhibited a man who was called "the human aquarium."

He had such a huge mouth and so dilated an oesophagus that he could swallow a small aquarium in which were a dozen gold fish, several tadpoles, frogs and other small creatures. He would somersault this in his stomach, and then disgorge first the bowl, then the fluid and the lively, wriggly denizens of the deep.

Some of these swallowers have the power to swallow unbroken hen's eggs, stones, pen-knives, broken glass and the like. A patient of Prof. William Halsted of Johns Hopkins several times swallowed several hundred separate articles. Among them were watches, chains, knives, screws, glass, tacks, nails, stones, crystals and rings.

Few of these rare types of swallowers ever have tummy aches. One fellow, whose name was Tenrion, but who was called "Cassandra," was accustomed to swallow five rats, mice and crabs with the large claws clipped.

Chevalier Cliquot, a French-Canadian, if he did not die recently, is still doing his stunt of swallowing a number of 19-inch bayonet swords and a 22-inch cavalry sword all at once.

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

CAYENNE pepper and borax mixed and sprinkled on the pantry shelves will exterminate ants, which form one of the pests of the summer time.

Black pepper is an excellent moth preventive. If you do not wish to sprinkle the dry pepper over the articles to be protected, make a strong black pepper tea and sprinkle the garments. Then roll them closely in newspapers which have been wet with turpentine, and see that all edges are folded down and pasted so as to exclude air and light, and make it impossible for the smallest moth to find entrance. One of the most important things to remember about packing away clothes or rugs or draperies is to have them thoroughly aired and brushed and cleansed of spots before laying aside. All pockets should be turned wrong side out and the corners brushed. Bits of cotton, wet with oil of cedar and hung about the closets where garments are stored will aid in the discouragement of moths trying to find lodgment.

The trunks in which the garments are packed should be brushed, then sunned and wiped out with gasoline. Gasoline fumes are said to be relied upon to destroy moth eggs. If you think there are moths in the weaves of some article, cover with thick wet cloths and go over them with hot irons until the steam has penetrated the fabric. It will be necessary to repeat the ironing several times. This is an especially useful treatment for rugs or carpets. In putting away the other articles don't forget that upholstered chairs make fine moth homes.

Roaches and water bugs will feast on powdered borax and sugar—and die. It is the most efficacious and harmless mixture known to rid the house of these annoyances.

To clean an enamelled kettle or pan which has become stained, boil in a solution of baking soda and water for 15 minutes and rub with salt.

Pad the dishpan with a folded Turkish towel when you have fine china or cut glass to wash, and the danger of breakage will be materially lessened.

When sending your rugs away for storage or when storing them in the house for the summer, roll powdered alum in the folds, and you will not need so many moth balls with their disagreeable odor.

Porch furniture which looks soiled and shows wear can be freshened by dusting and washing with tepid soap suds, dried quickly in the air, but not in the hot sun. Then rub with crude kerosene or turpentine and raw linseed oil, mixed half and half. All oil should be carefully removed or else rubbed into the wicker or wood.

TWO FAVORITE SALADS OF M. NOGUE

THE making of the salad ought not to be the last minute thought that the average housekeeper considers it; rather it should be a feature of the dinner. It is the one dish that gives to the meal the pleasing touch of delicious lightness and individual charm, for the salad lends itself to ready invention as no other dish does.

I offer you here two salads that exemplify the housewife's opportunity to vary a salad and make it seem like an entirely different invention. One common salad base is used, the difference in dressings and seasonings making the two totally dissimilar.

Salad St. Denis.

FOR 10 persons take 12 oysters, 12 mussels, six ounces of shrimp, one tail of cooked lobster sliced, one can of French peas, one-half can of string beans, cut in slices three bottoms of artichokes cut in slices one-half can of asparagus tips, 12 round cuts of beets, also in slices, three ounces of celery, three ounces of apples, one ounce of truffles, all cut in slices, 1½ ounces of olive oil and two glasses of dry champagne. Salt, pepper and a little cayenne pepper and toss it in a salad bowl.

Salad Louis Simon.

THE same as above with the difference that instead of oil and champagne the salad is seasoned with thick mayonnaise dressing and dressed in large artichoke bottoms and decorated with truffles, pickles and capers and each one is served as an individual salad, one for each guest.

BRIDE, 17, ELOPES WITH HER HUSBANDS BROTHER

New Orleans, Oct. 2.—The second chapter of the white slave charges against Claire and William Chennault, of Franklin parish, opened Monday morning when William's 17-year-old wife, formerly Annie May Griffin, of Lamar, La., was summoned before the Federal grand jury in session here. Mrs. Chennault was accompanied by her brother, Otis Griffin, also summoned before the jury.

The case is the outcome of the elopement from Baton Rouge some weeks ago of Claire Chennault with his brother's bride. The couple were traced through Chicago and later arrested in Berlin, Wis.

Investigation after the arrest led to the arrest of William Chennault, the girl's husband, on similar white slave charges. He was arrested in Delhi, La., and released on $5,000 bond.

These investigations, it is alleged, disclosed a conspiracy against the girl by the brothers and that the marriage was part of the plot. It is alleged that she was the victim of Claire Chennault before her marriage to William, and that the latter was fully aware of it. As Claire Chennault had a wife and child, it is charged by the government, he couldn't marry her himself.

The prosecution is said to hold that William, at his brother Claire's instigation, married the girl, took her to Baton Rouge and turned her over to him. It is even alleged that William Chennault, the husband, purchased the tickets upon which the eloping couple traveled to Chicago.

There was some question as to whether the jurisdiction was in the Western or Southern Federal District, but as the case was finally brought here, it was evidently decided that the case originated in Baton Rouge.

The Chennault family is well known in North Louisiana. Claire Chennault at the time of his alleged relations with Anna May Griffin, was principal of a consolidated school, and the girl was a pupil. Until recently William Chennault was student at the Louisiana State University.

CATHOLIC SOCIETIES URGE WORLD PEACE

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 2.—The actual work of the thirteenth annual convention of Catholic Societies began this morning when President Charles I. Denechaud, of New Orleans presented his report. He said that the Catholic world looked to the assemblage that represented 3,000,000 members of Catholic societies for leadership and counsel.

"The Catholics of the United States should take the initiative for the creation and fostering of concerted action for world peace," said Mr. Denechaud. "Public sentiment should be quickened and Congress importuned to cause this nation to make the first overtures for a serious, sincere and lasting agreement among the peoples of the world for international peace."

Referring "to accredited reports of cruelties perpetrated by some Mexican authorities upon defenceless priests and nuns," president Denechaud said:

"The federation must raise its indignation protest at this inhuman persecution and respectfully request the government to secure legislation and reparation for the indignities and atrocities committed and for property despoiled."

Kaiser Bill, according to a despatch from Berlin, has conferred the Iron Cross on 20,000 soldiers, but the number who have been decorated with a wooden cross at the head of

The Kaiser's Disappointments

Nicholas II of Russia enjoys the honor of being the first Czar in many centuries, who, like King George of England, can drive through the streets of his own capital without protection. This must be keenly disappointing to the Kaiser, who counted on internal troubles from Russia's revolutionary party when war was declared. But as in Ireland, all Russian factions are united in defence of the Czar and their country. Poor misguided William! He has had many disappointments to swallow of late and the bitterest pill of all was his little mistake about the capture of Paris. No wonder that the Lord of Lords and King of Kings is suffering from a slight indisposition.

Be Open and Manly In Attack

A couple of letters have appeared in the Examiner, claiming that a "sweat shop" exists in the city—a place in which starvation wages are paid girls to drain their physical energies to the enrichment of unprincipled employers. Would it not be better to be above board, and name the business house in question out-and-out and done with it. Such letters to the press are in the same class as those from anonymous writers under the suspiction of covert enmity — and savors of a too timorous disposition, afraid of open and manly attack. In such cases there is always the possibility that the writer has an axe to grind, and is afraid to grind it in the full light of day. The letters referred to, in their anonymous character both ways reflect upon more than one business house in Peterborough, and in the interests of all concerned open publicity should be forced. There are always two sides to any question, and liberty of offence and defence is the underlying principle of British fair play.

The Religious Phase of the War

It might be interesting to note the allignment of the belligerents in Europe just now, from a religious standpoint. While it is not a religious war in the general acceptance of the term, still the principles involved are those underlying the foundations of Christianity — liberty, truth and civilized progress. The general concensus of opinion seems to be that Germany is a Christian, or Protestant country. This is a mistaken conception of the situation, as Germany is the home of scepticism, free-thought, infidelism and socialism. Taken as a nation, Germany is diametrically opposed to Christianity. On the other hand, France is a Christian Roman Catholic country, Russia a Christian Greek Catholic country, and the British Empire is composed of a Roman Catholic, English Catholic and Protestant race. Hence we see that the Germans as a nation are irreligious, while their opponents are Christians, or followers of Christ, no matter what form their worship takes. There is very little difference between the Greek and English Catholic faiths; and to-day, in courtesy to honored Allies, the Anglican Churches in Petrograd (St. Petersburg) are closed, and their congregations attend the Greek Church, while in London the Greek Churches are closed and their congregations worship in the Anglican Church. All of which goes to show the tendency of the present war to unite in brotherhood the several sections of the Christian faith, no matter what ceremonious form their individual worship takes.

Ontario's New Premier

In the appointment of Hon. W. H. Hearst to succeed the late Sir James P. Whitney as Premier of Ontario, we have a strong man, with the courage of his convictions and a full measure of that force of character so necessary in political life to cement his following together in devotion to public interests. He is a big man, quite capable of stepping into the big shoes left vacant by his esteemed predecessor. From the incipiency of Mr. Hearst's political career he has been recognized as a coming man destined to take high place in the seats of provincial administration. Hence, his election to the Premiership comes as no great surprise to those in touch with Ontario's politics. We may confidently anticipate a continuation of the late Premier's honest and vigorous policy in behalf of trade and industrial expansion, together with legislative protection and fostering of the interests of all to the exclusion of none.

In this connection the Toronto Evening News very appropriately sums up its endorsation of Mr. Hearst's elevation as follows:—

There is another reason why Mr. Hearst's accession to the Premiership should be regarded with satisfaction. New or Northern Ontario is larger than and as rich in resources as the older portions of the Province. It is in the newer northern territory with its new transcontinental railways, that the most rapid material development is expected to take place in the next few years. In view of such considerations it is reasonable that the Commissioner of Crown Lands should also be first Minister. Moreover, the people of Southern Ontario will not begrudge North Ontario its capture of the Premiership for the first time in history, particularly when it could put forward such a candidate as Mr. Hearst.

There is no magnanimity in Austria's treatment of the Poles. The reason is self-interest. The government needs the Polish vote to control the parliament.

Austria's granting the so-called autonomy to Galicia was only a slight reparation for the dismemberment of Poland. Otherwise the Habsburgs have been strongly influenced by the Kaiser. The forbidding of interpellations by Polish members of the Austrian parliament on the Prussian dispossession law is a notable example of this influence. And in the event of Germany's victory, it goes without saying that the Kaiser will completely dominate Austria to the utter detriment of Slavic interests.

Will Russia show herself recreant to the pledges of automony given to the Poles? Reviewing past history, we find Russia's failure to keep her pledges resulted in the triple partition of Poland and the uprisings of 1831 and 1863.

However, it is known that in Russia higher officialdom there has taken place a radical change of policy towards the Poles. The Russian people in the main have never approved oppressive measures against Poland. Many intelligent Russians have frequently advocated not only a liberal treatment of their Slavic brethren in the West, but even a cordial rapprochement between the two peoples. The granting of many reforms and limited home rule in 1905 was a development of this policy.

But there again savage Prussianism made itself felt. It is stated by the reliable authorities that the Kaiser threatened to make war on Russia if she persisted in making the lot of the Poles more endurable. The freedom as enjoyed by Poles in Galicia and the prospective relief of their burden in Russian Poland would certainly have proved menacing to the propaganda of Prussianism.

It is clear that Prussia is the greatest enemy not only of re-created Poland, but even of the continued existence of the Polish nationality.

The inference, therefore, is justifiable that with the incubus of Prussian militarism cast aside Russia will endeavor to inaugurate a policy of a naive liberation with regard to the Poles and reunite the partitioned sections.

In this connection, the attitude of the allies, France and England—and the neutral powers, Italy, the United States and others, will be of tremendous importance. Democratic France, an undoubted friend of Poland, will surely help to ring the knell of autocracy and oppression.

Even if Great Britain does not desire the utter helplessness of Germany, it must see the advantage of a buffer state will weaken Germany or Austria only 'in a small degree, inasmuch as therefrom the disharmonious and indigestible elements shall be removed.

This motive will also actuate France, and even Italy, especially after the Kaiser's telegram to the king of Italy, which promises revenge for the latter's failure to support Teutonic aggression.

As to the United States, no sane man doubts that it will cast its weight on the scale of freedom and justice. And the 25,000,000 Poles would never forget the efforts of Great Britain, France and other powers in their behalf. This gratitude would be a valuable asset at critical times which may yet arise in the future course of events. Doubt has been expressed in some quarters as to the sincerity of the British desire to break the back of German militarism. Some skeptics have even gone further and raised the question as to whether any geographical changes will take place in Europe.

It may be remarked that Great Britain sees the necessity of inflicting the utmost punishment on German perfidy, as shown in the violation of the neutrality of Switzerland, and in the endeavor to induce England to restrain France from keeping its treaty obligations with Russia.

The utterances of these skeptics overlooks the necessity of ending the "bulldozing" policy of Prussian militarism with its "chip on the shoulder" which only needed the Servian firecracker to fly into a frothing rage and strike at everybody within reach. They also fail to take into account the ethnic conditions which set off the first charge in the series of explosions leading to the present conflagration.

Mr. Churchill, the British Cabinet and the allies evidently realize the futility of ending the war unless despotic domination be removed from the subjugated nationalities of Europe and Prussian militarism be reduced to a state where it cannot seriously affect the peace of the world. Under any other conditions the cessation of progressive armaments will be impossible and even democracy, which is heralded as the probable beneficiary of this gigantic strife, will be checked for an indefinite time.

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Campany re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs — all young foxes— good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leaving $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:— "We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalize your concern at $90,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 86 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them than.

Below are the particulars of sale of a consignment of Silver Fox Furs, shipped from Prince Edward Island ranches to London, England, and sold there in March, 1910:

SHARES

Shares are selling at $25.00 each, 25 per cent. with application and the balance on or before September 1st, 1914.

Simply fill out the application form and mail to Major C. McKinnon, Secretary-Treasurer, Glenaladale, P. E. I.

All cheques must be made payable to "The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Ltd."

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes means to the investor, we will figure it out for you.

We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business— and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

KING OF ROUMANIA CALLED A TRAITOR

London, Oct. 4, 1.05 a.m.—In a despatch from Paris, the correspondent of the Post relates that a signed statement, attacking the attitude of King Charles of Roumania, in the present European crisis, has been given out by Victor Jonnesco, nephew of the prime minister of Roumania and at present holding the post of secretary of the Roumanian legation in Paris. M. Jonnesco says in part: "From the commencement of this European conflict the Roumanian people have been hostile to Germany and Austria. This hostility is pushing to people to drastic action. The cry is for a greater Roumania and the liberation of our brothers in Transylvania. Undoubtedly the situation has placed King Charles in a dilemma, for he already has made his choice between his duty as king of a free people and his duty as a Hohenzollern.

"The latter proved to dear to his heart. He is serving his caste and he will do so until his death.

"When Russia proposed to King Charles that he occupy Transylvania and Bukowina, he refused, declaring his troops were needed to guard the frontier. Today Bukowina, which is just as Roumanian as Transylvania, is occupied by Russian troops and been declared a Russian province.

"This policy of King Charles will give him in history the role of a traitor to the interests of his country, although he is a hero in his staunchness to the Hohenzollern and Hapsburg traditions.

"If his policy is persisted in, it will mean that the Roumanians in Transylvania will shortly be delivered from the Austrian yoke by Russia and henceforth incorporated in the Russian Empire."

TURCOS CLIMBED TREE LIKE APES, HID IN THE LEAVES

London, Oct. 3.—A despatch to The Evening News, from Copenhagen, reports that the correspondent of The Berliner Tageblatt, who witnessed the battle of Verdun, on Sept. 24, when Prince Oscar led the Imperial Guard, says: Though the Germans fought like monkeys, hiding in the leaves. The Germans and Turcos fought and wrestled in a terrible hand-to-hand struggle, and many German officers fell deah around the prince, who thereafter had the heart attack already described.

WATCH COST OF MILK

Dairy Farmer Should Know Each Cow's Production

The manufacturer perhaps more than the retailer looks closely after the matter of cost knowing that his principal hope of making a good profit lies in attaining economy in the actual production of the article, for no profit can be expected if the selling price is below the cost price. Is not the dairy farmer a manufacturer? So it would seem to be wisdom to look the more closely after cost especially as he does not expect the selling price of milk to soar. Assuming that the farm is in good condition and carefully handled, what does milk cost per hundred pounds? That can be ascertained only by keeping records of each individual cow. Cows may appear to be good heavy producers, but their value as economical producers can only be determined when their yield of milk and fat is checked up by the scales and test. Of what use is it when the factory pays 95 cents per 100 pounds to keep cows whose milk costs $1.25 per 100 pounds just for feed alone? This is what often happens till cow testing is taken up. It is quite possible to have one dollar's worth of feed return two dollars' worth of milk through good cows, that is cows selected by the test. This is both economical and profitable milk production. The average cow is not an economical producer because she has not been selected, but, like Topsy, "just growed." A dairy farmer will prove his business ability as a manufacturer when the herd is composed of economical producers. Make each cow pay a good profit.

Was Expert Ground-keeper

The late John T. Murphy, for more than ten years ground-keeper at the Polo Grounds, New York, was known almost from coast to coast for his remarkable ability at turning up a baseball diamond.

Mr. Murphy was born in Toronto, sixty years ago, and when 20 years old moved to Indianapolis, where he took up the profession of landscape gardening. It was his knowledge gained in early manhood that made him recognized as the most expert keeper of athletic fields on this continent.

HORSE VS. MOTOR

Cost of Hay and Oats Away Above That of Gasoline

Thomas A. Edison is authority for the statement that the horse is the poorest motor ever built, and motor car manufacturers are finding that "the wizard of East Orange" knows whereof he speaks. Recent thorough research has shown that the average work horse will eat nearly eight times his own weight in a year. And yet the hauling power developed represents only about 2 per cent. of what should be expected from this expenditure.

It is safe to say that there is not a successful business man to-day who would be satisfied with a return of 2 per cent. on the money he invests in upkeep cost of any machine he operates. Any manufacturer would immediately discard a machine on which the maintenance cost was 49 times greater than the power returned. And yet because the "horse-habit" is so firmly fixed, industrial concerns pay a tremendous price for their motive power.

A horse eats ten pounds of food for every hour he works. He eats 12,000 pounds of food every year. A motor truck consumes no fuel—and this is the food of the vehicle—when it is not working. The minute this motor stops the feeding cost stops. The superiority of the motor is shown, too, in the power developed. The 35 horsepower truck will carry 1,500 pounds of merchandise from six to ten miles on a single gallon of gasoline. This is a vastly greater return in energy for the money expended than the 2 per cent. showing the horse makes.

WHY GRASS IS GREEN

Pigment Which Gives This Shade Has Other Properties

Science long since revealed many of the functions of color in the scheme of Nature. The stripes of the tiger, for instance, so blend with the hues of the jungle in which he lives as to assist in his concealment. The scant vegetation of the desert resembles the desert itself in the matter of color. It is thus more difficult to perceive and therefore less likely to be destroyed. Many of the most defenseless creatures are identical in hue with the more aggressive and in this lies something of immunity from attack.

It is thought that the brilliant tint of the flowers serve to attract the attention of the insects that live upon them. It is not so generally known, however, that the universal green which in a multitude of shades characterises vegetation everywhere, serves a purpose of the first importance in preserving life upon the globe. Such, at any rate, is the conclusion of Hansom, who affirms that this pigment, chlorophyl, is in vegetation not because it is green, but on account of its chemical properties. Under the influence of the sunlight it manufactures the sugars and starch indispensable to the life of plant and animal alike.

It is found, he declares, even in the vegetation of the deep sea, where in the dense shadow sufficient light for its chemical action is furnished by the bright reds of other growth—another admirable instance of the function of color.

TIRED OF OLYMPICS

British Sportsmen Think They Verge on Professionalism

If the wishes of a majority of the British sportsmen are followed Britain's last appearance in the Olympic games will be at Berlin in 1916. This sentiment is steadily growing, and public opinion would favor withdrawing from the Olympic organization immediately except for two reasons: first, the Germans might construe the withdrawal as due to the anti-German prejudices, and, second, other nations might think that after the poor showing the team made at Stockholm Great Britain was unable to hold its own against teams of other countries.

The policy advocated by the most influential men in the English world of sport is to send a representative, well-trained delegation to Berlin and then withdraw gracefully. The reasons behind this policy lie in the belief that the Olympic games are becoming semi-professional contests, and that, instead of fulfilling the purposes of their founders, which was to create international friendships, they have had the opposite effect.

The Mysterious Egg

The hen's egg, although weighing but 2 to 2½ ounces, is a very mysterious little thing. Whilst the sex of an egg before the latter has been incubated, cannot be ascertained, it is quite simple, on the other hand, to discover the quality of the contents before breaking the egg.

If the egg rattles when gently shaken it may be considered a stale one, more or less, in which the contents have become decomposed. The best method for a wife to adopt to ascertain the freshness of purchased eggs is the salt test. Dissolve six ounces of ordinary salt in a tumbler of water and place the egg therein. If a genuine new laid article, the egg will sink just below the surface. After seven days it will float, and the more it protrudes from the surface of the water the older the egg.

An egg that is even good only in parts will, singularly enough, lose much of its staleness during its swim

An Appeal to the Intelligent Investor !

Does a logical presentation of a good investment interest you? Do you believe there is an oil in commercial quantities in Alberta? If you are alive to the situation you do. Then it will pay you to investigate our proposition and our holdings.

Please Read Carefully and Note!

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascer-tained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. Dunn chose wisely in the selection of the now famous Monarch well. WINDSOR OILFIELDS, LIMITED, has holdings located close to the Monarch.

THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). If a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

Our holdings consist of 1380 acres, carefully selected and judiciously spread over the entire oil field.

Arctic Bird at Ayr

A curious specimen, in the form of an Arctic bird was captured at Ayr, Ontario, by the employes of Wm. Hawes Livery Company. While out hauling wood one of the men noticed the bird and commented on its tameness. It was captured without any difficulty and taken to the livery stable, where it was allowed perfect freedom. It did not seem to want to fly away. It measured about six inches long and was about the size of a robin, only the colorings were different. The ornithologist called it a "Snowflake." It lived in Labrador, and was rarely seen so far south. One other authority on birds says that it is a male pine grosbeak. One peculiar feature about the bird is that it walks, does not hop.

PROTECTION FORESTS

Functions of Government Reserves Outlined—How Trees Help Soil

A perpetual timber supply, resulting from systematic methods of cutting is commonly and correctly supposed to be the chief purpose of making forest reserves.

Another purpose, scarcely, if at all inferior, is that of regulating the run-off from the water-sheds of rivers, on which, on account of the fact that the land is unsuited for farming, through its being too poor in quality or too rocky, or being too high a level and so exposed to frosts, trees form the most profitable crop.

Forests maintained for this latter purpose are called "protection forests." Possibly the best example of such a forest, and certainly the largest protection forest in the world, is the Rocky Mountains Forest Reserve in Alberta, which now has an area of 20,896 square miles.

Fortunately the Dominion Government early recognized the value of such protection forests, and, by the creation of forest reserves in the West, the great rivers of the plains having their source in these watersheds were saved from the disastrous floods, the low-water stages, and the filling up of the river-beds with eroded soil, so characteristic of the rivers originating in the denuded watersheds of the eastern United States.

In this latter region many areas in the Appalachian mountains, which cover a large part of Pennsylvania, Virginia, the Carolinas and other States were very severely cut, and have been repeatedly swept by fire, so that the forests have been entirely destroyed. When rain falls on such an area, the water runs off almost immediately; if, on the other hand, the area were covered with forest, the soil would be more spongy and able to retain water, and the water would be hindered in running off by the tree-roots and the debris on the ground. Moreover, the water, in its rapid run-off, gradually takes with it the soil, and, where the soil covering the rocks is thin, it is apt to be washed away entirely. Hence there is lost any possibility of growing a new forest on the now bare rock. The soil carried away eventually found its way to the larger rivers and harbors, and did actual harm by silting these up.

COSTLY ENTERTAINMENT

Enormous Sums Spent to Impress Khedive of Egypt on a Jaunt

The Khedive's tour through the Delta recently showed in a remarkable manner the wealth of the landowner in the provinces of the Nile. In many places private individuals decorated the roads over which the Khedive motored for distances of several miles. Coffee was served in cups worth $3,000; the chair in which the Khedive sat during brief visits to country houses had in many cases cost from $500 to $1,000.

One pasha who entertained the Khedive for half an hour is alleged to have spent $50,000 on the preparations, while another borrowed cannon from the Egyptian army and fired a salute as his Highness arrived. In many places the crowds were so great that the Khedival motor car was unable to proceed. Frequently the peasants kissed the car to demonstrate their loyalty.

Altogether the Delta had not witnessed such celebrations for a generation, since the time of Ismail.

Mighty Beer-drinkers

Judging from the consumption of beer at the annual "Maibock," when Munich's famous bock beer is brought out, the reports that the Bavarians are drinking less beer would seem to be premature, to say the least.

In the great "Hofbrauhaus" alone, whose beer-gardens are among the largest in Europe, the daily attendance of visitors averaged 12,000 and between them they managed to dispose of 6,600 gallons, an allowance of more than half a gallon for each person. About half of this was bock beer, and the remainder the ordinary Munich dark beer.

LOANED SERMONS

A Scathing Criticism by a Carlisle Bishop

Men who preached merely borrowed sermons, said the Bishop of Carlisle, at the Islington Clerical Meeting, were in grave peril, as all borrowers were, of ultimately becoming bankrupt. Thought-leaders were in some ways almost as ruinous as money-lenders. It was hard to imagine any real teacher depending much on borrowed sermons. There might be occasions of fatigue or overpressure which made borrowing inevitable, but if they desired to preach with power their sermons must be their own and well thought out. One reason why some churches were empty was because the teachings of their pulpits were secondhand, antiquated, innutritious, sterile. by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

The pleasure of boxing is often spoiled by using gloves that are too stiffly padded. If a glove is so stiff that the fist cannot be clenched inside it, then the boxer is a danger to himself and to his opponent.

The hand being open the thumb projects, instead of being doubled across the fingers, and may easily be broken or dislocated in delivering a blow. The projecting thumb is a danger to the opponent, for it may give him a painful and possibly serious jab in the eye.

Apart from this, you cannot box fairly unless the fist is doubled inside the glove, for the rules state distinctly that every blow must be delivered with the fist clenched, and with the knuckle part of the hand. It is a mistake to use "pillow-case"—that is, very large and heavy—gloves, for they have a stunning effect, which may be serious, while again, it is difficult properly to close the hand inside them. For ordinary sparring, six-ounce gloves are quite heavy enough.

"RUBE" SCHAUER

In baseball two months and s... the New York Nationals for $10..... This was the baseball romance of Alexander J. Schauer, the one-hit pitcher of the Superior Northern league club. The price paid for Schauer is the highest ever paid for a Class C player.

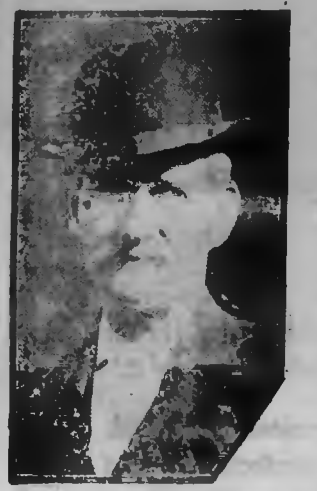
Just why Schauer is nicknamed "Rube" is unknown, unless it is because of the price. McGraw bought Schauer upon the recommendation of a trusty scout. The young fellow is to be taught high school baseball manners by Wilbert Robinson, developer of bushers. He is just 21 and a big raw-boned right-hander, just the sort McGraw delights in getting hold of before they have been spoiled, to develop according to his ideas.

GREATEST BACKSTOP NOW PAINTS CHINA

Legless and With Broken Fingers Charlie Bennett Once Handled Delivery of Fast Pitchers

Just a breath of sadness will strike the old time fan when he reads the name of Charlie Bennett, that brilliant catcher, cut down in his prime by a railway train that took off both of his legs, and removed from baseball one of the chosen.

It was "Our Charlie" in Detroit, when he took the delivery of the mighty pitchers of the '80's. To-day Bennett lives in Detroit, following the art of the china decorator as a means of livelihood. Think of the hands that took the swiftest ball and the most puzzling curves of the game's best pitchers, daintily tracing a delicate flower upon china as fragile as an egg shell!



CHARLIE BENNETT

The name of Charles W. Bennett recalls Charlie Ganzel when this pair were catching Getzein, "Lady" Baldwin and Conway, the trio that pitched Detroit into a world's championship in 1887. Charlie Bennett, who is nearly 60 now, was born at New Castle, Pa. He first played with his home team. In 1877, the days of Spalding, White and Murnane, he joined the Worcester team. In 1881 he went to Detroit and became a part of that terrific hitting aggregation, remaining until 1888 when he joined the Boston club, where he was playing when injured.

Some idea of Bennett's wonderful catching—he was the only rival Buck Ewing had—is obtained from the printed records of his achievements. He led all catchers in fielding in 1888, '83, '85, '86, '87, '88, '89, and '90 and in his last year, 1893. His best year was 1890, when he fielded .940.

As a hitter, Bennett ranked high. He batted .300 for four years and was never far from that figure. His best year with the bat was in 1887 when the star catcher hit .363.

There were too many great players and pitchers for him to name the greatest, he says. The veteran raises an interesting point. He says: "I think the clubs carry too many pitchers to get the best results. Pitchers would be more effective if worked oftener. A pitcher does not get the chance he should with so many on the club. If worked oftener they would be more valuable to themselves and to their club."

HORSES THAT SHIRK

Lack of Stoutness of Heart an Hereditary Taint

Nothing is more remarkable in modern racing than the number of young horses who will not try. That there are infinitely more rogues in training than at any former period is indisputable, says a prominent English racing writer. Once these rogues seemed to have become so, to have conceived a natural dislike of racing after taking part in hard finishes, sometimes, unhappily, ridden by jockeys who either had not the wit to know that they were beaten or the humanity to abstain from driving their unfortunate mount when he had done his best and could do no more. Nowadays, however, young ones shirk in their first season—a considerable number of them—and "born so" is the only explanation. I have a black mark against several of the young sires whose offsprings show a marked disinclination to run their races out; but this is a delicate subject, and I am not going to quote examples. A striking feature is that some of these sires who are apparently lacking in a chief essential, that of imparting gameness to their sons and daughters, were themselves—at least so far as is generally known—irreproachable when in training. A horse may have speed, stamina, soundness, and all sorts of other excellent qualities, but they are no use if he will not display them—if he curls up at the critical moment.

POLO PONIES SCARCE

"The shortage of first-class ponies, animals of quality and stamina, suitably broken or more perfectly prepared by scientific schooling, is abnormal, and there appears to be a great opening in the horse-breeding districts of Ireland for the further production of animals, for which the demand is everywhere considerably in advance of the supply. It has been proved beyond doubt that the polo pony may be produced by selection, and is no longer a chance-bred animal. Polo ponies should be the most profitable form of horse breeding, because they are naturally hardy, requiring a meagre fare, and come truer to type than any other species of the equine race. They gain their life registration certificate at four years off, and are a saleable commodity at that age."

CAMERAS SNAP FINISH

Races Judged Automatically When Winner Breaks Thread

Successful trials of an automatic photographic apparatus for judging races were conducted at Maisons-Lafitte, and the system may be put into general use on the French tracks. A camera is placed in line with the winning post, and the winning horse, by breaking a thread, releases the electrically controlled shutter of the camera, and a photograph of the finish is taken. The apparatus was tried in Belgium for horse racing, and was used in all the track events at the Olympic games at Stockholm, but there the photographs were chiefly used as additional evidence in case of a disagreement between the judges. One critic thinks this method can hardly be "successful" owing to the thread stretching before it breaks, and thus releasing the shutter when the horse is partly past the lens. But this difficulty has long been known, and it is not impossible to overcome it. Muybridge, a pioneer photographer, years ago took successful photographs of horses in motion by this very method.

MARVELOUS BALSAMIC ESSENCES CURE CATARRH

STATISTICS PROVE NINETY-SEVEN PER CENT OF CANADA'S POPULATION IS INFESTED WITH THE GERMS OF CATARRH

This disease is most dangerous owing to its tendency to extend to the Bronchial tubes and lungs, where it causes Consumption. Unfortunately the people have had faith in sprays, ointments and snuffs, which can't possibly cure, and in consequence catarrhal disease has become a national curse. Science is advancing every day, and fortunately a remedy has been discovered that not only cures but prevents Catarrh. This new treatment "Catarrhozone" has sufficient power to kill the germs of Bronchitis, Catarrh and Asthma. It contains pure pine essences and healing balsams that go to the remotest part of the nose, throat and lungs, carrying health-giving medication to every spot that is tainted or weak. You don't take Catarrhozone like cough mixture—you inhale its healing vapor at the mouth and it spreads all through the breathing organs, soothing and curing wherever Catarrh exists. This is nature's way of supplying the richest balsams, the purest antiseptics known to science.

A sneezing cold is cured in ten minutes. A harsh cough is eased in an hour, the most offensive catarrh is thoroughly drawn from the system.

For Asthma and Bronchial irritation nothing can equal Catarrhozone —every physician and druggist says so, and we advise our readers to try this treatment if suffering with a winter ill. The complete outfit costs $1.00, medium size 50c., at all dealers.

Lost Valuable Horse.

Dr. Whitecloud, the Indian medicine man and race horse owner, who has on more than one occasion held forth on the streets of this city selling medicine, was in a serious accident near Listowel, and although he managed to escape practically uninjured he lost his fine bay standard-bred race horse Tootsie, the animal's neck being broken in a runaway which occurred on the third line of Wallace township.

Tag Day Should Be Helped.

Next Saturday is Tag Day. While there are many appealing needs at the present time, the request of the Children's Aid Society is a very pressing one, and should call forth the hearty response of all citizens. Eighteen children are now being cared for at the Shelter, some of them belonging to soldiers gone to the front and whose mothers are lying ill in the hospital. It takes money to look after so many.

Local Man Bereaved.

General sympathy will be extended by his many friends to Mr. W. Fleetwood, the well known local butcher, of this city, over the dead of his grandchild, a daughter of Mrs. Fred Uden, Toronto, on Sept. 29th. The child who was only nine months old, succumbed after an attack of Scarlet fever.

Local Horses Again Win.

On Friday Peterborough horses again secured a place of honor in well fought races. At the largely attended Millbrook Fair Mr. Frank Montgomery's horse "Jimmy Directj' won three straight firsts in the Free For All class. Jimmy Direct's owner, Mr. Montgomery, handled the ribbons and was applauded by the big audience for his clever driving. In the 2.30 class Mr. Montgomery's mare Ora Media secured second money.

When the Ale Was Stolen.

On Saturday a Times scribe asked a local clergyman, "How are labor conditions in your parish?" The [illegible] replied, "We are badly handicapped by recent labor conditions. Now there is one man in my parish whom neither I nor an Arch Angel from Heaven could get to go to work when he gets his quarterly money on. Two weeks ago he had a barrel of ale sent to his house. He [illegible] got a neighbors to take the barrel away. That man called at every house within several blocks looking for it. When he sobered up he told me, "Well, I guess it's just as well missing. I'll cut the booze out now for four months."

No Change in Sentence.

In our issue of Saturday we noted that Magistrate Dumble at Friday afternoon's Court noted that he would take under consideration the sentence of one year in the Mercer Institute he had imposed on Mrs. Leavis, a dope fiend who had been found guilty of conducting a disorderly house on Brock street near the corner of Aylmer street. However on Saturday morning a Times representative was told by the Magistrate that he, the Magistrate, had decided to let the original sentence stand. The Magistrate remarked that the doctors were the ones to look into her unfortunate condition. If they present a protest he will forward the same to the Minister of Justice. In any case we are not quoting verbatim, this woman who who uses morphine, cocaine, laudanum, suffers from a loathsome disease and atropine has not, in all human probability much longer to live.

Old Local Poker Story.

The following story taken from the Times of Oct. 8th, 1884, may not, de facto, appeal to the younger generation still it conveys a moral lesson and will ruffle up the feathers of one or two of our older residents who used in those old degenerate days to take a hand in the seduction game of "draw." The sibly, referred to was working for and "worked" a Water Street lawyer for many hundred dollars to back "qoes up" against "three of a kind" or maintain his ideas of "bobtailed flushes" The times of 30 years ago has the following :— "The enlarged embezzlement case in which W. H. Sibley was so much considered came off on Friday last at the Police Court. Mr. C. A. Weller, C.A., appeared for the prosecution and said no evidence could be brought upon the case. Sibley had not directly stolen the money with a desire to keep it, by all appearance, but had merely appropriated it for speculative purposes which had proven failures. He had made no false entries, nor had he committed embezzlement. The magistrate said that under the circumstances he could only discharge the prisoner, which he did, with a very wholesome caution which may yet be useful to him.

A Good Poultry Show.

Three Lindsay machine men and horsemen visited Minden fair, which was held in that village last week, and received the honored mark of distinction by being appointed judges of the poultry exhibit. It was for two of them their first experience in such a capacity, and their only knowledge of fowl was when a bird was cooked and set upon the dinner table. They looked at each other wisely before accepting the position and one of them, who has a standing rep. as a horseman, said, "They can't fool me on age, anyhow," and away they hiked for poultry coops.

Matters went along swimmingly until one big Plymouth Rock rooster opened his mouth in a few clarion notes. This drew the attention of the horsemen, who shouted out, "There is crooked work here, boys, for there is a bird showing in the 'cockerel' class and he hasn't a single tooth in his head, and he should have at least four suckling teeth and all his grinders. This is the case with the horses and it should not be an exception in fowl. I protest against people exhibiting so very old a bird and we will not award him anything. He has yellow legs also and a round bone, so he gets no prize for mine."

The next was a crate of geese which were condemned for being flat-footed and jay-toed. However, an award had to be made as there were only two pair of birds and this was left to a well-known agent to decided. He looked the birds over carefully and as his mind runs on machinery he said, "Fellows, this pair of ganders look to be geared up the best of the two so I will give him first money and the other second."

LAXATIVE FOR OLD PEOPLE--"CASCARETS"

Get a 10-cent box now.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.

So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

Allies Left Wing Gives Way at Certain Points, But, Reinforced, the Allies Regain Most of Lost Ground--Portugal To Send Troops to France

FOE IS DESPERATE IN OFFENSIVE ALLIES GIVE GROUND SLIGHTLY

According to Possibilities of Modern Encounters, Battle of The Aisne May Last Some Time Yet--No Decisive Result Yet Either Way--Terrific Conflict Now Raging North Oise River

Paris, Oct. 5.—The following official communication was given out in Paris this afternoon.

On our left wing, to the north of the Oise, the battle continues with great violence. The result remains undecisive. We have been obliged, at certain points, to cede some ground.

Along the remainder of the front there has been no change.

In Russia, after a battle which lasted ten days, the German army which was operating between the eastern Prussian front and the Niemen river, has been driven back along the entire line, and made its retreat abandoning a considerable quantity of war material. This army has evacuated completely the territory of the Russian Provinces of Suwalki and Ton-a.

London, Oct. 5.—The fact that fighting is in progress in and around the town of Douai, between Arras and Valenciennes, on the railroad to Mons, is taken in London to show how surely the allies in Northern France have pushed the forward movement they hope will envelop Gen. Von Kluck, the commander of the German right wing, in a net of steel. For the past week, the Germans so far as can be ascertained from the few facts known in London, have been vainly hurling themselves against different points in the allied line, in an effort to discover a weak mesh in the chain. At the present time, in the view of General Joffre, commander-in-chief of the French forces, the process of attrition has gone far enough to justify the resumption of offensive movements on the part of the allies, as is announced in a communication from French headquarters. Apparently the intention now is to attempt something decisive against the German right wing, and if possible bring to an end this contest, which for magnitude and stubborness is without precedent in history.

The series of highlands stretching north and south along the allied left are the master keys of the battle and a considerable force from overseas and elsewhere has been pushed up to secure control of them.

At Soissons, the German trenches already have been captured, but the Germans continue to fight fiercely and are still attacking at this point, as elsewhere along the entire line of battle, which their latest official report asserts is going in their favor, just as confidently as General Joffre maintains the contrary.

PLOUGHING CHAMPIONSHIP OF PETERBOROUGH COUNTY TROPHY

A few years ago Mr. Burnham, M. P., offered to the County a handsome trophy for competition at County ploughing matches. This form of competition is general throughout all the best parts of the Province and there is also an annual Provincial Championship meeting held at Toronto, at which all the County winners gather to plough for the Provincial championship. Good ploughing is said to be the basis of all good farming, and certainly in the best parts of Ontario this maxim is belived in. The offer of the Federal member has now been acceptec, and the first championship match for the County of Peterborough for the new cup will be held this autumn. There are some fine ploughmen in this County, men with Provincial records, and they have interestec themselves in the matter. The trophy is perpetual and will not be a gift to any competitor. It is given by deed of gift formally drawn up to the County Council, which has agreed to accept it and take charge of it for all time. The conditions are that it shall always remain the property of the Council, which, however, will if desired give it into the custody of the winner until it is won again. The winner's name shall be engraved upon it, and in order that he may have a lasting testimonial of his skill, the donor gives in addition a bronze medal uitably engraved. The cup, which is a splendid specimen of silverware, will serve as a perpetual memorial of the good ploughing done by the farmers of Peterborough County, and as a lasting record of those whose names are to be engraved upon it. County Councils do not pass away; they remain. The cup will remain also, and is a worthy trophy for such a record and so good a cause. The matter has been taken up with a due regard for its importance, and it is confidently expected that the champion ploughman for the County of Peterborough will be a competitor in the great annual gatherings for provincial ploughing honors at Toronto. The names of those who interviewed the member and have finally set the plough going are J. H. Garbutt, Reeve of Smith; Joshua Smithson of Otonabee, a ploughman of Provincial record; and H. B. Cowan of Farm and Dairy. The trophy will be on exhibition in a few days.

'We Still Believe In Treaties' Sir Edward Grey Tells World

Washington, Oct. 5.—Upholding the integrity of treaties, a cablegram was made public by Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British Ambassador, to-day from Sir Edward Grey, the British Minister of Foreign Affairs, which said:

> "We still believe in treaties, in the rights of the weak and the duties of the strong. We look forward, at the end of the war, to a Europe in which these great and simple truths will be safeguarded against a recrudescence of the era of blood and iron."

Situation of German Cen. Von. Kluk Must Be Desperate

London, Oct. 5.—The Daily Mail's correspondent in France reports fighting in and around Douai, in the Department of Nord, 18 miles south of Lille, and consider that if the French have reached Douai in force that the situation of the German general, Von Kluck, must be desperate.

"General Gon Kluck," the correspondent says, "has had all the reinforcements Ylich could be spared him and yet finds himself outnumbered at every point. There are many indications from German prisoners, from French officers and ,rom members of the British transport service, the combined testimony of whom it is difficult todisbelieve, that the German army is becoming demoralized.

Paris Reports Yesterday To Have Been Fairly Victorious Day For Allies

Paris, Oct. 5., 5.30 p.m.—With the aid of fresh troops to relieve the war-wearied regiments on the left wing, the allies have recovered most of the ground reported lost this morning.

HINDUS CAPTURE BATTERY.

London, Oct. 5.—The Indian troops in action have displayed splendid valour. The Sihks charged and captured a German battery, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy.

INFLICTING TERRIBLE PUNISHMENT.

London, Oct. 5.—The Scotch and English forces have been reinforced by our Indian forces, who are inflicting terrible punishment on the enemy.

1,500,000 TROOPS.

London, Oct. 5.—The War Office announces that by the endof the year the British Empire will have 1,500,000 troops in Europe,

INDIAN TROOPS IN EAST AFRICA.

London, Oct. 5.—That Indian troops have been sent to aid the British forces in capturing the German East African colonies was admitted today.

In an official statement issued by the War Bureau it was stated that the German East African forces were repeatedly repulsed with loss by the British East African forces during September, the British having been reinforced by Indian troops.

London, Oct. 5.—The correspondent of the Times at Bordeaux, commenting on the battle in Northern France, says:

"The time has come to reveal the composition of the allies' left, which is now striking up toward the Belgian frontier but when the veil hiding the movement in the neighborhood of Amiens is drawn away, it will be seen what a potent factor the French railway service has been in the battles of Northern France."

FAIRLY VICTORIOUS DAY.

Paris, Oct. 5.—The War Bureau announces today to have been a fairly victorious one for the allies.

German Invasion From Eastern Prussia Into Russia Has Failed

Engagements of a Fierce Noture Resulted in Rout of Germans--Bayonet Charges Dislodged the Enemy From Their Trenches--German Retreat Blockaded With the Bodies of Their Own Dead--Two German Wings Were Completely Enveloped

Petrograd, Oct. 5.—The following official communication was made public by the general staff last night:

"Recording to reports from the commanders, the Russian troops at the battle of Augustowo gave proof of extraordinary courage. Several regiments fought without rest during the whole week, extricating themselves with dignity from the most difficult position.

"The engagements were extremely obstinate in the vicinity of Suwalki, where the enemy concentrated important forces and having fortified their position opposite the Russians with the fiercest resistance.

"Our troops made several bayonet charges to dislodge the enemy from his trenches. Prisoners taken say that the German losses at Suwalki were so large that out of hundreds only twenty men remained. The whole line of the German retreat is blocked with the bodies of their dead.

"It is thus that the German invasion from East Prussia into Russia failed utterly. The enemy is now definitely leaving the borders of the Provinces of Suwalki and Lomza.

Enveloped Two German Wings.

The following details of the combat between the Germans and the Russians at Ossowetz fortress in Russian Poland are given:

"The Germans approached the forts of the Grajewo (south-east of Augustowo) route, the only one open to them. Nine miles from the forts the artillery was stopped by the marshy grodnd, and from there began a heavy artillery fire, Infantry with machine guns were sent on and approached to within four miles of the forts.

The Russians then made a sortie profiting by routes unknown to the Germans, and enveloped two wings, which it was supposed, and occupied all the routes. When this movement was disclosed a furious engagement ensued under conditions unfavorable to the enemy.

"The artillery of the forts caused large casualties among the Germans on the roads while the infantry badly battered their flanks.

"The fight lasted thirty-six hours, and ended in the rout of the Germans. The Russians captured all their artillery which got stuck in the mud."

The Relief of Ossowetz.

London, Oct. 5.—Russian reports indicate that the German offensive towards the Niemen River, from the East Prussian frontier, has ended in a rout after the battle of Augustowo which has been under way since Sept. 25th. If these reports are true, it means that not only has Gen. Rennenkampf been given an opportunity to resume the offensive, but the important fortresses of Ossowetz has been relieved from investment.

An official message from the commandant of the German fortress at Koenigsberg, however, directly contradicts the Russian report and the Berlin version of the fighting, while it does not localize it is particularly as the Russian report, maintains that the Germans along the East Prussian frontier have generally been victorious.

As was expected subsequent reports have discredited the rumor that the Russians were investing Cracow. It was hardly possible for the Muscovite forces to have reached there in such a short time, but a report that Cossacks have reached the neighborhood of Cracow is distinctly credible as the famous Russian cavalry is showing an ability to cover the same wide field of operations as the Uhlans in the western war arrive.

GERMANS DELIVER SURPRISE BUT ARE REPULSED

Tokio, Oct. 5.—It is officially announced that the German infantry at Tsing-Tau delivered a surprise at attack against the Japanese but were repulsed. The Germans had forty-eight killed and the Japanese five killed and eight wounded.

The cannonading on land and at sea in the vicinity of Tsing-tau continues. Four Japanese shells hit the German gunboat Iltis which retired to the inner harbor after the exchange of shots.

EARTHQUAKE IN TURKEY

Smyrna, Asiatic Turkey, Sunday, Oct. 4, via London, Oct. 5.— The towns of Isbarte (population about 25,000) and Burdur (population about 12,00) in the province of Konia, were severely damaged by an earthquake last night. The shocks made themselves felt at midnight. The loss of life was very heavy. These two towns of Isbarte (population about try.

THE WEATHER.

Today, warm with occasional showers.

THE WAR NEWS

It is not easy to understand the psychology of the expression, "I am sick of war news." It seems hardly possible that anyone should be so narrow in his interests, so lacking in human sympathy, as to become surfeited with the details of one of the most portentous crises of humanity.

Not merely generations but centuries to come will dwell upon the present clash of nations. Libraries will be written upon it, lives spent in its study. It will be the source of inspiration to countless millions, and thousands of the wise or near wise will deduce conclusions from it for the guidance of mankind. Imagination and emotion will enrich themselves from its slightest episodes. The effects are incalculable. The physical aspects of civilization now scarred and blackened and presently to be beautified and adorned on account of it only typify the abasements and glorifications which the soul ofthe world will undergo.

Yet there are people to whom destiny has granted the supreme privilege of being contemporary observers of the struggle, holders of front seats at the spectacle of the ages, sharers of its great emotions, who still turn away from it, not from agony or horror, but apparently from sheer blase indifference. They are sick of it. "I wish," they say, "they'd give us something else." Truly, we have here a curious frivolity, intolerance of the higher call, of world realities, of stuff of the spirit which is as strange and inexplicable as war itself.

Of course, the newspapers are blamed. They are the natural scapegoats for the aberrations of their readers. "Cut out the army of words," says a distinguished national legislator, "just give us the information." He does not realize that there are not words enough to give the information, that language is bankrupt by the facts, that it is only by heaping Ossa upon Pelion that some dim picture of the reality can be thrown before the eyes of such as will read with imagination and feeling.—New York Sun.

ALD. JOHNSTON IS CHAIRMAN CITY'S FINANCE COMMITTEE

In Place of Ald. Anderson, Resigned--Ald. Duncan Looking After the Unemployed--Gets Council to Request Street Railway Co. to Go Ahead With Their Extensions This Year to Provide Work When Badly Needed

The City Fathers met in regular monthly session last night, Mayor Buller presiding. On the dias with his worship was seated Ex-Mayor H. Rush. Alderman Dobbin also put in an appearance after an extended trip through the west. There were also present Aldermen McIntyre, Anderson Langford, Johnston, G. Walter Green J. Duffus, A. H. Stratton, Geo. Duncan and Saunders

Sewer Wanted.

Dr. Park and Mr. Graham were a deputation asking for a sewer on Bethune Street, north of Smith. A petition for this work is signed by all property owners interested. This matter was sent to the Board of Works for report.

For Ambulance Meetings.

Messrs. Sowden and Liburn asked that the city provide a room in which St. John's Ambulance corps can meet for lectures, etc. This question went to the Property Committee to report. Ald. Duncan thinks there is a room adjoining the band hall, in the city buildings, which the ambulance corps in question might use.

Power Committee Report.

Ald. Johnston submitted the following:

Gentlemen '— Your Power Committee beg leave to report as follows:

1. That we authorize the Chairman of this Committee to have tile up in on Charlotte Street from George St. to Water St. to receive underground wire for lighting purposes if he deemed it advisable. This report was adopted as read.

To Attend Convention.

Council authorized, on motion of Aldermen Duncan and Saunders, Fire Chief Howard and Chairman Ald. Green of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, to attend the convention of Ontario Fire Chiefs to be held, in Stratford on October 14, 15, and 16, their expenses to be paid.

In this connection the Fire Chief and Alderman Green will make a bid for the convention of Fire Chiefs to be held in Peterborough next year.

No Sick Benefit.

Council refused to take action in regard to a suggestion that a fireman who had been ill for some time, receive financial aid from the city.

The Incinerator.

Ald. Langford submitted changes in the incinerator to facilitate the smaller quantity of garbage which comes to hand for disposal, than originally contemplated. Whatever repairs are necessary to the incinerator are being made by its builder, Mr. Reid. Such repairs are neither of a serious nor costly nature, as intimated in the press.

Resignation of Ald. Anderson.

Ald. Anderson resigned his representation of East City to assume the position of chief accountant of the Public Utilities Committee. He was the recipient of boquets from all quarters of the Council Chamber, to which he replied in fitting terms.

Ald. Johnston Finance Minister.

To fill Ald. Anderson's position of Finance Chairman, vacated by him on retiring from the Council, Ald. Johnston received the appointment on motion of Ald. Saunders and Duffus. Ald. McIntyre was nominated for the position of Alderman by Alderman Duncan and Green, but lost by one vote.

After Work.

On suggestion of Ald. Duncan, the Street Railway Co. will be asked to make their railway extension this year on Charlotte Street, from Park to the Monaghan Road, and thence to Patterson Street. Ald. Duncan offered that were such work taken up now, considerable employment would be found for men who are badly in need of it.

Portugal Under Agreement Must Help Great Britain

Berlio, via wireless through Sayville, Oct. 5.—Portugal is believed here to be about to take part in the war at the demand of Great Britain on the side of the allies. Advices here show that a number of British steamers have arrived in Lisbon and it is believed there that they are to be used to transport Portuguese troops to the battle line in France, where the allies are being hard pressed by the Germans.

An official despatch given out there says

"British ships have arrived at Lisbon, and are probably se troops. Portugal's participa-tion in the war is imminent. th e mobilization of the Portugue-destined to transport Portuguese forces, it is believed, having been ordered on the demand of the British Government."

In addition, it is known here that Indian troops who were landed at Marseilles have been rushed direct to the front, where the British were in need of reinforcements.

FIVE KILLED WHEN FIREWORKS BURST

Company's President Among Dead --Other Bodies May be in Ruins

Chicago, Oct. 5.—H. B. Thearle, president of the Pain Fireworks Display company of America, and four employes were killed today by an explosion which destroyed the Pain company's plant a few blocks from the business center of the city. In addition to Thearle, Florence Hill, stenographer; E. M. Conner, salesman; Roland H. Wolf, shipping clerk, and Joseph Johnson, electrician, were killed. Johnson's body was found tonight.

John Costello, an office boy was blown through a door into an alley and may die.

Firemen to-night thought other bodies might be under the debris.

The explosion took place in the steel and concrete vault in which $5,000 worth of fireworks were stored. The vault was supposed to be fireproof. Several other explosions followed and a pillar of smoke 500 feet high rose over the ruined building. Adjoining buildings were damaged. Many persons were injured by broken glass.

The explosion, it was said, might have been caused by a spark from wiring Johnson, the missing electrician, was adjusting.

GARDEN MEDICINES

Every vegetable garden is a medicine chest full of remedies that are recognized by physicians as of considerable value in the treatment of various diseases.

Onions, for example, contain sulphur oil, and are recommended for insomnia and as an aid to gastric digestion. They should have a prominent place in the diet of sufferers from rheumatism, for they help to allay the pains.

Turnips and parsnips both have peculiar oily principles which are of value as an aperient and diuretic. It is also claimed that they are good for coughs and hoarseness.

Carrots are useful for correcting derangements of the liver. They are also excellent as a dressing for painful wounds and swellings.

The tomato exercises medicinal effects which are not completely explained by the presence of alkaline salts. There is a [illegible] which, when taken in a concentrated state, produces salivation and a free stimulation of the liver.

COMMON SENSE TALK ABOUT AGRICULTURE

Dr. Creelman Said That Rural Schools Were Not Close Enough to Farm Interests

Dr. Creelman, President of the Agricultural College, Guelph, in the course of an address on the attitude of agriculture to the rural school said in part:

"Our educational system is a good one. Is it too good? Is it so perfect that they are afraid to break in anywhere with changes that our times and conditions demand?" The speaker went on to describe his own public school days, how he had attended school for years without securing any knowledge of vital import. "I spent seven years," he said, "learning about the battle of Hastings in 1066, and a lot of other trash. I was taught a little sing-song about the relative pronoun, which I know yet, word for word. What good is it to me? Listen"—closing his eyes, with the easy nonchalance of a boy "backing his book," the President recited at express speed the old ditty about the rivers of Europe as we all learned it. Through the full gamut he ran it, from Petchora back to Ural, taking in everything but the minor tributaries. "There—I know it still," he exclaimed. "I can't get rid of it. All that trash is taking up space in my brain that should be filled with something of value to me. And that's the stuff I was taught. I was not taught a thing that was of much use to me till I went to college. Make every girl going out to teach a rural school possess a training in the principles of agriculture. Send her to the Agricultural College? Yes. Why not? What else? She has no right to teach a rural school without the training she would secure at such a college."

"Does every farmer in this hall weigh and test the milk yields of his cows?" he asked. "If not, how do you know whether you are making or losing money? The time has gone by when an ordinary careful farmer can go ahead without testing. The farmer who goes by guess is a guess-farmer, and should not be allowed to keep good cows. Go to work! It is possible for us farmers to get a start now such as we never got before in the history of the Province. The average cow—the average, mind you—in Ontario gives less than 4,000 pounds of milk per year. What about the poor cows; where do they stand? Compare that with one of our cows at the O.A.C. which gives over 20,000 pounds of milk each year. Let us quit talking about the high cost of living and look to the performance of our cows. Why are there not more 20,000-pound cows? You say that we have the Government at our backs. Nothing makes me so angry as that silly remark. What has the Government to do with the number of eggs our hens are laying? The Government doesn't feed and superintend our hens, I assure you. Our poultry men are the ones responsible for the work not the Government. The Government has owned those college hens for a long time, yet only a few years ago did we find that some of our pure-bred hens that went oftenest to the nest and cackled the loudest never laid an egg. That started things going, also some of the hens. We have now a pen of hens in which the birds average 259 eggs per year. Did the Government make that increase? Live stock is, in my opinion, the right arm of agriculture, and live stock is coming into its own."

TALK ON STORMS

R. F. Stupart Says Temperature is the Disturbing Element

Mr. R. F. Stupart, director of the Meteorological service of Canada, gave an interesting illustrated address before the members of the Canadian Institute, Toronto, on "The Canadian Storm-warning System." By means of charts, the distribution of atmosphere over the globe's surface and the resulting winds were explained. "The great disturbing element is temperature," said the speaker. "There is a difference in temperature between the Equator and the Poles of about 80 degrees, and in winter the difference is much greater. The air near the surface over the equatorial regions is greatly heated, and expands, with the result that over the Equatorial regions any given barometric surface is at a greater height above the earth than it is over regions both north and south, and in consequence of this the upper air flows away both north and south and surface air from north and south flows towards the Equator. The air in the upper regions, as it goes north and south towards converging meridians, accumulates between 25 degrees and 35 degrees, and the effect of this is the high barometer of this sub-tropical zone. Another important agency affecting the movements of air currents is the rotation of the earth, which causes a deflection to the right of the initial movement in the Northern Hemisphere, and to the left in the Southern. And this leads to the surface currents in the tropics being from N.-E. instead of from N., and S.-E. instead of from South. But in addition to the temperature difference between Equator and Pole there are temperature differences between continent and ocean, which are reversed by the season; and with this latter system of variable air circulation impressed on the former more stable system, there is a resultant system of vast complexity; but one in which many of the component factors are clearly discernible."

REV. DR. JUDSON

Dr. Edward Judson who has spent most of his life on Oriental mission fields, has found a new way to interest the heathen in religion. He is going to tell the story of the gospel on the screen. Some pictures will be used to instruct the pagan and others will inform civilized nations how the pagan lives at home.

Sheep as Warming-pans

The high temperature of birds enables them to resist cold more effectually than they could otherwise do. Whereas blood-heat in man is 98 degrees Fahr., it is 107 degrees in the domestic fowl, and more in some other birds. Nevertheless, they feel the cold very much, and display a remarkable amount of ingenuity in finding means to warm themselves. A farmer in the uplands of Lanarkshire one winter observed a number of chaffinches entering an outhouse where bullocks were stalled. He went in and found them nestling in the straw against the flanks of the reposing beasts. Birds are fond of using sheep as warming-pans, regardless of the risk attendant. Snuggling down into the long wool, they are apt to get their feet entangled, when the result may be starvation.

"Movies" Without a Screen

By optical combinations, the details of which have not been made public, a London theater is showing motion pictures in which the actors appear to move about on a stage without the use of a visible screen.

Indigo Growing in India.

A revival of indigo growing is being agitated in India in view of the reputed discovery of a process that will enable it to be sold at a price that will compete with synthetic indigo.

Sanitary Roller Towel

Sanitary requirements are claimed to be met by a recently patented roller towel of unusual length, soiled portions being reeled on a second roller so they cannot be usedu again.

PRAIRIE TREE-PLANTING

Government Helps Prairie Farmers Establish Woodlots

For several years over two and a half million tree seedlings and cuttings have been distributed annually to the prairie farmers by the Dominion Government Forest Nursery Station at Indian Head. The young trees are supplied only to bona fide farm-owners in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, and then only in small lots not exceeding five hundred seedlings in any one year. The success of western tree-plantations depends not so much on the climate conditions, as is erroneously supposed, but rather on the care taken with the delicate young seedlings before and after planting. The principal trees planted in the West are ash, maple, cottonwood, willow and Russian poplar. The first two do well together, and ash especially is much in favor with the farmers, having probably the lowest death-rate of any. Willow and poplar are usually supplied as cuttings and do well together. The Russian willow is growing in popularity with the farmers on account of its ease of propagation, its quick-growing qualities, hardiness and freedom from disease. That spruce, larch (tamarack), and Scotch pine will also do well on the prairies is no longer questionable.

The best results are in all cases attained by planting the trees in the spring in belts at least twenty yards wide on well-prepared soil, such as summer-fallow, or garden land, the trees being spaced about four feet apart and planted in rows to permit machine cultivation in order to protect the soil from weeds and evaporation until the trees grow large enough for their branches to meet.

As a thankoffering on the coming of age of their elder son, the Marquis of Titchfield, and to mark their silver wedding, the Duke and Duchess of Portland wrote asking the Committee of Management of the Mansfield Hospital to accept a sum of between $20,000 and $25,000, to liquidate the debt on the King Edward Memorial Wing that is being erected.

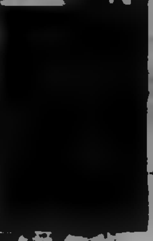
Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By LEONA DALRYMPLE

[illegible]

No. 125

Dad's Great Gift.



LEONA DALRYMPLE

MARY was a sparkle of expectation at our Christmas breakfast. [illegible] All the pretty [illegible] the fact that Mary had, at varying intervals, [illegible] very candidly the things she wanted. [illegible] say right here they were, every one of them, things I couldn't afford.

"Well," I began, "it isn't a diamond la valliere, and it isn't a diamond ring. It's a sensible gift."

"Why be sensible on Christmas?" pouted Mary.

"Why, indeed?" I asked. "But I notice that the same that I usually get socks and slippers and ties, and exceedingly sensible things of that sort."

"Nobody knows what to give a man," said Mary petulantly, and she colored guiltily, I thought.

"If women would spend one-half the time thinking up some desirable gift for the men of the family that the men spend thinking up things for the women, the sock and tie sales would fall off considerably at Christmas."

"Hum!" said Mary, "that sounds very well, Peter, but men don't do their own Christmas thinking. They ask some woman to do it for them. And women can always think better for women."

I glanced over the array of mail at my plate. It was chiefly Christmas cards and Christmas greetings.

"I thoroughly approve of this card stunt," I said carelessly to my wife. "You can let your friends know that you think of them, and it's much better than—well—pin cushions, for instance."

"That," said Mary, "is just as you look at it."

Which was one of Mary's speeches that doesn't mean anything at all. She has a lot of them that fill in vacant conversational places and don't make anybody think.

I picked up a letter addressed to me in Dad's handwriting. Opening it—I found that it contained a letter written by mother and signed by mother and dad.

"Son, dear," began mother's letter, and somehow that way of beginning always rings so true that I get a choke in my throat and a warm feeling around my heart.

"Dad and I want to give you for Christmas what you need most, and so, after a great deal of talking here nights by the fire—(and, son, dear, we do miss you still when the log glows, and Dad's drowsing and chatting alternately in his easy chair)—we want you to accept the gift that Dad lent you as a Christmas gift with the love of both of us. Dad says you'd get it some day—what little we have—and, therefore, we'd like to see you have some of it now when you really need it. Drop in some time through the day and wish us Merry Christmas."

And, as I read, I sat quite still, choking back a flood of feeling. Mary seemed very far away from me. I couldn't tell her. I didn't want to tell her. She seemed apart from the sacredness of the moment. There is only one big love in the world that counts, and that is the mother's love for her child. Every other love is sickly and puerile beside it.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER—THEN AND NOW * * * * By Michelson

Mother and Daughter Fifty Years Ago.

AWAY back in the last century Mother was an elderly person at forty, and being an elderly person she settled down into an elderly person's place and wore an elderly person's clothes. It was easy to know by her bonnet and gown that she was a settled person—just Mother. To Daughter was left the privileges and responsibilities of being fashionable and picturesque. There wasn't the slightest chance in the world that you wouldn't know which was which, even when you couldn't see their faces.

Mother and Daughter Today.

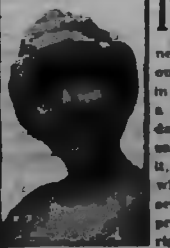
NOWADAYS it is quite different. There are no elderly feminine persons today—this side of seventy. The older Mother grows today, the greater the need for combatting facial signs of age by the aid of other outward signs. Mother takes a lot of trouble to keep her youthful figure, and feels discreet enough to take chances on sensational clothes that Daughter is far too young to risk. Probably it is Daughter who is demure. This is MOTHER'S century. And isn't she charming?

The Short Cut to Beauty By the Perspiration Route

By LUCREZIA BORI

Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York.

Special arrangements have been made with Senorita Lucrezia Bori, the famous prima donna soprano, who has created a wonderful impression in Europe and New York on account of her remarkable beauty and artistic attainment, to write for this paper a series of articles on beauty. There is probably no authority her equal in giving the newest and most approved methods of attaining and preserving "the divine right of woman."



LUCREZIA BORI

IF you would be beautiful you must perspire. "I never perspire even on the hottest day in summer," I heard a girl say the other day, and I felt like saying: "You look it, my dear, and you will do well if you set yourself about proper perspiration right away. Don't boast about it."

I am not an expert histologist and cannot go into all the details of telling you just how your body is formed, and how much work the skin should do to rid the body of effete matter. I am going to take the word of a dermatologist who says there are 28 miles of pores in the skin of the body, and when the pores do their proper work they discharge two pounds of waste matter every day. Perspiration is the chief aid in this important work. Healthy, open pores will perspire. If you don't perspire, something is wrong with your system. It is clogged. You need medical attention.

Value of Experience.

Bathing is the first step toward starting perspiration. Exercise is next. Walk, run, play tennis, golf, hand ball, skip rope, roll, do something in the form of energetic exercise until you start the gland and the pores of your body working. Hot baths with some softening agent in the water and good soap will greatly help. The warm bath should always follow exercise, and a cooler shower and brisk rub-down complete the treatment. You need never expect a good complexion, girls, unless you perspire.

A girl wrote me that she had tried all the advice of her friends and still her hands are red. I would advise her to see her physician. Her circulation may be wrong. Outward applications will not cure until inward causes are removed.

"What perfume do you think is most pleasant?" writes another girl. Perfumes should suit the personality of the user if one is very fastidious. I think the most delightful perfume is that of absolute cleanliness, and, perhaps, the faintest suggestion of violet or orris. Heavy perfumes are bad enough any time. They are unendurable in summer.

Good Hair Tonic.

"I am losing my hair," writes "Madge of Oregon," and wants to know if this is "the proper time for one to lose her hair."

No time is proper for one to lose hair, Madge. By nature we are supposed to keep our hair. Try a shampoo in tar soap or an egg beaten in water, and be sure the hair is thoroughly cleansed and rinsed. Then rub in a pomatum made of three ounces of white vaseline, half as much castor oil, one and three-quarters drachms of gallic acid and a few drops of oil of lavender. This will stop the hair falling and encourage new growth.

"What cold cream do you advise?" Kate J. K. wants to know. I cannot give names. Here is a good cold cream, and you can make it for yourself.

Three ounces almond oil, one ounce of lanoline, five drachms each of white wax and spermaceti, one drachm of oil of bitter almonds, an ounce of witch hazel and three ounces of elder flower water. Melt the wax and oils in a double boiler and add the witch hazel and elder flower water, mixing well.

A Favorite Recipe of E. Panchard

Chef of the Hotel McAlpin, New York

E. PANCHARD

THE making of delicious dishes is not a mystic art known only to the few, rather it is a simple trait of patience and of thought.

You can prepare dishes as pleasing as the greatest chef can make if you will only give to our task a little time and consideration. All the ingredients that the chef uses are at your command, and all that you need do is to give to your kitchen the study and time that he gives to his.

Never save on quality when you buy for the table, but study how you can make what you buy go a long way. When you refuse to give your table-serious study, tossing together your meals with all possible speed, how can you hope to economize? Out of the scraps that you waste a chef would make a feast to delight a king.

The following dish takes time to prepare, but I offer it to you exactly as it is made by me. I hope that the time spent in preparing it will be repaid by your pleasure in eating it:

Rump of Beef a la Mode.

FOR this dish use a piece of beef prepared with six pounds of rump. Lard it with fat pork, and season well with salt, pepper, nutmeg and chopped parsley. Then place the meat in an earthen bowl with sliced carrots and onions, pour over it one-half pint of brandy, and let it macerate for one day in a cool place, turning it over frequently. Drain and dry the surface.

Set it in a saucepan with some fat, roast it until brown, add a pint of white wine and enough beef broth to cover the meat. Add some bones and two split calf's feet which are blanched, a bunch of parsley tied up with some celery, thyme and bay leaves; one whole pepper, two carrots, two onions and some garlic. Then add the brandy which was left in the bowl, let it come to a boil, cover and put it in the oven to simmer for two hours, or until well done.

Drain the meat. And strain the gravy. When nearly cold cut into slices and spread over an oval dish, range round some braised carrots, glazed onions, the calf's feet boned and cut in small pieces, and some green peas; pour the gravy over it and keep cool in an ice box until set like a jelly.

ADVICE to GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

Dear Annie Laurie:

I am a girl of almost 18. I read the letter in today's paper and perhaps I, too, have made a mistake.

I am engaged to a young man, 28, and am to be married this fall. I fancied I was too young, but as he is a bachelor with no one to help him in any way, living in a strange place, I took pity on him.

He has been keeping company with me for almost two years, and I have found no fault of any account in him. And he says the same of me.

Do you think it would be wiser and better for us both to wait a couple of years under the circumstances? My father and mother consent.

Now please tell me what you think about it. BLUE EYES.

WHY you funny little girl, you, whatever is the matter with you?

You have a sweetheart you love truly, and he loves you the same. What in the world do you want to go around hunting for some excuse to be miserable for?

He's a bachelor, alone in a strange place; he needs you and you need him, and your father and mother consent. What more do you want in the name of love and all love's puzzles?

Do you want him to take to drink so you'll have to marry him—"to save him?" Must he rob a bank to get you to be his wife—on the day he is sentenced to the penitentiary—like the heroine of your favorite book?

What on earth do you want, Blue Eyes, and why do you want it? You've found a pearl in the road—a pearl of great price. Don't throw it into the grass just to have the fun of hunting for it again. You might not find it this time.

If you have the true love of a good man be thankful for it, and give him your love and make him happy—and whisper, Blue Eyes, a few less love stories just now—and a little more sewing on the pretty things you're going to wear at your wedding.

You ask your mother if that isn't a good prescription.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care of this office.

Secrets of Health and Happiness.

How Your Nerves Work By Own Electric Power

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

MOST biologists and physiologists claim that a distinguishing feature of life is the irritability of living tissues. If this were not true animals and plants could not grow, adapt themselves or survive and reproduce offspring.

Irritability of this nature does not in any way partake of the popular meaning of this word. It has nothing to do with petulant ill humor and huffiness.

When any living thing takes food, avoids poison, or otherwise maintains a definite equilibrium with its surroundings, it has a normal, healthful irritability. Brutes as well as vegetables, man no less than animalcule, must change eternally, and so alter their activities as to preserve a peaceful, progressive balance between their own internal mechanism and the outside surroundings.

A tonic or a stimulant is associated in most opinions with drugs and medicaments. That is to say, most persons think of alcohol, coffee, broths, tea and pharmaceuticals such as strychnine, as "tonics" and "stimulants." Yet many of these, such as whiskey, wine and beer are so far from being stimulants that they are poisonous sedatives.

Alcohol Not a Stimulant.

Prof. Ralph S. Lillie of Clark University says that a stimulant or tonic of the living body is anything which arouses a tissue into new activity, or modifies the activity of one already active.

Chemicals are not by any means the most common causes of renewed or altered activity in living tissues. One of the characteristic features of stimulation is that a very slight tonic may instigate a large series of changes.

When one of your nerves is given a stimulant such as a pinch, a burn, a freeze or a punch, the disturbance set up in the nerve, no matter what its nature, spreads also to the other nerves in contact with it, until it reaches the brain and spinal cord.

There is no visible or ultra visible mechanical change in a toned, stimulated or irritated nerve. There is some chemical or carbonic acid loss, but this does not altogether explain the wonderful, unseen powers of the nerve force.

There is, however, an easily ascertainable electric current—"bioelectric action," as it is termed—associated with a nerve in action. In fine, a nerve in tone and irritated is, more or less, the same as a copper wire with electricity flowing through it. This electrical condition in living tissues, more particularly the nerves, is the essential peculiarity that accounts for its self extending impulse or "message."

How Nerves Work.

The thing which brings your body into action, which moves your muscles, spurs your brain and sets your nerves a tingle is an electrical change due to a sudden fall in the electric power at the skin or outside portion of the nerve. This difference in electric "potential" between the outer and the innermost parts of the nerve, causes the message hastily to travel along the nerve fiber.

This explains how a ray of light is carried to the other tissues, how movements of the air are finally "heard," how a pinch is felt, how heat, cold, taste, smell, movement and the other [illegible] registered in your cranium

MR. CHURCHILL'S FAMOUS SPEECH ON ONLY TERMS OF PEACE

By Thomas T. Lasecki in "Free Poland."

The speech which Mr. Churchill, the British first Lord of the Admiralty, delivered at a public meeting in London, Friday evening, Sept. 11, was one of great significance as stating the attitude of Great Britain and its plans for the continuance of the war. Such phrases as "no compromise" and "our life against Germany" indicated unmistakably that the war will be pursued until Germany begs for peace and accepts it on the hard terms of the allies. This might have been expected. The extent of the British foreign commercial interests and even the safety of the empire demand, in the British view, that the menace of expanding German militarism be checked once for all.

But to the Poles and the other enslaved nations in Europe the speech was even of greater significance and interest. After the Russian manifesto to the Poles, it was the first ray of sunshine, emanating from one who may be considered a semi-official spokesman of the allies. Mr. Churchill's statement was much more sweeping than the Russian manifesto. It is the first recognition from a high place from oppressing the lesser nationalities by superior force.

The French nation has always been friendly to Poles, and the sincere intervention of the French government may be safely expected.—Italy will, no doubt, support the cause of freedom. The eminent Italian historian, Guglielmo Ferrero, has already given expression to his sympathies for Poland in a carefully prepared newspaper article.—Such a prominent Englishman as H. G. Wells has also expressed very progressive views on the future role of downtrodden nations.

And now Mr. Churchill makes it known that in the terms of peace to be offered Germany and Austria, if defeated, will be incorporated a plan for a Europe reconstructed along ethical and [illegible] lines. Mr. Churchill [illegible] recognizes [illegible] that a despotic rule of a disconcerted people is as much a menace to peace as selfish autocracy, rampant imperialism and the ruthless striving for power and expansion. The strength of national consciousness, especially under adverse conditions, must be conceded. Austria and even Germany recognize this fact in their belated courtesy of the Poles during the present crisis. In this respect Great Britain and the United States are the leading nations of the world.

Prussia's mistake in her treatment of the Poles is no less notable than that of Bismarck, who, in a bitter regarding the famous three Kaisers' alliance to combat advancing democracy, condemned the Austrian tolerant policy toward the Poles. The Prussian attempts to exterminate the Poles have been as systematic and thorough as possible, but the results are far from thorough.

As Ferrero puts it, Prussians took unto themselves the Germanization of Prussian Poland as a historical necessity. Conciliation or friendliness is foreign to Prussianism, which tolerates no rival neighbor whom it cannot subdue. Prussianism is antisocial and the embodiment of militaristic force. Its activity has been the [illegible] same in Alsace-Lorraine and Schleswig-Holstein as in the Poland provinces. As to the Poles, the Prussians know but will not recognize the debt of gratitude they owe to them. The defeat of the Knights of the Cross was the first check to rampant Prussianism. The Knights, prototypes of modern Prussians, exterminated the natives of Prussia with the same ruthlessness with which the Prussians of to-day are endeavoring to supplant their mailed fist upon the Polish provinces.

What Will the States Do About it ?

Certain American papers are credited with frankly espousing the British cause in the present European war, on the basis of the diplomatic record. It showed, clearly and emphatically, says an esteemed contemporary, that Britain's strivings for peace were untiring, and, though ineffectual, were appreciated. That Germany was directly responsible for the war was admitted. But, even so, the American Press, while favoring a British victory, advocated standing to one side as the battle progressed. The bystander observing a fight is, however, supposed to be a factor in the preservation of fair play. Sometimes he gets hurt.

The New York Tribune not only charges that Germany is not playing fair, but it asserts that the Kaiser's methods have been pursued in a manner calculated to draw from the United States a merited protest.

"Our Paris correspondent," says the Tribune, "reports that one of the bombs, which killed a man, fell on a spot only about two hundred yards from the chancellery of the American Embassy. Ambassador Herrick and Mr. Frazier, the Second Secretary of the Embassy, had walked over the spot forty minutes earlier, and had passed over it in an open motor car only five minutes before the bomb was dropped. It was only a narrow chance that saved their lives and absolved the United States from the necessity of challenging German military practices which, in the view of the world at large, not only outrage humanity but also violate the letter of international treaties of which Germany is a signatory."

It is one thing for the German people in their miscreancy and recklessness to sow mines in the North Sea, whereby the ships of Scandinavia have been destroyed without reprisals from the weaker nations of northern Europe; but it is quite plain that the American nation will not tolerate such an outrage as that reported from Paris. The Tribune asserts that the Kaiser "could not well afford to raise the question of slaughter, outside of the rules of war, with a great neutral nation, whose diplomatic agent he had killed while they were pursuing their functions in a city not invested by his forces and far removed from the scene of active military operations." The paper refers to the minor character of the damage inflicted on the enemy in comparison with the task of the Kaiser "trying to excuse to an incensed neutral like the United States his barbarous defiance of the law of nations."

Germany, contends The Tribune, as a signatory to the 1907 Hague Treaty, is clearly in default in dropping bombs on Antwerp, Ostend and Paris, "to spread general terror; and for the sake of spreading terror, they are willing to murder non-combatants, women and children—the more the better."

> "This is a development of warfare against which humanity revolts. It is a return to the primitive methods of savagery, by which the non-fighting population was exterminated along with the fighters. Modern rules of war do not sanction it, and it is inconceivable that any international conference would ever give assent to the principle of indiscriminate war on women, children and neutrals —in accordance with which the Kaiser's Zeppelins and aeroplanes are now acting."

The foregoing language is strong and significant, which it is to be hoped will be followed up by diplomatic action. The Kaiser and his beaurocratic military clique do not care a snap of the finger for press and public opinion, so long as the same is not endorsed by official actions. As a violator of the Hague treaty, were the Kaiser subject to official pressure from Washington, he might feel constrained to live within the bounds of the treaties of which he is a signatory, rather than endanger active intervention from another mighty Anglo-Saxon race. Neither the British Empire, France nor Russia seek to involve the United States in the present war; they are sufficiently strong without it. But they have a right to expect the United States to use its official influence to prevent the continuation of outrages which are multiplying to such an extent as to engender aggressive restliness on the part of neutral nations. A contemporary fittingly sums up the situation as follows:

> "A wave of humanity is being stirred up against the dastard methods now pursued. The Mad Dog of Europe would conceivably if he were allowed, become the Mad Dog of the Atlantic, or of America. The Tribune's warning is not to be wondered at. The greater wonder is that official Washington has not protested before this because of the absolutely proven outrages of which damage by bomb-throwing, however detestable that may be, is but a minor manifestation."

Knee Joint Stiff Three Years

CURED BY NERVILINE.

Anyone would marvel at my recovery, writes Mr. Leonard Lotham, a young man well known about Chatham. I had inherited a rheumatic tendency through my mother's family, and in my early days suffered frightfully. About three years ago the pain and stiffness settled in my left knee joint. I was lame and walked with a very distinct limp. Nerviline was brought to my notice and I rubbed it into the stiff joint four or five times a day. It dispelled every vestige of pain, reduced the swelling, took out the stiffness and gave me the full use of my limb again. I don't believe there is a pain-relieving remedy, not a single liniment that can compare with Nerviline. I hope every person with pains, with sore back, with lameness, with lumbago, with neuralgia—I do hope they will try out Nerviline which I am convinced will quickly and permanently cure them."

If Nerviline wasn't a wonderful painless remedy, if Nerviline didn't quickly relieve, if Nerviline wasn't known to be a grand cure for all rheumatic conditions, it wouldn't have been so largely used as a family remedy for the past forty years. No better, stronger, or more soothing liniment made. Get the large 50c. family size bottle; small trial size 25c.; sold by any dealer, anywhere.

G. Clemenceau, the former French Premier, in "L'Homme Libre" is credited with the statement that one of the greatest crimes of history is thus to be ended. The Allies in war waged in pursuit of justice and liberty naturally seek support in an appeal to the noble sentiments of independence, which form one of the strongest forces in the human breast. Nicholas II should now certainly reflect upon the position of the people of Finland. As for the Poles, there are quite 300,000 of them in the armies of the German Kaiser, and they would ask nothing better than to direct their weapons against those who lead them bound in the chains of an iron discipline. Poland rises miraculously like Lazarus from the grave. Neither William II nor Francis Joseph could have attempted this deed without making war upon each other. It needed courage to break with the harsh traditions of Russia, but it was inevitable that a war of liberation should lead to still further extensions of right and liberty between the peoples.

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Campany re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs — all young foxes— good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experence in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leavinb $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:— "We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalise your concern at $90,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you.

We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent.; we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business— and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

NO EVIDENCE TO SHOW DISLOYALTY

London, Oct. 5.— The Cape Town correspondent of The Morning Post says that, despite the activities of German spies and rumor-mongers, there is no evidence to suspect active disloyalty in South Africa, General De Wet, but an adventurer with an intinue demonstrations against the Government although a number of General Hertzog's party are solid for Premier Botha. The correspondent adds that the Boer commander in German S. W. Africa, who has been raiding the Union Police Posts, is not, as reported here on Saturday, a nephew of Gen. De Wet, but an adventuere with an inglorious record from the Boer War.

HARD TO PROVE DEATH OF SOLDIER

Toronto, Oct. 5.—Discussing the offer of the Metropolitan Life Assurance Company to insure the Toronto troops who have gone to the front. it was pointed out by a prominent city official to-day that one of the chief difficulties which may arise would be that of securing proof of the death of all of the insured who may be reported "missing." The actual number of those reported dead by the military authorities forms only a small part of the casualty list, as a result of which the beneficiaries of the policies might have serious difficulty in "proving the death" of the insured.

Should the City Council decide to accept the company's offer, at a cost of $105,000 to insure those now at the front, the company will accept City of Toronto debentures as payment for the premiums.

A Substitute For Tea

A French scientist discovered a substitute for tea. The dried leaves of the coffee plant are used. an infusion is made just as in the case of ordinary tea, and the resulting beverage is aromatic but somewhat bitter to the taste. It contains almost as much theine as real tea, while there is a notable falling off in the proportion of tannin, which is the most undesirable component in a beverage. This new "coffee-tea" is admirably refreshing and restorative in its effects.

An Appeal to the Intelligent Investor !

Does a logical presentation of a good investment interest you? Do you believe there is an oil in commercial quantities in Alberta? If you are alive to the situation you do. Then it will pay you to investigate our proposition and our holdings.

Please Read Carefully and Note!

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascer-tained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. Dunn chose wisely in the selection of the now famous Monarch well. WINDSOR OILFIELDS, LIMITED, has holdings located close to the Monarch.

THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). If a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

TEETH AND APPLES

The Use of the One as Food Will Preserve the Other

Dr. Sims Wallace, late dental surgeon to the London Hospital, voices the astounding belief that there are some 21,000,000 teeth in Great Britain ruined through eating sweets. He urges the adoption of a diet containing a good quantity of farinaceous food in a form which will stimulate mastication—brown bread, and the eating of fresh fruit with every meal.

The importance of the proper care of teeth during childhood is becoming universally recognized, and the London County Council established a centre for the treatment of dental troubles of schoolchildren with X-rays.

According to investigation it was found that about 39 per cent. of the children of well-to-do parents have bad teeth, as against 27 per cent. from poorer homes. This is probably accounted for by the fact that, as the latter have more coarser food, their teeth have more work to do, and are consequently stronger and cleaner. Their sweets are also fewer, and are mostly of the cheap, boiled sugar variety. These sweets break up cleanly in the mouth, whereas the caramels and chocolates eaten by the children of indulgent parents cling to the teeth and ferment.

Boys and girls should be given fruit in freference to sweets. Nuts and all hard fruits encourage mastication. The best fruit for this purpose is the apple. Eaten at the conclusion of a meal it leaves the teeth and mouth sweet and clean.

PRESERVING TOOLS

Hints That Every Farmer and Mechanic Should Know

Some general directions for the care and preservation of tools will not be out of place, as even the best tools become useless if they are not cared for. The following hints will no doubt be appreciated by every mechanic who desires to make his tools last as long as possible, and who always wishes to have them in good condition.

The wooden parts of tools, such as stocks of planes and handles of chisels, are often made to have a nice appearance by polishing, but this adds nothing to their durability. A much better plan is to let them soak in linseed oil for a week and then rub them with a cloth for a few minutes each day for a week or two. This produces a beautiful surface and exerts a solidifying and preservation action on the wood.

Coutchouc oil has proved very efficient in preventing rust on iron; this has been used by the German army. It only requires to be spread with a piece of flannel in a very thin layer over the metallic surface and allowed to dry. To remove it, the article has simply to be treated with caoutchouc oil again and washed after 12 or 24 hours. A solution of benzine has been used for years as a coating for steel, iron and lead, and has been found a simple means of keeping them from oxidizing.

All steel articles can be perfectly preserved from rust by putting a lump of freshly-burned lime in the drawer or case in which they are kept. If the things are to be moved, as a gun in its case, put the lime in a muslin bag.

To keep tools from rusting, take one-half ounce of camphor, dissolve in one pound melted lard; take off the scum and mix in as much fine black lead (graphite) as will give it an iron color. Clean tools and smear with this mixture. After 24 hours rub clean with a soft linen cloth.

To remove dust cover the metal with sweet oil, well rubbed in, and allow to stand for 48 hours; smear with oil applied with a piece of cotton wool after rubbing the steel. Then rub with unslaked lime reduced to a fine powder.

Immerse the article to be cleaned for a few minutes, until all the dirt and rust are taken off, in a strong solution of potassium cyanide, say, about one-half ounce in a wineglass of water; take it out and clean with a tooth brush with a paste compound of potassium cyanide, castile soap, whiting and water.

Our Debt to Negroes

We gladly gulp down the soothing drug the doctor brings us, but we rarely wonder in what romantic way it first came to light, or who took all the risks of testing it upon himself.

It was Humboldt, the great discoverer, who many years ago brought to light the fact that the South Americans and Indians could bear fatigue and hunger to an extraordinary extent by chewing the leaves of a certain shrub. The name of that shrub was coca, from which we now get the wonderful drug cocaine.

And how many of the millions of invalids who have been indebted to the tonic virtues of quassia know that we owe its discovery and name to one Quassi, a negro slave, who had successfully experimented with it during the terrible fevers in Surinam?

It was in the early part of the seventeenth century that the wife of the Viceroy of Peru was attacked by a severe ague, and the natives induced her to try quinine, with such surprising success that she brought the good news to Europe.

Some Schoolboy Howlers

"The people of India are divided into casts and outcasts."

"The seven great powers of Europe are gravity, electricity, steam, gas, flywheels, motors, and Mr. Lloyd George."

"Tennyson wrote a beautiful poem called 'In Memorandum.'"

"During the interdict in John's reign, births, marriages, and deaths were not allowed to take place."

The following were given as examples of the uses of ships: "To go to teach countries and teach savages how to dress"; "To poets, who can get their living writing about ships"; "To take Mrs. Pankhurst to a lonely island"; "For the god-parents of a child who is to be confirmed to send a letter to him."

Sheet Rubber in Armor

The British admiralty is experimenting with warship armor composed of thin sheets of steel with a sheet of rubber between, the theory being that the rubber will stop shells as sand bags stop bullets.

Convertible Wagons

Children's wagons can be converted into sleds by the use of new runners with clamps to engage the wheels.

Nature's Aeroplane

For experiments with model aeroplanes a French inventor mounted the wings and tail of a crow on a wire frame.

Measures the Steam

A recording meter to measure the amount of steam used in an industrial plant has been invented to check waste.

Our Timber Wealth

The Philippine Islands, which are extremely heavily wooded, are supposed to contain 200,000,000,000 feet, board measure, of timber. This is about one-third the estimated timber wealth of Canada, not including pulpwood, of which there are approximately [illegible]

THE SIGNIFICANCE of this is that people are coming to realize that "The Land of Afterwhile" is full of opportunity and that now—having been asleep for 300 years—it is awakening to the fact that somebody is going to make enormous sums of money down there, right away!

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

As light as lager, but better for you

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles.

Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decaying food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, Gold Dust will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ¼ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830 or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

SECRET OF SPEED LIES IN LONG ARM

Johnson's Reach Five and a Half Inches Greater Than Normal—Almost Deformity

The terrific speed of Walter Johnson has been a seven years' wonder, and a writer in the Baseball Magazine seeks to explain it. He says:

I sat in the lobby of a hotel and Johnson sat beside me. I noticed that, although he was erect in his chair, his arms were crossed in his lap before him. Fold your own arms in that position. It is hardly comfortable. The only person who would find it comfortable is a person with abnormally long arms. "Pretty long arms, Johnson," I ventured, looking at them. "Yes," he said, and smiled. "I guess I have the longest arms of anyone in baseball."

The long-armed pitcher can move his arm through the sweep of the throw as fast as the short-armed pitcher. And since his hand describes a larger arc, actually travels through a greater distance, the result is that he gives the ball a greater velocity, because of that added length of arm.

Johnson has an extreme reach from tip to tip of his outstretched hands of 78½ inches. Vean Gregg has a reach of 77 inches. Ed. Reulbach can extend his open palms a distance of 78 inches. So can Slim Sallee, while Cy Falkenberg has a reach of no less than 79½ inches—a full inch overtopping Johnson. Does this damage our theory? Not at all.

We have seen that Johnson's reach is great, actually being topped only by Cy Falkenberg. If we glance at the figures comparatively, we shall see Johnson's superiority.

Cy Falkenberg has a reach of 79½ inches, but the human obelisk has a height of no less than 77 inches. His excess of reach then is 2½ inches above normal. Slim Sallee has a reach of 78 inches, but he surveys the world from an elevation of 75½ inches, so his excess of reach is also 2½ inches. Gregg has a reach of 77 inches, but he is six feet two and a half inches tall. His excess reach is also 2½ inches. Christy Mathewson has a reach of 76 inches, full three inches above what it should be normally. Walter Johnson is six feet one and has a reach of 78½ inches. Here we see a variation of no less than 5½ inches. This is a variation from normal verging almost on deformity. It is the greatest we have ever seen in the case of a pitcher. Ed. Reulbach has a reach of 77½ inches and a height of six feet one. His excess reach is 4½ inches. It is only necessary to add that in his prime Reulbach was the [illegible] pitcher in the National League.

Let us examine the pitching arm itself. The figures are:

Length of arm: Gregg, 32 inches; Sallee, 32 inches; Reulbach, 33 inches; Falkenberg, 33 inches; Johnson, [illegible] inches.

With the exception of Reulbach, Johnson is the shortest man in the list. Even the gigantic Falkenberg, with the advantage of no less than four inches in height, had a pitching arm a full inch shorter. Compared to his height the difference is all the more noticeable.

Most Pitchers Poor Batsmen

A pitcher who can bat as well as twirl is the chief jewel in the crown of a baseball club, the prize that is sought by every manager. Taken as a whole the men of the mound do not shine when they are called upon to do some stick work, and many times a game has been lost because it was the twirler who stepped to the plate when a crackerjack pinch hitter was needed.

JOCKEYS HORSES HATE

When Race Horses Go Mad at Post They Would Make Meal of Riders

"Trouble in the paddock and at the post before a big race is frequently caused by a horse which has taken a sudden and violent dislike to his jockey, and there are numerous cases of well known jockeys being nearly chewed to death by their mounts.

One of the worst cases of "savaging" occurred to Otto Madden, the famous jockey, at Brighton races a few years ago. He was riding down to the starting post for the Worthing Plate, when a horse called Marigold IV. overtook him, dragged him out of the saddle by the shoulder, and, seizing him by the throat, shook him as a terrier shakes a rat.

The jockey of Marigold IV., who had himself been unseated, used his whip freely on the brute's head to make him release Madden, and other jockeys coming to his assistance, Marigold IV. was eventually beaten off, but not before Madden had been severely wounded.

Diamond Jubilee, the horse which won King Edward his first Derby, took a violent dislike to his jockey, Mornington Cannon. If Cannon ever went near his loose box, or the horse saw him in the stableyard or paddock, he would make frantic efforts to "go for him," and Cannon had several very close shave, [illegible] badly mauled.

Fred Archer once had a bad tussle with a horse which tried to "savage" him, but the famous jockey succeeded in getting the better of the animal and won the race. The horse was Peter, and the race was the Hunt Cup.

Peter threw Archer in the paddock before the race, and, seizing him by the arm, nearly bit it in two. Archer succeeded in beating him off, whereupon he threw himself down on the ground and screamed, lashing out at every one who came near him. Archer, however, was not to be daunted, and he eventually succeeded in mastering the brute.

Lord Charles Cunninghame, a well known sportsman who used to race on a large scale in India, had a very valuable racing pony which took a violent dislike to the "syces," or native grooms.

He absolutely refused to allow them to come into his stable, and on one occasion when two of the "syces" came in together to try to groom him he bit off one man's arm completely at the elbow, while the other only escaped with a badly lacerated ear. After that, white stable boys from England had to be specially imported to look after him.

Vedas, who became "savage" through ill-health some time before he died, wore a muzzle, and the stable boy was paid extra to look after him.

Ladas, Lord Rosebery's famous race horse, was perfectly quiet under ordinary circumstances, but for some unknown reason he had a great dislike for ladies, and would "go for them" if any members of the fair sex approached his paddock.- Pearson's Weekly.

BUILDING CUP CHASERS

Some of the Rules Yacht Designers Must Bear in Mind

The conditions governing the America Cup yacht races give designers lots of latitude. According to the measurement rule, length is measured, but this length is taken in such a way as to limit overhangs and should that length be greater than the rule allows the excess is penalized. Draught is limited to 16 per cent. of the load water line plus 1.75 so that the limit of draught for a yacht 75 feet on the water line is 13.75 feet. Any excess is added to length. Then to find the rating after the length has been determined length is multiplied by the square foot of the sail area and this product is divided by the cube root of the displacement. The larger the displacement, consequently, the larger the sail area that can be carried and the designer decides just how big a yacht he wants to build, making its form as easy as possible and then figures out the driving power. It has been figured that the average defender measures about 102 feet over all, 14 feet draft, and spreads 7,400 square feet of canvas.

Steel Railroad Cars

Steel is rapidly displacing wood in the construction of railroad cars—not only in passenger cars where the safety of the passenger is an important consideration, but in freight cars as well. The entire end is made of a single piece of steel compressed with concentric annular corrugations, making a very strong and durable end wall. No posts, braces or rivets are required in this end piece.

Union Labor in Baseball

"The Base Ball Players' Fraternity is making a mistake," says Manager Evers of the Chicago Cubs, "in its attitude toward salaries. The players of to-day are getting salaries far in excess of what they did in 1902, when I broke into the National league, and considering what stars like Ed Delehanty, Lajoie and others received before the American league came east. When I started to play with the Cubs the man who was playing alongside of me received $4,500, as against my salary of $1,250. It made no difference to me what the other man got. I went ahead and did my best, feeling confident that my reward would come in time—and it did."

HANDICAP BASEBALL

Suggestion That Would Give Weaker Clubs a Better Chance

The president of the St. Louis Browns, R. L. Hedges, is out as an advocate of handicap baseball. His plan seems to be a logical one for handicapping the leaders and preventing them from grabbing all the baseball [illegible] in the way of prospective big league stars.

"Under the present system in the major leagues it's extremely hard for tailend clubs to edge into the first division," said Mr. Hedges. "The winning clubs make big money, and for that reason they pay big money for talent. They sometimes pay fabulous and senseless prices for promising men. The owner of a losing club would go bankrupt trying to compete against the winners, figuring that a few of the high-priced individuals would fail to deliver.

"Now, what I'm driving at is this. Take the league winner of a season with a team of comparative youngsters, but one weak link in the chain. The manager goes forth into the market and offers $10,000 for a class D league player of promise. He gets him, puts him on the bench, and in two years this player bobs up a star. This manager, who really needs, we'll say, two players for the next season, will outbid his rivals and buy ten or fifteen players. He takes many promising men who are of no use to him, who would help a second division club. The latter club has not the financial fortification to compete.

"Now my idea is to limit the league leader to twenty-five players on his reserve list. Give the team which finishes second and the team which finishes third a limit of twenty-seven players. The fourth and fifth place clubs should have the privilege of putting thirty on their reserve, while the sixth, seventh, and eighth place clubs should be privileged to retain each year thirty five players.

"This would give the losers a larger squad to pick from. It would prevent the leaders from paying reckless and insane prices. It would readjust the game, balance the league, and distribute the pennants. Now this idea may look queer at present, but wait and see what happens."

FASHIONS IN GAMES

Less Strenuous Pastimes Wax and Wane in Public Favor

There is a fashion in games as well as in dress, as witness the growing popularity of lawn tennis and the periodical craze for roller skating. About a dozen years ago ping-pong was everything, and more recently diabolo took England by storm although the game did not secure much of a foothold in Canada. Roller skating was next revived and rinks sprang up all over the country; a good many of them, by the way, are still well patronized.

The same thing happens in the matter of the games which children play. Quite suddenly, and without the least warning of any kind, tops will come into favor.

Within a week the streets will be full of top-spinning youngsters, and the toy-sellers will have a bad time trying to keep up with the demand. There will be tops everywhere—all sorts of tops.

And then, as suddenly as they came, tops will vanish, and marbles will take their places. Then, just as suddenly and just as mysteriously, the marbles vanish, and something else comes on. It does not seem to depend in any way on the season or on the weather. It is just a matter of fashion.

All members of clubs know that fashion rules in the same way over the games that are played on the billiard table. For months—years, perhaps—the members will play nothing but billiards. Then there will come a change, and pool will be the order of the day. Another change, and as likely as not billiards will be the rage once more.

In card games, of course, fashion is everything. Once it was whist, and scarcely anything else was thought of. Then followed bridge. Now anyone who wants to play ordinary bridge is regarded as hopelessly behind the times, and auction is in favor. It has, indeed, been in favor so long that people are looking about for its successor.

In-and-Outers

Johnny Evers was ruled off the field in a game at Chicago before three balls were pitched. This nearly constitutes a record. But "Tub" Spencer, well remembered as a catcher, has it beaten.

"Tub" was backstopping for one of the Coast League teams some years ago. His squad was billed to play a double-header at Sacramento.

The umpire announced the batteries, and then turned toward the diamond and fitted on his mask. He heard a laugh from the visiting club's bench, and Spencer yelled out these words:

Spencer was invited to stroll to the club house—which he did.

Belmont Club Banquet.

Last night some fifty five members of the Belmont Club met in the latter's rooms and held a most successful banquet. The principal speaker of the evening was Rev. Mr. Sawers of St. Luke's church, who gave a very interesting account of his recent trip to Europe.

A Winter Club.

A joint meeting between the Literary Society and the Tennis Club will be held in the Sunday School room of the Charlotte Street Church on Tuesday Oct. 6 at 8 p.m. This meeting is for the purpose of organizing a winter club. The literary Society is preparing a program. All the young people of the church are invited to attend.

County Ploughing Match.

A meeting of the Directors of the Peterborough County Plowmen's Association was held in the office of the Farm and Dairy for the plowing match for the championship of the County of Peterborough, which is proposed to hold on Wed. Oct. 28. The farm on which the match will be held has not been definitely decided upon, but will be selected within the course of the next few days.

Used Abusive Language.

Lindsay Warder: The charge of abusive language which was preferred against a South Ward woman in Magistrate Jackson's court yesterday and which was resumed at 2 o'clock p.m., resulted in a decision for the plaintiff. Mr. G.A. Jordan, counsel for the defense, had the charge withdrawn that was placed against the younger woman, who was also a defendant in the case. The fine and costs imposed upon the defendant amounted to $10.20.

Bread Has Raised.

We, the undersigned bakers of Peterborough, are compelled through the advance in the price of flour and other ingredients, to raise the price of bread to thirteen cents if charged or twelve cents for cash in advance, said advance to become effective on Tuesday, Oct. 6. (Signed) Wm. Stock & Sons, T. H. Hooper, N. Lush & Sons, T. Gilgour, J. Grady, J. W. Boorman, John Menzies. It would seem that flour has gone up 50 cents a barrel and bread $3 a barrel

A "Lost Cause."

A local man was charged at yesterday's police court with having not only drunk, but having tried to break into a door in the market building. When he broke the door in he seemed to have acted like a German general on the Aisne River and defied any or all to enter. However the local police like the Allies on the Aisne displayed that when you "haven't got the goods" there is no use defending an unimpregnable position. The warrior was fined $5.

Local Laundry's Success.

That the slant eyed celestials do not control an appreciable portion of this city's laundry work was emphatically demonstrated yesterday. Mr. James Fanning, the George Street white (and the word is used advisedly) laundry man seems to have made good progress here in sanitary and "a la mode" methods of keeping current humanity, per their underwear, sheets, etc., in touch with the latest requirements of modern times. Automobiles are neither bought on credit nor given as Xmas gifts. Still, Mr. Fanning had yesterday a 40 horse car auto out with its tonneau filled with bags of clean laundry belonging to people who do not patronize the chinks

Army Does Good Work.

That Adjt. McElheney and Mrs. McElheney and their faithful and energetic staff are doing good work has again been substantiated. On Sunday night a man and his wife who, last week pleaded guilty in police court, to operating a disorderly house, and let out on suspended sentence, knelt at the Salvation Army Barracks. Eight other possibly as seemingly irreclaimable citizens joined the Army

Will Such Story Go Here?

Will the workers, particularly union workers, of this city, believe the Chicago despatches that young Armour, son of the Millionaire who sweats every man on this Continent on the price of meat, has put on laborer's overhalls and is only paid worker's wages for his work at the Halstead Street, Chicago, Stockyards? He may may do the work at the price mentioned but its a safe bet that Momma Poppa hands him nightly $100 to spend with the girlies. Such "Hot air" stories make any intelligent man of this city have a severe flittering under the vest.

Thirty Years Ago.

Peterboro Times Oct. 6th, 1884 said: "There was a special meeting of the shareholders of the Peterborough Curling and Skating Rink Co., held in the Grand Central Hotel on Tuesday evening last to take some action in regard to moving the old rink, as the Directors had found it necessary to remove it from its present location. After much discussion, pro and con., it was decided by a large majority to raise $2,000 of new stock, and move the rink to Charlotte street, and brick and enlarge it. This will be a good move as the location is more central and easy of access. The work will be commenced at once, and all will be ready for the first frost

Thirty years ago yesterday Messrs. Mark Curtis and Son the local East Ward brickmakers turned out 12,000 bricks. Such a turn out by this firm now would only seem like an appetizer for a day's work.

LOCAL BREVITIES

Schettler the local twirler is 6th in the Canadian League.

Mrs. (Col.) Sam Hughes is Regent of Lindsay's I.O.D.E.

Col. Sam Hughes has sailed for England says an Ottawa despatch.

At yesterday's police court a blacklister named Michael Murthy was charged with falling off the water wagon. He was remanded until Thursday.

Lindsay's population is now 7,677 according to the Assessor of that progressive little town. This is an increase of 370 over the preceding year.

Yesterday a George Street merchant remarked to the Times "When they catch that Barbarian, the Kaiser England should give him a two weeks meal ticket, then muzzle him and use a rope later."

Yesterday a number of Port Hope milk vendors were on trial. It would seem that the milk they have been selling was as thin as Peterborough's chances for a reduction in tax rate.

Boyd Wilkinson, whilst working in a Fenelon Falls saw mill, had an arm so badly crushed by a circular saw it, the arm not the saw, had to be amputated.

One despatch says that Sol. Sam Hughes has gone to the war. Another says he has gone to the woods at Haliburton. Possibly the next will say he has been condemned to ask where Peterboro's 27 mill rate of taxation goes?

Why are men on the local paving contract paid only 17 cents an hour, when on the last similar job, they got 22 cents. How much does the difference make daily to Foley and Gleason, or others, for 80 men working daily?

Was It Her Affinity ?

Port Hope Times: Mr. Jas. Walford, the hostler at the Royal Hotel, has come to the conclusion that everything is not all roses and sunshine in his domestic affairs. On Saturday night secretly he received an inking that there was doings at his house at the corner of Victoria street and Toronto Road, and he hastened there unexpectedly. He heard a man's voice and rushed into the house, to find the man hiding in the pantry. Mr. Walford gave the intruder a great pounding. We learn from Mr. Walford that he is instituting legal proceedings through Mr. T. F. Hall, the Cobourg lawyer, against Jack Moore, of Port Hope, for alienating the affections of his wife, Charlotte Walford

IF MEALS HIT BACK AND STOMACH SOURS

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends Indigestion, Gas, Dyspepsia and Stomach Misery in five minutes.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can get blessed relief in five minutes. Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now this minute, and rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion in five minutes.

MOTHER! IS CHILD'S STOMACH SOUR, SICK?

If tongue is coated or if cross, feverish, constipated give "California Syrup of Figs."

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep, or act naturally, has stomach ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

British And French Made Advance Yesterday German Cavalry are Sighted North Of Lille

ALL EYES NOW CENTRED ON THE BATTLE ON THE RUSSIAN FRONTIER

A Russian Success There Might Bring the Kaiser to His Knees--Defeat of Germans Would Weaken Them in France--In Which Event the Allies' Flanking Movements Would Crumple the Foe

Petrograd, Oct. 6.--The following official statement was given out today at Russian general headquarters:

"The Russian offensive campaign continues. The fortified positions (of the enemy) on the frontier are under a heavy artillery fire. The enemy has received reinforcements from the garrison at Koenigsberg. There has been particularly desperate fighting in the vicinity of Bakalargewo.

"Railroads in East Prussia are crowded with troop trains, and our aerial scouts report an uninterrupted movement of Germans in a westerly direction. German columns and German troop trains are withdrawing across the frontier."

News Has Been Scarce.

London, Oct. 6.--So far as London is concerned, for the past 12 hours, news has been contraband of war. When the embargo is lifted the public expects tidings of great moment and there is distinct tendency of optimism as to the nature of the revelations.

The French Ministry of War, in explaining the necessity for the official communications being laconic states that it is useless to be more explicit if the battles in the valleys of the Aisne and the Somme are not finished. The authorities know that the conflict will be tedious and prolonged before a decisive result is obtained.

Even the small relief afforded by news of great activity in the east sent out Monday, has ceased today and censorship has spread to the region where, throughout the war, news of the military operations have been more accessible than in any other theatre of the warfare. Victory for one side or the other along the Russian frontier is of supreme importance and the tremendous battle impending there may mark the climax of the war.

The military experts are beginning to appreciate the fact that the attacks now being made on either flank of the western army are not strictly turning movements which depend for their effectiveness on speed or surprise. Little evidence of either has been shown on the allies' left.

Ill Become Crushing Attacks.

If, however, the Russians win a great victory in the east it will compel the Germans to divert some of their western armies in that direction and the flank movements will become crushing attacks which will crumple up the depleted German lines.

On the other hand if the Russians are the victims of a severe reverse some of the veteran German corps will be released for service in the west and the Germans may pierce the numerically inferior allied line. Whichever side can extend its line furthest without weakening its front, ought, according to the experts, win the battle of the Aisne.

Battle Line Not Continuous.

The battle line along the Russian border is not continuous, but the intervals separating the various armies are comparatively small gaps and the whole territory along the frontier from Tilsit, on the north-east border of East Prussia, to Dukla Pass in the Carpathians bristles with arms.

No battle front extends beyond the Dukla Pass, but small mobile Russian forces are harrying the plains of Hungary. The longest continuous Russian line extends from Dukla Pass to a point almost on the Vistula River, a short distance from Warsaw. This is composed of the armies which swept over Galicia and is now the instrument of the projected invasion of Silesia.

Tea or Coffee Hurt You ?

No need to get mad now, tear up the paper, or shout "nonsense, good tea or coffee never hurt anyone."

You know better than that, for you can point out all around you folks who are the worse for their slugging.

Think over a few tea or coffee drinking friends and casually enquire if they are entirely and perfectly well and just how tea or coffee treats them.

If it hurts others isn't it just possible--?

Catch the drift, don't you?

In fact after having studied the matter a bit it will become plain that if you are a tea or coffee-drinker the chances are that some form of incipient or perhaps fixed organic disease due to tea or coffee has set in, headache, biliousness, constipation, nervousness, sleeplessness, heart flutter or others of the well-proven tea and coffee ills. One can refuse to look the thing squarely in the face and jog along with tea or coffee.

Some day Nature will haul him up short.

to swap health and a clear, business-like head for a few cups of tea or coffee each day.

Every tea or coffee toper tries to wiggle round and charge his aches and ills to weather, overwook, too much or too little food, this, that or the other thing, but how he hates to admit that the real enemy is his Master, tea or coffee.

A Sure Personal Test

will locate the exact cause of your steady destruction of health, if that cause be tea or coffee. It's worth knowing the plain, sober fact before organic heart trouble or other disease sets in, which perhaps cannot be cured.

The test is pleasant, accurate and satisfying--

Quit both tea and coffee absolutely for ten days and and in their place use POSTUM.

Postum now comes in two forms. Regular Postum must be boiled. Instant Postum--soluble form made in the cup instantly, with hot water. Both kinds of this famous food-drink have a delightful flavour and are absolutely free from caffeine (the drug in tea and coffee) or any injurious substance.

If in a few days you begin to sleep soundly at night, digest your food better, stomach and bowels show signs of recovery, or the old feeling of weakness at the heart leaves, or head works clearer, (the ails of tea and coffee drugging are multitudinous) the facts will be before you, and

British And French Troops Make Another Advance North of Soissons

Alternate Advances and Retirements Between Somme and Oise, Which is the Game of Strategy--German Cavalry Reported Near Lille, Which No Doubt Has Been Provided for--Germans After Nine Weeks' Fighting Only Hold a Small Corner of France

Paris, Oct. 6.--The following official communication was given out in Paris this afternoon:

"On our left wing the front is extending more and more widely. Very important masses of German cavalry have been reported in the environs of Lille, coming from forces of the enemy which are making a movement in the region to the north of the line between Tourcoing (in the Department of Nord, seven miles north-east of Lille) and Atmentieres (nine miles to the north-west of Lille.)

"In the vicinity of Arras and on the right bank of the river Somme the situation but shows little change. Between the Somme and the Oise there have been alternative advances and withdrawals. Near Lassigny the enemy undertook an important attack, which, however, failed.

"On the right bank of the Aisne, north of Soissons, we have, with the co-operation of the British army, made a slight advance. We have also made some progress in the vicinity of Berry-au-Bac.

"There is nothing to report from the rest of the front.

"In Belgium, the Belgian forces defending Antwerp have occupied strongly the line between the River Rupel and the River Nethe. Against this line the attacks of the Germans have failed."

FOE'S PRESS IN DESPAIR

London, Oct. 6.--The correspondent of The Daily News at Copenhagen telegraphs the following:

"Vivid accounts of the fighting appear in the German newspapers and the writers admit that the situation is desperate. The Nord Deutsch Allgemeine Zeitung, describing the frontier fighting in the Vosges region, says:

"'The officers and men have been fighting day and night for thirty seven days and the Aermans are facing a difficult strategic sitaation in the mountain districts where they are rendering supehuman services, chiefly in water filled trenches and under almost undescribable conditions.

"'The strain is said to be almost unendurable. The French are fortified in excellent positions on the Vosges and it is impossible to see their guns. No German troops have been able to retire from the fighting line for rest.

LATEST DANCES ARE TABOOED AT COLLEGE

Jackson, Miss., Oct. 7. There will be nothing doing in the "Tango," "Bunny Hug," "Argentine Glide" or "Boll Weevil Wobble," line at the A. and M. College this year, unless the gowers that be rescind their action in promulgating an edict that such thing shall not be, at least anywhere but on the campus.

The edict has considerably disturbed the society students of the A. and M. especially members of the Lee Guards, recently organized, who want to give a big annual ball, but whose plans to that end have been nipped in the bud before they blossomed forth to the issuing of invitation time.

YOUTHFUL, BEAUTIFUL SKIN EASY TO HAVE

You may be as healthy as a bird in the air and still have a poor complexion. Changing seasons and temperatures, winds, dust and dirt, are apt to injure any skin, even though the general health be good. When these external influences spoil the complexion, the natural thing is to remove the spoil by external means. Ordinary mercolized wax will do this. It will actually absorb the weather-beaten film-skin, a little each day. In a week or two you'll have a brand new complexion, a new skin. The exquisitely beautiful and youthful complexion thus acquired, comes so easily, without harm or discomfort, there's no reason why any woman should not adopt this simple treatment. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at any drug store, apply nightly like cold cream, washing it off mornings. This will not fail in any case.

To quickly remove wrinkles, signs of age and ego, bathe the face occasionally in a solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½ pt. witch hazel. The results will surprise you.

COURTEOUS TRIBUTE TO PETERBOROUGH

H. J. Osborn, London, England, journalist and lecturer, who is spending a week in the city, and is speaking this evening at 8 o'clock in St. John's Church School House, on "England To-day--Conditions in War Time," sends to the "Times" his cordial appreciation of Peterboro printed below:

A Visitor's Appreciation.

Much travel on the Grand Trunk has familiarized one with that great Company's motto, "Safety First," and borne into one's mind the fact behind the phrase. By it and other roads, during five former visits to Canada, and on this present tour, one has been carried to and through many cities and towns; and been the transient guest, or the

in a fairly long list of places in this Dominion. A lover of Canada one is perhaps predisposed in favour of many things Canadian, and it is in no desire to disparage other cities that I pen these lines.

Yet I use only the words of soberness when I say that I regard Peterborough as the nicest, sweetest,

"Cleanest City"

I have yet seen this side the Atlantic. Centre and suburbs strike one with an air and an influence, that breathes "welcome"; business streets and residential avenues alike impress by trim neatness, good order, bright activity, and charming outlook; while within a brief walk beyond the centre, the abundant fatigue, and especially the luxuriance and loveliness of the predominant maple, satisfy the eye with a colour scheme that recalls an Alpine sunset.

But all that is merely the physical and inanimate at that. Much more is it the people who make and give character to a place. Without announcement, and one can believe unconsciously, the citizens of Peterborough have taken as a motto or at least they practice the sentiment,

"Courtesy First."

This quality is quickly sensed by a traveller in many lands, and seldom, if ever, has it been so obvious as here. Not many hours, much less days, sufficed. In a brief stay one has met many and varied representatives of the city's life. And without a single exception, marked courtesy has been the note of all intercourse. It has been a delight to meet, and be thus welcomed by, the Mayor, ex-Mayor, editors, lawyers, clergy, ministers, church and society officials--while store, cafe, railroad, and car attendants, policemen, and even entire strangers in the streets, have displayed the same quality.

A grateful tribute of thanks is due, and is offered, with the assurance that Peterborough will long retain a warm place in memory and regard.

Oct. 6, 1914. H.J.O.

(We would advise a large attendance at Mr. Osborn's lecture in St. John's School House to-night at eight o'clock. The subject, "England in War Time" is a specially patriotic one of peculiar interest to Canadians just now, who are equally at war with Germany and Austria as is England. Mr. Osborn, being a newspaperman of exceptionally high standing in England, is well versed in his subject, which will be dealt with by him in an interesting and illustrative manner.--Ed.)

8. That a letter from the Peterborough Radial Co. saying they wish to construct power feeder lines on certain streets be referred to the City Solicitor the City Engineer and the Manager of the Utilities for report, the Solicitor to consider especially the right of the company to put up pole lines for conveying power and that the City Solicitor be authorized to consult counsel if he thinks it advisable.

9. That an application from G. N. Graham for permission to erect a sign at the Empress Hotel extending out 12 feet over a balcony be granted subject to the usual conditions respecting illuminated signs.

NEWS FAMINE YESTERDAY, NO DOUBT OWING TO SEVERE FIGHTING

German Guns Worn Out Through Too Constant Use--British War Bureau Will Not Divulge Anything Until Gen. French Reports--Allies Possess Brilliant Mobility--Raiding German Lines of Communications

Paris, Oct. 6.--It has been learned here that the slackening of the German artillery fire on the right was due primarily to their guns being worn out through too much use. While fresh pieces are being brought up from the reserve bases at Cologne and Aix-la-Chappelle the infantry was called on to prevent the knowledge of any shortage of artillery becoming known to the allied generals and so successful were the Germans that it was necessary for the allies to withdraw for short distances to more protected positions.

A News Famine To-day.

Never since its start has the battle of the Aisne, which has now become virtually a siege of the German positions on the Oise and north of this river, shown such a dearth of news as it does on this twenty-fifth day of the struggle.

The British information bureau never very diffuse, completely closed down on current events from the front several days ago, and it probably will so continue until Sir John French the commander of the British expeditionary force, puts his army in motion again.

That the allies, for the moment, possess greater mobility than do their foes, seems to be indicated by news that they have been able to raid the German lines of communication, cut a railroad, and destroy a train belonging to the brtillery of the German Imperial Guard.

This is a hint borrowed from the Russians, whose flanking methods would appear to have contributed so greatly to the reported German undoing in the eastern war arena.

As the enormous wastage in horses progresses, it is claimed for the allies that their possibilities for such movements will increase, while those of their opponents decrease. German cavalrymen on bicycles already are a common sight, and the Russian advance which is cutting Germany off from the horse producing districts of Hungary must, if maintained, further "North of The Oise" Significant.

Despite yesterday's announcement that the allies had yielded somewhat confidence to-day in the ultimate success of the French and British in the great action on the left wing of the battle front in Northern France has by no means diminished. Meanwhile without response and with no sign of a truce, the tremendous battle of millions of men is going on, each side trying by every possible means in their power to gain the advantage.

"North of the Oise," has appeared for the first time in a War Office statement. Till now all of the combats fought on the right bank of the Oise River have been mentioned as occurring either in the region of Roye or between the Somme and the Oise. There is much speculation on the phase of the fighting in that vicinity which can have a greatly varied importance.

The military critics, among them Lieut.-Col. Rousset of the Petit Parisien, refuse to attach any importance to the setback or the yielding of territory, declaring that to be the inevitable retreats which can be offset by a progressive movement. He cites the fact that Napoleon Bonaparte at Marengo had to retreat three times in the face of the Austrians, which did not prevent him from finding there one of his most brilliant victories as well as one of the most profitable.

Soggy Ground Impeded Foe.

The familiarity of the French with the territory is frequently of considerable advantage to them. The marshes of St. Gond near the Petit Morin river, are perfectly solid in the dry season and the Germans here had made all preparations for an important surprise attack. The night before this was to occur a heavy rain made the swamp a regular lake and turned the position to the disadvantage of the Germans. The French merely stuck to their positions, and while the enemy was in distress in the soggy ground, annihilated large numbers with their

First Lord Of The British Admiralty Now In Antwerp

Bordeaux, Oct. 6.--News described as "most encouraging" has been received here today from Antwerp. It is said that the German attacks on this place seem to be slackening somewhat in intensity.

The German troops reported in the official announcement of this afternoon to be near Lille, in the department of Norde, indicate, in the opinion of French observers, that Germany has been forced to draw off forces from Antwerp to relieve the German right wing in France, which is hard pressed by the allies.

It has been announced here by a credible authority that Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the British Admiralty, is now in Antwerp consulting with the Belgian general staff.

REPORTER CHARGES EDITOR WITH SLANDFR

New Orleans, Oct. 7.--An affidavit charging slander was filed in the First City Criminal Court Friday against Edwin O. Wild, editor of the Gulf States Farmer. The complainant was E. Lee Hawes, a reporter for the New Orleans Item.

Hawes, charged in the affidavit, that Wild, in the presence of two witnesses Kolb's Restaurant on the night of Sept. 11, declared to Marshall Ballard managing editor of the Item:

"The whole trouble Mr. Ballard is that Hawes is a liar and a crook."

English Sport Took Shape When Wild Deer Disappeared

The fox was hunted in England in olden times, indiscriminately with the deer, stag and hare, though not merely for amusement but for extermination. He was hunted or shot or trapped because of his raids on the poultry yards and sheep-folds. Not until the end of the seventeenth century did fox-hunting become a sport in itself, and then only because of the lack of wild deer to be chased. And so by degrees the fox, formerly execrated as "a beast of stinking flight," has become the deity of sportsmen, and to kill him by any means but the hounds a crime unspeakable. Sacrosanct to sportsmen, he is preserved only to be properly loosed, chased and killed according to rule. John Warde, of Westerham, is generally believed to have been the father of fox-hunting, says an English gossiper. He was Master of the Hounds for over half a century, and then he sold his pack for the record price of $10,500. This mighty hunter died in 1838 at the ripe age of 86, at his house in Charles street, Berkeley Square.

COOKING AS A REFUGE

A well known Parisian, a club man and sportsman, disappeared from the boulevards and its diversions and was found in a monastery, where he was acting as cook. He was tired of the old life, he says. No other reason. Let us place our emphasis less on the monastery than on its kitchen. Other French noblemen have retired to monasteries, but few have taken an active hand in the cooking. Very likely this particular count, only too well aware of the emptiness and unsatisfactoriness of his earlier life, yearned to turn his hand to something practical and useful. Being a French count, he turned his hand to cooking. There is nothing more practical and useful than that. There is nothing which, when well done, is capable of yielding a more general satisfaction all round. Every man should be able to cook a little, and should cultivate appreciation and respect for good cooking by others. Of course there drawbacks to such a career. Few cooks can enjoy their own cooking and few get a due measure of praise for their work, however well done. Perhaps the count is an exception. Since he has kept his "place" two years, he may enjoy his work as an artist if not as a gourmet, and he may have been heartened now and then, by a word of approbation from the brethren he serves. Such a word goes well in any kitchen.

Bored Holes in Skull

One of the most remarkable and heroic experiments of surgery ever attempted went to naught when a patient at St. Mary's Hospital, Philadelphia, died from the effects of the operation made in an effort to save him from the ravages of paresis.

Physicians at the hospital who found the patient hopelessly afflicted bored a series of holes in his skull and injected a serum of salvarsan. This is the one method known to medicine by which the disease may be checked. Salvarsan is the compound used in the most dangerous of all blood diseases. The physicians so far have made no report on the case. It is said the patient did not revive sufficiently from the shock because of previously weakened vitality.

With the Habitants

In the province of Quebec, as one can see from reading Doctor Drummond's charming book, "The Habitant," seldom a night passes, no matter how stormy, without 15 to 20 neighbors gathering together at one of the French farm houses, which are strung close together for 100 miles along the banks of the St. Lawrence where, by the wise orders of Louis Fourteenth, the farms were divided into narrow strips two acres wide and a mile and a half long. It is a pity that in surveying the Great Empire of the West that a similar plan had not been followed, for then there would have been a house every 400 feet on each side of the railroad on the division line, and a great comfort and convenience in time of sickness while a great joy in time of health.

WITH THE ESKIMO

Twenty Years of Mission Work Brought Good Results

"Mission Work Among the Eskimo" was the theme of an interesting illustrated lecture by Rev. C. E. Whittaker who took his audience on a pictorial tour of the Arctic region, starting at Athabasca Landing, proceeding north to St. Matthew's Anglican Church at Fort McPherson, the most northerly church of the British Empire, being 100 miles within the Arctic Circle. Views were shown depicting the habits and customs of the Eskimo and the progress of civilization among them. Referring to certain strictures that have been made and the aspersions cast on the work of missions in the Far North by some individuals, the lecturer was able to prove these were not only uncharitable, but unfounded. Twenty years of mission work among the Eskimo had been productive of great beneficial results. When the Church sent the first missionaries to the Eskimo those people had every mark and every habit of barbarism. Those conditions had been changed. Instead of living in snow houses, as formerly, most of them now lived in huts built on hygienic principles. The missionaries did not attempt to change any habits of the Eskimos that were not hurtful to their character. Any evil habits they had contracted were due to the influence of certain commercial adventurers, whose regard for the ten commandments was not very strong. That class of people were enemies to religion and morality wherever they went. To prevent any of the "adventurer class from contaminating the 'Blonde Eskimos'" the Church proposed to establish a mission among them at the earliest possible moment.

Strength of Hickory

Hickory is the strongest Canadian wood. When properly seasoned a hickory column will support a weight of twelve tons per square inch cross-section, which is considerably more than what could be borne by a pillar of cast iron or steel of the same length and weight.

Life of Wire

A telegraph wire in the open country lasts four times as long as one in a city.

GOLF LOOKS EASY UNTIL YOU TRY IT

Fascination of the Game and Its Effect on the Player

What is the secret of its fascination? Probably at bottom that it looks so easy and is so hard. Nothing can well seem simpler than hitting a stationary ball with a club. But in actual fact the human body proves to be curiously ill-adapted for any such task. The problem of dispatching that insolent ball in the desired direction becomes suddenly terrifying. Weak little men with hardly an effort send it flying a sixth of a mile. Huge burly fellows, with a blow that would shake St. Paul's, hit it 30 yards. It is the most baffling, tantalizing, vexatious of games.

But if the sorrows of golf are great, so also are its rewards. There is a feel and a glow about a clean-hit drive, or an approach that dribbles up to the hole, that very few strokes at polo, cricket, lawn tennis, or billiards are able to evoke. In the course of a two hours' round a player has every variety of chance to cover himself with glory or disgrace. It depends altogether on his own skill and nerve and self-control. One suffers for one's own shortcomings; one profits by one's own prowess—with just enough luck and chance thrown in to remind one of the mutability of life. And to many people this sense of standing on one's own merits or defects, and of being solely responsible for victory or defeat, is part of the attraction of golf. It comforts the diffident, it inspires the self-reliant; and the essential companionableness of the game saves it from egotism. Judgment and concentration and the courage never to submit or yield, and evenness of temper; these are all tested and disciplined by golf; while as a physical exercise it has the supreme virtue of being equally good for the young middle-aged, and the old of both sexes. A veteran of fifty-five with a touch of lumbago defeats a champion of twenty-seven; a boy of twenty disposes of famous and seasoned masters of the game who have been playing it longer than he has been alive. People may point at the golfer as a but too typical product of our soft and leisurely age; but golf itself, so long as it remains a game and does not grow into a disease, needs no excuse.

USES CATS AS HOUNDS

Big Felines Trail, Point and Retrieve Like Hunting Dogs

T. G. Nimmo, of Missouri, probably has the strangest "pack of hounds" in the world. It consists of two huge domestic cats, which he has been training for more than three years, until they trail, point, and retrieve small games as well as any dogs ever seen in his district. The cats are named Tom and Jerry, and are used principally in hunting rabbits, tree squirrels and quail, though they have tracked and helped kill opossums and raccoons, both of which are plentiful in that part of the South.

According to their owner, who began training the cats when they were kittens, on sight of a rabbit, squirrel or quail they assume rigid positions, like that of a pointer, except that they move their tails slightly, and wait for him to come up and shoot the game they have found. They have never, since he finished their training, rushed forward to kill the game themselves, or to attempt to stalk it. When the shot is fired they retrieve the fallen animal or bird, and if it is not quite dead give it a quietus by biting it in the neck.

The especial value of these cats, Mr. Nimmo says, is in their ability to trail, capture, and kill wounded squirrels which flee to the tree tops after being shot.

Canada Occupies Eighth Place as Crude Petroleum Producer

The world's production of crude petroleum per year according to the last available figures is 52,921,750 tons, with Canada in eighth place as a producing country. The sources respective quantities and percentages were as follows:

Country.	Tons	Percentage of total production
United States	32,897,950	62.16
Russia	10,173,560	19.23
Mexico	2,910,000	5.50
Roumania	1,987,360	3.76
Dutch East Indies	1,672,000	3.1[illegible]
Galicia	1,298,620	2.45
India	1,101,450	2.08
Canada	38,750	0.07
Other countries	841,250	1.5[illegible]

If the whole of this crude petroleum were employed as fuel in steam raising it would not replace, allowing for its higher thermal efficiency, much more than 5½ per cent. of the world's output of coal, whilst if used in internal combustion engines it would be equivalent, as a source of power, to about 16 per cent. of the coal.

Only a small proportion, however of the crude petroleum can be regarded as available for use as a source of power, for by far the larger part is in demand as an illuminating agent and as a lubricant for machinery.

As the United States produces over 62 per cent. of the world's production of petroleum, it is interesting to note that Dr. Day, of the United States Geological survey, considers that, at the present rate of increase of the output of petroleum, the known oil fields of the United States will, on the basis of the minimum quantity of oil obtainable, be exhausted by the year 1935, while, even if only the present output were maintained, the supply would, on the same basis, not last more than [illegible] years.

By LEONA DALRYMPLE

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

No. 121.

My Useful Gift.

LEONA DALRYMPLE

"PETER," said Mary at last, "you've sat and gazed at that letter long enough, what's in it?"

"Nothing much," I said with an effort.

"You look upset," said Mary.

"It's just — it's just that I'm a bit upset," I said, "at dad and mother's goodness. They've given us the $250 I owe them, for a Christmas present."

"Well, do you know, Peter," said Mary, in a glow, "I hoped they'd do that, but I didn't dare say anything."

Mary's One Hope.

It was so horribly sordid in this moment of my thankfulness that I couldn't answer. A mercenary streak in a woman always offends me horribly. Yet I do firmly believe that women, as a class, are much more mercenary than men. They will sacrifice bigger things for money than men will. I never can get accustomed to the horrible fact that the world is full of women who sell their souls for clothes—that many a sweet, pretty girl, who shrinks from the woman on the street, sells her body to the wife-hunting millionaire.

"Why should they give us the money?" I managed to say it at last. "What made you think of it?"

"Oh, I don't know," said Mary airily. "I just did, that's all. Hurry up with your coffee, Peter. I'm dying to know what you've got for me."

I gulped down the rest of my coffee and presently produced my Christmas gift. Now, Mary had wanted most of all a year's art instruction with Casetti, an Italian artist down town, but, tempted as I was to give her what she had talked of most, my prudence had in the end rescued me. I couldn't afford it and, therefore, I didn't.

Mary Is Disappointed.

I had bought her instead a warm red woollen dressing gown—a thing which she had needed badly and spoken of before Christmas loomed in sight, bringing with it a horde of more frivolous suggestions.

Mary's face fell.

"It—it's very pretty," she said. But I could see she made a great effort to receive it gracefully.

"Don't you like it?" I asked.

"Of course I like it," exclaimed Mary, with tearful brightness. "It's perfectly lovely, Peter, just too lovely for anything—but—"

When a woman begins to punctuate her conversation with insincere italics, I always have a fretful sense of hypocrisy. So often I hear women say: "Mrs. L. is a perfectly lovely woman—just a dear, you know—but—" And the "but" is the fuse to the whole mine of insincerity behind it.

"But—?" I hinted.

What I Drew.

"But," said Mary, "I did expect a year's course with Casetti. You remember I spoke of it? It—it's all right, Peter, truly—I'm sorry if I seemed disappointed; and I do need the dressing gown."

"I'm sorry, too," I said bluntly; "but Mary, I honestly could not afford that year's instruction with Casetti. It would count up more in a year than you realize. What do I draw forth from the Christmas grab-bag?"

I drew slippers and socks—I knew I would. I drew a tie that resembled a cubist sunset. Not that it was so brilliant, but it was delicately suggestive of spats and afternoon tea. And, then, Mary shot her final bolt.

"Peter," she said, stroking my hair, "since your father and mother have given you the two hundred and fifty, I can take the art course anyway! What do you think of that?"

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

Am 19 years old and this winter had a sweetheart who came about four or five nights of each week to see me. He kept this up for about two months, then he got so he didn't come but about three times a week. He was very jealous.

So one Sunday while he was out of town I went down to a cafe with another boy friend of mine. A few remarks were made about him being so jealous and afraid for me to walk down the street with another boy. Now it so happened that an old girl of his who had just returned to the city heard these remarks and went and told him every word.

When he came back he didn't come to see me any more, but, instead, went to call upon this girl. Everyone said that he would keep company with her when she came back, for they had gone together for so long. He told me that he never wrote to her this winter (which he did) in order to keep me from being jealous.

I have left that town now and I don't know whether to write to him or not. I think a great deal of him and I know he did of me at one time. I thought that maybe if I did write to him he might show it to this girl. What would you do if you were me?

ANXIOUS.

WELL, that's what happens when you talk too much and too loud at the same time.

To begin with, you were very foolish to let any man take five evenings of your week—unless you were really engaged to him. No wonder he began to arrive a little less often.

Sugar is very sweet, you know, and so is candy. But just think of living on them for three meals a day. Nothing precious ever comes so easily—and nothing that is so easy to get ever stays precious—very long.

Honest and truly now, didn't you say what you did say just on purpose for this other girl to hear? Didn't you want her to be a little jealous herself? And wasn't that why you talked so loud—and so much? So he was writing to her all the time—while he was making such desperate love to you.

Well, now, the best thing both of you two girls can do is to get rid of that young man just as fast as you can. He's made a fool of both of you—and undoubtedly there's a third dear little goose believing every word he says to her right now. Don't be so easily fooled by sweet words next time. These easy love-makers have always had a great deal of experience. That's how it comes so easy

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care of this office.

THE LATEST SWIMMING SUIT

Very Close Fitting So You Can Swim When You Bathe

WHEN you want a swimming suit, don't ask the saleswoman for a bathing suit. The latter is only first cousin to the former.

Annette Kellermann says every woman ought to swim. She also says that women can't swim if they are all "dolled up" in corsets and fluffy, ruffly suits, which incorporate all the styles features of an afternoon toilet.

One of the new suits is shown here. It is of silk and wool mixture knitted like a fine sweater. The color is the new shade of green. There are knickers and a garment which is half sweater and half jersey, which fits the figure closely, extends down on the hips and is held at the waist by a white wash leather or rubber belt.

It is really a very smart and becoming affair. Lest it appear somewhat shocking to conservative women, there is a skirt either of the same knitted fabric, which is like the jersey-topped petticoats, or of waterproof satin in the same color. This fastens with snaps and may be shed as the swimmer leaves the beach for the water and donned again as she comes out of the ocean.

The little cap is of rubberized satin trimmed with rubber fruit. The parasol matches the suit in color and has a long white handle.

The newest bathing wrap is a fascinating pointed cape of thinnest, most supple gray rubber cut long in front and back, reaching below the skirt of the suit and being shorter at the sides, so it just reaches the bend of the elbow.

It is trimmed all about the neck, down the front and over the sides with a garland of tiny rubber roses and leaves.

The majority of the bathing suits are in sombre colors, black or blue. There may be a bright splash of color in the trimming or the cap, but the fashionable bathing suits are not in rainbow shades.

Stockings and sandals give the opportunity for contrast, but I am told the best dressed women wear the same color as the suit, or black stockings with white sandals.

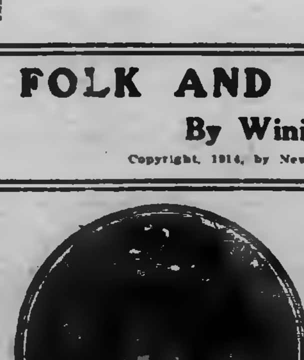
CITY FOLK AND COUNTRY COUSINS

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.



Winifred Black

PROF. THOMAS D. WOOD of Columbia University has been investigating the children—he and his committee. They've studied the children from Idaho, from Massachusetts, from Pennsylvania, from New Jersey and from Virginia.

They've been peering into throats and tapping chests, and measuring arms and weighing bodies, and fussing over the eyesight and fuming over the teeth. They've made histories of diseases and taken notes—and looked into records—and what Prof. Thomas D. Wood of Columbia University and his committee do not know about the American child, physically speaking, doesn't seem to be worth knowing.

And the thing that stands out at the very head and front of the report of that committee is—that the country child is below normal and defective, and in need of medical attention—in amazing percentage.

The city child is better nourished, better watched, better taken care of and better protected than the country child, says the report of the committee—and everybody is saying, "Well, did you ever?" and "Who'd ever think it?" at a great rate.

It does seem a little surprising—before you get to thinking of it—but it really isn't, after all. The rude health that is supposed to flourish in the country districts is just one of those things that ought to be true—and isn't.

Do you remember the first summer you spent in the country—not in the mountains or at the seashore—but in the real country? You couldn't find a soul to go for a walk with you—the woods were "too far," and the hills were "too hard to climb," and the meadows were "way off yonder."

And when you went to spend the afternoon with the daughters of a neighboring farmer you walked to their door through an orchard thick with perfume, and green with growing beauty—and found them sitting in a stuffy room making crocheted lace that never looked like anything except appropriate trimming for a wash-rag.

Health Shut Outside.

And they never even invited you into the orchard, though you hinted and hinted—and there wasn't a flower in the house, or a branch of green, and all the doors were shut and every window was down. Mother was in the kitchen frying doughnuts, and Sister was in the dining room sewing carpet rags, and Auntie was there painting china—perfect ladies, every one of them. They were absolutely struck dumb with horror at the very idea of traipsing out in the sun and getting all sunburned.

It's quite sane and sensible for her to shut herself in a stuffy house until she has the headache. It's eminently proper for her to stew over a hot stove, and make so much jelly that nobody knows where on earth to put it. It's quite the thing for her to tear rags into strips, and sew them together again, just to be doing—but to walk for pleasure, or to ride for fun, or to drive for the air—why, the very idea!

That's the sort of place that the country child comes from. The child who sleeps in a room with the windows tight shut and locked, from one year's end to the other. The child who eats fat pork, saleratus biscuit and sorghum molasses three times a day. The child who has a cough and is kind of peaked for months before any one thinks of sending for a doctor and finding out whether it is tuberculosis that makes him cough or not.

Go into any country school and you'll find half a dozen children who are called by the teacher "sort o' queer."

I asked a country school teacher about two of her boys just last summer.

"Oh," she said, "Dan's an odd stick—always was, and always will be. I never bother him much about lessons. And Mary—why, Mary's two sisters were in my room last year, and they were both queer, the same as she is."

And nobody with half an eye could look at poor Dan without seeing that he could hardly breathe on account of adenoids—and that little Mary was slightly deaf, and a bit near-sighted—and there was nothing else in the world the matter with the poor child. If either of these children had been in a city school they would have been examined and treated—and cured, as a matter of course.

How can country children be healthy, when they are born of country mothers and fathers?

Did you ever see a woman past thirty in the country who didn't look every day of her age, and ten years more at that? Did you ever know an average farmer of forty who didn't look sixty and act it? Why, they begin to talk about getting along in years when they turn the corner at thirty—in the country.

What's to Be Done?

And, then, the moral surroundings. I don't see why a boy is any better off hobnobbing with some wandering tramp of a hired man in the barn Sunday afternoon than he would be joining some boys' club in a neighborhood house in town.

The city does take the character and the individuality out of a child—there's no question in the world of that. Every big man and every big woman in America was born or brought up in the country—but big men and big women are the exception. What are we going to do about the rule?

Of course, when you take care of people all the time, they may not be quite so able to take care of themselves sometime, but, on the whole, is there anything so very astonishing about the report which Prof. Wood and his assistants have made? I wish I could be surprised at it—but somehow I'm afraid I'm not.

I was born and brought up in the country myself, and I've seen every member of a family down with typhoid fever, and not a soul in the village trying to find out whether the water that those people drank was contaminated or not.

I've seen a whole school full of children drinking water which came from a well at the edge of an old-fashioned country graveyard, and there was great talk of the dispensations of Providence whenever one of the children who drank that poisoned water sickened and died.

City people are accustomed to meddlers. We're used to the gas man and the garbage man, the water man and the electric light man, the board of health and the board of education—and we're thankful to the person who calls us up over the 'phone and tells us that there's a defective sewer in our premises, and that we must attend to it at once—or pay the penalty.

You call up a farmer and tell him that the water from his well is dangerous because it drains from a manure pile, and he'll tell you to mind your business. And you'll have to mind it—or get into trouble.

You've pointed out an interesting state of things, Dr. Wood. Now, then, what are we going to do about it?

Do tell us in good, plain English—so that we can all understand.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

How Neglect of First Teeth Causes Ills in Later Life

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

JOHNNY returned to school with this note from his mother:

"Dere Teacher: You keep tellin' my boy to brethe with his palate. Maybe rich children has got palates, but how about when there father only makes $2 a day and has got six children to keep? First its one thing, then its another, and now its palates. That's the worst yet."

It is much the same with Johnny's first teeth. First it's one thing and then it's another, and many mothers, despite the free dental clinics, still lay their neglect of a child's milk teeth to their own poverty.

Like Topsy, most children are allowed to "just grow up" without regard to the condition of their teeth. Although they are commanded to "wash their faces," "don't dare to sit at the table with dirty hands" and "it's about time you practised your music lesson," never a word is said about "clean your teeth" or "stop in at the dentist."

Neglect of a child's first teeth is responsible for more ills of adult life than is usually realized. The fact that the first teeth act as arches to resist the inward pressure of the lips and to maintain cosmetic symmetry should make their importance mean assiduous attention from earliest infancy onwards.

Guides to Second Teeth.

If the first teeth are correctly safeguarded, the permanent and second teeth slip snugly into the grooves of the first. They are thus retained in proper place, interlocked by their cusps. Cusps are the projections of the crown of a tooth.

Spaces should not be allowed between the first teeth. If so, where the points of contact are lost pressure of the lips crowd the teeth. This causes deformity of the second set.

The first teeth should, if possible, never be drawn out. When this occurs the second teeth have to force their way through the toughened, scar tissue of the gums.

If the first teeth decay, especially the pulp, germs enter and infect them, abscesses form, and serious mischief ensues in the gums. When this misdemeanor occurs, the roots of the first teeth fail to be absorbed, and become obstructions to the second ones. It causes the latter to become crooked.

The economic fallacy that "it's no use to spend money to fill the first, because they have to come out soon anyway," is one of those corrupting influences which saps the very vitals of civilization.

Cavities in the first teeth not only work ultimate damage to the permanent teeth, but they mar beauty, cause pain, and, worst of all, become the nesting place for some stray bacillus of tuberculosis, joint fever, diphtheria or a worse malady.

Ills from Neglect.

The wise modern mother must sacrifice her own duties, her own pleasure, and even a child's schooling, if need be, to have his teeth properly filled and looked after.

If general knowledge kept pace with the facts; if mothers, grandmothers and neighbors thoroughly understood that the weak chins, protuding lips, ugly faces, coated tongues, chronic constipation and other life-long complaints were caused by their failure to take advantage of many useful procedures there might be a different story to tell in the statistics of aches and pains of adult life.

Answers to Health Questions

E. C.—My dentist, who is a professor and recognized all over the world, says that the deposits around two of my receding gums are "uric acid" from the stomach and the blood, to which he says I am subject. 2—Why, if this is true, does the uric acid attack only two teeth and not the others? 3—What effect has milk of magnesia on this?

Your professor of dentistry is enthralled, as are most dentists, in the ancient delusion of "uric acid" nonsense. Those deposits are not "uric acid," despite what the professor says. 2—Slight defects in teeth, gums and tissues generally cause food, bacteria and debris to collect in the sore spots, and a mixture of salts, acids and coagulated albumen gather there. 3—Milk of magnesia is a mechanical and a chemical cleaner.

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

The bean has a delightful history, and there is just enough doubt about its origin to keep one interested. It has been known for centuries, and has had all manner of evil attributed to it. There was a time when beans were supposed to cloud the vision of the one who ate them, and to cast a spell upon him.

Cucumbers belong to the same family as the gourd and the melons. They are supposed to have been grown in India ages ago.

Tomatoes come from Peru and Mexico, and have an interesting history. There was a time when they were not considered fit food for human beings. Certain superstitions have been woven into their history. Later, when they were introduced into North America, they were known as "love apples."

Apples were eaten by the ancient Romans because of their health-giving properties. They are natives of Asia, and grew wild, the original apple being very much like the crabapple which is now used for jelly.

There has always been more or less botanical controversy about the ancestry of the peach. It is now generally agreed that it came from China. Some botanists contend that it is of the same family as the almond. Others give the credit of its first cultivation to Persia, where it is called "Persian apple."

Strange as it may seem, the pear and the rose have a family connection which is peculiar. They seem once to have had similar beginnings.

Three Minute Journeys

WHERE FARMERS WORK TO MUSIC

By Temple Manning

IN Central Soudan, which lies in the heart of Central Africa, I found unexpected hospitality among the Gwari. These strange black men have a high degree of civilization, particularly in farming pursuits. They have a number of towns in which one may see peculiar customs still current, but it is on the farms just outside of these towns that I found the greatest interest.

All work that is of any importance is carried on to the accompaniment of music. The headmen go out to the fields with the workers and stand around, dressed in monkey or goat skins, playing the fife or a drum. Sometimes, on state occasions, there will be an entire native band made up of fifes, drums, pipes and native violins.

Whenever there is any work being carried on, the big men of the village are to be found in the fields, smoking their pipes, each having brought his quota of workers. It is very curious to watch them as they stroll around. Here they will stop and solemnly salute the workers for their energy, and across the field they will again come to a halt and rebuke some other worker for his slackness.

The old men are sure to be found under the trees smoking their pipes while other headmen of equal rank, but of less age, are beating their drums to cheer their less lucky compatriots on to greater labors. But let a wart-hog be espied in the nearby woods and every one will desert the work and give chase.

Off through the woods they will go, the drum men giving an occasional rally to urge them on, until the dog has brought the hog to bay. Then the men stand and watch the combat between the dog and hog, shrilling loudly and making endurance bets. But, when the hog has been dispatched, they all hurry back to their work and the headmen beat their drums the harder to make up for lost time.

Reaping to the Drum.

The NUMBER NINE and Its ODDITIES

HERE is a chance for the little ones to do some figuring after the lessons have been put away for the summer and when the rain comes: There are some rather curious facts and fancies connected with numbers. The number 9 is, perhaps, the first as regards such experiments, although number 7 is more prominent in literature and history. When you once use it you can't get rid of it. It will turn up again, no matter what you do to put it "down and out."

All through the multiplication table the product of 9 comes 9. No matter what you multiply with or how many times you repeat or change the figures, the result is always the same.

For instance, twice 9—18; add 8 and 1 and you have 9. Three times 9—27; 2 and 7 make 9 again. Go on until you try 11 times 9—99. This seems to bring an exception. But add the digits—9 and 9 make 18; and, again, 1 and 8 make 9. Go on to an interminable extent, and the thing continues.

Take any number at random. For example, 450 times 9 equals 4050, and the digits, added, make 9 once more. Take [illegible] times 9, equals [illegible], and again you have 5 and 4.

Take any row of figures, reverse their order, and subtract the less from the greater—the total will certainly be always 9 or a multiple of 9. For example, take 5671—1765 plus 3906. Add these digits and you have 18—and 1 and 8 make the familiar 9.

You have the same result, no matter how you raise the numbers by squares and cubes.

One more way is shown by which number 9 shows its strange powers. Write down any number you please, add its digits, and then subtract the sum of said digits from the original number. No matter what numbers you start with, the sum of the digits in the answer will be 9.

Try these experiments and you will be delighted with the exact manner in which they prove the statement. Some quaint puzzles have been made based on these fixed principles.

NO EVIDENCE TO SHOW DISLOYALTY

London, Oct. 5.— The Cape Town correspondent of The Morning Post says that, despite the activities of German spies and rumor-mongers, there is no evidence to suspect active disloyalty in South Africa. General De Wet, but an adventurer with an in-time, demonstrations against the Government although a number of General Hertzog's party are solid for Premier Botha. The correspondent adds that the Boer commander in German S. W. Africa, who has been raiding the Union Police Posts, is not, as reported here on Saturday, a nephew of Gen De Wet, but an adventurer with an inglorious record from the Boer War.

HARDTO PROV E DEATH OF SOLDIER

Toronto, Oct. 5.—Discussing the offer of the Metropolitan Life Assurance Company to insure the Toronto troops who have gone to the front, it was pointed out by a prominent city official to-day that one of the chief difficulties which may arise would be that of obtaining proof of the death of all of the troops who may be reported "missing." The official number of those reported dead by the military authorities forms only a small part of the casualty list, as a result of which the beneficiaries of the policies might have serious difficulty in "proving the death" of the insured.

Should the City Council decide to accept the company's offer, at a cost of $165,000, to insure those now at the front, the company will accept City of Toronto debentures as payment for the premiums.

Germany's Mistake

With the incipiency of the war Germany made the vital mistake of adopting methods of warfare denounced as uncivilized by the Powers in Convention at the Hague. Especially is this the case in regard to mine laying to the danger of neutral shipping. Great Britain detests such work as cowardly and unmanly in the extreme, preferring open combat. But Germany, having persistently adhered to the policy of mine-laying, Great Britain realizes that it is incumbent upon her to retaliate with like weapons in protection of the Empire in general, to say nothing of neutral nations. Hence she has now taken up the mine-laying challenge thrown down by the cowardly Teutonic fleet lying low within the shelter of the Kiel Canal and forts, with the result that Britain is now mining the German fleet in their own sheltered den, whether they are ready or willing to sally forth and give battle or not. And it is not at all unlikely that from now until the end of the war the second most powerful fleet in the world (German) will be helpless, and unable to return a minimum of dividend on the huge capital invested therein.

We have only to consider for one moment Britain's continuous transportation of troops from England to the continent, within a few hours' sale from Germany's fleet and naval base, together with the remarkable transportation of Colonial troops from the four-quarters of the world, in absolute security from molestation, to realize an intelligent comparison between the effectiveness of the two biggest navies in the world—British and German.

Britain's victory on the sea is all-important. All who have followed history realize that the present war began when Germany challenged the power of Great Britain on the seas, for it is a matter of life and death for Great Britain to be supreme beyond fear of defeat on the ocean.

All patriotic Britons will rejoice to hear that the advantage Germany has so far possessed by reason of her policy of laying contact mines will be an advantage no longer, and that the danger from submarine attack, which has been threatening the British fleet since the war began, will now be reduced to a minimum.

Improvement in Foreign Exchange

Further progress can be recorded in the adjustment of industrial and financial affairs of the United States to war conditions. The most important improvement has been in the foreign exchange situation, facilitated by operation of the new $100,000,000 gold pool which made its first shipment of $10,000,000 to Canada during the latter half of last week. Sterling exchange was thus put upon a more practical basis; and foreign intercourse, commercially and financially, will be materially helped thereby. Another encouraging development was the naming of directors for the Federal reserve banks in the principal cities. The list for New York has already been completed, and it is hoped that the local institution will be ready for operation by December 1, in which case it will soon be possible for the entire system to be in working order. It is of great importance that the new reserve banks be open as soon as practicable, since they provide the most practical relief in the present situation. The opening of the Stock Exchange may have to be postponed until that date. Much will depend upon the outcome of the war. A decisive victory on the part of the Allies would hasten resumption both here and in London. From the latter point reports come that efforts are under way for co-operation with the Government towards an early re-opening of the London Stock Exchange. Should the latter event occur, it would of course materially hasten the opening of the New York Exchange.

"Itching for a Scrap"

Here is a cheery letter from a midshipman in one of the British battleships that are waiting for the German fleet to come out of hiding; it appeared in The London Morning Post:—

"A rumor got about that we had been sunk, some wooden gear that we had thrown overboard being found. We have not been sunk yet, nor, I am sorry to say, have we sunk any Germans. By the time this fetches up, however, I hope we shall have met them, captured most of them, and sunk the rest. We are all itching for a scrap, and this routine is getting rather monotonous. We go to night-defence stations for three-and-half hours every night and sleep in our clothes during our watch off and after daylight. We go into harbor to coal every four or five days. In the day time at sea we have nothing to do except to rig night-defence gear (searchlights are stowed below at daylight), do physical drill, running round the ship, etc., to keep ourselves fit, and occasionally going to action stations. Of course there have been various alarms, when we have had to rush to our stations. But they are generally caused by some ham-handed horse marine firing a gun by mistake, or by some swivel-eyed lookout seeing one of our own ships and thinking it the enemy, or mistaking a treacle-tin for the periscope of a submarine. Anyhow, none of them have come to anything; but they tend to relieve the monotony, although at the expense of sleep, which is a rare luxury, especially at night. We have to sleep in the signal house so as to be near our searchlights, and are waked up every two or three minutes by signalmen coming in and falling over our feet (I can imagine you saying it serves me right for having such big ones). It is the only place where they can switch on a light to read signals. But in spite of these little inconveniences I dare say we come off better than you. I am very sorry for everybody left at home; the war must affect them much more than it does us. I expect Hal is taking the war very seriously and thinks it 'balmy' that he can't go to the front or come to sea. I am not allowed to tell you anything, and so will write no more nonsense."

The City is disappointed in not being able to secure use of the Cordage Co's building in which to make cement pipe this winter in preparation for extensive operations on the new outfall sewer next spring. Ald. Duncan, chairman of the City's Board of Works, has always manifested keen interest in the workingmen's welfare, although some disgruntled men who cannot, and others who will not, engage in what work the Board of Works has to give out agitate to the contrary. Ald. Duncan's motion in Council Monday night that the Street Railway Co. be asked to proceed at once with their extensions programmed, in order to furnish labor when labor is so badly needed, was a commendable move in a considerate direction.

SOUTH AFRICA IS LOYAL TO BRITAIN

London, Oct. 6.—The Capetown correspondent of the Morning Post, says that despite the activities of German spies and rumor-mongers there is no evidence to suspect active disloyalty in South Africa. General De Wet and a number of the Hertzogites continue demonstrations against the Government, although the number of Hertzog's party are solid for Botha. The correspondent adds that the Boer commandoes in German S. W. Africa who have been raiding union police posts are not, as reported here Saturday, led by a nephew of Gen. De Wet, but by an adventurer with an inglorious record from the Boer War.

A YEAR'S SUFFERER CURED BY "NERVILINE."

No person reading this need ever again suffer long from Neuralgia.

Nerviline will quickly cure the worst Neuralgia, and Mrs. G. Evans, in her strong letter written from Russel post office, says:—"One long year, the longest of my life, was almost entirely given up to treating dreadful attacks of Neuralgia. The agony I experienced during some of the bad attacks was simply unmentionable. To use remedies by the score without permanent relief was mighty discouraging. At last I put my faith in Nerviline; I read of the wonderful pain-subduing power it possessed and made up my mind to prove it valuable or useless. Nerviline at once eased the pain and cured the headache. Continuous treatment with this magic-working remedy cured me entirely, and I have ever since stayed well."

Mrs. Evan's case is but one of hundreds that might be quoted. Nerviline is a specific for all nerve, muscular or joint pain. It quickly cures neuralgia, sciatica, lumbago, lame back, neuritis and Rheumatism. Forty years in use, and to-day the most widely used liniment in the Dominion. Don't take anything but "Nerviline," which any dealer anywhere can supply in large 50c. family size bottles, or in a small 25c. trial size.

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Company re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs—all young foxes—good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leaving $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:—"We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalize your concern at $90,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

Below are the particulars of sale of a consignment of Silver Fox Furs, shipped from Prince Edward Island ranches to London, England, and sold there in March, 1910:

SHARES

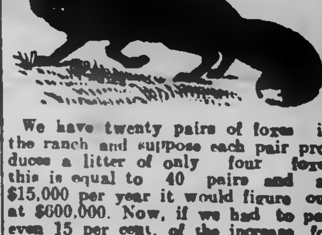
Shares are selling at $25.00 each; 25 per cent. with application and the balance on or before September 1st, 1914.

Simply fill out the application form and mail to Major C. McKinnon, Secretary-Treasurer, Glenaladale, P. E. I.

All cheques must be made payable to "The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Ltd."

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you.



We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business— and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

Best Liver and Bowel Cleaner and Stomach Regulator in the world—Work while you sleep.

Get a 10-cent box.

Put aside—just once—the Salts, Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters which merely force a passageway through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.

Keep your "insides" pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken, and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, Severe Colds, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated Bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.

An Appeal to the Intelligent Investor !

Does a logical presentation of a good investment interest you? Do you believe there is an oil in commercial quantities in Alberta? If you are alive to the situation you do. Then it will pay you to investigate our proposition and our holdings.

Please Read Carefully and Note!

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascer-tained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. Dunn chose wisely in the selection of the now famous Monarch well. WINDSOR OILFIELDS, LIMITED, has holdings located close to the Monarch.

THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). cf a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

MONARCHS AND THEIR WEEDS

King Edward VII., who was quite an exceptionally heavy smoker, favored cigars of surprising length and thickness. These cigars were made specially for him in Havana by the same manufacturer that the Kaiser patronizes. The cigar in which the Kaiser indulges, however, is much smaller than that which was smoked by his uncle, and much more moderate in price. The King of Spain is a slave to the insidious cigarette. He rarely smokes anything else, and his chief objection to Court functions is that he cannot attend them with a cigarette between his lips. The Tsar, too, is very fond of cigarettes, those which he smokes being made of a choice Turkish tobacco grown and selected exclusively for his own consumption. The Emperor of Austria is distinctly plebian in his taste for tobacco, the only thing he ever smokes being that long thin black cigar, which is to the working classes in Austria what the "fag" is in Britain.

The editor of a daily paper appearing at Gary, Indiana, after attempting to satisfy the demands of his polyglot readers by publishing news in Italian, Czech, Croatian, Polish, Hungarian, and English, was challenged to a three-cornered duel by two subscribers because he failed to print columns in Russian and Serb. Even in happy Indiana editors can't please everybody.

WOOD AND INDUSTRY

Twelve Thousand Ontario Manufacturers Require Wood

Leaving out of consideration the numerous industries engaged in the production of shingles, lath, ties bridge-timber and rough lumber, there still remain at least thirty-eight different industries in Ontario more or less dependent on wood for their operations, and it is significant that even the makers of wood substitutes require wood in the process of manufacturing such. The exhaustion of Ontario's wood supplies, the depletion of which is already evident from the fact that over one-quarter of the total expenditure of $19,161,384 is paid for imported wood stock, would seriously cripple every Ontario industry.

Thirty-four different kinds of wood were used by these industries in the manufacture of everything in wooden produce from toys to threshing machines. Only eight of these woods had to be entirely obtained from outside sources, but, on the other hand, only six were entirely home grown. However, almost 90 per cent. of the three principal species, namely, pine, spruce and maple, which represented over one-half the total quantity used, were purchased in Ontario.

The sash and door industry easily takes first place among the wood-using industries, using 31.8 per cent. of the 807,456,000 feet, board measure, of rough lumber annually worked up by the one thousand two hundred Ontario manufacturers reporting to the Forestry Branch. The importance of this one industry will better be understood by comparison with the pulp industry, which although using 119,496,000 feet, board measure, of raw material, nevertheless was responsible for only 14.8 per cent. of the total consumption.

THE QUESTION OF SLANG

Always Changing, as Youth Must Have its Own Variety

However much slang we may use ourselves, we all dislike and despise slang that is not our own. Old men who have tender memories of the slang of their own youth, see nothing but pertness and vulgarity in the slang of their grandsons, and for all of us there comes a time when we no longer feel contemporary with the slang of the present, when we have no part in making or using it, and have to ask what it means when we first hear it used. Then the new slang words seem to us presumptuous upstarts expressive of the general brainless presumption of youth, and indeed they are expressive of that free masonry of youth which we no longer share. Slang, in its first meaning, seems to have been the language of thieves, and it still keeps something of this first meaning in that it is the language of youth keeping its own secrets from middle age, and a token by which the young recognize all who are of their fellowship. That is the reason why it is always changing, for youth must always make its own slang afresh. The slang of five years ago is middle-aged and has associations that are already hostile. No self-respecting youth can use the slang of his uncle; indeed, he pities his uncle for finding any savor or fun in words so old fashioned. Elderly men have always protested against the vulgarity of new slang and professed to fear that the English language would be utterly corrupted by it. But the language outlives the slang, for the slang passes with the youth that made it, or only stays when it expresses a newly-discovered thing rather than a mood that is always coming and always going.

BOILS CONTAGIOUS

It is Possible Now to Avoid Them by Inoculation

Boils receive their name because it used to be believed that they were due to the blood becoming too hot and boiling over in different parts of the body.

"You must never cure a boil by outside applications," is a fallacy that lots of good people believe, because, they say, it will "drive the poison in" and [illegible] to some more serious trouble. [illegible] idea has been [illegible] the entirely correct observation that scarlet fever, measles and other diseases are often more severe when they are accompanied by only a slight eruption. Indeed, scarlatina is liable to be fatal when the rash is very faint or only present for an hour or so.

This, however, positively does not apply to boils. They may often be cured from the outside, and there is no danger of your "driving them in," although a legion of careful grandmothers believe so.

Although it has long been known that boils are caused by little microbes called "stphylococci" and "steptococci," which resemble bunches of grapes and strings of beads, it had never until recently been really certain that boils are contagious. The observation of an army surgeon, who traced an epidemic of boils directly to one man whose collars had [illegible] with boils, seems to prove that this is the case.

The boils, which began on his neck, infected the shirt bands and collars which he wore. [illegible] were thrown into the [illegible] with the linen of other men [illegible] per cent. of the men [illegible]

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of those internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830 or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

TRAINING ARMY HORSES

Severe Schooling Required Before They Are Ready For War

For Army purposes, in addition to learning certain things, a horse must also be accustomed gradually to carry heavy weights and to sustain considerable fatigue. When young horses are suddenly plunged into the work of actual warfare, without previous careful training, they are sure to die in great numbers. This was the case in South Africa.

The young Army horse will probably begin his training in the riding school, two of his first lessons being obedience to the reins and proper balance. He is put on to long reins and sent round in a circle from right to left, with his trainer in the middle. Afterwards he is made to go in the opposite direction, from left to right. With regard to balance, it is necessary to teach him to hold his head up, and to keep his limbs well under control instead of sprawling carelessly about in the way natural to young animals.

Another lesson the young horse has to learn is that of pulling himself up briskly in answer to a light signal from the reins. The instructor walks behind his pupil with a rein in each hand, and at a light pressure on his mouth the horse learns to come to a halt. Jumping is the next step in his education, and he is taught this still on the long reins, sometimes with the help of an old charger, who will give him a lead over the obstacles. By this time the youngster should be obedient to the long reins, and so the time comes for him to be mounted for the first time by his instructor. A man is placed at either side of his head, and the instructor, standing at the horse's left side, jumps up so that he is lying, face downwards, across the saddle. This is probably done several times before the man actually mounts, so as to accustom the animal to the unwonted weight on his back. Then at last the trainer actually mounts, being particularly careful not to touch the young animal with his toe, as this would scare him and make him nervous. Amongst the many lessons yet remaining to be learned by the young horse is that of lying down with a man on his back. The rider throws his left stirrup across the withers. He gathers the reins and a handful of mane into his left hand drawing his horse's head to the right. Meanwhile, the man puts his weight on the horse's left side, grasping the back of the saddle with his right hand. As the horse sinks down the rider opens his legs and steps from his mount as the animal reaches the ground.

In actual battle it may be of the utmost importance that a horse shall remain where he is left, with the reins thrown over his head. To the end of the reins a sack is tied, and the horse is then left. If he moves forward, he treads on the sack, with the result that he gets a good hard jab in the mouth, which he does not forget, and in future, when left with the reins in that position, he is content to stand still until his rider's return.

MIDGETS AND DWARFS

They Simply Are Slow in Developing and Remain Childlike

Professor Hastings Gilford delivered an interesting lecture on "Infantilism" at the Royal College of Surgeons in London recently. He pointed out that many so-called dwarfs or midgets are not in reality the result of a stoppage of growth, but rather of a protracted delay of development, so that they remain infants all their lives. And when they grow old, as they often do, their infantile characteristics still persist, in spite of their wizened appearance.

So extraordinary is their slowness in passing through the childish stage that in one case Professor Gilford found it took twenty years for one of these little people to grow as much as an ordinary child grows in five years. Growth goes on until well over thirty, and at the end of that time the little "man" may be no bigger than a child of six. One case was mentioned in which one of these "infantilates" passed as a child until nearly thirty years, having no difficulty in travelling on the railway with a half-ticket. Another, a boy of fourteen, could pass as a baby in arms, and took the leading role in one of the London theatres, acting alternately as a baby and as a diminutive "man about town," with great intelligence and ability.

"It is this kind of complaint, for such is its nature, that accounts for the midgets," continued the professor. "They seem to be intelligent and captivating little people, their intelligence being of the childish pattern, such as might be expected of young children who gather years of experience. They never seem to be spoiled, nor even to be embarrassed by the attentions they receive from the public, but show quaint childish traits and a charming naiveté, which makes them great favorites with those who have dealings with them."

FORESTS AND NAVIGATION

Equality of Water Flow Dependent on Forest Cover

It has been urged that in the interests of navigation the Dominion Government should purchase such denuded forest land in the Eastern Provinces as might be necessary to reforest in order to prevent floods and the filling up of streams with sediment. In this connection the report on the Trent Watershed Survey, published by the Commission of Conservation, is of considerable interest. In this region of Ontario, as a result of fires, 150,000 acres are practically a desert and the report urges a policy of forest conservation under Dominion, provincial or municipal control, in order to preserve the usefulness of the Trent Valley canal, in which over $10,000,000 is invested. There are many such barren areas in the eastern provinces, which with the assistance of the Dominion Government might be made to produce valuable forest crops.

In Canada disastrous floods and low-water stages have been largely prevented by the timely action of the Dominion Government in setting aside as forest reserves the wooded slopes where the great rivers of the interior of the Dominion have their origin. On the east slope of the Rocky Mountains over 20,896 square miles of non-agricultural land have been thus reserved, for the double purpose of regulating the run-off and of providing a perpetual supply of timber to meet the ever-increasing needs of the prairie settlers. In the Railway Belt in British Columbia smaller reserves have also been set aside, chiefly for the purpose of maintaining a steady flow in the streams on which the fruit-growing industry is absolutely dependent.

New Head of Forest Laboratories

Mr. John S. Bates recently appointed Superintendent of the Dominion Forest Products Laboratories in connection with McGill University, was born at Woodstock, Ont., and is a graduate of Acadia University in arts and science. After leaving Acadia he went to Columbia University, New York, and graduated in chemical engineering, specializing in pulp and paper. He made a study of the utilization of Southern pine waste while at Columbia, and after the conclusion of a brilliant course there had practical experience with several big paper and chemical companies.

Yacht Fortunes

Few men have spent so much money on racing yachts as Sir Thomas Lipton, and few have won so many races as he has. The cost of racing yacht construction varies considerably, depending a great deal upon the kind of material used in the hull.

Racers are built up nowadays of wood, composite, bronze, aluminium, and steel. A racing yacht of composite construction—steel frames planked with wood and sheathed with copper—will, if of 20 tons measurement, cost, roughly, $10,000; of 40 tons, $17,500; of 90 tons, $25,000.

The suits of canvas required for racing yachts generally need renewing every season, and the cost often runs into big figures. The cost of a racing season, inclusive of fitting out, etc., would be, for a 20-ton boat, $3,000; 40-ton boat, $6,000; 90-ton boat, $10,000.

The Canadian Match

Canada is a fine country, some day it will be a great country. Undoubtedly it will always remain a large country! And like most large countries its drawbacks are on a large scale. Take for instance the Canadian match. It is without exception the largest and most ornate match the world can produce. Wood being cheap and plentiful in Canada, each match is made on the reduced scale of a substantial fence post; the business end of it is adorned with a large and highly colored blob of some sulphurous compound chiefly noted for its inflammable qualities—anywhere but in juxtaposition with the strip of sandpaper pasted on the box, presumably for the purpose of igniting the said match. As a rule the match flatly declines to be lit on its proper place, but after you have scratched it on the box, on the stove, on the floor, on the door lintel, and on the sole of your shoe without any apparent effect, it will suddenly, and without any warning whatever, break in half and burst into flame. Whereupon the lighted end flies off into some inaccessible corner and continues to burn while you frantically endeavor to extinguish it with the extreme end of the broom handle, or the flaming portion thereof lodges upon your hand and holds thereto with a tenacity that is truly remarkable, never consenting to be displaced until it has burned a deep hole through the skin during the process of which the screams or curses of the victim (according to sex) and the mingled odors of sulphur and burning flesh add considerable excitement to the prearranged harmony of the family circle. Also, in order to carry out the general largeness of the idea, these matches are put up in large boxes, and suffer from a tendency to spontaneous combustion if inadvertently placed too near the stove.—Mrs. Donald Shaw.

JOURNALIST'S QUICK WIT

A London Editor's Retort to a Captious Neighbor

The late Archie Bremner, for many years editor of "The London Advertiser," was noted for his ready wit. For a long time his home was in one of the suburbs and next door resided a chronically cantankerous individual never happy except when in a scrap with somebody. One day after dinner Archie sauntered for the office with his old silk hat tilted at the regulation angle. But neighbor "Bone" was lying in wait for him leaning over his front gate.

"Mr. Bremner, are you aware that your line fence is two inches over on my lot?"

"Well, no, to tell the truth, I hadn't noticed that," was the diplomatic answer.

"It is then, and I want to know what you are going to do about it?"

"Well, now," observed the imperturbable Archie, lifting his pipe from his mouth, "if you are going to move the fence just put it full six inches over on my lot and then there'll never be any chance for trouble."

And there never was. Neighbor "Bone's" wrath flattened out more quickly than it had risen and he discovered a sudden engagement back in his own onion patch.

To Settle Out of Court.

The action of Henry Thomas Cross and Richard Cross, of Campbellford, and Toronto, respectively, against Charles Davidson, of Campbellford to recover the sum of $285 alleged to be due the plaintiff on a real estate deal and $175 alleged to be due the plaintiff from the sale of furniture, which was to have come up before Judge Huycke at the non-jury sitting of the county court yesterday was adjourned till the December sitting. It is expected that the parties will settle the matter out of court.

Patriotic Cheese Maker.

At the meeting of the Victoria County Cheese Board held this morning 430 boxes were boarded, the buyers being Messrs. Flavelle, Gillespie and Thompson. A high price was realized for the month's output, namely, 14¼ cents per pound.

The salesman for the Downeyville factory announced that he was prepared to give three cheese towards the Patriotic Fund, which in dollars and cents would amount to $33.60. If other factories in the county would contribute a similar amount they would be contributing towards a worthy cause and showing their patriotism.—Lindsay Warder.

Chicken Thieves Cause Fire.

It is almost without the slightest shadow of doubt that the disastrous fire which swept the barn and contents of Thos. Marks, retired farmer and market gardener on George Street., north-east of Mr. J. R. O'Neill store, was caused by chicken thieves. It will be a severe loss, as there was not one cent of insurance on building or contents. The loss, including stable, which was of frame, about 50 ft. by 30 ft., was one horse, a cow, 100 hens, 50 bushels of onions, hay, oats, straw, harness, cutter, and many other articles which are usually found around such a building.

About 20 hens escaped, which leads to the conviction that hen thieves were in and discarded those saved, which were of inferior breed and quality. Whether the balance of the poultry were stolen or burned remains to be told.—Lindsay Warder.

THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life ; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff ; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp ; the hair roots famish, loosen and die ; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter ; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

A Marmora Bear Story.

A record for bear hunting by Messrs Jas. Hickey and Sanford Lawrence on Friday of last week. Mr. Hickey who is a Government forest ranger had been back through Lake township. On his way out last Thursday he met Mr. Lawrence. On Friday, they started up the stream and on their way shot three nice coons. Arriving at beech flats they soon found a bear which was easily killed. The second one, however, though badly wounded managed to get away with four bullets in him. Mr. Lawrence went after him while Mr. Hickey decided to wait until his companion returned. He had only been waiting a few minutes when a big bear came along, which he secured with one shot. Mr. Lawrence was unable to trace the wounded animal, but during the day three more were killed, all of which were a good size. One of them after it was wounded made an attack on the hunters, but Mr. Hickey knocked it over with a club.—Marmora Herald.

HEARING IS RESTORED TO DEAF

Thousands of people suffer from catarrhal deafness or poor hearing, who having tried specialists, advertised treatments, artificial and various mechanical appliances without success have at last resigned themselves to a "world of silence" thinking that nothing can ever restore to them their normal hearing. Yet their case is not hopeless. A remarkable scientific treatment discovered a little more than a year ago in England is making people hear after years of deafness and is also unequalled for quickly stopping the distressing head noises that are so often the companions of defective hearing. This discovery is called Parmint and has attracted widespread notice throughout Europe where reports of the remarkable results it has given to deaf people have come in by the hundred.

The effect of Parmint it seems is by tonic action to produce a stimulous necessary to reduce all inflammation, swelling, enlargement or thickening of the organs of hearing and to stimulate the entire tract.

Parmint is now being sold by many leading druggists in Peterborough and vicinity and a speedy trial is urged upon all who suffer from catarrhal deafness or head noises in any degree. Ask the druggist for 1 oz. of Parmint (Double Strength) and take it home and mix with ½ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day and you should soon find a remarkable improvement in your hearing.

A public meeting of citizens will be held on Wednesday evening next, Oct. 7, at 8 p.m., in St. John's Church School House, when Mr. H. J. Osborn, J.P., (just arrived from London, England) will give an address ; subject, "England To-day—Conditions in War Time."

Transient Trader Fined $50.

At yesterday's police court, Duncan Garrett was charged with having been drunk. He admitted the soft impeachment and was fined $2. He said he got drunk because he quit work. Howard McMash of Norwood, got the same dose for a similar offence. Edward Enott was charged with a violation of the Transient Traders' Act. It seems, according to Chief Thompson, that the accused came here six months ago and opened a dry goods store at 311 George Street. He did not take out a Traders' license. Accused is on the assessment roll for 1914 but not for 1913. H was not, the Chief said, on the assessment roll when he started business. City Clerk Armstrong gave evidence and said defendant was on the assessment roll for 1915, but made in 1914. Tax collector Green said the defendant's name is not on the 1914. The Magistrate ruled that if defendant paid the license fee of $100 he would let him go and defendant was given a week to get the money. However he put in a nominal fine of $50 which will be allowed on account if defendant pay the license.

A local man remarked yesterday : "There is no wonder that the German air fleet gets prestige. When German newspapers shoot off hot air to the effect that they are winning the Zepphelines are possibly using excess air.

Canada Offers a Second Contingent--German Destroyer Sunk By Mine in the North Sea The Japanese Sink Three German Gunboats

CANADA OFFERS TO SEND ANOTHER CONTINGENT TO FRONT

Word Cabled to British War Office, and Mobilization Will Commence at Once it Offer is Accepted--Intention to Keep a Force of 50,000 at Front to Full Strength--May Send 100,000

Ottawa, Oct. 7.—The offer of the Government of a second contingent was cabled by the Duke of Connaught to the War Office last night and word accepting the offer is expected some time to-day.

Immediately word is received accepting the offer and explaining the character of the force orders for mobilization and recruiting will go out.

It is believed here that the second contingent will sail in December or possibly not before January.

00,000 MAY BE SENT TO FRONT.

Col. Sam Hughes left last night for New York, where he sails today for England to visit the Canadian expeditionary army. He will be absent in the Old Country probably a month and in the meantime Hon. J. D. Hazen will be acting Minister of Militia, and will handle the preliminary arrangements for the calling of the second contingent. The announcement of Premier Borden means that Canada will send probably 75,008 to 80.000 men, and if the war is long-drawn-out, 100,000 men will go to the front.

It is understood that this contingent will be mobilized by military districts. There are three in Ontario—Toronto, London and Kingston. There is one in British Columbia, one in Albertai one from Saskatchewan and Manitoba, two in Quebec and two in the Maritime Provinces. The men will be collected and selected at these centres and then sent from Halifax to Aldershot, where they will be trained, the English camp taking the place of Valcartier.

FRENCH-CANADIANS IN THIS CONTINGENT.

The new French regiments, which it is expected will be five thousand strong, will be incorporated in the second contingent. The new British Columbia rough-rider corps which is being raised by Col. Jim MacDonnell, and authorization for which has already been given, will also be included, as well as the machine gun battery being raised by Col. Smart of Montreal, and other independent corps. It is likely that the new army division will contain a larger proportion of cavalry and less artillery than the first division.

FRONTIERSMEN WANTED.

The crack artillery regiments of Canada went in the first contingent. The artillery is an arm of the service which is highly technical, and for which it takes longer to train both officers and men. With a large proportion of cavalry it is likely that the recruiting will be heavier in Western Canada. The Western Rough Riders and Frontiersmen who were disappointed because they were not allowed to accompany the first contingent will now have their opportunity. It is likely that the Calgary Mounted Regiment of 500 men, offered by the city, will be included in the second contingent.

GERMANS REPORTED TO PLAN BIG AIR RAIDS ON THE BRITISH ISLES

Count Zeppelin Takes Charge of Preparations at Wilhelmshav n--A Scheme for Barbaric Vindictiveness Which Rivals the Dark Ages--Seems Taken for Granted By Germans That Raid Must be Successful?

London, Oct. 7! — In a despatch from The Hague the correspondent of the Daily Express says that German newspapers reaching there indicate that Count Zeppelin is now at Wilhelmshaven, on the North Sea, with his staff.

Wilhelmshaven is the point from which the great air raid on the British Isles is to start. One of these papers publishes an interview with the count in which he is quoted as saying that he had not forgotten England, and would prove it very soon.

It is also reported, the correspondent of the Express continues, that Count Zeppelin was summoned recently by Emperor William to Mainz.

The Emperor said to the count that he relied on him for a great work, and offered to make him commander-in-chief of the German air fleet. The Count smilingly refused, but said he would accept the title when he returned from England.

The Zeppelin staffs are working day and night at Wilhelmshapen, and another station is being established at Emden for other types of airships.

Duke Ernst Gunther Proves That He Is Not A Vendal

Duke Ernst Gunther, of Schleswig Holstein, brother-in-law of the German Emperor, with other Germans recently went to Pierrefonds, a French town eight miles southeast of Compiegne, where Clement Bayard has a home. Entering Mr. Bayard's house the Duke left for the manufacturer an autograph note reading as follows:

"I restore your home, with its beautiful objects of art, in the same way as I found them, without breaking or damaging, as the servants can testify. You see that the Germans are not barbarians, as has been charged."

Mr. Bayard during a trip to Germany before the war, was arrested as a charge of espionage. This called out a protest from the French government.

THE FOE'S LOSS IS 300,000

London, Oct. 7.—An official list published in Berlin, says a Rome despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. gives the German losses in killed and missing up to September 1 as 147,000. The authorities admit, that the total losses to date are at least 300,000.

FOE'S DESTROYER SUNK BY MINE IN NORTH SEA

Name of the Lost Boat is Unknown --German Cruiser Saved The Crew A Couple of Submarines Also Seen Near the Spot, But Their Nationality is Not Disclosed

London, Oct. 7!—A German torpedo-boat destroyer, cruising off the Estuary of the Ems, between the Netherland and East Friesland, in the North Sea, has been sunk by a mine, according to a despatch from Amsterdam to the Reuter Telegram Company. This news reached Amsterdam in a despatch from the Island of Schiernoonik, one of the Friesland islands in the North Sea belonging to Holland.

The message says that at the time of the disaster, 11 o'clock this morning, the destroyer was to the north-east of Schiernoonik, not far from the Estuary of the Ems. Observers on the island heard a sudden explosion, and a huge mass of water arose from under the bows of the destroyer. The boat keeled over and disappeared under the waves within three minutes.

The periscopes of two submarines appeared on the scene. Their nationality could not be ascertained, but they probably were German.

WAR BRINGS RELIGIOUS REVIVAL IN FRANCE

London, Oct. 7.—A German torpedo- war has been a distinct religious revival in France," says the Paris correspondent of The Times. His despatch continues:

"The so-called 'Clerical peril' has disappeared from popular imagination. Everywhere priests have been distinguished for their heroism and patriotic devotion. Several have died on the field of battle and others are showing great devotion as chaplains and in attending the wounded."

The Times, in an editorial today, says —"No feature of the war has been more striking than the religious feeling it has evoked. We shall be surprised if the war and the pro-spiritual emotions it has kindled are not attended by a quickening and deepening of the religious feeling in England as well as France."

SIX AUSTRIAN SHIPS SUNK BY MINES

The Victims are From Torpedo Boats and Two Destroyers, Most of the Crew Perish. Scene of Disaster the Coast of Dalmatia

Paris, Oct. 7.—The Messagero publishes a despatch from Ancona in Italy on the Adriatic, telegraphs the Rome correspondent of the Havas Agency, which declared that four Austrian torpedo boats and two Austrian torpedo boat destroyers have been lost off the coast of Dalmatia as a result of coming in contact with mines.

Ayer, Oct. 7.—A murder, probably inspired by robbery, was revealed today when the body of a man with two bullet wounds in his head, with his feet bound together, was found on the Boston & Maine railroad bridge over the Nashua river. Wounds on his chest indicated that he had been dragged a considerable distance before being placed on the rails. The pockets of his suit had been turned inside out, and everything that would lead to his identification and all valuables had been taken out.

The man was apparently an Italian, about thirty years old.

ITS BRITAINS TASK TO CRUSH THE ENEMY

London, Oct. 7.—"Will our men get a chance?" This insistent question is asked whenever Canadians foregather in London. The answer which the Daily Telegraph makes to a similar question of Kitchener's new army also applies to Canadians.

It says: "The French are fighting nobly in defence of their soil, but the power of their armies to assume a serious offensive movement grows less day by day. It must be the British who lead the allies into German soil to reap the utmost fruits of victory. Men who are now training miles away from the fighting line are certain to find themselves in the van next year. No man need fear his six.

GREAT BRITAIN AND HER MANY COLONIES SHOWING UNITED FRONT

Declared Mr. H. J. Osborn, of London England, in an Interesting Lecture Given Last Night in St. John's School House--No Party Politics During This Crisis

Mr. H. J. Osborn, a talented journal and justice of the peace of London, England, addressed a delighted audience in St. John's School House last night. His subject was well-timed being "England To-day—Conditions in War Time," and appealed to the patriotic sentiment of all present. He declared the present war a righteous one, in which Great Britain and her colonies are showing a united front, to the admiration of the whole world.

Mr. Osborn delivered a very interesting lecture on the war and how the crisis was being met, and his remarks were listened to with great pleasure and bought by all present. The speaker, who is well acquainted with events leading up to the war and with the action taken by the powers that he presented his facts in a very able manner. Mr. Osborn is making a tour of Canada, and has been out about two weeks. He is no stranger to Canada however, as he has made several other visits to this country. When war was declared, he was in Norway attending an International gathering of temperance people. Rob. Meek, chairman, introduced the speaker.

"The one justification we have for this war," said the speaker, "is that we are fighting in the cause of righteousness. There is but the one spirit and that is one of unity. We are convinced of the righteousness of the cause. We are determined and steadfast and confident of the result."

In Great Britain the motto for this time of war was "Business as usual" as regards trade and commerce, and so far it had worked out the very best results. Everything possible was being done to have the ordinary business pursuits carried out. The nation was calmly meeting the situation, with a view of preventing any disturbance which might occur otherwise.

As an evidence of the unity thown in this war, the speaker referred to the gift of Canada to Great Britain of a million and a quarter sacks of flour. This, he said, was practically loyalty. Reference was made to the emergency legislation of the British House of Commons to meet the situation. The legislation had been supported by both sides of the house. At the very outset action was taken to prevent the high cost of the food stuffs.

"During this war there are no party politics in Great Britain," declared the speaker "Both parties have been united in the one work. This is shown by the fact that five vacancies occurred as the result of deaths and there will be no election. Usually there would be elections with fierce fighting. But is has been agreed that the party holding the seat last shall choose a man for the vacancy in each constituency. And there is no doubt that the general election which is due in a year's time, will be put off until the war is over should it not come to an end before that time."

The war, no doubt, would cause a great deal of distress, and the speaker was delighted to see money raised for a patriotic fund. He paid tribute to the good work of Canada along these lines.

Mr. Osborn referred to conditions in Ireland before the war, and how the both parties which had been fighting each other over home rule, were now united in the great struggle fighting shoulder to shoulder.

SUSPECTED MURDER AND SUICIDE IN TORONTO

Wife Found Dead Yesterday Morning and Husband dying--Butcher Knife Beside Victims--Neighbors Say the Pair Frequently Quarrelled. The Man Cannot Recover

Toronto, Oct. 7.—A tragedy was revealed this morning at 703 Queen St., Humphrey, on the representations of west when policemen English and neighbors broke into the premises and discovered the dead body of Mrs. Carolina Sakowski on the floor and found her husband Frank Sakowski, lying close beside it with his throat cut from ear to ear.

A butcher knife near where the man lay was evidently the weapon with which the woman had been stabbed several times in the body, and which had also been used to cut the man's throat.

Sakowski had nearly bled to death. He was hurried to the Western Hospital, where the doctors say he cannot recover

The police theory is that the man murdered his wife after a quarrel and then attempted suicide.

Quarrelled Monday Night.

Stories of the neighbors lead to the inference that the quarrel occurred on Monday night.

Sakowski is about 35 years of age, while his wife was some years his senior. They had been in Toronto for about three years. On Monday night they had a number of friends at the house and it is said that there was some drinking.

Store Not Open.

The premises were occupied by Sakowski as a butcher shop, and when the store was not opened as usual yesterday customers wondered. There was a light inside the house portion of the store, but the doors were all locked and no one could get in. The couple had no children.

Mrs Bessie Konopka, who was a close friend of the couple, said that they often drank and were inclined to quarrel over the fact that they had no children. She says that she last saw her friends alive on Saturday, when the woman looked ill and the man appeared to have been drinking. When under the influence of liquor he would chide his wife because they had no children.

The discovery of the tragedy was not made until early this afternoon. The remains of the woman were removed to the morgue.

At 2 o'clock the hospital authorities said there was no hope of Sakowski surviving his injury.

LOWELL MAN CHOCKED TO DEATH BY PICKET FENCE

Lowell, Oct. 7.—The most peculiar death which the local police have come upon in years was recorded today when the body of Arthur Beaudoin was found on West Street. He had stumbled against a picket fence and wedged his neck between the pickets so tightly that he was strangled.

Beaudoin had been downtown Saturday evening with friends and was on his way home when the accident occurred, probably about 1 o'clock. His body was found by a milkman at 5.15, and the police were notified. They worked over him with a pulmotor for a long time, but could not resuscitate him. Beaudoin was thirty years old and lived at 130 Ward St.

ALLIES MAKE STEADY PROGRESS TERRIFIC BATTLE ON LEFT WING

Von Kluk is Considerably Enforced and Trying a Flanking Movement, Which is an Exceedingly Risky One He Also Aims to Pierce the Allies Left. Battle of the Aisne Will Influence Fate of Antwerp

Paris, Oct. 7.—The following official communication was given out in Paris this afternoon.

"On our left wing the battle still continues with great violence. The opposing fronts extend into the region between Lens (nine miles northeast of Arras) and La Basse (13 miles southeast of Lille) and are lengthened by masses of cavalry which are in grips as far as the vicinity of Armentieres (nine miles north-west of Lille, and virtually on the Belgian frontier).

"On the front extending from the Somme to the Meuse, there is nothing to report.

"In the Woevre district the enemy made a new effort to stop our progress, but his attackt again failed."

Londan, Oct. 7.—The conflict along the rivers of northern France, although now in its twenty-sixth day, shows fewer signs of an early end than it did two days ago. Then General Von Kluck appeared dangerously threatened by the enveloping movement of the allied forces!

Today that resourceful commander, having obtained, from an unknown quarter, heavy reinforcements, is apparently engaged in his turn, in attempting to outflank the French and British lines.

This counter stroke is viewed here as the supreme feature in the situation in the western theatre of the war and its full significance can be gaged only by the actors who alone are privileged to witness the drama in which they are engaged.

Simultaneously with his newly-launched turning movement Gen. Von Kluck has been trying to cut right through the centre of the allies' extended left at Lassigny. The official French communication says that this attempt was foiled, but it is not doubted that the effort will be renewed and in the event of success it would compel the left wing of the French army to retire towards the coast in order to escape the German lines stretching out simultaneously from the north and east. The fighting in this neighborhood described in the official French report as "more and more violent" must, it is believed reach to Antwerp and largely influence the fate of that fortress.

JAPANESE SINK THREE GERMAN GUNBOATS IN KIAO-CHAU BAY

Reports Also Claim That German Unprotected Cruiser and Two Other Gunboats Have Met With Disaster--British Warships in the Engagement

Tokio, Oct. 7!—The belief was expressed at the War Office today that the German cruiser Cormoran and 2 other German gunboats had been sunk in Kiao-Chau Bay.

Another report says that the German unprotected cruiser Cormoran and two other gunboats have been so badly damaged by the Japanese shell fire at Kiao Chau that they had to be beached to prevent their sinking. The Japanese and British warships continue their bombardment of the Kiao Chau positions, and have caused great damage to the forts at the harbor entrance.

The Cormoran is a light cruiser 250 feet long. She was built in 1892. She carried eight four-inch guns and five one-pounders. The gunboats in Kiao Chau harbor were small river craft of no particular value

A Summons to Surrender.

Pekin, Oct. 7. According to advices received here the railroad station at Chi-Nan, in Shan-Tung Province west of Kiao Chow, has been occupied by thirty Japanese soldiers. One hundred and fifty more are expected tomorrow.

THE CHIEF OBJECT OF DEVELOPMENT

Secure the Best Use of Things For the Present and Leave Them in Best Condition For Future

"To often and too much the eyes of public men and the people generally are fixed exclusively upon some local political programme," says J. W. Robertson of the Royal Commission on Technical Education in Canada. "The vocational training of all the people to be contributing earners, good citizens and worthy members of the race is really the world's greatest movement at the present time. All the foremost nations are on the march. The campaign is against ignorance and inability and ill-wills. The hope is emancipation from poverty, disease and vice, and the attainment of new and higher levels of happiness and power by all the people. In the freshness and vigor of its youth Canada turns readily to questions of material growth and development. Canadians feel that they are coming into their own. Yet their attention and imagination are captivated by wealth in things more than their hearts are stirred by the possession of power with knowledge and desire to use it wisely. With all the fine attributes which belong to youth the country has many of its handicaps and dangers. Hence the urgency for educational training which will be adequate not only for material progress, but for the enjoyment of its achievements and for the real advancement of intellectual, social and spiritual interests and outlook.

"The chief object of development is to secure the best use of things for the present and to leave them in the best condition for the future, to attain the best characters in the people and provide the best quality of life and opportunities for their successors. In all the provinces there is evidence of progress. The Provincial Governments are not only responding to the demands on them as far as their revenues permit, but they are leading, encouraging and guiding the local communities.

SHIRKING THE HOME

Evils of the Boarding Houses For Married People

Married persons live in boarding-houses largely, because of the prevalent high rents, the excessive cost of living generally, and perpetual troubles with domestic servants. In the long run they probably escape none of these ills, and certainly if any one of them be lessened there is a generous set-off in some greater evil which they will yet be called upon to suffer. There is an even more serious cause of this rush of married people to the boarding-houses. Very many wives, particularly the newly-married, have an antipathy to housework, and shrink before the idea of struggling to build up a home. Behind these feelings, which are unwomanly, is probably defective training in the home of their girlhood. It is difficult to make girls understand that domestic work is noble work. If the income be small it is no shame to the wife to do all the housework; but some sort of artificial stigma appears to attach to toil of the kind—which it seems to be impossible to remove. A consequence is that a new race of women is adding a new terror to life. The woman of this type marries not to make a home, but to swell in lodgings. The honeymoon is spent in an hotel in the mountains or at the seaside, and the happy young people immediately afterwards rush to permanent quarters in a flat or a boarding house. The wife, instead of making a home for her husband, makes calls in the morning, goes shopping in the afternoon, and attends bridge parties or the theatre at night. All these things may be good, and some of them necessary, but for the young married woman in a boarding house they are practically all life has to offer in the way of occupation. She ought to be making little soft garments in her own home, instead of gadding about and making life a misery to those of her friends who have homes by extolling the advantages of life in lodgings.—Melbourne Argus.

Burns of Children

That more girls than boys are fatally burned is the interesting conclusion of investigations made in England by Dr. Brend. Due reflection upon the ages at which these fatalities are recorded in the reliable statistics which the Journal of the American Medical Association presents in a recent issue discloses the reason.

Age	Boys	Girls
Up to one year.........	314	234
From one to four......	1,663	1,882
From four to five......	368	775
From five to ten.......	389	1,427
From ten to twenty.....	90	630

A Substitute For Tea

A French scientist discovered a substitute for tea. The dried leaves of the coffee plant are used, an infusion is made just as in the case of ordinary tea, and the resulting beverage is aromatic but somewhat bitter to the taste. It contains almost as much theine as real tea, while there is a notable falling off in the proportion of tannin, which is the most undesirable component in a beverage. This new "coffee-tea" is admirably refreshing and restorative in its effects.

MODERN METHODS OF SAVING TIME

Machinery Replaces Human Brains and Hands—Office Work Reduced to Minimum

Novelties in the line of devices to save time and trouble in offices have come out in great numbers recently.

A new adding machine has an adding capacity of 10,000,000 and a weight of 13½ pounds. It adds, subtracts, and multiplies. It has seven keys, and an error-correcting device.

Another adding machine has a "Mezzanine" attachment, a keyboard on runways above the regular keyboard, which is said to make easy the solution of involved arithmetical operations.

An electric calculating machine, automatic after the necessary key has been depressed, multiplies, divides, and subtracts with astonishing speed.

Another calculating machine computes pay rolls, total time, and total pay, based on wages per week, per day, or per year.

An addressing machine about the size and weight of a typewriter prepares an address on a metal plate almost as quickly as it could be written on paper with a typewriter.

A special paper for the stencil addressing machines can be placed in any typewriter and written on in the usual way. The striking of the type makes the necessary perforations in the paper, which can then be placed in an ordinary stencil addressing machine and invoices, wrappers, cards, and other matter can be addressed by the thousand in exact facsimile of typewriting.

Presses for baling waste paper effect great savings in offices and large buildings, as every scrap of waste paper is utilized and sold.

A new carbon paper has an uncarbonized strip five-eighths of an inch wide, running lengthwise on the surface edge. This obviates soiling the hands and the paper.

A check machine writes a word at a stroke, impressing the same in indelible characters in the body of the check. It is impossible to remove the letters to raise the amount.

A coin counter will count hundreds of coins in a few minutes and deposit them in tubular containers.

A coin-banding machine will deliver a given amount of change in any variety desired, from one cent to $200.

There are several new envelope-sealing machines with capacities for sealing from 1,000 to 10,000 per hour sealing from 1,000 to 10,000 per hour.

A compact machine has been devised which will sign five checks simultaneously in exact facsimile of the original.

A new stencil machine will cut the name and address of a customer, name of shipper, routing, and special marks in a material much like cardboard. It cuts from five-eighths to one inch high.

A new typewriter model has two sets of keys. The turn of a knob immediately gives a complete change of type. Many different fonts can be used.

In a new hammer handle is a secret recess for carrying a nail set.

A small but practical electric railway is installed in a Paris sewer.

MAKING STEEL PENS

This Industry Has Developed in About a Century

The advent of the steel pen dates back to about 100 years ago, when steel pens of the barrel type—that is with the holder and pen in one piece —were made and sold for 50 cents.

To James Perry belongs the credit of bringing steel pens into general use. He began pen-making in Manchester in 1819, and ultimately developed the pen trade in London before the prominent Birmingham makers, Mitchell, Gilliot and Mason, caused a revolution in the trade by machine made pens.

The greatest improvement to the manufacture was the adoption of a screw hand press for the cutting out of pens. By means of this process one man can cut as many as 45,000 blanks a day.

The shape is given to the blanks, of course, by the dies in the press, and there are many different types of pen to be made. As a matter of fact, a leading pen maker has a catalogue containing 5,000 varieties of pens, while it has been estimated that no fewer than 10,000 different shapes and sizes are on the market.

The great objection to the steel pen when it first came into general use was its stiffness. There was not that "give" and spring in the metal pen which characterized the old fashioned goose quill pen. This was remedied however, by the side splits we see in pens to-day, and for many years the method of slitting the pens by means of a press was kept secret by those famous pen makers, Gilliot and Mason.

Briefly, the method of manufacture of a steel pen to-day may be described as follows: The blanks are pierced and the slits cut, after which the pen requires to be softened by annealing. Then they are raised and hardened, scoured with acid, colored, varnished and dried, girls afterward looking over the pens, throwing aside the faulty ones and packing the good ones into boxes ready for sale.

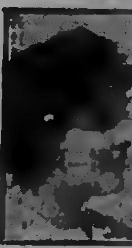
Week-End Summer Time Costume Hints

By Madge Marvel



WHAT clothes shall I take for the week-end visit? Shall I take a trunk? These two questions perplex many feminine minds during the summer months when the week-end party is the favored form of entertainment.

The average guest arrives at her destination by the late train Friday afternoon or the early one of Saturday morning. She leaves Monday. She will not need a trunk. There are suitcases and bags with capacity for all needed garments.

The clothes required will depend entirely upon the manner of life in the house where you are a guest. In packing the suitcase the wise woman has this in mind, and tries to make her clothes fit perfectly into the picture.

If one arrives Friday night, there are three evenings to consider. There will be need for some attractive dinner gown, an evening gown, if there is the usual dance on Saturday, and a suitable evening wrap, shoes and all the accessories. There should be a smart sports costume for Saturday morning, which will be suitable for tennis, golf or tramping. Also provision should be made for the motor trip, which is sure to be in the program, and a motor bonnet and veil takes little room. Saturday afternoon there will undoubtedly be need for a light reception frock, which will grace the tea-dance, the lawn party or any similar occasion.

A gown suitable for church wear should be taken for Sunday. To specify. The travelling gown may be of taffeta in some dark shade, in plaid or stripe or check, with fresh, crisp organdie collar, which will be correct for Sunday morning. With this may be worn a cape-coat, which will serve for the motor trip or any similar occasion.

The gown for Friday night's dinner may be made to serve for Saturday's dance. If white lace be chosen, the underskirt may be worn Friday with a tunic, and bodice of pale blue or pink taffeta or charmeuse with a rose in contrasting color stuck in the girdle.

On Saturday night, the tunic and bodice may be of the lace with a girdle of yellow or mauve.

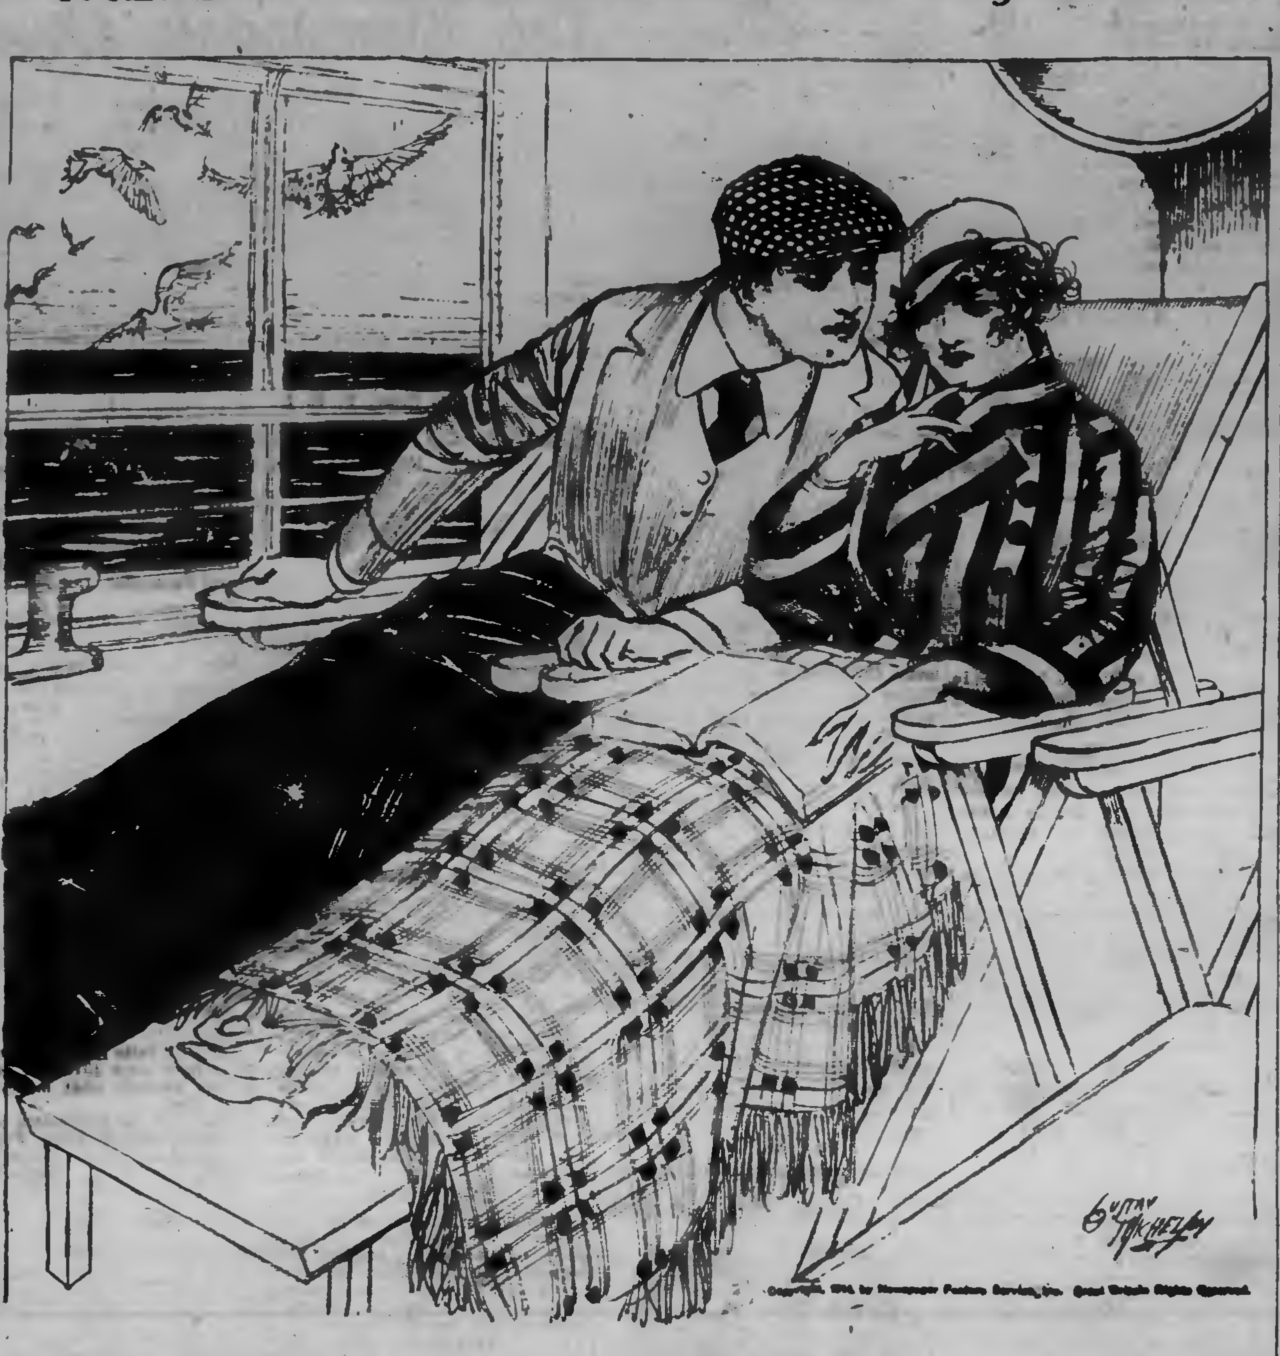
Saturday afternoon's frock will probably be some simple voile or batiste, and with it will be worn a large hat with flat trimming, which can be easily packed.

Saturday morning's costume may consist of a pique skirt and tailored blouse of linen with waistcoat effect, or girdle and collar of pique. It will be quite permissible to wear the same gown of Saturday afternoon or evening for Sunday night, depending upon the program arranged.

Three pairs of shoes will be required. Black dull kid colonials for travelling, for Sunday and for Saturday afternoon, some lighter dancing shoes for evening wear and a heavy pair of white duck or canvas for Saturday morning.

The evening wrap may be simple, a cape of charmeuse or a voluminous scarf being all that is needed.

TALES OF THE SEA :: :: By Michelson



Copyright, 1916, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain Rights Reserved.

SAILOR MEN are notorious for tall yarns, so that it would be quite in good form that tales which might be told by any temporary sailor to any temporary sailor-ess should be regarded leniently. But you will say after a single glance that the tale that is being told in this case is not one that is at all in the sea-yarn class. Something SERIOUS is being said.

SHE is serious, too, and when you can get a girl in a lonesome corner of a big ship to listen to you seriously you have an important matter on your hands. Only the vagrant birds of the blue-green highway are noticing. No one else cares, because it happens every day.

What a difference it makes when tales of the sea are not ABOUT the sea at all!

Secrets of Health and Happiness

How Coffee May Aid You and Harm Someone Else

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

A PRIOR of a monastery in Arabia discovered coffee as a beverage. This monastery was situated in a sylvan dell where coffee grows.

The worthy father observed that the goats who ate the coffee plant became brisk and alert, so he determined that his monks, who were more lethargic than they might be, should try it.

The experiment was successful, and coffee as a beverage came into general use.

Despite prejudices and opinions to the contrary, coffee puts both vigor and valor into a healthful man's muscles. The non-nervous individual, who drinks wisely and well of it, may smite the inert world as Moses did the rock, to see rich fluids gush forth.

Excess of coffee, to be sure, like too much meat or oatmeal, carries dire destruction with it. To gild gold, to paint the lily, to light the sun, or add cerise to the spectrum, is to destroy each of these several effects. So with coffee. An intelligent drink, temperately and sanely taken, this bean of Arabia can upon occasion play havoc and high jinks.

Certain Concrete Facts.

Violent cravings lead to eruptive ends, as the electric spark explodes the harmless gases hydrogen and oxygen. Too much honey pails upon the lips and many cooks spoil the broth.

Prof. Hollingsworth, the far-famed psychologist of Columbia University, at great expense and trouble, last year subjected a squad of fellow-observers to a series of brilliant experiments with coffee.

Without, as some ungracious doctors do, admonishing a steep and thorny way to coffee heaven; while like a puffed and reckless libertine he trod the liquorish path of primrose dalliance, Dr. Hollingsworth obtained certain, indisputable, concrete facts about coffee.

In well persons who do not indulge in self-pity, who are not inclined to be nervous, sensitive and suspicious, he and his fellow-conspirators discovered that one grain of caffein—as much as is in a good strong cup of coffee—increases the power of exertion.

It adds to the strength and muscular skill. Physical capacity is augmented, thought is stimulated, the senses are more alert and the ability to associate objects with ideas, memory with things, words with thoughts are all conclusively improved. Moreover, the endurance of the individual shows a pronounced excellence for an hour or so after a strong cup of coffee is taken.

The Danger Line.

When, however, two cups, or more than a grain and a half of caffein are swallowed, Bedlam breaks loose in the candidate's muscles. Tremblings and tremors, shivers and shakes which last longer than those of a pneumonia victim, seize the textiles of your anatomy. In fine, the foolish person, who drinks two or more cups of strong coffee at a time, is in a fair way to vibrate herself—women are often the worst coffee felons—into an asylum.

"A surfeit of the sweetest things
The deepest loathing of the stomach brings."

From all these experiments it must be plain that coffee, unlike learning, is a dangerous thing when more than a little of it is drunk. It is, moderately enjoyed, a muscular tonic of the first rank, at least to eighty or ninety persons in the hundred.

To others it is taboo. To all an excessive amount is poisonous in the extreme.

The Good Night Story

Princess Tabby Cat—By VERNON MERRY

ONCE in the long ago there was a boy named Fred, who was the youngest son of a man that loved fine horses. His father owned a great farm, but was undecided to which one of his sons he should leave it. So, one morning, he called his three boys into the study and told them that the one who brought him the finest horse should be his heir.

That afternoon Fred and his two brothers set out on their search. When they were out of sight of the house, they tried to run away from Fred, but Fred kept up with them. Next morning they succeeded, because they all slept in a cave and they got up long before Fred was awake.

Fred felt very badly about being left all alone in the great woods. He did not know which way to go to find a horse. But, as he was walking near a brook, a Tabby cat ran up to him and said:

"Hello, Fred, you haven't found your horse, yet, have you?"

Naturally Fred was surprised to have a cat speak to him, particularly as that cat knew all about him without having to be told. Yet it was such a friendly Tabby that Fred stroked its fur and talked with it. After a while the cat said:

"Fred, if you'll come with me and serve me willingly for seven years, I'll give you the finest horse in the world. Is it a bargain?"

Fred did not know how else to get a fine horse, so he agreed. Then Tabby led him to an enchanted castle, where all the servants were cats and all the decorations were gold and silver. For a long time Fred had nothing to do except enjoy himself, but one day Tabby smiled and asked him to take a gold scythe and a silver rake and go out in the fields and cut the catnip hay. She said he must be careful not to lose the precious tools.

So Fred went out and cut the catnip and stacked it up in little piles for the cats to carry to the castle. Then Fred gathered up his tools and brought them back safe to good-natured Tabby, who was very much pleased. But she did not then give Fred the horse, and Fred did not say anything about it.

After a few years had gone by Tabby asked Fred to take some gold tools that she gave him and to go out where the lumber was piled up and to take that lumber and build her a house. So Fred went out to the lumber pile and worked very hard for a whole year building the house. When it was finished all the cats came out with Tabby and told Fred that it was the nicest house they had ever seen.

As the seven years were now up, Tabby gave Fred the finest horse in the world and ordered the men to get the state coach ready to take Fred home.

When Fred stepped into that wonderful coach he found a beautiful princess waiting for him. It was Tabby, released from a wicked spell by Fred's seven years of willing service.

Together they drove back to the farm with presents for Fred's father, and Fred's brothers were sorry they had treated him so badly. Of course, his father had to give Fred the farm, for his horse was the best in the world, but Fred gave it to his brothers. You see, Fred had everything that he wanted in all the world. He also had a kind heart, which is much better than riches.

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

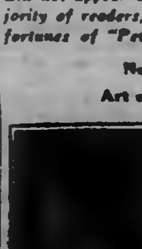
Art and Debt.



LEONA DALRYMPLE

"I'M sorry," I said, after an electric interval, "but, Mary, I am not going to use this $50 for anything so foolish as an art course. You can do very nicely without Sig. Casetti, and he can do without you."

Mary looked hurt.

"Just what are you going to do with it?" she demanded.

"I'm going to pay up a lot of little bills. We've been running behind, as you know, and we're more or less in debt. Beside this will give me enough ahead to keep a check account. My salary was always gone so long before I drew it that it was silly to put it in the bank."

"What do you mean?" asked Mary. "I don't understand your horrid old banking stunts, Peter."

"I mean," I said, "that I shall deposit every single check in the bank. I mean that I shall put into execution a pet stunt of mine, that I've had ever since I discovered that money gets away from you so easily. Each month I shall give you [illegible] for yourself. No, on second thought, I can't do that, either. I shall do this: I, personally, will pay every household bill by check—it's an automatic system of book-keeping, anyway—and, then, whatever money is left at the end of the month, after every single bill is paid, you and I will divide evenly. That's fair enough, I'm sure."

"But—but," protested Mary, "suppose there isn't anything left? What then?"

"Well," said I, "in that case you'll do without it, and so will I. One won't suffer any more than the other."

"I—I think that's perfectly horrid," said Mary, almost in tears. "I'll never know whether I have any money or not."

"I never know now," I suggested grimly. "And I do all the worrying. I'm through with that. I've asked you to economize, and you can't seem to swing it. When I give you money to put aside for anything it just sort of filters through your fingers."

"But—but it comes out all right," put in Mary eagerly. "Didn't I use up the payment on your father's note for Christmas things, and then, Peter, he gave you the whole $50 for a gift. That's an awful lot of money."

"It's a lot of money," I agreed, "as long as you don't have your pretty fingers on it. Once you touch it—it somehow won't seem so much. No, I don't mean to be disagreeable, Mary. We've literally come to the end of the rope. I can't, and won't, have Dad putting his hand in his pocket to rescue me from financial muddles that I ought to have sense enough to keep out of. I make an excellent salary. My father and mother, and your father and mother began on half as much and got along beautifully. Why we can't do it is a mystery to me, but for a time, at least, I'm going to manage the purse strings and see how we come out. We made our biggest mistake when we took an apartment as fashionable as this, and we made a big mistake when we got the social bee in our bonnets." I said "we" merely out of politeness. I've never had the social bee to any violent extent. Mary has it badly, and she drags me with her.

But Mary wasn't listening to my lecture. She was waving at her mother, who had appeared in her front window across the street.

"Mother's waving a yellow back," exclaimed Mary radiantly. "Likely Dad's given it to her for Christmas—isn't he good!"

It may have been a reproach, and it may not—I don't know and I don't care. I'm getting a hardened soul. It's not nearly so sensitive as it was a few months ago.

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

BANANAS form so important a portion of the average diet it is well to know some of the various ways of serving this delicious and valuable fruit. In addition to its other qualifications, the banana is one of the foodstuffs which is usually within the reach of every one, for the price does not fluctuate, and is seldom prohibitive.

Banana salad is a favorite with many who like fruit salads. It is simply prepared. Peel the bananas, removing all the inner white thick skin, and slice them lengthwise, roll them in ground walnuts or peanuts, and serve with mayonnaise dressing on lettuce leaves.

Banana sandwiches are always a welcome delicacy with children. Slice the fruit in thin rounds, add a dash of salt, a sprinkle of sugar and a bit of lemon juice, and press between thin slices of buttered bread.

When it is desired to serve something out of the ordinary for a vegetable, especially as an accompaniment to broiled chicken, try baked bananas. Allow one banana for each person. Slice each banana once lengthwise. Allow for each banana a teaspoonful of butter melted in a tablespoonful of hot water. Arrange the halves of the fruit in a buttered baking dish, and pour the melted butter and water mixture over them. Then sprinkle with sugar and a bit of salt and over all squeeze the juice of half a lemon. Bake for half an hour in a moderate oven.

If it is desired to keep the flavor of the banana intact, peel and bake whole, with a little syrup of water and sugar.

Banana fritters may be extremely good or they may be utterly impossible as food, according to how they are made. If they are tough and soaked in fat, they are worse than useless.

Quarter the bananas by slicing lengthwise through the middle and then cut each half across. Sprinkle them with powdered sugar and lemon juice, and let them stand half an hour. Dip them in fritter batter and fry in deep, hot fat which has been tested. Drain on paper and serve with lemon sauce.

Deviled bananas have more flavor than many of the other dishes in which they form the most important part. They are easily prepared in a chafing dish.

Melt a tablespoonful of butter, and to it add a tablespoonful of chopped red pepper, half as much chopped pickles, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce and a dash of salt. Then add four bananas which have been peeled and cut into four equal parts, and cook five minutes.

Sauted bananas are simply prepared and excellent to serve with cold meats for luncheon or supper. Peel and quarter four bananas, melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and half a cup of sherry. When hot add the bananas and cook until they are tender. Serve very hot.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

I have read with great interest the very valuable advice which you so kindly give to young girls. So would deem it a great favor if you would give some to me.

I have a gentleman friend who takes me out a great deal to dances, etc., and pays me a lot of attention. Whilst we are together he seems to think quite a lot of me, but there is one thing which puzzles me greatly. He never asks to come and see me either Saturday or Sunday evenings. Do you thing I ought to encourage his attentions?

IN DOUBT.

WHY, you funny little girl you, how in the world can he ask to come and see you. It's your place to ask him. Didn't you know that?

If a man is dead in love with you he mustn't speak to you in the street if he's known you for years, unless you speak first, that's the rule. Foolish, well possibly; but not so foolish as it may look to you.

It is a woman's place to say "yes," you know, and a man's place to do the asking—even just for a good morning or a good afternoon.

The next time you go to a dance with your young man ask him to come and see you some evening, and see what will happen. Be quite assured of one thing, the skies will not fall at any rate.

Probably the poor thing is wondering and wondering why you treat him so peculiarly, and do not ask him to visit you at your home.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care of this office.

8. That a letter from the Peterborough Radial Co. saying they wish to construct power feeder lines on certain streets be referred to the City Solicitor the City Engineer and the Manager of the Utilities for report, the Solicitor to consider especially the right of the company to put up pole lines for conveying power and that the City Solicitor be authorized to consult counsel if he thinks it advisable.

9. That an application from G. N. Graham for permission to erect a sign at the Empress Hotel extending out 12 feet over a balcony be granted subject to the usual conditions respecting illuminated signs.

10. That the City Engineer inform the Canadian Pacific Railway that the work done by the railway at the corner of the [illegible] Road and Romaine Street is satisfactory. Your Committee received a report from the Engineer saying that he had inspected the work and considered it satisfactory.

11. That the matter of removing trees from Hunter Street be left with the Chairman and the City Engineer.

12. That the City Engineer notify the person who put rubbish in the drain on Edinburgh Street to remove it.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

The Bayonet Drill

It had been advocated that experience in the Boer War and the Russian-Japanese war showed conclusively that the use of the bayonet in war is obsolete. But experience in the present gigantic struggle has demonstrated the effectiveness of the bayonet to such an extent that position after position has been won and held by this weapon's use. Our Canadian Militia has not been instructed in the use of the bayonet; consequently we must expect their transportation to Europe to be delayed until such time as they are proficient in its use.

A distinct lesson of the present war has been that shock fighting, clashes between infantry and infantry or cavalry and infantry, and so forth, is not yet out of date. Bayonet and cavalry charges on artillery or on trenches of infantry are frequently reported. To prepare himself so that he may be able to score over enemies in these clashes the soldier needs much training. The English soldier is trained for it. He gets sword drill or bayonet drill regularly. For him the practice is a sport, and contests are regularly held. In Canada, this part of the drill has not been carried on to an extent—if at all—by the militia. It is part of what Canada's expeditionary force will have to learn during impatient weeks or months before they can take the field. This brings Canada face-to-face with the need for a change in the training of her militia in bayonet tactics and exercise. As an esteemed contemporary says: Canada's opportunity this winter, from the military standpoint now taken so seriously by a large section of the people—will be to make good use of the long evenings in the armories in quarter-staff and single-stick drill, bayonet versus bayonet or sword, with variations. The exercise is unsurpassed, and the military advantage of the training is shown by frequent dispatches from the scene of war in Europe.

Germany's Weak Spot

Military men have always admitted that Germany, harrassed by land and sea, would be able to make a stubborn defence. The country occupies an admirable strategic position in Europe for this purpose, and is prepared by long lines of fortifications, including forts, to withstand attacks from all sides. The German soldier fights stubbornly on the defensive, and his nature is not such that he is a prey to panic. In the event of Germany's being repulsed in France so severely that her armies will be forced to fall back into their own territory, and her defences have to be brought back from East Prussia to form a compact body with her expeditionary forces, then, it is quite possible that the present war would devolve into a "deadlock" contest, in which the issue would depend upon the ability of the German nation to withstand a veritable siege. Therefore, the question is pertinent. Can Germany be starved out?

Figures are given to show that Germany is not by any means self-supporting in the matter of food supplies. Her imports include amongst others such staple products as barley, corn, wheat, fruit, fish, grain, products, meat and vegetables.

Any nation which imported in a single year food to the value of the large figures given must certainly be experiencing important and far-reaching embarrassment now that the source of this great supply is cut off. In feeding the huge armies of men of Germany has now in the field, also, a certain amount must be allowed for wastage, which would not be important in the natural, distribution of food in peaceful times. As time goes on, this embarrassment due to a shortage in the food supply, must inevitably become more pressing, and soon must exert a more noticeable influence upon the war.

We are so much accustomed to hearing of German efficiency, in science, in industry, in civic government, and in education that many of us take it for granted that Germany is practically invulnerable in all human activities. If taken from a Government report, mean anything at all they mean that Germany is not at all well-prepared for any possible siege, such as she seems to be facing. In common with most other countries, in recent years, Germany has experienced a rush of people from the farm to the cities. Her very remarkable industrial progress, indeed, has laid her particularly open to an experience of this kind. The wage attraction in the cities of Germany has grown up much faster than the wage attraction on the farms. In his excellent book, "Germany of To-day," Charles Tower mentions the concern with which German statesmen have watched the people rush from the land to the cities in recent times. It is true that part of Germany's preparation against war of late years has included the training of women to work the farms in the absence of the men, but the results of a given period of farming with feminine labor cannot be anything like the harvest gathered by men, especially when one bears in mind the dislocation of all the natural arteries of internal trade in Germany by the calling of all but old men and young boys to the colors.

The policy adopted by Great Britain in maintaining her mastery of the seas is founded upon the soundest economic conclusions. The modern trend of life in every country has increased the value of the strongest naval arm in the world. When searching for a possible weak place in Germany's armor, one cannot overlook the fact that her very important import trade has been cut off. That development, undoubtedly, is making life harder in Germany as this moment, and may well come to be a vital factor in bringing the present war to its only possible conclusion—the defeat of Germany.

ANIMAL NAMESAKES

Rachel Was a Hebrew Word For Ewe Lamb

Did you ever think about the women's names that owe their origin to animals? It is a strange gathering of animals that such names honor, if we do stop to think of them.

For one, there is the name Rachel, which the Hebrews gave in honor of the lamb—surely a good enough symbol for any woman. For Rachel meant a ewe lamb to the Hebrews. Agnes, too, is a name that owes much to the lamb, for though Agnes is not really a lamb—it means purity—both the name Agnes and the Greek word for lamb come from the source. All through the ages, too, Agnes has been considered as the equivalent for lamb, and if so many persons had not always thought that Agnes actually was first given in honor of this gentlest of beasts, it is quite likely there would never have been so many Agneses.

The dove, too, is another likely member of the animal kingdom to have human namesakes. There is the Hebrew dove, Jemima, and there is the Latin dove, Columba, neither very usual names to-day. It is somewhat strange that there have not been many Columbas in Canada and the United States. Surely the dove is worthy enough, and any American Columba would be honoring good old Christopher Columbus as well as the gentle bird.

The bee is about the only insect that ever gained feminine namesakes. Deborah was a name given by the Hebrews for the bee, and owing to its popularity among the Puritans there is still to be found an occasional Deborah in Canada. Melissa, the Greek name for bee, is seldom found nowadays, although sometimes we come across it in romances.

Tabitha and Dorcas are both names that owe their origin to the gentle gazelle—although Dorcas, in its meaning, suggests nothing of the animal's gentleness, for the name signifies dark and beautiful eyes.

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Campany re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs — all young foxes— good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leavinb $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:— "We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalise your concern at $60,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

All cheques must be made payable to "The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Ltd."

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you.

We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business— and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

Germans Claim No Definite Results In Battle of Aisne

The surest way of raising the siege of the temporary Belgian capital would be by the French turning movement on the Oise. Neither the German nor French commanders have claimed any decision in this unprecedented struggle.

Indeed, the German report states that nothing decisive has yet resulted from the attacks and counter-attacks in the district extending from Lille to Roye by way of Lens, Arras and Albert.

The most recent British victim of mines is the steamer Ardmount, which is variously reported as sent to the bottom by British and German mines. The official report is not yet available, but it is claimed that if steamers are following the sailing directions there is no danger to them from the British mine field. This mine field is now regarded, it is said, as essential as it has securedly sealed the channel in preparation for a period of fogs in long nights when the lookout by aircraft will no longer be possible.

Lieut.-Col. Rousset, the military critic of La Liberte, sees in the latest manoeuvres of the Germans somewhat of the daring. A large spreading movement on the flank of an adversary, he says, can have the inconvenience, generally grave, of enlarging the space which exists between the moving troops and those on the front. This must necessarily have a reasonable limit under the risk of transforming the plan into a detached operation simply, which would be very perilous for those executing it. Such a movement moreover, says Lieut.-Col. Rousset, has hardly a chance of succeeding and only so when not discovered, which does not appear to be the case judging from the War Office statements.

C. P. R. TO FRONT IN HOUR OF NEED

Mr. C. H. Baillie, the employment agent of the C.P.R. at Montreal, states that he is busy forwarding groups of labourers to the various points along the C.P.R., where they are needed most. Many requests have come to him, for while, in all the districts there is a certain amount of unemployment, the idle material is not sufficient to meet the new demand, created by the decision of the C.P.R. executive to put on 6,000 men to give work at a time when work is so much desired by many deserving men, who have been thrown out of regular employment. Over 1,000 men have been taken on locally to work at the terminals; others are employed as they are wanted at a distance.

Mr. Baillie stated to The Gazette that the order was a god send to the idle men in the city of whom there were so many. "Of course, we do our best to sift them out a bit," said Mr. Baillie. "We give the preference to British subjects; after that, the Allies. Russians and Belgians; but no Germans or Austrians. The men are grateful for the chance. There are many fellows down on their luck who have been accustomed to different conditions, and duties, yet these are only too willing to take the job that offers.

"Of course, the C.P.R. has a lot of labouring work to do in any case, and it came in handy that the order should be given at such a time. It ought to make other corporations willing to find employment for men to do work— work which might be absolutely necessary and yet which would be of value, if not now, later on. The example of the C.P.R. is encouraging in this regard."

AUSTRIANS ARE MAKING STAND

London, Oct. 7.—Telegraphing from Amsterdam the correspondent of the Reuter Telegram Company says unofficial news has reached there from Budapest to the effect that Austrian troops have attacked the Russian forces in Marmaros county, Hungary, and that the defeat of the Russians is imminent. Small detachments of Russians were engaged by Austrian gendarmes at a point near Beszteremezod. Austrian reinforcements have been despatched to Beszteremezod. All the passes are occupied by the Austrians.

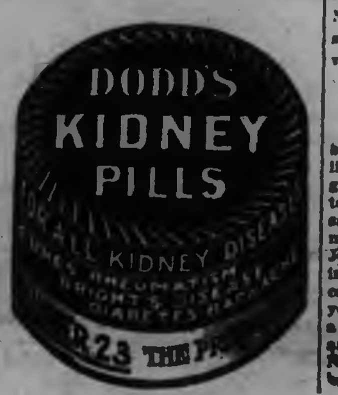
Poor Stock

No dairyman should be satisfied with cows that produce much less than 300 pounds of butter fat per year. Use the Babcock test and dispose of the poor stock.

Saving Labor

In these days of high-priced farm labor or no labor at all, a little gasoline engine that costs around $100 will do more work than three hired men.

A mixture of slaked lime, linseed oil and cotton fibre is used in some portions of Turkey as a substitute for cement.



TOOTHACHE A BLESSING

To endeavor to console a person suffering from the torments of toothache by assuring him that it is really a blessing in disguise might result in a demonstration of a not particularly amiable character. Nevertheless, scientists assure us that it is so. In many cases the only thing that prevents a general poisoning of the system is the decaying of the teeth, sooner or later leaving the nerves exposed. Then the teeth begin to ache, and the pain serves as a timely warning that there is trouble on foot. The dentist is visited in haste, and either the tooth is pulled out or the decay is removed. Thus toothache, a blessing very much in disguise, warns us in time to prevent serious illness.

Doctors are continually pointing out that if the teeth are not looked after properly germs collect in them and on the gums, and there are statistics available showing that quite a large percentage of sufferers from blood-poisoning and other troubles became ill in the first place through harmful microbes in the mouth.

Not only toothache, however, but any form of pain, serves a highly useful purpose. An aching head is often a signal that we need more rest, recreation, and sleep; a pain in the stomach is Nature's way of calling attention to the fact that we have been eating or drinking unwisely. Most of us, undoubtedly, would have died long before our time were it not for these timely warnings which Nature gives now and then in the shape of little aches and pains in various parts of the body.

Football Not Pingpong

In a Yale scrimmage practice one big chap smashed through a guard and lit into the man opposite him in rugged fashion. He helped his opponent to his feet at the end of the play, saying: "Excuse me, old man, I didn't mean to get into you so hard." Coach Jones heard the remark and strode into the mix-up. "Here you," he said, calling to the humble one, "what are you excusing yourself for? This is a man's game. I don't want to hear any more of this 'excuse me' business. Now give us your signal, Mr. Quarterback."

An Appeal to the Intelligent Investor !

Does a logical presentation of a good investment interest you? Do you believe there is an oil in commercial quantities in Alberta? If you are alive to the situation you do. Then it will pay you to investigate our proposition and our holdings.

Please Read Carefully and Note!

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascer-tained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. Dunn chose wisely in the selection of the now famous Monarch well. WINDSOR OILFIELDS, LIMITED, has holdings located close to the Monarch.

THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). cf a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

Our holdings consist of 1380 acres, carefully selected and judiciously spread over the entire oil field.

Hot Lake at Banff is Reached by a Tunnel

Few persons ever heard of a defunct geyser, but they are not uncommon. It is said that that beautiful widening of the Mississippi River known as Lake Pepin is really a defunct geyser or perhaps the crater of a volcano, but the most remarkable one on this continent is near Banff, the Canadian summer resort.

Here is a large cave or chamber within a mountain, and in its centre is a small, hot lake. The domelike roof comes to an apex some twenty feet above the water, and in this is an opening, or vent, two feet or so in diameter, which pierces the rock roof six or eight feet until it reaches the outer air. This is thought by scientists to be an extinct geyser, and that the vent in the roof has been caused by the eruption of the waters.

One reaches this hot pool now by means of a tunnel, but formerly it was necessary to descend through the vent, and a story is told of a distinguished Canadian official who, some years ago, tried to make the descent. Half way down the shaft this corpulent person stuck—to the alarm of himself and friends. He remained a fixture for some time, in spite of strong language on his part and various devices used by outsiders for his extraction.

The entrance tunnel was afterwards constructed by the Canadian Government, but the process of squeezing through the hole, leaving some cuticle in the descent, and the knowledge that a slip would mean a ducking in a hot lake below was a novel experience that the tunnel cannot furnish.

TASTES OF THE FAMOUS

It is well known that people of artistic temperament have idiosyncracies which sometimes amount to a positive weakness. Colonel Roosevelt has put himself on record as preferring skimmed milk and doughnuts to champagne. Madame Bernhardt has an inordinate fondness for Belgian artichokes and truffles; Coquelin could make a meal on jar after jar of pate de fois gras; Byron said that he got his strongest stimulant from successive doses of Rochelle salts; Schiller had a mania for dried apples; the late Pierpont Morgan was never so happy as when leaning over a live broiled lobster and a glass of sparkling Burgundy; Balzac shortened his life by over-indulgence in the blackest of Arabian Mocha; Dr. Johnson could drink oceans of Oolong; De Maupassant wrote his greatest work while snuffing and chewing opium, and Mark Twain was seldom seen without a big black cigar between his lips.

A UNIQUE STRUCTURE

An Interesting Bridge Crosses a Gorge in Indo-China

What is claimed to be one of the most interesting railway structures in the world is the bridge over the Faux Namti gorge in Indo-China, where, owing to the peculiar difficulties in the way of building a bridge of any type, it was necessary to adopt a special design suited to the only method of erection that seemed possible.

The sides of the gorge, according to a writer in Popular Mechanics, are practically vertical and have no chance of the approach to the bridge from either side except through tunnels.

The track grade is 335 feet above the river, so that no system of falsework could be used in building the bridge, while cantilevers were out of the question owing to the lack of "elbow room."

The design finally adopted consisted of two steel trusses, each hinged at the cliff side, which were erected in a vertical position and then lowered so that the ends met, forming a structure of inverted V-shape.

The ends of the two trusses were firmly connected, steel towers were erected on the humps of the trusses and on this support the steel deck truss, carrying the track, was placed. At the beginning of the work it was necessary to let the workmen down by ropes from the tunnel mouth to prepare the foundations of the supporting trusses.

The track trusses were built in the tunnels and were then moved into position on rollers. From end to end this bridge measures 220 feet 4 inches, while the distance between the heels of the supporting trusses is 180½ feet.

VERY LATEST DISEASE

Wireless Operators Are Victims Partly Because of Cramped Quarters

Every new invention seems to add at least one to the already long list of ills to which the human race is liable. Wireless telegraphy is no exception to this rule, for German physicians have discovered a brand new disease which claims for its victims the operators of wireless instruments on shipboard.

The disease is a form of anaemia, characterised by great weakness of mind and body. An analysis of the blood of sufferers from it shows a surprising decrease in the number of red corpuscles. This "wireless debility" is believed to be due partly to the small, unsanitary quarters which shipowners provide for their faithful wireless operators, and partly to the excessive ozonizing of the air by the high frequency currents of electricity required to operate powerful wireless plants.

This latter cause of the disease adds new strength to science's case against ozone. It used to be thought that the more ozone we got the better, but now it is known that except in very minute quantities it is extremely harmful.

PLENTY OF LAWYERS

Toronto Has More Than Enough—Big Pay at the Top

Toronto supports about 900 lawyers. Every year adds to the number, out of all proportion to the amount of business offering. In the words of a leading barrister, "Toronto has room about for thirty per cent. of the available law offices. Excess of lawyers always means an artificial stimulation of 'custom' in the form of unnecessary processes of law."

Taking the generally-accepted opinion of professional leaders that if all earnings of barristers in Toronto were pooled the average would be found about two thousand dollars a year, it means that $1,800,000 or thereabouts is paid by the public of Toronto for legal services annually, although a generous slice of that must come from the Province of Ontario. Several hundred barristers here do not approach the two thousand salary, but their salaries is considerably balanced by the reported earnings of E. A. Lash from his 'unit' practice' alone, which is placed at [illegible] a year, and of Mr. [illegible] who refuses to [illegible] a guarantee of from [illegible] to [illegible] per day, [illegible] and [illegible]

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

ishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't get into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles. Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser, Gold Dust will save half the time you spend in washing dishes.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

How People Feel
When They Have Tape
Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830 or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

SENSE OF HUMOR

Laughter One of the Finest Tonics For Jaded Nerves

Women ought to develop a sense of humor, because laughter was one of the finest tonics for jaded nerves and tired-out systems, said Professor Earl Barnes, of Toronto, in a lecture on "Recreation as a Constructive Force in Life." The human system broken down either by overwork or by working in one particular groove to the detriment of the other part of the nervous system demanded, said the professor, a "pick-me-up" of some sort, and one was laughter. A man or woman with a tired-out feeling might work himself or herself into a second or a third wind as it were and in the end accomplish something brilliant, but that was more frequently than not the way to physical and mental destruction. Men and women must have a distinct change of life after an arduous day's work. Merely going off to sleep was not sufficient. Dealing with the problem of recreation as a form of rest, Professor Barnes said England had $250,000,000 invested in permanent paid players engaged in sport, and Scotland out of her 16,000,000 acres devoted 3,000,000 of these to sport. It was a pity that women had so little interest in organised sport, which was a recreative of marvelous power. Music and art were not forms of recreation unless those educational senses had been trained. When men and women balanced their lives with a sufficient amount of recreation they had arrived at a very large solution of the problem of human life.

CAUSE OF TIDES

Many people regard the rise and fall of the ocean as a profound and baffling mystery. The mystery is not very hard to understand. As all know, the surface of the ocean rises and falls twice in every lunar day this rise appearing along a coast to be a horizontal motion—always ebbing or flowing.

Now the lunar day consists of about twenty-five hours. Thus, of course the "time" of the tides varies each day. The tides, moreover, do not always rise to the same height. Every fortnight, with the new and full moon they rise very much higher than at other times.

These high tides are called "spring" tides, the alternating low tides being termed "neap." When the moon is nearest the earth, the rise and fall of the ocean is markedly increased. Thus the spring tides are greatest at the equinoxes—that is, at the end of March and the end of September.

Yes, you say, but what has the moon to do with it at all? Surely it is the sun which attracts the earth.

That is so. But, although the sun's attraction on the earth is far greater than the moon's, the moon is so very much nearer to the earth that the difference between its attraction at the centre and on the surface is three times as great as the sun's. And it is this difference which causes tides.

NORTHERN ONTARIO HAS GREAT FUTURE

Uninhabited Wilderness of Forests and Lakes Being Transformed Into Peopled Region

Without attracting much notice from the older and more settled parts of Canada, the northern portion of Ontario is being gradually transformed from an uninhabited wilderness of forests and lakes into a civilized region dotted with small towns and homesteads with a strong individuality of its own.

A traveller who recently visited Northern Ontario expressed himself enthusiastically with regard to the prospects of that portion of the Dominion.

"In ten years that country will be like a new Province," he said. "It will not be like old Ontario—not in the least. Neither will it be like the Western plains or like British Columbia. I am not speaking in a partisan way when I say that the future administration of old Ontario will have to stretch their powers and their imaginations in order to do justice to this new region. In fact, it is going to be hard to treat it as part of old Ontario. That clay belt will support an enormous population. There will be great cities up there and whole counties that know not Toronto, except as a far-off report."

The speaker went on to point out that when New Ontario is once developed it will have a strong set of characteristics of its own. He pointed out that the very toil which is necessary in order to clear the land will call for the best kind of settlers and will bring out rugged qualities in the children of these settlers. The population of New Ontario is still small. It is getting a splendid type of settler, chiefly from Old Ontario, but many are men from Europe, who have been employed in the mines to the south, and who have reverted to the soil. The farmers of this region are producing excellent foodstuffs and finding ready markets in the mining camps to the south. They pay little attention to wheat growing except on a small scale. Practically every farm, no matter how small the clearing, is going in for mixed farming.

MAINTAIN THE WOODLANDS

Too Little Attention to the Subject by the General Public

Prof. E. J. Zavitz, Provincial forester, in speaking of the results of co-operative work in forestry in Ontario, said two hundred thousand trees had been placed last year in 29 counties of the province. The department had a plantation in every county, and the trees put out have been planted in waste types of soil, in blow sand steep hillsides, etc. They prove a big factor in the protection of roads from the drift sand and landslides. There is only nine per cent. of woodlands in southern Ontario, less even than in closely populated Great Britain, the speaker said. The quality of our forests also is not improving, as the best trees are being cut down and not replaced. Labor, or the want of it is partly to blame for the fact that we do not keep up our woodlands, but the professor hinted that indifference, and the fact that there was no immediate return, was the chief factor. In Norfolk County there are one million trees in the nurseries and sixteen thousand acres in connection for experimental planting. Prof. Zavitz, however, is quite frank about the fact that but little encouragement, much too little, is given by farmers and the general public on the subject of reforestation. Especially is this pronounced when we consider that trees can be had for the asking.

Discovery in Potatoes

Three French scientists, Dr. Sartory, M. M. Gradist, and M. Thiebert, announced successful results of their experiments to restore the constitution of the potato. They discovered that edible tubers can be obtained from potato seeds with the aid of a certain microscopic ground mushroom, which fastens to the roots and causes tuberization desired.

Experiments produced potatoes free from disease, and savants assert the regeneration of the potato is now assured. Important economic results are expected.

How Musicians Are Produced

Great composers and musicians have always sprung from people who had a folk music. In Germany, in Italy, in France, in Hungary, it has been so. Long ago, when the common people of England were instinctively musical, England produced the greatest songs and the greatest composers. When England began to get its musicians, and to take its musical standards from the Continent, the popular music was shamed out of existence, and the race of English musicians died the death.

Was Expert Ground-keeper

The late John T. Murphy, for more than ten years ground-keeper at the Polo Grounds, New York, was known almost from coast to coast for his remarkable ability at turning up a baseball diamond.

Mr. Murphy was born in Toronto, sixty years ago, and when 20 years old moved to Indianapolis, where he took up the profession of landscape gardening. It was this knowledge gained in early manhood that made him recognised as the most expert keeper of athletic fields on this continent.

ADDRESS ON "CANADA" TO SCOTCH AUDIENCE

Near and Dear to the Scots—Most Akin to Scotland, of all Colonies

At a lecture on Canada given in Perth by Rev. W. Baird, of Edinburgh, the chairman, Mr. W. Lindsay, introducing the lecturer, said that Canada was near and very dear to all Scots, for out of the many colonies of the Empire it stood foremost and most akin to us. Why? Because though first discovered by a Genoese trader from Bristol, and afterwards successfully settled by the Norman-French, it was not until that outstanding Scotsman—rather Franco-Scot—John Law, an Edinburgh goldsmith—who found it convenient to transfer his interests to Paris, where he founded a famous bank—turned his attention to colonising Canada with Scots, that thus began the westward trend of our race. Then followed the rush of Scots exiles after the Jacobite Rebellion of 1715, and anew began the interest of the Scots in the St. Lawrence. The exodus was followed later, and especially after 1745, by many Scots to seek fresh fortune in the West. Previous to this, however, and in the reign of James VI. and I. of England, Sir William Alexander secured a charter to found Nova Scotia, or New Scotland—the territory to be an appanage of the Kingdom of Scotland, and to be erected into two chief districts, viz., (1) Caledonia (now Nova Scotia) and (2) Alexandria (now New Brunswick.) To further make it homelike for the Scot some of the rivers were renamed, Tweed, Clyde, Forth, etc., but to still further popularize the movement a new order of baronets of Nova Scotia was instituted.

A Great Movement

Then commenced the great movement of Scots to the new Acadia, and from time to time they were followed by other bands of determined Scots, until about the years 1783-4-5, when the clearance of the Highland glens took place, and the Scots surged across the Atlantic to form that well known settlement, Glengarry, Ontario. Thereafter ship after ship brought its contingent of clansmen from old Scotland's shores. The names of the clans were: M'Donald, M'Donell, M'Millan, M'Dougall, M'Rae, M'Leod, Grant, Cameron, M'Gillis, Kennedy, M'Lennan, Campbell, M'Intosh, M'Gillivray, M'Kinnon, M'Pherson, Fraser, M'Phee, M'Intyre, Ross, Chisholm, M'Gregor, Ferguson, M'Laren, M'Kenzie, Morrison, M'Cormick, M'Martin, M'Kay, M'Arthur, M'Lachlan, Cattanach. In 1852 they numbered 9,965 souls in Glengarry, Ontario. Thus did the Scots win the East, but no less had they since won the West, and at the present time over a million Scots were located in and over the Dominion of Canada, and it may be taken as a surety that very few homes in Scotland at the present time but had some relationship with Scots o'er the water.

Who Should Emigrate

The chairman, in moving a vote of thanks, said that no one should emigrate unless he felt his present position did not give him scope for his abilities, nor afford sufficient remuneration for his toil. Nor should anyone emigrate if his circumstances were such that he is well off in this country. However, if after careful consideration of the matter and good prospects were held out by friends already settled across the seas, then it might be well to go forth with the hope of some success. It was important, however, to emphasize what the lecturer had said, that it must not be expected when they reached the other side they would find "a land flowing with milk and honey." They would find a land of opportunity for those who were willing to tackle hard work, and who had plenty of grit and courage to face difficulties.

Alum is well known to be a powerful astringent, and should never be used in food.

Prof. Geo. F. Barker, M.D., of the University of Pennsylvania, says: "I consider the use of alum baking powder highly injurious to health."

No Local Danger.

Dr. Clinton, District Medical Health Officer of Belleville, was in the city yesterday investigating the South Ward epidemic of diphtheria. He told the Times last night that the trouble has been successfully met and that he is against closing the local schools. Last night he conferred with Dr. MacPherson, M.H.O. on the subject.

Local Cheese Board.

The regular meeting of the Cheese Board was held yesterday morning. Messrs. Morton and Cook, of Belleville, Flavelle, of Lindsay, and G. A. Gillespie, buyers, were present. The highest figure ever paid on the local market was bid by Mr. Cook. He called a number of factories at 15 1-8 cents, while Mr. Gillespie took the balance of the board at 15 1-6 cents.

A Lawyer's Handwriting

At yesterday's police court a local lawyer, to test a Chinaman's knowledge of reading English to prove the latter's testimony as to identification of alleged stolen bank bills, wrote the words "Royal," "Ottawa" out of the three words. The second "Montreal." The witness read two word puzzled him and also the interpreter. The word was shown to His Worship who remarked "I don't blame you. That's a lawyer's writing!"

A Lindsay Burglary.

Burglars, evidently of a youthful age, made a bold attempt to rob the hardware store of Mr. D. Cinnamon early Sunday morning, the robbery being successful to the extent of fifty cents in coppers. Goods, usually found in a hardware store, may have been purloined, but as yet the proprietor has missed nothing but the half hundred coppers. If the thieves (for it is believed that there were two or three) were youths they were bold, also adroit and physically quick. Their means of ingress was through the rear of the store. By some means they were able to climb up a distance of some ten feet along side a window and hoist themselves on to a bridge, which spans across the laneway at the rear of the store, connecting the main store with the tinsmith department.—Warder.

Chamberlain Stock Company.

Manager Ivan Wickens will present to the theatregoers of Peterborough in the Grand Opera House during the week of Oct. 12th, the popular actor, H. Webb Chamberlain, surrounded by a Company of capable players. This company is thoroughly equipped in every respect.

During the week's engagement the play is changed nightly and mounted with new scenery especially built.

Between the acts will be introduced a number of new vaudeville numbers, making each performance continuous. This company is guaranteed to give complete satisfaction.

A special Thanksgiving Day Matinee will be given and during the entire engagement the prices will be no higher than 10c, 20c, and 30c.

Diphtheria in South Ward.

At the Board of Health meeting of yesterday morning Medical Health Officer McPherson made a report regarding diphtheria in the southern part of the city. There had been six cases in the city and six just outside the city limits. Three deaths had resulted from the ravages of the disease. Dr. Clinton, District Health Officer, was present. There was some talk of closing the Lake Street Separate School on account of the spread of the epidemic, but he recommended that the school be left open. It was moved by Mayor Buller, seconded by Mr. Murty, that the chairman, Dr. Clinton and Dr. MacPherson confer with the Rev. Father O'Brien and take the necessary steps to stamp out the diphtheria. Carried.

IF CHILD IS CROSS FEVERISH AND SICK

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sours, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Although the opening article in the October number of Rod and Gun in Canada magazine, published by W. J. Taylor, Ltd., Woodstock, Ont., is descriptive of a notable Canadian Canoe Race in which canoe men racing on the Lievre and Ottawa Rivers covered over two hundred miles in sixty hours, the table of contents shows a predominance of big game hunting stories. "How 1913 Turned Out Lucky for One Bull Moose" is the story of a moose hunt in Quebec Wilds; "An Unusual Hunting Trip" describes an American sportsman's outing after moose in New Brunswick forests; while "Moose Hunting in the Riding Mountains of Manitoba" tells of a winter hunt in that province. "Trapped" is an amusing story of how a Western sportsman outwitted the R.N.W.M.P. representative. Other stories and the regular departments make up an interesting big game issue for Canadian sportsmen.

COMERADESHIP IN THE FIELD

English newspapers which have been received contain a pleasant anecdote of the fighting at Mons. It comes from the French paper the Liberte, and concerns a Scottish regiment which is not named. This regiment was occupying a trench, swept by violent rifle fire and artillery fire, when two privates noticed that a Frenchman attached to the battalion as interpreter occupied the most exposed spot in the trench. One private said: "The Frenchman is badly placed; let's widen his trench," and during a minute, paying no attention to the hail of bullets and shrapnel, the privates deepened the trench, and with the same calm resumed their places.

FREE POLAND AN INEVITABLE RESULT OF THE EUROPEAN WAR

We are passing from surprise to surprise. After seeing a heroic and unconquerable army emerge from the factories and mines of Belgium are we about to see in the far east of Europe Poland issue forth alive from the monstrous sepulcher in which it has been lying for more than half a century?

One would say so. The three empires that were the executioners of Poland have become all at once its fondest friends. War had scarcely been declared before the report that Russian Poland had revolted was circulated in Austria.

All at once the German and Austrian newspapers announced that Germany and Austria proposed to free Russian Poland from the Muscovite yoke. Immediately the Austrian and German governments began trying various means of courting the Poles.

The czar in his turn replied with a master stroke. In a solemn proclamation he promised that if Russia were victorious he would do nothing less than reconstitute under his scepter the kingdom of Poland, its own administration, its own language, its own education, its own religion.

There is no doubt that of the three Polands the Prussian is that which in the last thirty years has had to maintain the severest struggle. There is but one reason, and it is simple. Prussia has never been content to rule the Poles, but has even sought to Germanize them.

The rapid growth of Prussia in the last two centuries is partly due to the fact that she has succeeded in Germanizing the scattered Polish population she has gradually subjugated. Many of those who are now faithful and fervent Prussians are grandsons and great-grandsons of Poles, whose language, religion, and customs the Prussian administration has changed.

Many of the cities of Eastern Prussia—Dantzig and Koenigsberg for example—were founded by Poles. There is no doubt that as Prussia approached more closely to the heart of ancient Poland she had met a more stubborn resistance, but the Germanization of the Poles is, so to speak, a historic necessity for Prussia.

So the Poles can hope for nothing from Germany, and they know it. Germany may in these days consent to the appointment of some archbishop who is believed of the Poles, but if she wins she will resume the Germanization of her Polish provinces with redoubled vigor. Arrangements and agreements are not possible.

But can Poland hope from Austria the miracle of a partial national resurrection? It would seem so. Austria is an old empire that has rapidly deteriorated in the last few years principally because of her failure to satisfy simultaneously the national aspirations of the Germans, the Czechs, the Hungarians, the Italians, and the southern Slavs, of which she is composed.

But supposing that she should issue victorious from this vast conflict, would she have the power to satisfy, in addition to those that are already worrying her so much the national aspirations of the Polish people, increased in numbers by the annexation of part of Russian Poland? The confusion of that Tower of Babel which is the Austrian empire would be increased.

Russia remains. An ocean of blood and hatred lies between Russians and Poles. Russia, also, like Prussia has ferociously persecuted the Poles; she has tried to Russify them by force; she has persecuted their language, their religion, their national traditions.

Russia is so vast and so populous that she can without any loss, even with advantage to herself, renounce the useless chimera of Russianizing Poland and can unfold the czar's crown into an imperial tiara and a royal diadem.

She will inevitably be driven to do it, however feebly the Poles may be urging her at this moment; for it would be absurd to assume that, while engaging in such a gigantic war on behalf of the Slavs of the south, who are as it were, the cadets of the great family, she should persist in persecuting those of the Slavic peoples who first were civilized and to whom the history of Slavic culture gives the right to be considered the firstborn.

Summing up, an understanding between Germany and Poland seems impossible. Austria has been more friendly or less hostile to Poland, but it does not appear that she can do much in the future for the benefit of the unfortunate nation. Russia has been bitterly hostile, but she might, if she would, roll away the heavy stone from the sepulcher in which Poland was immured alive at the end of the eighteenth century.

This is so true that several years ago, at the close of the war with Japan, the idea of conceding autonomy to Poland was already discussed in Russia, but Germany prevented it. I learned from of the high functionaries of the Russian court that Germany informed St. Petersburg government several years ago, that any concession of automony Russia might make to her Polish subjects would be considered by Germany as a casus belli.

The behavior of the Poles who are subject to Russia is very uncertain. Will they yield to Russia in this supreme hour and become reconciled with the great Slavic power that is holding out its hands to them? Or will they try to embarrass it by revolutionary attempts, as the German newspapers are repeating?

This is one of the many riddles of this tremendous war. The Poles are an ardent, generous, brave, patriotic people, but sometimes too imaginative and inclined to great mystic, impetuous impulses which carry the mind beyond the confines of reality.

The hope that Poland alone, by a miraculous revolution, will be able to overthrow the three empires—the three immeasurable blocks that close her tomb—has long inflamed the minds of many Poles.

It is to be feared that to many Poles a kingdom reconstituted and protection by Russia will not seem that prodigious national resurrection that four generations have awaited with the same faith as that with which the Jews awaited the Messiah.

Then the move of Russia might in part be vain.

Events will tell us which of these hypotheses will be verified. Certain it is that for the Poles also the decisive hour is about to strike.

May their ardent national genius inspire them; may our generation see the close of the long and terrible trial which their nation has undergone. All generous hearts will exult, forgetting the horrors of war, the day on which Poland shall live again among the great civilized states of Europe.

Germans Forced to Retire From Arras-- City Of Antwerp Terribly Situated--Population in Panic

FIERCE BATTLE BETWEEN GERMANS AND RUSSIANS IN EAST POLAND

An Austrian Battalion Completely Annihilated--Russian Advance Into East Prussia Reported Checked on German Ground, Austro-German Attack Repulsed With Heavy Losses From Russian Artillery Fire.

London, Oct. 8.—A Rome despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company states that a message from Budapest announces the almost complete annihilation of an Austrian battalion of Czechs in a fierce encounter with the Russians during the latter's advance on Marmaros-Sziget, in Hungary. Every soldier in the battalion was either killed or wounded it is said.

London, Oct. 8.—The advance guard of the two armies in southern Poland have come into contact and both claim the victory. In the first skirmish, the Vienna general staff says, the Austro-Germany army invading Poland from Cracow, forced the Russians to retreat from Opatow and Klimontow, and is now starting to force them to retreat from the River Dunajec.

The Russian official reports simply announce that this operation is occurring without giving any result but Rome despatches state flatly that the Austro-German attack on the Russians massed along the banks of the Dunajec, and threatening Cracow was repulsed, and that the attacking column was driven back with heavy losses by the Russian artillery fire, from the opposite bank of the Vistula which being in flood, could not be crossed. The Russians also claim to have defeated an Austrian detachment in the Carpathians, westward of the River Sanski, capturing machine guns and prisoners.

On the East Prussian frontier the Russian advance into German territory, after their defeat of the Germans in Russia, seems to have been checked, the Germans having brought up reinforcements from Koenigsberg! They are offering a stubborn opposition on the Vandislavoff-Ratchka front. The former place is on the East Prussian frontier, just north of the Eydkuhnen border station on the Berlin and Petrograd Railway, so that the Russians have regained most of their own territory and at Grajevo and other points have a footing on German territory, while the Germans appear to still be in Russia north of Suwalki.

The next big battle, however, is looked for in southern Poland.

Blunders of German Staff.

Col. Repington, the Times' military expert, discussing the German strategy, points out serious mistakes made by the general staff. "The withdrawal of a group of army corps from France before a decision has been secured in the west and a month before these corps were needed in the west was an appalling blunder and the miscalculation which allowed the Austro-Hungarian army to be struck to earth before the German troops could adequately succor it was a second error big with consequences. It was a smart stroke on Gen. Von Hindenburg's part and on that of the Prussian railways to mass troops rapidly for the coup against Sasonoff, but a premature and futile advance to Niemen was thrown back with such heavy loss as to give evidence of no sense of proportion in the German command. When the history of the tactless proceedings of the last two months is written it will pay a higher tribute to the leading of the Grand Duke Nicholas and General Joffre than to that of the great general staff of Berlin, which has little of Von Moltke about it except the name."

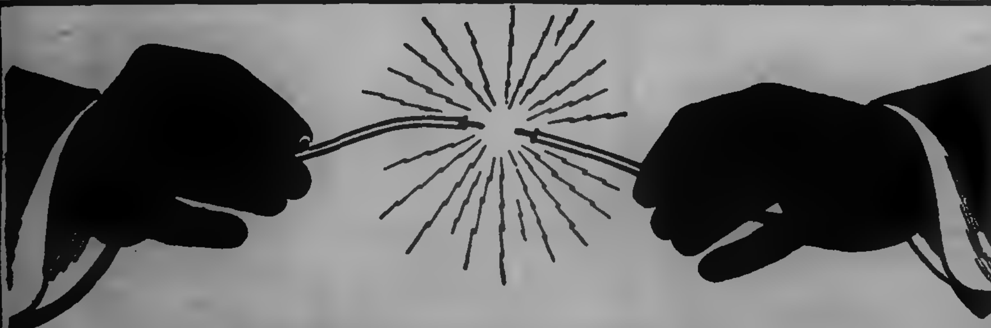
O. G. Hall Guilty Of Forgery Sentence Was Postponed

Toronto, Oct. 8.—The plea of "not guilty" entered this morning was changed to one of "guilty" by Mr. T. C. Robinette, K.C., representing Charles G. Hall when the prisoner was called for trial this afternoon on charges of forgery, in obtaining from Mr. Robertson, of the Maple Leaf Milling Company, the sum of $45,000 on forged bills of loading for shipments of wheat.

Mr. Robinette asked the judge to postpone sentence until certain papers should be obtained, when he will speak to the case again.

Judge Coatsworth decided to postpone sentence until October 21 when the court will re-open.

Crown Attorney Greer asked that the following sums be returned to the company; a cheque for $20,000; the endorsation of a draft for $20,000; the sum of $3,400 cash; and an order for $1,400 on the Automobile Supply Company. This was done.



Thoughts are Sparks

—flashes of the mind that decide for success or failure.

The question is, what kind of sparks does your brain generate?

The brain, like a battery, must be supplied with certain elements to generate thought properly. These brain elements are water, albumen and phosphate of potash. If any of these are lacking in the daily food, brain and body energy are vitally lessened.

Are any lacking? Listen! Water and albumen are plentifully supplied in ordinary food, but phosphate of potash—together with other mineral elements—is almost wholly lacking in white bread and all white flour products.

Struggle In France Is Developing Favorable to Allies Who Advance

French and British Troops Win Ground on the Huge Battle Line--French War Bureau Satisfied With the Situation, Violent Attacks of the Enemy West of Agremont Again Repulsed--Nothing to Report From Centre of Battle

Paris, Oct. 8.—The following official announcement was made in Paris this afternoon:—

"First—On our left wing, in the region of the Department of Norde, the enemy has made progress at no point. At certain points he has moved back particularly to the north of Arras, where the fighting is developing under conditions favorable to us. The operations of the opposing forces of cavalry are developing at the present time almost as far as the seacoast on the north.

"Between the Somme and the Oise, in the vicinity of Roye the enemy is still in force, but we have re-taken the major part of the positions we were obliged to give up.

"To the north of the Aise the numerical strength of the German troops seems to have diminished.

"Second—On the centre, between Rheims and the Meuse, there is nothing to report. On the heights of the Meuse between Verdun and St. Mihiell, the enemy has drawn back to the north of Hattonchatel. He stil holds St. Mihiel and some positions to the north of the St. Mihiel on the right bank of the Meuse.

"In the Woevre district the violent attacks delivered by the enemy to the west of Agremont have failed.

"On our right wing Lorraine and the Vosges, there hasbeen no change.

"In Russia, along the front of East Prussia, the Russian offensive continues. Very spirited fighting is taking place on the frontier to the west of Suwalki."

ANGLISH EXPERT'S VIEW.

London, Oct. 8.—The correspondent of the Times in Paris, commenting on the battle in the north of France, says:

"After 26 days the formidable battle of the Aisne still continues without having given any definite result. The part of the immense front now stretches from the neighborhood of Noyon toward Lassigny, up to the Belgian frontier, formed in part by the River Lys.

"The enemy has made a vigorous effort to break the enveloping movement of the Anglo-French army in the region of Lille, and has made the tactical error of attacking violently the French left wing before effecting the fall of Antwerp. The possible consequences of this dangerous proceeding is accentuated by the despatch of the best army corps Germany possesses against the allies. The German effort was tenacious and delivered with desperation, and already tormented north of France was again the scene of sanguinary encounters, which by their vigor and vastness will live in history."

Germans Want Antwerp For A Second Line Of Defence

London, Oct. 8.—The unexpected fierceness of the German attack on Antwerp, which it is reported is being made by five army corps, has given rise to the opinion among the higher military officers that Germany intends to establish a second line of defence, running from Antwerp to Brussels, Namur, and Metz, upon which it will be possible to retreat in case the German army has to retire from its position along the River Aisne in France.

On account of the Zeppelin's successful attack of Antwerp, The large avenue leading to the railroad station quickly became black with a struggling mass of people eager to escape from the city. Seized with an unreasoning, terrible fear of a bombardment or of a charge of German cavalry, the people are transporting invalids, cripples, and even the occupants of lunatic asylums. It was a pathetic sight to see the poor people, some carrying on their backs their hopelessly maimed or idiotic relatives who were crowded into railroad vans and transported northward to remain in some cattle shed or railroad platform until room can be found for them in Dutch asylums and institutions.

The situation, however, quickly changed again. While at 2 o.clock even grown-up men were weeping with terror and were fighting for places around the railroad station, at six o'clock everybody was again certain that the —— forces would be able to hold out against the Germans and even throw them back across the River Nethe, where everybody was telling his neighbor how far superior the —— guns were to the German heavy artillery! The people who are remaining in the city tonight are taking to the cellars preparing to hear the German spell in the morning.

The Belgian Ministers are trying to reach Ostend through Flanders and via Holland. The Belgian army is marching into the city, tired out, leaving the guarding of the forts for the night to fresh —— troops.

The blanks are given to denote words cut out by the censor. Evidently they relate to forces and guns brought to Antwerp by the British.

ANTWERP SHELLED BY 16-INCH GERMAN GUNS

London, Oct. 8.—Antwerp was subjected to a furious bombardment last night telegraphs the correspondent of The Start, at Ghent.

"Shells from the German 16-inch (42 centimetre) guns were falling early this morning in the Place Verte close to the cathedral."

BRITISH TRADE RETURNS GOOD

Only Cotton Falls Off--Business Overseas Makes Fine Showing

London, Oct. 8.—Even sanguine Englishmen are surprised at the extent of England's overseas business in September, as disclosed today. The official return of imports reached $225,000,000 and exports $130,000,000. The Times concludes that trade is making rapid recovery from the first shock of the war, without reckoning the immense exports of military and naval stores.

Wheat imports increased 40 per cent Cuba, Java, and the West Indies are replacing Germany and Austria as the chief sources of England's sugar supplies. A significant feature is a fifty per cent. increase in coal imports of four of Germany's neutral neighbors, Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden.

Lloyd George, speaking last night, said that only one British trade had been badly injured at the moment, namely, cotton. Undoubtedly distress in industrial Lancashire would be felt this coming winter. The export of cotton yarns and fabrics in September declined $16,000,000. The loss of German trade alone accounts for some of this.

CITY OF ANTWERP BEING HEAVILY BOMBARDED BY BIG GERMAN FORCE

Plucky Belgians are Still Holding Out Against Tremendous Odds--German Offensive Movement Now Approaching the Inner Ring of Forts Around the City--Fighting German Invading Army and the Allies Now Extends Into Belgium

London, Oct. 8.—All eyes today are turned on the devoted City of Antwerp, the fate of which is regarded here from the standpoint of importance as out of all proportion to the numbers of men engaged in its attack and defence.

Germany must not only have Antwerp to keep an open door into France, it is argued here, but she must be prepared to close the back door to Essen a most important German military centre in case the long and stubborn resistance of General Von Kluck, the commander of the German right wing, ends in disaster.

Never during the war has a greater picture of desolation been presented than by the hosts of refugees, who today are fleeing from the last Belgian stronghold. Great crowds of the citizens of Antwerp, dumb with terror, as the huge 42-centimeter shell from the German guns hurtle over their headswith a noise like the passing of an express train, are fleeing toward England and Holland in such numbers that the hospitality of these countries is likely to be taxed to the utmost. The flight of these unfortunate refugees has been accelerated by the appearance over the city of Zeppelin airships, falling bombs from which have wrought destruction and death.

The only ray of hope from the standpoint of the allies is found in the news that the almost exhausted garrison of Antwerp has been reinforced by fresh troops and more guns.

Only One Great Siege Gun.

Up to the present time only one great German siege gun has been brought into play and this piece of artillery is fired only at frequent intervals. Guns half the size of the destroyers of Liege and Namur are being used in the work of battering the ring of forts which surrounds Antwerp.

Both sides confirm the report that the Germans have succeeded in crossing the River Nethe, but the trenches along the River Scheldt are still holding out against their determined attacks. The German offensive movement is now approaching the inner ring of forts around Antwerp, and Berlin reports the capture in the open field of four heavy batteries, fifty-two field guns, and as many machine guns.

As the net is being drawn tighter about the city, the efforts of its defenders are being redoubled; many of their sorties have been marked by sanguinary fighting.

Fighting Extends into Belgium.

According to formal notifications to Antwerp by the German commander, the active bombardment of the city is now under way.

In northeastern France, on the left wing of the allies, the main positions of the contending forces now reach within ten or fifteen miles of the Belgian border, while beyond these points masses of cavalry continue the struggle over the frontier line and into Belgium. Along the greater part of the front, however, the antagonists seem content to watch each other without attempting any definite movements. New German effectives have appeared in the Lille district, and the struggle, now known as the battle of the Three Rivers may decide the issue of the French campaign.

In the east the Russians are battering away at the Przemysl forts which is said to be suffering severely under their artillery fire. All the efforts of the Austrians to relieve this fortress are reported as having been repulsed by the besiegers.

Bitter Struggle in East.

The Russian general staff reports that the German army, defeated on the Niemen River has retreated with much stubbornness to the Russian frontier where it has entrenched itself and Berlin supplements this information with the statement that the Russians have been repulsed with a loss of 5,750 prisoners and nine machine guns. The Germans claim also that in a minor engagement near Ivangorod, southeast of Warsaw, in Russian Poland they were successful having taken 4,800 prisoners.

Petrograd declares that the main conflict along the Vistula River has not as yet developed, although there have been preliminary engagements between advanced forces of the opposing armies.

THINKS CITY SHOULD GO INTO THE BAKING BUSINESS

Editor Morning Times,

Sir,—Now that Canada, together with the rest of the British Empire, is temporarily embarrassed by financial emergencies, I think that tradesmen who take advantage of our present conditions to live on the affliction of those out of work and would exact the last cent from the pockets of soldiers wives and families, and about on the same scale as a man who would stub a helpless child to steal its doll or stick of candy.

I refer, in this letter to certain bakers, who, seemingly consider they have the unfortunate public at their mercy. Flour has gone up about 95c. a barrel. The bakers have made, under old prices and conditions about 65 to 80 per cent profit. I will grant that they are paying a trifle more for flour now. Still with a raise in flour prices of say 25 per cent. have they a right to put a corresponding greater increase in the price of bread? Our people, particularly the poor people must have bread. The wives and families of our soldiers who have gone to the front to fight the Empire's battles, and incidentally to protect those plutocratic bakers, must have bread.

If these would be get-rich-quick bakers insist on a hold up of 2 cents a loaf for their bread the city should at once start a public bakery, or arrange to bring in bread that can be sold at good profit cheaper.

Pipes From the Garden

The Boers of South Africa, very carefully guarded calabash seeds, and high prices were obtained for the gourds to be used for pipes, before the seeds were introduced to other countries. A single African calabash vine yields as many as thirty or forty gourds. Care has, of course, to be taken to train the fruit into pipe shapes, and this is done by laying them during the growing period on small boards, manipulating it so that the gourds harden evenly. Taken when young and pliable the stem of the gourd can be trained into any pipe shape desired. Calabash pipes, as sold on the market, are, of course, fitted with fancy fittings, and the bowl is either made of meerschaum or plaster-of-Paris.

Electric Heater for Bath

An electric heater for bath tub that is said to heat a gallon of water a minute has its heating element radiating from a central hub, like the spokes of a wheel.

AN ECCENTRIC PLAYER

Recruit Catcher Had Queer Ideas and Had Trouble With Trunk

Most ball players have peculiarities of one kind or another. But it remained for a player named Evans, a former Cub catcher recruit, to have a number of them. On a spring training trip several years ago he had the boys wondering what he would do next. Evans was a confirmed pipe smoker. It was seldom out of his mouth. When the other men would be rehearsing on the ball field Evans would be sitting on the bench pulling at his pipe. One day Frank Chance, becoming irritated, ordered him to get behind the plate during batting practice.

The recruit lazily donned his shin-guards and chest-protector. Then, keeping his short black pipe between his teeth, he caught for nearly fifteen minutes, puffing away in a most contented manner.

At Vicksburg, Miss., one day some of the Cubs noticed Evans dig up a little dirt near the plate, place something carefully in the hole and cover it up with exceeding care. He repeated this trick at every stop. Finally they discovered it was a signet ring. He chose this method of protecting it against loss or injury.

He also carried an old trunk along on the trip, bearing a large sign. The motto was, "Handle with care." In this he had nearly five quarts of beef, iron and wine for the purpose of building up his system. He had nearly as much dope as Trainer Semmons had for the entire team. This extract he took religiously three times a day.

One trip his trunk was badly smashed by the baggagemen and several of the bottles broken. It was exceedingly annoying that Evans insisted on lugging the affair along until Secretary Charley Williams objected.

"The railroads absolutely refuse to accept that trunk," said Williams.

So Evans had to purchase another. On this he placed a new sign. It read, "Handle with care, you smashed my last one."

GOLF HAS MANY THRILLS

Making a Hole in One Stroke Enough to Make Any Player Excited

It has been said that golf is not lively or exciting; that it presents few opportunities for either individuals or outsiders to enthuse; that it is too quiet, etc. While there are those ardent devotees of driver and cleek willing to admit that their favorite diversion is not wildly exciting; that opportunities rarely occur for partisan crowds to display their feelings, it is also claimed that golf unquestionably has its thrills.

For those having once experienced the sensation of making a hole in 1 it is needless to attempt to describe the feeling of exhilaration experienced by the lucky player as he sees his ball disappear in the cup. Many holes have been made in a single stroke that have always been more or less doubtful. Players have played over rising ground to blind greens and after searching for a considerable length of time have at last found "a ball" in the hole. On such occasions there is always an element of uncertainty.

Furthermore, jokes have been played on unsuspecting golfers, probably the most cruel one being that at the expense of a fat man and woman at a match several years ago. As a passerby stood near one of the greens of the course in question he noticed two balls, one after the other, land on the green in front of him. They had evidently come from the tee, which could not be seen from the green. Scarcely had the balls come to rest ere a couple of boys dashed from behind a clump of bushes, picked up the balls, dropped them in the hole, and scampered away as quickly as they had come. In a few moments the pair unsuspectingly came to the green and began looking for the balls. Finally the man casually beckoned his companion to see what he saw.

"Great Scott!" he shouted. "We have both holed out in one. Did you ever see anything like that?" Then they proceeded to rush to the club house to tell the wonderful tale, which undoubtedly they are still relating.

A Nautical Innovation

A novel feature of the Royal Holland Lloyd liner "Gelria" is the manner in which the name of the liner is displayed, either when passing stations or other ships or when lying in crowded harbors, says "Electricity."

The boat is fitted between the two funnels with an electric sign lantern 28 feet long by 6 feet deep, made of galvanized iron and bracing angles. The letters are fixed on both sides, and are colored red on the port side and green on the starboard, with white enamelled lettering for use in the daytime. The lettering is illuminated by lamps aggregating 3,000 candle-power.

News bulletins taken by wireless were displayed on a moving train, when passengers on the Lackawanna Railroad were astonished to see the latest foreign and home despatches spread before their eyes as they were being whirled along at sixty miles an hour. The "Scranton Times" sent 250 words from the Lackawanna wireless station to the moving train, the messages dealing with internal and external affairs. A few days previously the same railway company successfully experimented, with the transmission by wireless of running orders to a train staff.

PRODUCERS RATHER THAN MIDDLEMEN

W. H. Cushing of Calgary, Alberta, Speaks of the Need of Settlers on the Land

Mr. W. H. Cushing, in referring to Alberta as the land of opportunity, says:

"There is no country like it for the young man providing he is sensible and does not insist on getting rich quick. Think of it! 100,000,000 acres of the finest agricultural land in the world, and only 2,000,000 acres of it under cultivation! Too many are going to the cities and too few back to the land. We want producers more than middlemen in the West. Industry and patience are all that is necessary to win for the ambitious at least a comfortable competence in Alberta." Mr. Cushing does not see any danger ahead because of exhaustive wheat growing. Optimist that he is, he says that it is questionable whether the sponge-like soil of the prairies could be robbed of its virtue no matter how many crops were taken from it. Certainly it would not deteriorate if given proper care and a rest occasionally. Even admitting that the wheat growers were taxing their land in the effort to grow wealthy quickly, the danger faded away when it was remembered that but little over 2 per cent. of the agricultural land had yet been ploughed. "Alberta," concludes Mr. Cushing, "stands on immense beds of coal, deposits of gas, oil, etc. In the north, there are large tracts of practically pure salt and other valuable minerals abound. All this is in addition to her agriculture. Who can predict what lies in front of such a storehouse of natural wealth? As I said before, I am firmly convinced that, for the young man, Alberta is the land of opportunity."

LIFE AFTER FORTY

The best half of life is in front of the man of 40, if he be anything of a man. The work he will do will be done with the hands of a master and not of a raw apprentice. The trained intellect does not see "men as trees walking," but sees everything clearly and in just measure. The trained temper does not rush at work like a blind bull at a haystack, but advances with the calm and ordered pace of conscious power and deliberate determination. To no man is the world so new and the future so fresh as to him who has spent the early years of his manhood in striving to understand the deeper problems of science and life, and who has made some headway toward comprehending them. To him the commonest things are rare and beautiful, both in themselves and as parts of a beautiful and intelligent whole. Such a thing as staleness in life and its duties he cannot understand. Knowledge is always opening out before him in wider expanses and more commanding heights. The pleasure of growing knowledge and increasing power makes each year of his life happier and more hopeful than the last.

VICE-ADMIRAL R. H. S. STOKES who was appointed to succeed Vice-Admiral Sir C. H. Coke as senior officer on the coast of Ireland.

Perpetuating Game

Large game preserves have recently been set aside in Somaliland, Uganda and other British protectorates in Africa, in which the hunting is prohibited of elephants, giraffes, rhinoceroses and other valuable game in danger of extinction. This policy has also proved successful in perpetuating the game supply on certain Dominion Forest Reserves in Western Canada, and as occasion demands the number of these game preserves will be increased.

Rescue Frozen Birds

The monks of St. Bernard's monastery in the Alps have lately been extending to birds the hospitality which they offer to travelers overtaken by storm. During a heavy snowstorm they saw a dense black cloud of migrating swallows approach. Immediately all the windows of the monastery were opened, and a few moments later halls and cells were filled with thousands of the half-frozen birds. There the little travellers spent the night in safety, and next morning they flew through the open windows and set out once more on their long journey to the south.

Sea birds, sensitive to pending changes in the weather, fly inland at the approach of stormy weather in quest of food.

Is the Modern Woman on a Marriage Strike?

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

MRS. RHETA CHILDE DORR says that women are going on a marriage strike—unless immorality among men is eradicated.

There's nothing wrong with that statement, Mrs. Dorr—except this: Women are not going on a marriage strike unless the men behave—they've gone.

Twenty years ago every girl who graduated from high school or from the convent wanted to be married, or at least engaged to be married, before she'd been out of school a year.

Forty years ago every unmarried woman over 20 had to be prepared to give an account of herself to any one who cared to ask. She was a freak—and she knew it—and nobody tried to keep her from knowing it in the least.

Today the intelligent girl who marries before she is 25 is the—"freak."

I spent the Christmas vacation with a lot of young people home from various schools for a good time.

Some of them were clever and some of them were stupid, some of them were sensible and some were silly. They all liked to have what they called "a good time," but every one of them was scared blue at the idea of falling seriously in love. We talked about it one day, some of the girls and I.

"Love," said one of the girls—and she was the prettiest one of the lot, too—"no, thank you, not for me. I saw my aunt die by inches because she loved my uncle—and my uncle treated her as seven out of ten men seem to treat their wives.

"He gave her a fine home and a limousine and plenty of good clothes—and we all knew all the time about The Other Woman.

"We couldn't help it. I'd rather die than care enough for any man on earth to let him treat me like that."

Faith and Public Opinion.

"No love for mine," said a Smith College girl. "A home some day, yes—an establishment, a place of my own in the world—a husband—and children. I sha'n't marry a man unless I respect him, but I do hope I shall never be fool enough to fall so dead in love with a man that I couldn't live without him, even if he did act like a cruel fool."

"Marriage," said the boarding school girl, "I suppose so. Nobody seems to be able to get out of it—for long. Mother says it's a necessary evil."

And so the talk went, and they meant it—every word of it, these little, soft-eyed, round-cheeked, slender things not long out of their mothers' arms.

That's what comes, ladies and gentlemen, of allowing women to learn to read and write.

The modern woman is not going to live with the man who is unfaithful to her—and let's her know it. Public opinion will not let her do it.

It used to take pride to make a woman stay with a man, even when she knew that he was dead in love with some one else—and didn't care whether she knew it or not. Now it is her pride that makes her leave him.

I do not, for myself, agree with this point of view. To me love is just one of the things in marriage—the most important thing, to be be sure—but only one thing after all.

There is the home; there are the children; there is the whole structure of the family. I do not see that it is right to tear all these things down just to try to be "free" and "happy" yourself.

Happiness is not the only word in the dictionary of life. Way up in the first volume there's a little word called Duty that seems to me to mean a good deal—after all.

Women are too much like men—these days—and I confess I do not quite see where, in the new scheme of things, the children are going to come out. Or the family—or the home.

Gone Because Unappreciated.

It is not important that Mrs. Mary Smith is a happy woman. It is important that she is a good woman, and that she keeps the flame burning on the hearth at home. But the modern woman will not keep that flame burning—alone.

I believe that the woman who would was the higher and the nobler type of woman. But, gentlemen, you didn't appreciate her—and she's going so fast that in another generation she'll be a tradition—and a tradition alone—like the ox team that grandpa drove grandma home in, after the wedding out in Wisconsin 60 years ago.

The new girl isn't half so sweet and, perhaps, half so good and noble as her old-fashioned mother—but she is the girl of the period. And if you live in this period you've got to live with her—or without her completely.

Between you and me, I'm afraid we women have the best of the bargain. A woman can live without a man a great deal easier than a man can live without a woman.

A woman can make a home out of a hall bedroom and an oil heater—and a man can't even make a home out of the finest club that was ever founded—and in the human heart there is planted deep a love and a longing for home that nothing on earth will ever supplant.

If you want a home, Mr. Man, you will have to have a wife. And if you want to keep a wife these days you'll have to behave yourself.

Mrs. Rheta Childe Dorr says so—and the only thing wrong about her statement is that she should have made it in the present tense—instead of the future.

It is a condition, gentlemen—and not a theory—that confronts us. Dear me, how serious it does begin to look—to some people!

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

I have a friend who lives in a village not far from a great city. She has few gentlemen friends, but is very fond of society, and she likes to go to all of the entertainments, but is especially fond of the theatre.

Now, there is a young gentleman with whom she is acquainted who has an automobile, but who is very bashful.

She believes that he would take her automobiling or would go with her to the city to attend the theatre if she would ask him. She hesitates, however, to ask him, because she thinks such a course would be improper. She has asked me for advice, and I am at a loss what to say.

Will you kindly tell me whether or not my friend ought to take the initiative and ask the gentleman?

QUERRY.

NO, Query, she ought not to take the initiative and ask the gentleman. Run as fast as you can when you see him coming, you foolish, foolish girl you, because I don't believe you wrote that letter for a friend, Query: I believe you wrote it for yourself. And it's about time you had some advice of some sort.

Why do you think the man wants to take you automobiling when he's never asked you? Is he deaf and dumb, or only tongue-tied? Can't he even speak the sign language, and, stay, why not a letter?

Now listen, little girl, and listen hard; you need to hear what I'm going to say. If that man wants to take you automobiling, or to the theatre, or to a tango party, or to a prayer meeting, he'll ask you, all right. You won't have to tell him how. Let him alone, poor wretch, let him alone.

Don't make his life such a burden to him that he's afraid to drive his own automobile down the street for fear some goose of a girl is going to throw herself in the path and get killed just to make him pay some attention to her.

Why do you think he is bashful? He isn't bashful, he's just bored—and, besides, he's afraid of you. I should think he would be.

If you want to go to the theatre why don't you buy some matinee tickets and go? Don't throw away your own self-respect just for an automobile ride and a theatre ticket.

It wouldn't pay, my dear, it wouldn't pay—it never, never does.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care of this office.

NOVELTY IS BEAUTY'S GOAL

Clothes That Startle by Their Originality, Yet Please the Critical Eye, Are Fine Art

Ethel Aromita Kelly

"THERE is a philosophy of clothes, I have been told," smiled Ethel Aromita Kelly from the easy chair in her cosey room, "but I know nothing about that.

"All I know is this one thing: a girl who wants to look pretty enough to be remembered must study, not the prevailing fashion, save as a guide, but her own little self. Mere prettiness in an ordinary dress is soon forgotten, but in a gown that is startlingly original, yet pleasing to the eye, it will long be remembered.

"I always make my own clothes—yes, economy is a big factor—but a greater factor is the opportunity it gives me to make the most of what pleasing lines I possess. I follow the fashion up to a certain point, but there I turn aside and twist it to some original novelty. In the costume I wear in 'The Passing Show' I think I achieved a stage novelty.

"After all, the great thing is novelty, isn't it? It is the everlasting goal of life and art—and clothes."

Slimness by the Bran Muffin Diet

By LUCREZIA BORI

Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York.

Special arrangements have been made with Senorita Lucrezia Bori, the famous prima donna soprano, who has created a wonderful impression in Europe and New York on account of her remarkable beauty and artistic attainment, to write for this paper a series of articles on beauty. There is probably no authority her equal in giving the newest and most approved methods of attaining and preserving "the divine right of women."

LUCREZIA BORI

"THIRTY-TWO pounds in six months!" exclaimed a friend whom I met recently and gazed at in astonishment, for there didn't seem to be half as much of her as when I saw her last. "Thirty-two pounds of useless, tiring, disfiguring, annoying, embarrassing fat!" she continued. "And oh, the difference to me! Any woman with a will can lose her excess weight. But it takes time, patience and perseverance."

She gave me the "cure" which had worked such wonders for her, for one of the remarkable things about her reduction is that she looks younger, fresher, less wrinkled than when she was so plump.

It seems to me that, in telling what her cure requires of the patient, she omitted to mention heroism, and I contend that any woman who eats a breakfast of skimmed milk and one bran muffin, without a bit of butter, and makes luncheon of one unbuttered bran muffin and a glass of skimmed milk every day for six months, is little less than a heroine and a martyr.

Breakfast and luncheon, bran muffin and skimmed milk. Dinner, a bit of beefsteak, or roast beef, or mutton, or a single lamb chop, tomatoes raw, stewed, baked, every way but fried; spinach, cooked in little or no water with salt for the only seasoning; lettuce, in fact nearly all green vegetables; oranges, grapefruits, all sour fruits; no tea, or coffee, or cocoa, or alcoholic stimulants of any kind; no sweets, no pastries, no ices. And not so much food at any given time that you feel the least bit of stuffiness.

Every day a good brisk walk of from three to five miles. Always activity. Never any naps. Only seven hours' sleep. Three sweats each week, and a warm bath each night. A cool sponge each morning and a dozen or two athletic stunts to be taken twice a day, the most useful one being lying flat on the back and raising the feet in the air with the knees rigid as many times as one can without over-exertion.

Besides some few minor exercises, this is all of the system. But I believe if you adhere strictly to it, with no lapses, for six long months, you will accomplish whatever in the way of fat removal you set out to do. If you want to look a whole lot younger and more graceful, and feel better and brighter and more contented with life, it will pay for all the hardships of the training season.

The sweats are taken by hopping into a bath in a hot bathroom, with two pounds of Epsom salts in the bath water. Stay until you feel that you have opened the pores, and then wrap yourself, without drying, in a wool bathrobe and jump into bed, pile on a lot of clothes and stay there until you feel as if you were in a sea. Under the clothes rub your body during the sweating process. Begin the cooling off with great care, for there is danger of taking cold.

My friend's husband declares the plan followed is the same used when cooling off a race horse after the race. The clothes are lightened very slowly, one cover at a time, until the temperature of the body seems normal. Then the patient is rubbed down with a preparation of alcohol, salt and camphor. This rub-down compound is made with a pint of alcohol in which is dissolved an ounce of camphor gum and two tablespoonfuls of salt, then add a pint of water.

"The entire secret of flesh reduction," said my friend, "lies in taking out all the starches and sweets of the diet, and burning up the excess adipose, replacing it with good normal tissue. Fat is simply a disease, and is becoming recognized as such by medical men. It may lead to all manner of serious physical ills. But I am an example of what may be done in the way of reduction. I can say with a clear conscience woman can weigh whatever she wills."

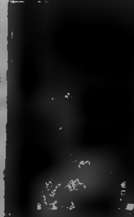
Marriage and Relatives.



LEONA DALRYMPLE

THE man who takes up his residence near his mother-in-law is a fool. I'm learning that more and more every day. If Mary is excited and pleased about anything she runs across the street to tell her mother; if she's at all displeased she does the same. Some day, when I have more time than optimism, I'm going to write a stirring jeremiad on the evils of dwelling near your kin.

The young husband and wife need considerable time for soul adjustment, unless they're soul mates, and my wife and I are not. And the proximity of any relative with an aptitude to give advice complicates things considerably. At the risk of being dubbed a heartless, cold-blooded iconoclast I maintain that there should be a residence limit of three blocks away for any relative—mother, sister, aunt or cousin.

And the reasons? Very simple, indeed! Adjoining houses of kin know too much about each other's business. You haven't merely your own troubles to think about—you have the other fellow's, too, and I find I have enough married difficulties without shouldering anybody else's.

The women visit back and forth too much. Many a night when I come home—and I'm the old-fashioned type that inclines toward the light in the window and that sort of thing—my house is dark and Mary is across the street with her mother. Similarly Mr. Penfield confides to me that he frequently comes home to a dark house, and finds Mrs. Penfield over with Mary. Doubtless every reader is bristling, and declaring that such beautiful affection between mothers and daughters ought to be encouraged. Granted! It ought not interfere, however, with the machinery of either house.

You can see too much of your relatives and your in-laws! I'm learning that bitter fact, too. And when you see so much of each other and know every petty detail of each other's existence it leaves nothing very stirring to talk about. If you're three blocks away, or, better still, three miles, you look forward with absolute pleasure to your visits, and have a lot to talk about. You get the troubles in a lump and you worry about them in a lump. You don't hear some trifling mishap every day, as I find I do.

Mornings it's something like this:

"Peter, isn't it a pity mother's down with one of her headaches, and it's the maid's day out. Were you coming home for lunch?"

"I did think of it," I venture.

"Well, you'd better not, for I'll have to run over there and do some of her work for her, and you'd better get your lunch down town."

And I depart with the pleasant reflection that Mary has not only her own household tasks to attend, but her mother's as well; that the day will be none too pleasant for her, for Mrs. Penfield ill is altogether unbearable.

Or another time:

"Mother's been crying most all day. An old school friend of hers died, and she's so blue that it makes me feel horrid." And my wife then sinks into melancholy glumness for the rest of my dinner.

That's the sort of thing I mean. Mary knows every trivial mishap of her mother's home—things that, if she were further away, she'd likely not hear or worry about. And the constant companionship with her mother is fostering that sense of dependence which I have so frequently deplored. Mrs. Penfield will not admit that Mary is a woman grown and capable of thinking for herself. Therefore she constantly bristles with maternal advice, and Mary turns more and more to her for guidance. Heaven help the man who begins married life too near any relative!

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why Emotion, Not Reason, Rules the People's Will

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

NOT one lawyer, physician, clergyman, financier, or, for that matter, any man or woman, bases his or her actions, reasonable though these be, upon any logical thought.

The object of the Bonapartes of the law, the pulpit, or of any one who tries to influence others, is not to put facts and philosophy without flaws before the world, but to touch some common chord with which to elicit attention, sympathy, interest and power.

In fine, when the public are greeted by any so-called leader, writer, or other influential person, the supremacy of the latter depends more upon the agreement of the auditors' minds with the protagonist's words than on the mass of facts presented.

To most persons, in reality, the question with reference to a statement is not, "Is it the whole truth, and nothing but the truth?" but, rather, Does it please, and coincide with their sentiments, feelings and previous impressions.

Mental Life a Balance.

The punch and vigor of the cold blooded facts of logic may smooth the path for, but it does not incite, agreement with the proposed views.

Certain procedures or courses of action, really due to emotion, may need the justification of reason, but it is the emotion that honestly does the business. The causes of intellectual action, according to Dr. Ralph H. Vincent, eminent as a psychologist, are purely emotional. Facts are not inciters of emotion.

Mental life is an elaborate balance between ideas, reflections, sentiments and facts. No single act is strictly the result of facts, emotions or ideas.

Any impression made upon your feelings leads the intellect to influence your actions. The things done, or thought, are the consequences more of the emotions aroused than of the facts presented.

Hypnotism, salesmanship, advertising, spell-binding, pulpit-pounding, the healing art and all sorts of conditions of suggestion depend for strength and efficiency less upon the number of the facts presented than upon the susceptible emotions excited.

Fatigue, sleep, even the infectiousness of indolence, a slight "cold," injuries, friendships, confidences, mutual interests all suspend in a fashion the powers of motion, of sense and of tissue and thought resistance.

The state of reverie by day and the dreaming attitude at night find their counterparts in the hypnotic state. Sleep walking and somnambulism are degrees of both conditions.

Unconscious Will Power.

The sleep walker clearly sees his way as he passes by, but he does not understand words or persons seen. He is awake only to perform one isolated act.

Dr. Carpenter explains how, if words are in reference to the subject in hand, they do understand.

A young lady at school frequently talked in her sleep. If encouraged by questions connected with the talk she soon disclosed all her own peccadilloes. She was, however, insensible to all other sounds.

In the active, motor, waking state nothing is remembered of either the somnambulistic or the real hypnotic state during waking hours.

Under the stress of fear extraordinary feats have been performed by many unexpected persons. Men chased by dogs have leaped high fences, cleared hurdles and achieved unheard of records.

A man with locomotor ataxia, who had been unable to walk for some years, was caught in his rolling chair in an elevator. He leaped out in great fright and has been walking ever since.

The will thus brought into action by shocks and surprises had lain dormant for years.

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

Grass stains on any material can be removed if moistened with a solution of chlorate of tin, and then washed immediately in plenty of cold water. It is wise always to keep a bottle of this solution. If the stained article cannot be washed, then alcohol must be used.

Flowers wither quickly in the heat, but a small piece of camphor in the water will keep them fresh much longer.

Cakes get very dry in warm weather, but if placed in a tin box with an apple they will keep moist. Renew the apple when withered. The cake will not "taste."

Rain spots on cloth need not be regarded hopelessly. Wipe off the way of the nap with a silk handkerchief or very soft brush. If this be done quickly, no marks will remain.

Soup quickly goes sour in the warm days, but it will keep sweet if a pinch of carbonate of soda is added to every quart.

Sunburn is not unbecoming, but it can be removed by washing the face in warm water in which a lemon has been squeezed and a pinch of borax added.

Fruit stains are very "summerish." To remove them from white material, boil milk and hold the stained part in it for a minute. On linen apply powdered starch at once, and leave for a few hours.

Hot and stuffy rooms can be made cool and fresh by suspending a sheet wrung out in cold water over the open doorway. If a visitor comes it can be removed in two seconds, and your friend will surely remark how deliciously cool your room is.

Three Minute Journeys

Where Fish Are Caught by Hand

By TEMPLE MANNING

LATE in the dry season, when the rivers are low in the heart of Africa, the Gwari, who inhabit the central Soudan, set out on prolonged fishing expeditions. I found the natives who live on the banks of the rivers proficient fishermen, taking great pride in their work, but the village Gwari are not very sporting in their methods. They go out for the final result rather than for the pleasure of the sport.

They pour the juice of locust tree pods into the pools, to which the streams have shrunk, and this causes the fish to leap out of the water. Wildly they leap, flopping out on the dry river bottom as often as not, but the excited natives do not wait for the fish to catch themselves. They lean over the shallow water, finding great delight in snatching the leaping fish as they flash from the river.

I have seen a small party of half-naked Gwari work their way from pool to pool down the river and stop at noon with an afternoon's work ahead to pack the day's catch back to the fishing camp. Sometimes they will bet their most treasured possessions on the number of fish each man will catch with his hand during the expedition.

This custom of using the "jump juice" seems to have been handed down from time immemorial among these strange Africans.

SUSPECTED MURDER AND SUICIDE IN TORONTO

Toronto, Oct. 7.—A tragedy was revealed this morning at [illegible] Queen St., Humphrey, on the representations of west when policemen English and neighbors broke into the premises and discovered the dead body of Mrs. Carolina Sakowski on the floor and found her husband Frank Sakowski, lying close beside it with his throat cut from ear to ear.

A butcher knife near where the man lay was evidently the weapon with which the woman had been stabbed several times in the body, and which had also been used to cut the man's throat.

Sakowski had nearly bled to death. He was hurried to the Western Hospital, where the doctors say he cannot recover.

The police theory is that the man murdered his wife after a quarrel and then attempted suicide.

Quarrelled Monday Night.

Stories of the neighbors lead to the inference that the quarrel occurred on Monday night.

Sakowski is about 35 years of age, while his wife was some years his [illegible] senior. They had been in Toronto for about three years. On Monday night they had a number of friends at the house and it is said that there was some drinking.

Store Not Open.

The premises were occupied by Sakowski as a butcher shop, and when the store was not opened as usual yesterday customers wondered. There was a light inside the house portion of the store, but the doors were all locked and no one could get in. The couple had no children.

Mrs. Rosala Konopka, who was a close friend of the couple, said that they often drank and were inclined to quarrel over the fact that they had no children. She says that she last saw her friends alive on Saturday, when the woman looked ill and the man appeared to have been drinking. When under the influence of liquor he would chide his wife because they had no children.

The discovery of the tragedy was [illegible] not made until early this afternoon. The remains of the woman were removed to the morgue.

At 2 o'clock the hospital authorities said there was no hope of Sakowski surviving his injury.

LOWELL MAN CHOCKED TO DEATH BY PICKET FENCE

Lowell, Oct. 7.—The most peculiar death which the local police have come upon in years was recorded today when the body of Arthur Beaudoin was found on West Street. He had stumbled against a picket fence and wedged his neck between the pickets so tightly that he was strangled.

Beaudoin had been downtown Saturday evening with friends and was on his way home when the accident occurred, probably about 1 o'clock. His body was found by a milkman at 5.15, and the police were notified. They worked over him with a pul-

Transient Traders Act

A trial was held in the police court on Tuesday when a trader, who has only been in the city for six months, was fined $50 for having transgressed the Transient Traders' by-law. It is generally known that any one not on the Assessment roll for the year during which he begins business here must pay a Transient Traders' license fee of $100. This fee is credited to the payer on his taxes for the following year.

This unquestionably is a very just and fully authorized law. In justice to local merchants, who have been paying taxes and rent for years, or even during the current year, it is only right that such dealers should be protected against the possibility of men starting business here, and after a few months' operations, leaving the city without paying their quota into the city treasury. Such a course has heretofore been adopted by men who when too late were demonstrated to be nothing but transients, and had evaded a business tax, and this engaged in unfair competition with our resident merchants in the same line of business. We do not insinuate in any way that the man in question fined contemplated any evasion of his legitimate business obligations to the city, but simply draw attention to the justice of our transient traders' bylaw, a measure authorized by the Provincial legislature in the interests of legitimate business operations.

Earl Kitchener's Work

It is only about eight weeks since Lord Kitchener took charge of the War Office, and he has accomplished some remarkable work. Canada has had in the dispatch of her Expeditionary Force of rather more than one division some idea of what an undertaking and fitting out of an army is. Some paragraphs from a recent issue of London Truth give some idea of what the Mother Country, under Lord Kitchener's guidance, has been doing.

The Army Council have now completed the framework of the new army organization, says Truth, and this is how they have done it. The 6th Division has at last gone abroad, leaving Sir John Jellicoe to take care of the invasion. Thus two new divisions, the 7th and 8th, are being formed out of regular troops unallotted to Sir John French's six divisions, together with the units which have been brought home from South Africa and the Mediterranean. When the artillery and transports for these two divisions are ready the Field Marshall will have a fourth army corps and a third cavalry division under his command the fifth being on their way, if they have already joined him, from India. Judged by the quantity alone, to say nothing of the quality, this force of 200,000 men hardly answers the German Emperor's description of a "contemptible little army."

Now about the new armies. The Army Council have got some half a million or more recruits of the best raw material to play, and this is what they have done with them. Six divisions were organized on August 21st, six more on September 11th, and another six on September 13th—18 divisions in all. Here we have the framework of three new Expeditionary Forces amounting in round numbers to 360,000 officers and men, with another 150,000 more remaining at training centres to replace casualties. As Lord Kitchener pointed out, men are easier to get than arms, ammunition or equipment, but the new War Minister has plenty of driving power in his nature, and he is making the best of it now. The spring will soon come round.

In addition to these three new six-division armies is the prospect of a fourth army, which is to be formed out of reserve battalions created when the Expeditionary Force embarked for foreign service, these battalions being brought up to war strength by new recruits. This will give us another six divisions of what Kaiser William calls "mercenary" troops, or 32 divisions altogether, yielding a total of 640,000 officers and men, who are increased to 710,000 by the Indian Contingent. As this figure does not include Colonials, Territorials or the local corps now to be raised in large numbers throughout the country, it is safe to say that within a year or less we shall have an army in the field amounting to a million of men, with plenty more behind them.

Joint and Muscle Pains Banished by Nerviline

IT CURES RHEUMATISM.

Thousands of people, chuck full of the joy of living—happy, glad, bright people, that Nerviline has cured of their pains, all tell the same wonderful story of its power to drive out the aches and tortures of rheumatism and kindred ills.

"My goodness, but Nerviline is a miracle-worker," writes Mrs. Charlotte Chipman, mother of a well-known family residing at Mount Pleasant. "Last month I was so crippled up with sciatica and muscular rheumatism as to almost unable to do a bit of housework. My joints were so stiff and the muscles so frightfully sore that I even cried at times with the pain. For years we have used Nerviline in our family and I just got busy with this wonderful, good old liniment. Lots of rubbing with Nerviline soon relieved my misery and I was in a real short time about my work as usual."

No matter where the ache is, no matter how distressing the pain you can rub it away with Nerviline. For forty years it has been curing lumbago, sciatica, back-ache, colds chest trouble and all sorts of winter ills. Keep a large 50c. family size bottle handy and you'll be saved lots of trouble and have smaller doctor bills. Small trial size 25c. at dealers everywhere.

COMPLAINTS FROM CHINA

Far Away Wives Want the Money Husbands Earn in Montreal

Acting upon complaints which came all the way from China, prominent Chinese merchants in Montreal appealed to Chief Campeau for his assistance in a final attempt to put a stop to the wholesale gathering of married and single laundrymen in the various joints along Lagauchetiere street in that city, where they are lured by the fan tan game to hazard their earnings of a week at one sitting around the plain wooden table over which the keeper presides and from which he takes the bets incessantly.

The gambling and its baneful influence was so far-reaching that far off China was heard from in the complaint of the nine wives of as many Chinamen, who were sending no money home on account of fan tan.

The letters sent to Montreal declared that for a long time gambling has diverted the flow of money from the wives of many Canadian Chinamen, to the pockets of the fan tan gambling houses, and tales of hardship were recounted by the women, mothers of children, whose fathers were doing nothing for their maintenance.

When Chief Campeau was appealed to he readily accepted the offer of the delegation of Chinese merchants who agreed to place him in touch with the meeting places of the Tongs, where gambling was likely to take place. Heretofore it has been a difficult job to catch Chinamen at a fan tan game, and it is declared that the number of successful raids do not come anywhere near in numbers the ones which brought no results, other than to find a meeting of Chinamen with nothing in sight to indicate that a game was in progress. Sentries are placed as far away as one hundred yards, and the semaphore signals of Boy Scouts are a poor second compared to the speed of the sentry gone the police appear in sight.

Feed For Sheep

In feeding sheep in winter hay is all-important, and, although a heavy root or cabbage crop may be an inducement to give them an extra bite to save it, it is a risky proceeding. Sheep need hay, and good hay. Sweet, well-made hay, the produce of young grass, is both easily digested and nourishing, and, after all, a daily ration costs very little in the end. Being a dry food, it is splendidly adapted for supplying to sheep on a watery root crop, which is by no means rich in nutritious matter. It sometimes happens that the turnip crop fails, and then, if cabbage or kale are grown, all will be well. But where there is no such crop to fall back upon the pasture is the only resource, with the assistance of food in the trough.

DOGS MAY TRANSMIT MANY DISEASES

Appendicitis One of Them, According to London Physician—Don't Keep Animals in House

How many people know that appendicitis in a large number of cases is directly traceable to dogs? For years the grapepip or other equally inoffensive articles have been blamed unjustly for civilization's most fashionable affliction.

"Nothing on earth would induce me to have a dog in the house," said a prominent doctor in the West End of London. "Professor Metchnikoff has discovered that dogs are extremely liable to a form of very tiny threadworm. The spores get into the fur, and a lady eating her bread and butter after fumbling the dog about could very easily transmit them to her own body. Once a threadworm gets into the appendix you have appendicitis; in some parts of France about 75 per cent. of the cases are due to this particular form of threadworm in dogs.

"You see, domestic pets are so unhygienic. A dog cannot tell you of the earliest symptoms of a disease, which is thoroughly developed before you can diagnose it. From a sanitary point of view, houses are much healthier without animals in them.

"Dogs are not the only offenders. Diphtheria is chiefly promulgated by cats. Whenever you find it among schoolchildren, suspect the cat. Canaries are specially subject to mumps, and many outbreaks among children have been traced to these feathered pets.

"Human beings were not supposed to live herded with animals—the days of the Ark are over and gone."

Mr. W. Kirk, a well known London veterinary surgeon, took a different view of the matter. "There is no danger in handling dogs in the ordinary way," he said, "and there are few diseases except rabies which can be transferred to a human subject. You might have a low kind of fever from the infliction of wounds caused by the foul teeth of an old dog; but that is very infrequent."

RANCH MANAGER—ARTHUR McKINNON
Farmer, Glenaladale, P. E. I.

General Contractor, Rollo Bay, P. E. I.

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Company re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs — all young foxes— good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leaving $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:— "We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalize your concern at $90,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

Below are the particulars of sale of a consignment of Silver Fox Furs, shipped from Prince Edward Island ranches to London, England, and sold there in March, 1910:

SHARES

Shares are selling at $25.00 each, 25 per cent. with application and the balance on or before September 1st, 1914.

Simply fill out the application form and mail to Major C. McKinnon, Secretary-Treasurer, Glenaladale, P. E. I.

All cheques must be made payable to "The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Ltd."

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes means to the investor, we will figure it out for you.

We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produce a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business— and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

LENGTH OF SCHOOL HOURS

New Rule Adopted in Montreal Does Away With Home Work

What should be the "hours of labor" of the school pupil? A lively discussion of this question started among Montreal teachers and parents by a new rule inaugurated by the Catholic School Board. Formerly the pupils of the Catholic Schools of Montreal attended classes from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., and were given a certain amount of work to prepare at home for the following day. The new schedule brings the pupils to their desks at 8.30 a.m. and keeps them at work until 3 p.m. with an hour for luncheon and two brief intervals for relaxation. These hours are for the pupils of the third and higher grades. The idea is that the pupils shall have no home work, but shall devote the extra hour in the afternoon to preparation of the next day's lessons. This sounds like a good arrangement, in theory, but in practice it is found to have several faults. The teachers declare that in the higher grades one hour is not sufficient for the pupils to prepare their work for the next day's lessons, and, of course, under the new arrangement the pupils are not compelled to do any work at home. Therefore one hour's preparation is all they get. The parents complain that the new regulation increases the difficulty of looking after their children. Under the old-time schedule when the children were dismissed from school they were generally allowed the remainder of the afternoon for recreation. After supper they settled down to prepare their lessons. Now there are no lessons to be done after supper, and parents say that it is much harder to keep the youngsters off the streets at night.

CANADA AND THE EMPIRE

Canada was the first colony to federate its scattered provinces into a dominion, in 1867, an example since followed in part by Australia, New Zealand and South Wales.

Canada made possible the all-British Pacific cable by contributing 5-17 of its cost.

Canada has one-third of the entire area of the British empire.

RICH NEW DISTRICT

English Visitor Finds Northern British Columbia a Land of Promise

Mr. W. J. Spears, of London, England, whose knowledge of Western Canada dates back to 1890, made a tour over the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway between Winnipeg and Prince Rupert with a view of obtaining for those interested in England the latest data on the natural resources of the territory opened up by the new transcontinental railway in British Columbia.

"In their scenic beauty alone," said Mr. Spears, "these regions have a wonderful asset. The valleys are wide, allowing the full majesty of the peaks to be realised. In these valleys are areas of gently sloping land of a soil admirably suited for agriculture. In their richness they reminded me of the Valley of the Nile. Dairying and mixed farming have a bright future there.

"Berries of all kinds grow wild in the greatest profusion and the flowers are similar in their beauty to those found in Switzerland. There is ample lumber to assure the success of the saw mills which are rapidly making their appearance at various points. Mineral wealth is also being developed, while the rivers teem with fish. The trout in Northern British Columbia is of a quality, texture, size and fighting nature that makes him a king among fish. While fishing on the Nechako River I came upon a party of Indians. They had just landed four giant sturgeon. The largest of these was nine feet long and weighed 300 pounds. Canada has no reason to go to Russia for its caviar when such sturgeon as these can be caught."

No Surprise at Ottawa Over Pacific Developments—Naval Battle May Come

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—No surprise was occasioned here to-day by the report of the Norwegian steamer, loading coal at Honolulu to take to German cruisers at Guam, an American possession. It is recognised that so long as there are German cruisers on the Pacific they must coal at American ports or else secure their supply by capturing British vessels. There are four German cruisers on the Pacific and one in the Indian Ocean. The Leiplig is said to be near the coast of south America with the Nurnberg sailing in that direction. The Canadian cruiser Rainbow and the two submarines are in the Pacific as well as certain Japanese and British cruisers and a clash with the German vessels at any time would not come unexpected.

BRITISH TAKE TWO PRIZES IN PACIFIC

London, Oct. 8.—A despatch from Hong Kong to Lloyd's Agency says The German steamer Tannenfels and the American steamer RioPasig have been brought into that port as prizes. The German steamer Tannenfels sailed from Singapore, Aug. 14th and maritime records show that she was subsequently seized in the Basilan strait. Availing shipping records make no mention of the American steamer Rio Pasig. It is possible, however, that her home port is Manila.

IDEAS FOR BUILDERS

Keep a Note Book in Which to Enter Practical Suggestions

If you are going to build a new house or remodel an old one, any one who has been through the mill will advise you to be sure that you have twice as much money as you think you will need. This is good but [illegible] advice.

A more hopeful word comes from [illegible] builder who for a year before his new house was built kept a scrap book of suggestions. Two scrap books, in fact, one of notes and one of pictures. The book of notes was divided into so many pages for each room. For instance, there was the heading "Kitchen," and underneath was noted any practical or attractive ideas pertaining to kitchens that the owner had observed.

Then came "Pantry," with this suggestion:

"Back opening to refrigerator so it may be filled from the porch."

"Window slides into the kitchen."

Room was given space for notes on decoration and ideas.

In the other scrap book were kept illustrations and photographs of windows, doorways, staircases—anything that might prove helpful for use in the designing and building of the new house.

The result was that when the house finally came to be built the owner knew exactly when a cupboard was to be built, what kind he wanted, when the kitchen was designed he knew in every detail what made for convenience, and throughout the house there was not a room to which attention had not been given.

CANADAS WATER POWERS

Canada possesses a larger amount of potential water power than any country, twice that of United States. In its industrial future Canada will rank as one of the greatest manufacturing countries of the world.

Canada's estimated 16,000,000 horse-power is equal to annual production of 357,000,000 tons of coal.

Canada has developed 1,616,521 horse-power from water power (per commission of conservation estimate).

Two proposed power schemes, on St. Lawrence River, between Cornwall and Montreal, would develop 1,000,000 horse-power.

ENGLISH-CANADIANS

Rev. Dr. Gordon, Winnipeg, Preaches Sermon on "An Englishman in Canada"

Here are some excerpts from a recent sermon by Rev. Dr. J. L. Gordon, Winnipeg, on "An Englishman in Canada.":

"I am not surprised that an Englishman should be homesick in Western Canada. I would be surprised if he were not. Think of England with her cathedral towns, her classic villages, her sacred monuments, her beautiful hedgelined roads, her solid splendor, her quiet dignity, her peaceful atmosphere and her ten thousand historical associations. It will be a thousand years before we will have anything to compare with the beauty —the fascinating beauty of Dear Old England.

"Yet I know certain Englishmen and Englishwomen who think and affirm that Canada is one of the finest places in the world in which to live. I have in mind at this moment one family of English emigrants of fair intelligence, average ability and less than normal health, who in a few years have purchased for themselves a modest but very comfortable home, made generous contributions to the church and kindred institutions, and induced almost a score of their relatives to join them on this side of the sea. They believe in Canada because they have succeeded in Canada (and Canada is a good country to succeed in). The emigrant who fails in Canada was a failure at home. Canada is another word for success.

"Canada is a good country. Less liquor is sold in Canada than in any other country—thanks to the 'temperance crank.' Canada has the lowest death rate of any country in the world. There are fewer ignorant and illiterate people in Canada than in any other country. There are fewer paupers in Canada to the square mile than elsewhere. In Canada the working day is longer, the night brighter, the air more bracing, the social conditions more democratic and the prospects brighter than anywhere else on the North American continent. I believe in Canada!"

LEARN TO RELAX

If You Are Troubled With Insomnia Rest Your Brain

Sleep is a habit. It is a very natural and beneficial habit, but one that can be easily broken through injudicious living and thinking. Poor sleepers are usually high-strung, nervous people, who have too active bodies or brains, or both, and who are ambitious and inclined to neglect themselves.

Insomnia cannot be cured by drugs. It is always dangerous to use drugs to produce sleep, and they should seldom be resorted to except in serious illness, and then only on the advice of a physician.

If you cannot sleep, and find that your sleeplessness is becoming a habit, begin immediately to go slower. Curb your ambition, leave off all unnecessary work and learn how to rest. Your body and your brain need repose and rest, but the trouble with the people who "cannot sleep" is, they do not know how to rest. They do not stop thinking, planning, worrying, and go to bed with active brains and only partly relaxed bodies and then worry because sleep does not come. Perfect relaxation of the body and mind is the first essential, and relaxation of either one helps to relax the other.

There is one exercise, which, properly practised, will be found beneficial in more ways than one. Stand erect, but without stiffness, arms hanging easily at the sides. Now very gently inhale air through the nostrils,

TO PREVENT CANCER

Indigestion Frequently Its Forerunner, Therefore do Not Neglect Stomach

Indigestion is one of the most common ills, and because it is so common many of us are apt to regard it as an inevitable result of eating for which medicine can do little good. We either suffer in silence or take a few home remedies, and let it go at that.

This is all wrong. Indigestion, however slight, should receive careful medical attention, for it is often the forerunner of gastric ulcer, and this in turn leads to a surprisingly large number of cases of cancer of the stomach.

Out of 5?6 consecutive cases of cancer treated at a leading hospital over 60 per cent. began with indigestion, and in nearly all of these this had been followed by chronic ulcer. Figures like these leave no doubt of the importance of giving due attention to even the most trivial derangement of the stomach. Indigestion, dyspepsia and gastric ulcer are the warnings which nature gives us in the order named of the approach of cancer.

Added support of this idea is found in the fact that cancer is more prevalent in the country districts than in the cities. It is in these districts that the most inddigestion is found. In the rural districts over-eating, too much fried food and rich pastry ruin more stomachs than the "high living" of the cities, which is generally supposed to be so harmful.

The length of time during which indigestion is suffered from before cancer of the stomach appears is, on the average, eleven years. One reason why many persons neglect their stomachs and lay themselves open to the danger of cancer is the common belief that cancer is a hereditary disease which can hardly be escaped if it is "in the family." The most reliable authorities at the present time, however, are agreed that there is no proof that heredity plays any part whatever in causing cancer. This conclusion, is of course, liable to modification, for cancer remains one of the diseases about which we have the least definite knowledge.

SCRIPTURAL NAMES

Puritans Were Fond of Old Testament Nomenclature

A certain set of Christian names taken from the Scriptures has been in use so long that we do not think of them as Adam, Moses, Samuel, David, Daniel, Solomon, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. Others taken from the Saints, like Peter, Paul, John, Stephen and Matthew, originally given to children because they were born on the saint's day, are still so common that we think of them as English names.

These names antedate the use of surnames, as may be inferred from the fact that nearly all of them have given rise to patronymics, like Jacobson, Peterson and Stephenson. In the twelfth century missionaries used to baptize whole villages at once, and to save time invested all the men with the name of John or some other saint, and the women usually Mary or Martha.

To distinguish the Johns some additional name like Short or Strong or White or Black was given him by the neighbors, and so Christian names and surnames were united.

After the Reformation it became the fashion, among the Puritans to give children the names of characters in the Old Testament and odd ones like Melchizedek or Barzillai were preferred. Among these were Abel, Levi, Jesse, Amos, Asa, Isaiah, Ephraim, Gideon, Malachi, Job, Abner, Hosea, Ezekiel, Jeremiah, Zachariah, Asher, Eli and hundreds of others.

Significance of Little Things

We love little things, we hate little things, we fear little things; our lives are knit up with little things from the time we are born to the day we die.

But things draw us up to heaven or crush us down to hell. Little things live beside us on earth, eat and sleep with us, laugh and grumble with us, catch the early train with us, or make us miss it, irritate and appease us— never leave us alone for a minute.

That is why they are so much more important than the big things—the things that only come once in a while, at long intervals, and even then are nearly always the result of a hundred and one little things combined.

Cocoanuts in Ceylon

The natives of Ceylon eat one and a half million cocoanuts a day. There are sixty million cocoanut trees on this island, and the surplus production of nuts is chiefly used to make copra, the dried "meat" of the nut, which is a valuable source of vegetable oils. It is estimated that there are produced yearly [illegible] to 700,000 tons of copra, valued at [illegible] million dollars. One-quarter of the world's production comes from the [illegible] islands.

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ¾ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830 or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

VALUE OF NEW CANADIANS

What Immigration Gives Us Besides New Citizens

Occasionally we in Canada groan over foreign immigration and the heavy task we have assumed in trying to assimilate the newcomers and make them good citizens. We give an imitation of the weary Titan. But after all, is not all this change of population good for us asks the Toronto world.

In an old town, where the same families have lived for many years and where everybody knows everybody else, there is danger of narrowness. People are apt to discuss each other's affairs instead of public affairs. On the other hand, in a new growing town there is an exhilaration not only in the rapid progress, but in the contact of new personalities, the hurling of mind against mind and character against character.

Then there is a good deal to be learned from foreigners. What is the use of foreign travel except to meet new people, observe new customs, and acquire new points of view? The inexperienced traveler is apt to go along certain beaten paths and see the things that his predecessors have seen. He does not see the people in their homes; and especially he does not see the poor. He sees the evidences of European culture and power; but he does not see the results of European neglect and oppression. A careful and sympathetic study of the foreign immigrant is as stimulating and instructive as a trip to Europe.

A LAKE OF SOAP

Wonderful Body of Water in Washington State

One of nature's marvels is to be seen in the northeast corner of the State of Washington. It is a lake which bears the name of Soap Lake, and is three miles in length by one mile in breadth. The water in the lake tastes like a mixture of soap and salt, and its peculiar properties are such that when the water is heated no soap is required for a bath, for as soon as the water comes into contact with the natural oil of the skin and is gently rubbed it forms a beautiful lather.

The only drawback is that when applied to the head one's hair is apt to turn from its natural color to a dusty red, if not washed with fresh water. In other words, it bleaches, the soda in the water no doubt being the cause of this.

Cheapest on Record

In Japan recently there was completed a railroad bridge nearly seven miles long, built by native materials at a cost of $375,000.

Big Customer of Banks

City auditor Sterling of Toronto compiled figures to show that the municipality's transactions with the banks for one year totalled over forty millions of dollars.

RURAL SECURITY

It has, singularly enough, come to pass that we have allowed the industry of our farms to lag behind the other activities of the country in its development. I need not stop to tell you how fundamental to the life of the nation is the production of its food. Our thoughts may ordinarily be concentrated upon the cities and the hives of industry, upon the cries of the crowded market place and the clangor of the factory, but it is from the quiet interspaces of the open valleys and the hillsides that we draw the sources of life and prosperity, from the farm and the ranch, from the forest and the mine. Without these every street would be silent, every office deserted, every factory fallen into disrepair. And yet the farmer does not stand upon the same footing with the forester and the miner in the market of credit. He is the servant of the seasons. Nature determines how long he must wait for his crops, and will not be hurried in her processes. He may give his note, but the season of its maturity depends upon the season when his crop matures, lies at the gates of the market where his products are sold. And the security he gives is of a character not known in the broker's office or as familiarly as it might be on the counter of the banker.—Woodrow Wilson, to Congress.

Fertilizing Use of Peat

The most important use to which peat is put in this country is as a fertiliser, the annual consumption for that purpose being, according to Popular Mechanics, 41,080 tons, while only 1,300 tons were used for fuel, 2,000 tons for stock food and 2,000 tons in the manufacture of paper. In preparing peat for use as a fertiliser the field bearing the peat deposit, unless it is already under cultivation, is thoroughly drained and plowed, and planted for one or two seasons with some crop which destroys or disintegrates the coarse material and aerates and improves the upper layers of the peat. It is then plowed and harrowed and allowed to dry thoroughly, and, after being scraped into windrows, is hauled to the factory for further drying or storage. The drying is completed by passing the material through long rotary cylindrical driers, through which the heated air and gases from furnaces are forced by fan blowers. This process requires a somewhat expensive plant. In preparing peat for fuel it is made into the form of cylinders.

WAS A GAME FIGHTER

Ad Wolgast a Retired Veteran Although Still a Mere Boy

Ad Wolgast says he never will don another pair of boxing gloves for a serious encounter in the ring, and doubts very much whether he will ever be induced to even look at the modern tools of ring warfare again.

What is happening to the boxing game when a man is passe at 25 years of age, for Wolgast doubtless is passe and spent in a physical sense? Does this incident serve to show that the general speed of the world these days is reflected in athletics to this extent? In the old days a man was pretty good until he was well by the 30-year mark, and wasn't considered old as long as he had a spark of vitality left in him. In the present boxing age a man gets a couple of defeats, and he is considered thoroughly down and out and past all athletic redemption.

The ring never had a flashier career in its history than that shown by Wolgast. He started battling in 1906, was a sensation out on the Pacific coast in 1908, became lightweight champion of the world by defeating Battling Nelson on February 22, 1910, twice broke his arm on mediocre opponents, and went through an operation and then lost his title to Willie Ritchie on a foul on Nov. 28, 1912.

One thing always will stand out magnificently in the Wolgast record and it is something that nobody can take away from him. No more courageous man ever tapped a pair of hands in the boxing arena than this selfsame boy from Cadillac. His fearlessness was of the dare-devil type that makes the successful aviator and the leading jockey. He never realised the importance of drawing the line closely in the matter of weight. He was once heard to offer to fight Stanley Ketchel for the championship of Michigan, and that, too, when Stanley was at his best and the undoubted champion among the 158-pounders of the day.

ON HAPPINESS

It is undeniable that the great quest of humanity is happiness.

But was the world created to be happy? How many are truly happy? I've studied people in all classes and conditions, and everywhere I have found, when you get below the surface, that it is mostly the insincere individual who says, "I am happy." Nearly everybody wants something he hasn't got, and as things are constructed, what he wants is money—more money than he has in his pocket.

But after all, money can buy only a few things. Why should anyone envy the captains of industry? Their lives are made up of those vast, incessant worries from which the average individual is happily spared. Worry, worry, that is the evil of life.

What do I consider the nearest approximation to happiness of which the present human nature is capable? Why, living on a farm which is one's own, far from the hectic, artificial conditions of the city—a farm where one gets directly from one's own soil what one needs to sustain life, with a garden in front and a healthy, normal family to contribute those small domestic joys which relieve a man from business strain.—Thomas A Edison.

ANIMALS AND SLEEP

Most people sleep on their sides with their knees drawn up.

Elephants always and horses commonly sleep standing up.

Birds, with the exception of owls and the hanging parrots of India, sleep with their heads turned tailward over the back and the beak thrust among the feathers between the wing and body.

Storks, gulls and other long-legged birds, sleep standing on one leg.

Ducks sleep on open water. To avoid drifting shoreward, they keep paddling with one foot, thus making them move in a circle.

Foxes and wolves sleep curled up, their noses and the soles of their feet close together and blanketed by their bushy tails.

Owls, in addition to their eyelids have a screen that they draw sideways across their eyes to shut out the light, for they sleep in the daytime.

EXTENT OF FISHERIES

Canada's Industry is the Most Extensive in the World

To say that Canada possesses the most extensive fisheries in the world is no exaggeration; moreover, it is safe to add that the waters in and around Canada contain the principal commercial food fishes in greater abundance than the waters of any other part of the world. The extraordinary fertility of what may be called our own waters is abundantly proved by the fact that, apart from salmon, all the lobsters, herring, mackerel and sardines, nearly all the haddock, and many of the cod, hake, and pollock landed in Canada are taken from within our territorial waters. The coast line of the Atlantic provinces, from the Bay of Fundy to the Straits of Belle Isle, without taking into account the lesser bays and indentations measures over 5,000 miles; and along this great stretch are to be found innumerable natural harbors and coves, in many of which valuable fish are taken in considerable quantities with little effort. On the Pacific coast, the province of British Columbia, owing to its immense number of islands, bays and fiords, which from safe and easily accessible harbors has a sea-washed shore of 7,000 miles. Along this shore and within the limits of the territorial waters, there are fish and mammals in greater abundance, probably than anywhere else in the whole world. In addition to this immense salt-water fishing area, we have in our numerous lakes no less than 220,000 square miles of fresh water, abundantly stocked with many species of excellent food fishes.

Poultry Food

The value of grains as poultry food, and which they relish the best, are: wheat, oats, corn, barley and buckwheat. Rye is of the least value, and fowls very seldom eat it, and then only when very hungry.

Did a Boer Bullet Do It?

AT yesterday's police court a local man was charged with insanity. It seems that the accused, in the Boer war, whilst fighting for England, sustained an injury to his skull that necessitated the insertion of a silver plate. This addition to Nature's economy is said to have affected his reason. He was remanded for a week.

Local Man As Starter.

Mr. Fred Jones, the local livery man of Simcoe Street, is certainly some little starter in a horse race. This was demonstrated at Keene on Wednesday, when Mr. Jones' manipulation of the bell proved that he was "Johnny on the Spot" in he official capacity.

An Interesting Poultry Talk.

The illustrated lecture announced for last week under the auspices of the Poultry Association, and which had to be postponed, will be given tonight in the hall on Simcoe St. next to the Orange Hall. Joke on Lindsay Merchant

A good joke is being told on a Lindsay merchant, who a few days ago took in over the counter a 25-cent Newfoundland Government certificate, when a customer secured $23 in goods and the balance in change. Of course the merchant saw the 25 mark on the bill and without inspecting it concluded it was worth $25. Judge his surprise when the honest customer returned a couple of hours later and put him wise as to the shady transaction.

Lindsay Joy Riders Fined

Magistrate Jackson's decision, which was so anxiously looked for in the automobile cases which came up for hearing in police court on Monday last, was handed out this morning at the 9.30 session. A fine and costs amounting to $11.66 in each case was imposed upon the defendants, who were Messrs. McClory, Thomas, Bell and Baldwin. An appeal against the Magistrate's decision is spoken of by the parties fined.—Warder.

Heartily Endorsed

Not very long ago, a rural citizen, whose early education in business methods has been sadly neglected, called upon a local business house and purchased goods for an organization of which he is the head. He tendered in payment a check made by the treasurer of the organization, and drawn payable to the purchaser's order. This he gave to the cashier, and handing it in, was told to endorse it. He hesitated a moment and then taking up the precious document wrote on the back, "I heartily indorse this check," and signed his name. Of course this went, and he got his change and departed.

INTER-PROVINCIAL NEWS BREVITIES

Toronto, Oct. 8.—The first official act of Hon. W. H. Hearst, the new premier of Ontario, was the sanctioning of a gift of $15,000 to the distressed people of Belgium. Many of them have lost their homes and all their belongings through their efforts to stem the violation of their territory by the German despoilers.

Toronto, Oct. 8.—Keen disappointment mingled perhaps with a little pique is felt by the women of the Methodist church in Canada at the refusal of the general conference of that body held at Ottawa to grant women the same voting rights in church affairs as are accorded to laymen. It had been generally conceded that as the church had accorded its undivided support to the Rowell candidates at the last general election, in an effort to secure the parliamentary franchise for women as promised by the Liberal leader, that the church would not refuse to maintain the same position in the church as it had maintained outside the church. The Methodist cannot now, it is felt, consistently advocate the enfranchisement of women in other directions when it refuses to admit them to its own counsels. The "World" (Toronto) commenting on the situation says editorially: "A two thirds vote of the conference was in favor of allowing women equal privileges with men in all church courts, boards and committees. We regret the result of the vote which ought to have been conclusive. The Methodist church however, except in such matters as liquor licenses, does not believe in taking action except with a three fourths vote. We think that a two thirds or even a three fifths vote is sufficiently decisive. Mr. N. W. Rowell will particularly regret the attitude of the conference if he is consistent with his views on the license question, where simple majorities, he holds, are quite enough to carry local option bylaws. Perhaps the Methodist defence will be that women are much more dangerous than liquor licenses and should be more securely bottled up."

Toronto, Oct. 8.—A writ for the by-election in West Elgin necessitated through the elevation of Hon. F. G. Macdiarmid to the cabinet, has been issued. Nominations will be held Oct. 21, and the polling on Oct. 28. The Liberal executive at St Thomas is authority for the statement that no opposition will be offered to his re-election.

Valcartier, Oct. 8.—One of the most valuable blood horses ever brought to Canada has gone with the Canadian contingent to the war, and will be used by Col. Farquhar, D.S.O., officer commanding the Princess Patricia Light Infantry. The animal was presented to him by Colin Campbell of Montreal, who represents one of the large Scottish distilleries, in Canada. Col. Farquhar was formerly in command of the Coldstream Guards, and later on the staff of the governor-general.

Washington, D.C., Oct. 8.—Divorce statistics as given in the newly completed return make interesting reading, especially when considered along with the conditions which exist in the states enumerated. It has often been said that with the coming of prohibition, the causes which lead to divorce are reduced to a minimum, yet the return shows that Kansas, which is regarded as the model prohibition state, leads 31 license states in the number of decrees granted. After many decades of prohibition the divorce rate in 286 per 100,000 of the population. The enormity of this figure can be better understood when it is compared with New York with 60, New Jersey 60; Pennsylvania 94; Delaware 43. In the decrees granted for drunkenness, Kansas leads 15 license states, while for decrees granted for cruelty, Kansas has more than 24 license states.

Toronto, Oct. 8.—His Honor Judge Morson yesterday reversed the decision of the police magistrates who convicted a garage keeper for a breach of the Lords Day Act in selling gasoline to an autoist, and said that he had not the slightest hesitation in quashing the conviction as the sale of gasoline to autoists was necessary, and came within the exceptions to the act.

ALLIES ARE WAGING CAVALRY WAR FOR THE RELIEF OF ANTWERP

Pictures of Bombardment of Antwerp Overdrawn, Although the Situation is Extremely Critical--The German Plan of Campaign in Belgium Badly Upset by French and British --Berlin Admits Delay at Antwerp

London, Oct. 9.—The military fortunes of General Von Kluck and his one-armed adversary, commanding the Allies' cavalry, are being rapidly made or marred within sight of the North Sea, which sets a limit to the outflanking movements, the accomplishment of which for so long has been the supreme gaol of the rival generals.

The storm centre gradually has extended northward. The Battle of the Aisne already has merged into the Battle of the Somme and the Battle of the Lys, and if the long left tentacle of the Allies continues to stretch out in its present direction, the finale of the titanic struggle may be fought out on the banks of the Scheldt and may decide the fate of the beleaguered fortress of Antwerp, now a prey to werman howitzers and air-craft

Antwerp Pictures Overdrawn ?

Whether or not the garrison of Antwerp will be able to stand its ground until the fate of attempt to relieve the fortress is decided, it is imoossible to foretell, as the situation is liable to change vitally with each round of the German 16-inch siege guns.

While some pictures of the bombardment of Antwerp may have been overdrawn, it is nevertheless fully confirmed that the damage done by the incendiary shells and bombs showered upon the citadel from the German howitzers and air craft is extensive.

In the German Official Communicue it is admitted that the Russian army invading East Prussia is driven back at Lyck, the scene of one of the earlier Muscovite successes. The report that the youthful Grand Duchess of Luxemburg is a prisoner of the Germans is re-iterated to-day, although official confirmation is lacking.

London, Oct. 9.—The official communication of the German general staff, given out at Berlin in the evening of October 8th, is contained in a despatch to the Reuter Telegram Co., from Amsterdam. It say:

"From the western scene of war no facts of decisive importance can be mentioned. Small progress has been made near St. Mihiel in the Argonne.

"Before Antwerp, Fort Breendonk, (to the south of Antwerp) has been taken and the attack on the inner line of forts has begun therewith. The bombardment of the quarter of the quarter of the town lying behind was begun after the declaration of the commander of the stronghold that he took the responsibility.

"The airship hall at Dusseldorf has been hit by a bomb thrown by a hostile aviator. The roof of the hall was pierced and the cover of an airship in the hall was demolished

"In the east the Russian column is marching from Lomza (Russian Poland) and has reached Lyck (in East Prussia, just beyond the frontier and almost directly west of Augustowo).

ANTWERP STILL RESISTS GERMAN BOMBARDMENT

Hopes That Allies Will Be Able to Relieve Besieged City--Though Separate Conflicts, the Batile of the Aisne and the Bombardmen of Antwerp are Very Closely Related

London, Oct. 9.—So far as England knows this morning Antwerp, the latest of the beleaguered cities of Belgium, is still holding out against the German onslaught. King Albert has withdrawn from the city toward Ostend, where the Administration is now fully established, but practically the entire Belgian field army has remained to resist, so long as possible, the fire of the great German guns, the horrible effects of which were made so plain at Liege.

Hold Out Till Help Comes

From the standpoint of the [illegible] until the Allies delivered some decisive [illegible] tions opposing Germany the hope was that the defenders could hold out unblow along the battle line in France, which has now almost reached the North Sea, and taken in conjunction with the fightin which extends across the Belgian frontier to the northward of Lille, makes a gigantic front sprawling like a snake half across Belgium and across practically all of northeastern France.

Although separat conflicts the siege of Antwerp and the battle of the Aisne are thus becoming more and more closely relat d, and both the Germans and the Allies are making the most desperate efforts to crush each other and break through the over-lengthening right and left wings respectively.

It is contended that the Germans failed in their great effort to drive a wedge through this region and the latest Paris communication contends that the situation is stationary, although most violent fighting continues.

VIENNA HOSPITALS ARE OVERCROWDED

Venice, Via Paris, Oct. 9.—Vienna hospitals and all temporary asylums for sick and wounded soldiers are fearfully crowded. The city council has decided to build additional wooden barrack hospitals which will be furnished with 10,000 beds. Buildings of the University of Vienna have been given over to wounded soldiers.

The army of destitute and unemployed in the Austrian capital is increasing daily.

Thousands are threatened with starvation. The authorities estimate that it will be necessary to provide free meals for 100,000 persons daily.

Owing to the rapid advance in the price of meat and the shortage of live stock, the city council has asked the government to permit the importation of 1,000 tons of Argentine beef.

The British Drive German Out Of Their Trenches at Aisne

Their Victory is Reported as Complete--Have Forced the Enemy to Retire and Captured Guns--Trenches Filled With Victims of Typhoid Fever--Women Spies Have Been Active, Many of Whom Have Been Arrested, and Will Be Severely Punished

LONDON, October 9.—The Timesj correspondent south of the Aisne says:—

"At one centre—and that the most important—the British victory on the River Aisne is now complete. The Germans have evacuated their trenches, leaving in some of them many soldiers who died from a severe visitation of typhoid. They left two of their heaviest guns in the quarries, heavily cemented in place.

SUCCESS DUE TO SPY SYSTEM

"Two salient events marked the part of the fighting of which Soissons was the centre. First, the capture by the Allies of Fort Conde in 16 days, and second, the remarkable slaughter by the British in the last of a series of German attacks. It is agreed that wherever the Germans have dealt severe havoc to the Allies around their position, their success was due wholly to a spy system. The Allies soon found out that the Germans were able to diagnose their movements readily, and instituted a systematic search for offenders.

"They captured seven spies, one of them a woman, who used electric flash-light signals from a window. It is not altogether true to say that the Battle of the Aisne is over even now, but in the past few days considerable areas have been deserted by the Germans and the great wedges of the Allies' forces thrown forward.

ANTWERP RED WITH FLAMES FROM SHELLS

LONDON, October 9.—In a despatch from Amsterdam filed at 12.46 this afternoon, the correspondent of the Reuter Telegram Company says:

"The uninterrupted thundering of guns was heard at Rosendaal from Antwerp during the night. The fire slackened a little in the early morning, but it is now renewed with full vigor. The sky last night was red with flames."

Rosendaal is about 20 miles north of Antwerp, in Holland.

FRENCH LIEUTENANT ACQUITTED BY COURT

Paris Oct. 9.—Lieutenant Andre Mesureur has been acquitted by a court martial of a charge of desertion. One of the principal witnesses for Mesureur was Major Aubert, who was taken to the court room from the hospital of Val de Grace, where he lay with four bullets in his body and a broken jaw.

Mesureur's case has attracted much attention. After the battle of Dinant on Aug. 15, in which he received his baptism of fire, he left for Paris, where he was arrested. When taken into custody he declared he had received leave of absence on account of the state of his health.

The court martial acquitted the lieutenant after Major Aubert and others had pleaded in his behalf. Colonel Doyen, who would have been the most important witness in the case, died of injuries sustained in the battle of Dinant.

British Air Ships Make A Raid On German Towns

London, Oct. 9.—According to a Central News despatch received from Amsterdam, another aerial raid has been made by the Allies on Cologne and Dusseldorf, both important German Zeppelin airship bases. The telegram follows:—

"A despatch from Cologne states that hostile aeroplanes threw bombs at the Zeppelin hangars at Cologne and Dusseldorf on Tuesday afternoon. The former was uninjured, but damage was inflicted at Dusseldorf.

The previous aerial raid on Cologne and Dusseldorf was made by British naval airmen from Belgium on Sept. 23.

MAGICAL EFECT OF NEW FACE PEELER

To maintain a clear, rosy, youthful complexion, there's nothing so simple to use and yet so effective as ordinary mercolized wax, which you can get at any drugstore in the original package. Just apply the wax at night as you would cold cream; in the morning wash it off with warm water. If you've never tried it you can't imagine the magical effect of this harmless home treatment. The wax causes the worn-out scarf skin to come off in minute particles a little at a time and soon you have entirely shed the offensive cuticle. The fresh young underskin now in evidence is so healthy and girlish looking, or free from any appearance of artificiality, you wish you had heard of this marvelous complexion-renewing secret long ago.

To get rid of your wrinkles, here's a formula that is wonderfully effective: 1 oz. powdered saxolite, dissolved in ½ pint witch hazel. Bathe the face in this and you will be simply astonished at the results, even after the first trial.

FALL OF NAMUR DUE LARGELY TO SPIES HE SAID

Germans Lowered Waters of Meuse Declares London Times Writer

London, Oct. 9.—The fall of the Belgian city of Namur was due largely to the work of German spies, according to a Times correspondent in Belgium.

"One of the principal features of Namur's defences was the River Meuse," says the correspondent in analyzing the fall of the city. "The Germans, assisted by spies, managed to open the tide gates of the Meuse, thus lowering its waters, which were extremely deep. They were then able to cross the river.

"When the Namur commander saw that resistance was impossible without reinforcements, he tried to rally all the forces from the outlying forts to the main points of defence, but owing to the work of spies, he found his underground telephone destroyed. He was thus unable to direct his campaign or to summon reinforcements.

"As the result of the crippling of the telephone lines, each regiment was compelled to fight its way out of Namur separately with heavy losses. If the garrison had remained 12 hours longer not a man or a gun would have been able to join the allies. As a matter of fact, only 12,000 of the garrison of 25,000 escaped.

"The German attack on Namur was opened with 17-inch siege guns, which were brought into position under cover of a cavalry screen. The older guns of the forts were powerless even to reply. Forts Maizeret, Marchovelette Andoy and Cognelee were all destroyed and burned with every man of their garrisons."

BOSTON WINS FIRST GAME IN WORLD SERIES

Former Toronto Pitcher in Splendid Work Against the Athletics--Betting Favored the Athletics at 2 to 1 and 9 to 5 When the Two Teams Entered the Field--Score 7 to 1

Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The Boston Braves, pennant winners of the National League, and the Philadelphia Athletics, champions of the American League, clashed to-day in the first battle for the world's baseball championship of 1914. Some 22,000 persons saw the opening engagement of the seven-game series. Hundreds were turned away at the gates, unable to obtain admission to the crowded stands. Three and four times the regular seat prices were offered for tickets and the demand at these figures exceeded the supply.

The outfield stand seating 4,000 persons was thrown open at 10.50 o'clock and within a short time it was filled, and the gates were closed. The first in line for seats for this unreserved section had waited over forty hours for the gates to open. Several women stood in line since daybreak. The crowd holding reserved tickets in the covered and double-decked stands came to the Park later. Hundreds viewed the contest from temporary stands erected on the roofs of houses that overlooked the back field walls.

—Nice day for Baseball

The day was warm and humid and suited for fast baseball.

Betting favored the Athletics 2 to 1 and 9 to 5 when the two teams came upon the field for batting and fielding practice. Preliminary play was snappy. The Boston Braves were the first out on the diamond for field practice and the crowd applauded them frequently. The Athletics went on the field for practice at 1.45

WASTED $250,000

Rich Man Reduced to Singing For Coppers and Asking For Crusts

A man who had been left several fortunes, and after spending all came to be charged with begging, found himself in the dock at Northwich England.

He was John Marsh, aged sixty-nine, of St. Helens. He declared that he had been left by various relatives sums totalling $250,000, which had all been spent in drinking, gambling, and helping others. He had inherited his father's spendthrift nature and his mother's generosity.

He was formerly in a grocery and confectionery business at St. Helens, but now worked for farmers solely for his food, varying the monotony by singing in publichouses songs of his own composition, and dancing.

Reduced to hunger, he pleaded, he simply begged a crust. His one desire was to tide over another year to qualify for an old age pension, as he had an aversion to becoming a pauper. The magistrate gave him money to help him on his way, and dismissed the case.

SURVEY YOUR OWN FARM

Did you ever take an afternoon off and stroll over your own farm, viewing it in the impartial manner in which you would survey a neighbor's farm? Looking the farm in the face in this way [illegible] all of us can afford to do it at least once a year.

Sticking too close to hard work makes us narrow in our vision. Obvious faults are apt to escape our notice. For instance, it is easy for one of us who has plowed for 40 years around a large boulder in the middle of an otherwise clean field, to come to regard that obstruction as a necessary evil; a few pounds of blasting powder and half an hour's work would remove the obstruction and improve the field immensely. The barn yard may be very unsightly and mussy to a stranger, but all right to us because we have become accustomed to seeing it that way. A gate that insists on sagging and dragging may lose us enough time and energy in a year to build half a dozen new ones to take its place, but we have become so accustomed to hauling that old gate around that it too is classed as a necessary evil.

It is wonderful how many small points in need of improvement we can find if we will only give our farm a square look in the face. Many of the most obvious faults may be remedied by half an hour of energetic work. There are few of us whose farms are so perfect that they would not be the better of an annual clean-up.

ANNIE EDNEY

Annie Edney is said to have screamed herself into a job once upon a time in London. She was looking for a position with a theatrical company, so the story goes. A consultation with the manager indicated that she would have to scream in the part assigned to her.

She "allowed" that she could scream to order in first class fashion. So a short synopsis of the play was given to her. Her husband was supposed to have dropped dead. She, seeing the figure of her loved one at her feet, then was to give a cry which would send shivers over the audience.

Miss Edney walked to the stage door, turned, and gave the requisite shriek—which drew stage hands, police, and people off the street to discover what was the matter.

She got the job!

Belgium's People Heaviest Drinkers

Belgium has the greatest number of public houses per head in the world. Whereas in Norway there is one to every 9,000 inhabitants, in Sweden one to every 5,000, in England to every 422, in the United States to every 360, in Germany to every 246, in France to every 83, Belgium has one public house to every 30 inhabitants. The drink revenue in Belgium amounts to $500,000,000, the Belgian working man being computed to spend two and a half months wages on alcohol.

LITTLE BRAIN WAVES

Man's instinct is to kill, woman's to kiss.

Scandal comes out with tea as sure as rash with measles.

We have often wondered who furnished the tools for some of the self-made men.

Contradict yourself early and often, any fool can keep on holding the same opinion.

The real hero of many a novel is the man who undertakes to publish it.

Women want everything a man has, except moustaches and bald heads.

A woman in her her clothes wants admiration; at all other times she prefers love.

The human race is divided into two classes—those who go ahead and do something, and those who sit still and inquire, "Why wasn't it done the other way?"

Refuse From Lumber

A Vancouver lumberman has estimated that "one ton of refuse goes to the burners for every thousand feet of lumber cut." In his own sawmill he has eliminated this waste by breaking up the refuse into small pieces which are manufactured into fuel briquettes at a cost of only $3 a ton.

CALLINGS WORTH WHILE CALLS FOR INDUSTRY

The Farm is Not the Only Place For the Man to Avoid Who Dislikes Work

The country has natural advantages over the city which the latter can never hope to duplicate. There is a sweet communion with nature to be enjoyed on the farm that is impossible along the walled boulevards of the busy business city. There is freedom, fresh air, good water, health in its fullest measure and eternal joy for the lover of nature in the unlimited outdoor life of a Canadian farm. But all this has existed through the years in which the sons of the soil have been shaking the clay of their fathers' farms from off their heavy boots and donning the patent leathers of city pavements. Conditions are changing. The mail is now delivered at the farm gate; the ring of the telephone breaks the monotony of the kitchen, and facilities for travel are yearly being improved. The farm is not the isolated wilderness which many believe it to be. But when it comes right down to brass tacks, are any of the previously mentioned advantages or improvements destined to become the real magnet which shall inseparably attach the farm boy to the farm or exert such a drawing force on those already in other walks of life as to attract them back and hold them fast to that which is good? We are afraid not. People cannot live on beautiful scenery fresh air loaded with the scent of apple blossoms, and water, be it ever so pure. While these, with conveniences now being enjoyed, are factors towards improving conditions, they are not life itself. They may aid in throwing agriculture into a new light, but they are not destined to be the fundamental cause of the changed conditions which are coming. If the majority of our farm boys are to make farming their occupation they must see in it an attractive life, and the greatest incentive to the young man is a fair and sure profit on his operations. The young men of the farm are not afraid of work. They know that farming means work, but so does any other occupation, and as a usual thing according as one works so he succeeds. The farm has no place for him who is afraid of work, but neither has any other calling worth while.—Farmers' Advocate.

WHITE LEGHORNS ON FARM

Upon close analysis it will be found that Leghorns are better adapted to artificial conditions of poultry keeping than are most other breeds, says M. A. Jull in Weekly Witness. They are a small, active, breed with a nervous disposition, and they will stand crowding more than will general purpose or meat breeds. Under average conditions they will give better success when artificial conditions of hatching and rearing are employed than with heavier breeds. The chicks are easy to raise. For two years in succession we have raised far more White Leghorn chicks in proportion to the eggs set than can be said of our utility classes of poultry, so that, all things concerned, the White Leghorn will probably stand a little rougher use and more careless treatment than other breeds, although this is not to be considered as a distinct advantage. On the other hand, it is doubtful if the Leghorns will stand our winter weather quite as well as our Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, or White Wyandottes. I think they should be given warmed houses, and then they will do practically as well. We have had some White Leghorn cockerels with some Plymouth Rock and Rhode Island Red cockerels in a colony house 8x12 feet, and it dropped to 20 below zero in the house during our cold snap. The Plymouth Rock and Rhode Island Red cockerels had their combs frozen, while the Leghorn cockerels had their combs frozen off almost entirely.

The chief value of the White Leghorn lies in its ability to produce broilers quickly, and more especially to produce a large number of eggs rather cheaply. Leghorn, of course is not a good table bird except as a broiler, and the broiler business must be considered as a side line in poultry keeping. No attempts should be made to fatten Leghorns for roasting purposes, as such attempt usually results in loss of time and money. The great asset of the White Leghorn is its egg-laying ability, and this is the factor which should be considered chiefly in keeping of White Leghorns on the farm or on commercial poultry plants. Then, above all, more important than breed is the strain, and by all means great care should be taken to select and breed as good a strain of Single Comb White Leghorns as is possible to obtain.

Address on Grain of Wheat

The Canadian Churchman tells of a wonderful piece of microscopic engraving accomplished by a Jewish farmer in Alberta, who wrote, on a grain of wheat, in Hebrew characters, an address of welcome to the Duke of Connaught. The address contained 300 letters, and was so fine as to require a powerful microscope to read the inscription.

Why Bother About Age? Mentality Is the Point

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

STATE Superintendent of Schools Edward A. Hyatt of California has told the teachers of his state that they needn't tell how old they are—not to anybody—not at any time—except when they come to apply for a pension.

Hurrah for Supt. Hyatt of California! He's a man of my own heart.

Why should Teacher tell her age any more than the car conductor—or the woman who comes to help wash the dishes after the party? Who cares how old Teacher is so long as she can teach? And who cares how young she is, if she isn't a goose?

Nobody pays any attention to age nowadays. Nobody who is anybody, I mean. Of course, all the little persons who never do anything but get born, get married and get buried are very much excited over everybody's age—but their own.

It makes a whole lot of difference whether a man is young or old—mentally. For it is all a matter of mentality—after all.

A ditch digger is old at thirty—a statesman is too young to be given any really important office till he is over fifty.

The girl at twenty doesn't know that any one is alive but herself. Poor little thing, she'll find out soon enough.

The man at thirty hasn't begun to know anything about anybody—even himself. When he begins to find out he begins to be worth while.

How Old Was She?

Why should a woman tell her age—if she doesn't want to? Whose business is it how old she is? People of intelligence don't care and never even think. Why should she satisfy the idle curiosity of persons who are not intelligent?

The minute any one says to me, "How old is she?" I know all I want to know about the person who asks.

I once spent a delightful morning with a delightful woman. A woman who has charmed and enchanted an entire generation. A woman who has had every kind of man on earth in love with her—princes, dukes, statesmen, artists, musicians, writers, kings of finance, butchers, bakers and candlestick-makers.

She was living in her own enchanting home in an enchanting village in an enchanting country. Her house was crammed with fascinating things—she cut the latest magazine with a pearl-handled dagger given her by the Sultan of Turkey. Our tea was served on a Dresden tray—a present from a deposed Empress. The candlesticks on the table had once belonged to a great Italian man of the people. The very shawl she wore came from India and had belonged to the favorite of the harem.

That woman felt like talking that day and she talked. Stories, anecdotes, incidents—it would have been worth a fortune to any publisher to get her to write down the things she told us and give him permission to publish them.

She talked about kings, coal heavers, a baker with a smutch of flour upon his impassioned cheek, the greatest actor of his time, a prince in exile, a murderer condemned to be hanged—she had letters from all of them, and love letters at that. And she showed them to us and laughed and cried and mimicked and related.

Of a sudden, when her maid came to dress her to dine with a great personage, she caught her breath and gasped: "Heavens, what have I been saying!"

Age Is Time's Affair.

And we went out and picked our arms full of roses in a garden famous from one end of Europe to the other—and went away.

When we got outside the gate, the poor nonentity I had been stupid enough to take with me clutched me by the arm. She could scarcely breathe in her hurry to speak.

"How old do you suppose she is?" she stammered in her excitement.

And that was all the poor nonentity ever had to say about that day of wonder with a woman of enchantment. How old is she?—that's all she thought.

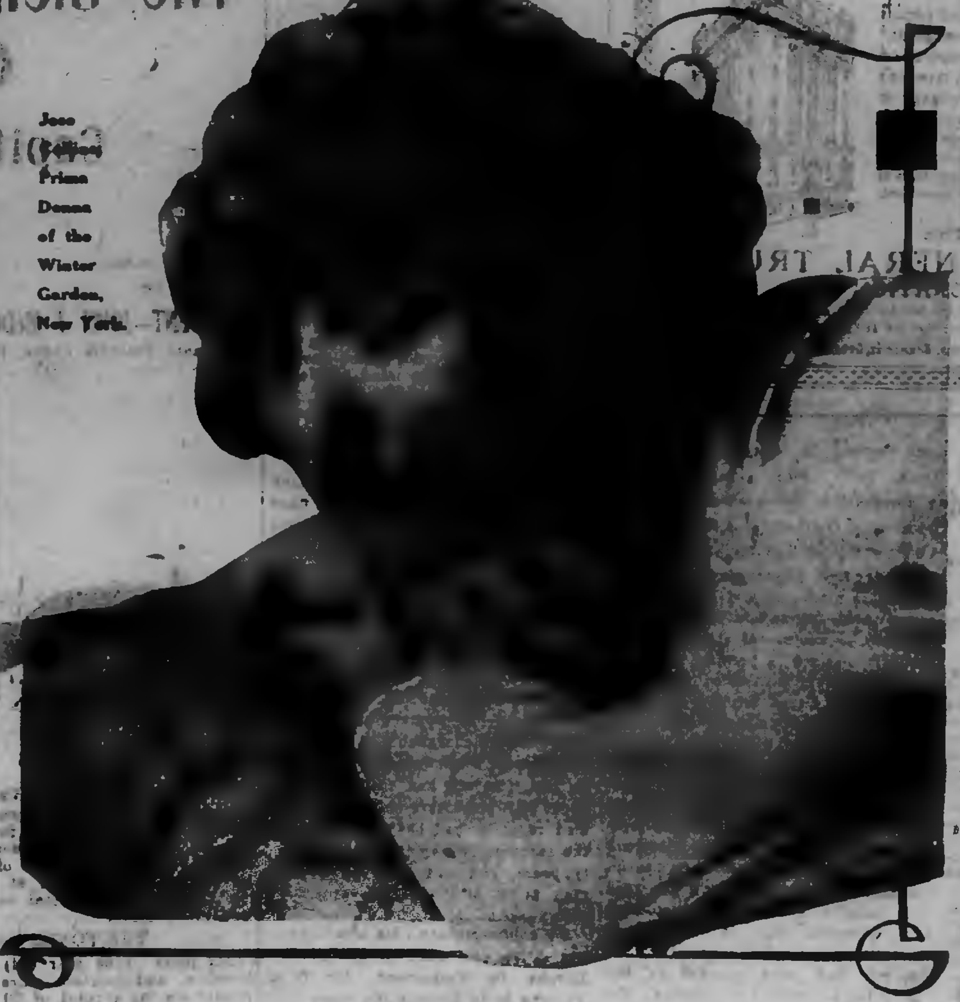
"When she was reading us the King's letter—she looked so young I wouldn't have taken her for a day over twenty-five. But when she read that letter from the murderer she looked forty, if she looked a day. I kept trying to add up all the time from different dates—didn't you?"

And when I told her that I didn't care whether the woman was twenty-five or fifty she stared—and didn't believe a word I said. How could she? She didn't speak the language.

Keep your age [illegible] as long as you want to. It's nobody's affair but your own—and, if you're the right sort of woman, it isn't even your affair.

It's Time's—and Time will take care of it.

CAN "PERSONALITY" BE TAUGHT?



Jose Collins Prima Donna of the Winter Garden, New York.

Dainty Jose Collins Propounds a Puzzling Question

By ELEANOR AMES

WHAT is personality?" I asked Miss Collins while she was making up. "Everybody says that you possess it to a wonderful degree, and I feel it when you are on the stage, but I don't know just how to describe it in words."

She laughed, turning from the mirror to me.

"Why, personality is what gets over the footlights; it's the something that makes you adore some artists and abominate others. It really is indescribable in cold words. It acts without words. It is the boundary that separates the performer from the artist. It is that mysterious something that fills the theatre when its possessor steps out silently on the stage—it demands attention and commands admiration."

"Then it is something born in one, and cannot be learned?" I asked.

"Can't it?" she flashed back with a cryptic smile. "Sometimes I know it cannot be learned, but sometimes I wonder if it is not often unconsciously taught.

"I mean that great producers and wonderful artists have taken performers who were not only unknown but really without even good stage presence, and have worked miracles with them. Did they breathe the breath of living personality into these clay figures? I wonder.

"I once heard Sarah Bernhardt say that the secret of personality lies in continual movement. Though every part of the body be motionless, the play of thought upon the face holds the audience's attention and fills the theatre with vibrant life."

"Then personality can be learned?" I insisted.

"I cannot say that definitely," Miss Collins evaded. "I can only ask the question, 'Can personality be taught?' and leave it for some wiser person to answer."

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

Holiday Quarrels.

THE Christmas breakfast of which I have spoken ushered in a day of general mishap. Mary ran across the street to tell her mother that I had given her a dressing gown instead of the year's [illegible] instruction, upon which her heart was set. When she returned she was in decidedly bad spirits.

"Mother's blue," she said.

"Why?" I asked. Mrs. Penfield runs to sentimental attacks of depression that can't always be explained. The weather frequently sets her. I'm told it affects a great many susceptible women who more or less [illegible] in melancholy. Mrs. Penfield once told me, with a sigh, that very bright still sunlight made her feel horribly depressed. Another time she spoke of falling leaves and bonfires having a similar effect. A day of cloud and rain or a day of snow is bad, and spring days always have an adverse effect, coming back. I doubt if there is any sample of weather that doesn't make her blue. I suppose it's temperament. I don't know.

I do know that men as a class are a more cheerful race of beings than women. Once in a while you find a man who talks nerves, disease, depression and death all the time, but not very often, and, usually, I discover that if he is so affected, he's lived too much with women. His nerves and his temperament are feminized.

"What has made your mother blue today, for heaven's sake?" I demanded.

"Well," said Mary, "she says Christmas makes her think of when I was a little girl and I was so pretty and happy, and she wishes those days were back again."

That, by the way, is another characteristic of my mother-in-law. I've heard so many precocious tales of Mary's babyhood that I shudder when my mother-in-law begins: "Reminds me so much of when Mary was a baby. Dear little thing!" and then comes the shower of sentimental reminiscence. Mind you, I am not decrying a wholesome pride in one's children. I do think it's time to halt, however, when you bore people to death with post-mortem tales of childhood exploits.

"And mother's worried, too, because I have to do my own work," went on Mary.

"Great," said I. "Tell me some more. Does she want you to have a limousine and a maid?"

We quarrelled immediately. And that was the first of the series of mishaps. Mary burned the turkey, because she ran over to her mother's once too often.

She insisted upon my going over with her to spend the afternoon at the Penfields, which I did, and Mr. Penfield and I smoked and talked of the expense of Christmas. I suspected that the yellow back he had been stampeded into giving Mrs. Penfield was, as usual, more than he could afford.

"She wanted a diamond ring," he offered apologetically, "one of those big shield things full of little diamonds, but I simply couldn't afford it."—

I looked at Mrs. Penfield's fat fingers, and felt an insane inclination to laugh. Why do fat women want to load their fingers down with flashy rings? Such a ring as Mr. Penfield described would have been horribly grotesque on my mother-in-law's fat hand.

We left the Penfields about 8, and then I asked Mary to go to mother and Dad's for the old-fashioned supper they always have Christmas night. She said she was tired and didn't want to go. We quarrelled again.

"Mary," I said, "if you don't go this time, after Dad sending me that money for Christmas, I'll go by myself, and I'll tell them the truth—that for some reason you always want me to visit your mother, but you don't care to go to my home with me."

And we quarrelled again, but Mary went. I was to learn on the way there why Mary was so tired and disgruntled.

Masterpieces of the Cuisine

Menu Inventions of M. Lattard

Maitre d'Hotel of the Hotel Plaza, New York.

M. LATTARD

MONSIEUR LATTARD is a culina[illegible] genius. Not only does he compose the daily menus offered his guests and direct his small army of chefs and waiters, but, in a private kitchen, he spends much of his spare time inventing novelties to gratify light epicurean palates. Recipes for a few of these rare novelties he offers to the readers of this paper.

OYSTERS REMICK.

TAKE the desired number of medium-sized oysters, steam until they open, take the flat shell off and lay aside in a warm place. In the meanwhile fry some bacon; when almost done, cut in inch squares. Place one of these squares over each oyster; cover with sauce Remick, sprinkle with bread crumbs and grated cheese and brown slightly.

To make sauce Remick for 24 oysters: Take one-half a pint of good stiff mayonnaise, add six tablespoonfuls of chili sauce, three tablespoonfuls of an oyster sauce, salt, pepper, one-fourth teaspoonful of curry powder, one-half teaspoonful of powdered English mustard and celery salt. Stir the whole thing thoroughly every time you use it.

BASKET CERISOMEL.

CUT with a Parisian cutter the desired quantity of good cantaloupe, pit about an equal quantity of fresh cherries, place the cherries in a pan, adding a little sweet maple syrup over them. Place on the fire and let come to a boil. When done, throw in the cantaloupe and lay aside to cool. Serve on a basket of pistachio ice cream, arranging half cantaloupe and half cherries and sauce as you would a peach Melba.

CANAPE STICKNEY.

TAKE an artichoke bottom, fry it in butter and let it cool off. Take equal parts of crab meat, herring in white wine and bananas, the whole chopped very fine. Season to taste with salt, pepper, celery salt, paprika, English mustard and curry powder. Mix thoroughly, and place in the ice box.

Take now enough white of egg, according to the number of canapes you want to make, and beat it well until it comes to a froth. When ready to serve, take your artichoke bottom, place over it a good spoonful of the salad above mentioned, surround it with filet of Bismarck herring, cover it with some of the white of egg, spread a little grated Parmesan cheese over it, pass under the salamander or gas grill, brown a little, and serve.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

How Bicycle Riding Improves Your Figure

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

LIFE is a circle. Even inert, non-living bodies move in circular, or curving, spheres.

A cat curls up before the fireplace in a circle. The planets revolve around the sun in near-circles; worlds spin in space in circles. Drops of fluid, dew, rain and water all form circles or globules. The human race is doubling up like a jackknife into a circle. Round shoulders, the shuffle walk, the bow legs and knock knees, these and various other deformities, such as curvature of the spine, humpback, paralyzed arms and legs all tend to curves.

Electrons, atoms and molecules all move in circles, as do the wireless waves of the atmosphere. All of these strange tendencies of mineral and living things teach the physiological fact that physical culture and muscular exercises, which involve circular curve movements, aid the human drift and proclivity toward stable health.

Bicycle riding, dancing, rowing, swimming, boxing, tennis playing and baseball playing are all superior, therefore, to walking, massage, golf playing, horseback riding and indoor gymnastics.

Useless, indeed, is the motorcycle and automobile as far as muscular development and a reduction of weight is concerned. Wheeling, nevertheless, with the circular motion of your pedal extremities, surpasses walking and riding, and equals dancing and swimming as an outdoor sport.

Muscular growth usually means decrease in redundant fat. It is a thing of compact solidity and wholeness. There is no loss in strength, but a great gain in force, efficiency and power.

Women should, if sound in body, take up bicycle riding in preference to all present fashions in physical exertion. Indeed, every automobile should be equipped with bicycles, just as large water craft and steamers are fitted with small boats and life preservers.

These would enable the ambitious ones occasionally to leave the motor car and take a little physical jaunt beside the modern juggernauts. Thus all danger of being stalled in the road would also be obviated.

THE VERY LATEST FIGURE IS SLENDER AND ROUND

By MADGE MARVEL

FITTED basques and Zouave skirts are two of the midsummer straws that may give some slight indication of how the winter winds of fashion will blow.

The Zouave skirt is more striking than graceful, and is exactly what the name implies. It has the tunic drawn into a deep puff midway between the knees and ankles, and the under portion is fitted close. It gives little room for walking, but is short and rather smart looking.

The fitted basque is advancing daily in popularity. Six weeks ago one worn on the street made every one turn and look. Now one gains only passing notice. All the shops are displaying them, not as eccentric novelties, but as adopted styles.

Gowns Fit Close.

Not since the days of the jersey have we worn such fitted garments. The new basque gowns are simple. There are several seams, back and under arm and bust darts. The waist is long and should be fairly slender. There is always a sash knotted low in the back which makes the fit of the bodice all the more apparent.

Even the newest evening gowns have the blousiness of the bodice drawn snugly into the wide girdles, which are being placed lower and lower, so the long-waisted effect is emphasized.

Sleeves are small and set-in. There is a plain lace or linen collar, and the whole figure is outlined with more accuracy, from an anatomical standpoint, than in any style which the present generation can recall.

Of course, no one will be so bold as to predict what fall will bring in the way of styles. Last season it was the minaret, this year the tunic, peplum basques, short and fuller skirts, flounces. Every one who is supposed to know agrees that there is apt to be a decided change in styles this autumn. There has been such an indeterminate air about the summer gowns, the time seems ripe for a change. Paris designers will give no hint of new notes before the middle of August, and it will be a month later before there will be any definite knowledge in America. Early October will be as soon as one will feel any surety about the essential changes.

Waist-Line Returning.

Besides the basques there is the foot trimming of skirts which is new. Many of the gowns show a ruching at the hem of the underskirt which gives greater emphasis to the fulness of the tunic, and reminds one of the hobble band. It is said to be the forerunner of pantalets. Frequently on the summer frocks this underskirt is of net or lace with the ruching of net, having the tiniest line of color at the edge, while the tunic and part of the bodice is of charmeuse, in pink, blue, yellow or some of the other fashionable shades.

The edge of the tunic frequently is cut in long points and finished with a bias fold of the material. Many of these gowns have the tight-fitting bodices and not a suspicion of fulness above the wide girdle.

Several of the lace and lingerie gowns made for one of the Newport hostesses, and which I was privileged to see, were fitted snugly to the figure, and the waist line was at the place where it was once supposed the feminine waist was located.

Already one of the physical directors of a fashionable gymnasium tells me women are in training for the new figure, which will be more exacting than for many years. Besides being slender, the woman who will successfully wear the new basques must be well rounded, for there must be the suggestion of curves in her figure. Otherwise one might as well fit a basque to the broomstick.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

I am 18 years of age. My mother objects seriously to my keeping company. She thinks it is all right to walk down the street with a fellow, or, perhaps, go to the "show," or church, but I must not bring him into the house afterward.

"PATIENCE."

WELL, Patience, you're living with your mother, aren't you, and she's taking care of you, I suppose, isn't she?

So long as she supports you, you certainly owe her obedience, no matter whether what she wants you to do is what you want to do or not. And, then, she probably knows a good deal more about what you should do than you. What do you suppose her object is in trying to have you be circumspect? She's always seemed to be fond of you, hasn't she? Why do you think she is trying to spite you now?

Mother knows best, little girl, and if you're sensible you'll listen to what mother says, and listen to some good purpose.

Why should you bring a man into the house with you after you've been to the theatre with him? You know perfectly well why your mother doesn't want any man in the house with you alone after she has gone to bed, and she knows that you know she knows it. And the young man knows. What's the use of making any mystery about it? You are no different from any other girl, and your young man is probably just an average young man, and you ought to be thankful to have a mother who knows enough, and who cares enough, to look after you properly. If the man really likes you he'll think all the more of you for following your mother's advice.

Be good now, and be sensible and be sweet, and then you stand some chance of being happy.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care of this office.

The Good Night Story

The Princess's Riddle—By VERNON MERRY

THREE boys went traveling in a [illegible] country to take part in the great [illegible] contest [illegible] whoever guessed the Princess's riddle was to have her in marriage. So the three young men tried their very best.

"I have two different sorts of hair on my head," said the Princess; "what are they?"

"Pepper and salt," cried one of the boys, "like old folks have."

"Wrong," said the Princess, frowning.

"Gold and red, like a tiger lily," guessed the other boy.

"No!" cried the Princess, smiling.

The littlest boy stepped forward and said: "You have a silver and a golden [illegible] on your head, and they, of course, are of different colors."

"Right," sobbed the Princess, for she did not want him to marry her. "But before I consent you must spend the night with the bear in the stable. If you are alive in the morning, I will marry you."

"Agreed," cried the littlest boy, and off to the stable he ran.

When the bear saw him he licked his chops at the thought of what a fine [illegible] the little fellow would make. But the boy had a scheme. He brought [illegible] he danced round. After a while he asked the boy to teach him how to play the fiddle, but, looking at his long claws, he said they were too very long and [illegible] trimmed a bit.

The bear agreed and the boy led the bear to a big vise that stood in the [illegible] in the vise and the boy [illegible] that the [illegible] him the boy went to sleep.

[illegible] morning the Princess came to the stable, and to her amazement found him alive. She was forced to consent to their marriage now, and she really had to do it, because the boy had proved himself so brave. So they were married and lived happily ever after.

[illegible] does not believe this story must pay a fine of one cent.

INTERPROVINCIAL NEWS BREVITIES

Toronto, Oct. 8.—The [illegible] of H. Heintz, the new [illegible], was the sending of $15,000 to the distressed Belgians. Many of them [illegible] their homes and all their [illegible] through the vandalism of their German despoilers.

Toronto, Oct. 8.—Keen disappointment [illegible] with a little [illegible] by the women of the Methodist church in Canada at the refusal of the general conference of that body held at Ottawa to grant women the same voting rights in church affairs as are accorded to laymen. It had been generally conceded that as the church had accorded its undivided support to the Rowell candidates at the last general election in an effort to secure the parliamentary franchise for women as [illegible] by [illegible], that the church would not refuse to maintain the same attitude in the church as it had maintained outside of the church. The Methodist cannot now, it is held, consistently advocate the enfranchisement of women in other directions when it refuses to admit them to its own counsels. The "World" (Toronto) commenting on the situation says editorially: "A two thirds vote of the conference was in favor of allowing women equal privileges with men in all church courts, boards and committees. We regret the result of the vote which ought to have been conclusive. The Methodist church however, except in such matters as liquor licenses, does not believe in taking action except with a three fourths vote. We think that a two thirds or even a three fifths vote is sufficiently decisive. Mr. N. W. Rowell will particularly regret the attitude of the conference if he is consistent with his views on the license question, where simple majorities, he holds, are quite enough to carry local option bylaws. Perhaps the Methodist defence will be that women are much more dangerous than licensed liquors, and should be more [illegible] bottled up."

Toronto, Oct. 8.—A writ for the by-election in West Elgin necessitated through the elevation of Hon. F. G. Macdiarmid to the cabinet, has been issued. Nominations will be held Oct. 21, and the polling on Oct. 28. The Liberal executive at St. Thomas is authority for the statement that no opposition will be offered to his re-election.

Valcartier, Oct. 8.—One of the most valuable blood horses ever brought to Canada has gone with the Canadian contingent to the war, and will be used by Col. Farquhar, D.S.O., officer commanding the Princess Patricia Light Infantry. The animal was presented to him by Colin Campbell of Montreal, who represents one of the large Scottish distilleries, in Canada. Col. Farquhar was formerly in command of the Coldstream Guards, and later on the staff of the governor-general.

Washington, D.C., Oct. 8.—Divorce statistics as given in the newly completed return make interesting reading, especially when compared along with the conditions which exist in the states enumerated. It has often been said that with the coming of prohibition, the causes which lead to divorce are reduced to a minimum, yet the returns show that Kansas, which is regarded as the model prohibition state, leads 31 license states in the number of decrees granted. After many decades of prohibition the divorce rate is 286 per 100,000 of the population. The enormity of this figure can be better understood when it is compared with New York with 66, New Jersey 60; Pennsylvania 94; Delaware 43. In the decrees granted for drunkenness, Kansas leads 15 license states, while for decrees granted for cruelty, Kansas has more than 24 license states.

Germany's Siege Guns

Julius Caesar would certainly be surprised if he should return to the earth and witness a modern army besieging a city. Instead of an armed host under the walls attacking with battering rams and catapults he would observe the emplacement of monster guns miles away being fired by mathematical calculation at an unseen target. So it is a far cry from the old Roman ballista to the German Krupp gun.

At the beginning of the present war there were hints of a powerful siege gun which had been made by the Germans without the knowledge of other nations, and whose existence was not even generally known in the German army. But the mystery surrounding the big gun was lifted at the siege of Liege and Namur, where its destructive force was strikingly demonstrated.

Of course, there are wild rumors about these big weapons of destruction, one of which declares that they are of 16-inch bore, and can throw a projectile weighing 2,400 pounds a distance of twenty-three miles. We should leave this statement in the questionable class, particularly as to distance, at the same time acknowledging their tremendous effectiveness against any kind of permanent defence yet devised. Still, however, such guns have their defects, one of which is transportation, and another their need for permanent concrete foundations from which to be discharged. This necessitates the defeat of the enemy as an offensive unit, and the employment of overwhelming forces, with open communications, to assure transportation of these siege monsters both to and fro from a besieged city, to say nothing of their protection while in action. So far, the Germans have been fortunate in this respect in having a comparatively weak foe in Belgium against whom to bring their big guns, under most favorable auspices to them. But the battle line in France is now actually within Belgium, the struggle is no longer favorable to the Germans, who are on the defensive, and unless all signs fail will be so until the end of the war. In which event, their boasted siege guns in this war will have had their day.

Then these mammoth guns are the most costly engines of war, both in manufacture and use. So great is the expansion from the heat that the gun can be fired only six times in twenty-four hours. Another remarkable thing is the short life of this gun, for after 150 shots have been fired from it it is no longer usable.

Painful Swellings Reduced Muscular Strains Ended

Such Troubles Now Quickly Rubbed Away by Powerful Remedy.

If you have any muscles that are strained and weak, that are frequently subject to rheumatic pains; if you have any painful swellings that refuse to go away—get busy with Nerviline. This is the very sort of trouble that Nerviline is noted for curing quickly. "I have proved Nerviline simply a wonder in reducing a hard, painful swelling. It followed an injury I received in my left leg and caused me great pain and discomfort. The muscles were strained and sore and no other remedy gave the ease and comfort I got from rubbing on Nerviline. There is a soothing, pain-relieving power about Nerviline that touched the root of my trouble. Nerviline reduced the swelling, it destroyed the pain, it brought my limb back to perfect condition." The experience of Mr. Bowen, whose home is in Middlesex, is not unusual. Thousands are proving every day that muscular pains of every kind, chronic rheumatism, lumbago, neuralgia and sciatica will yield to Nerviline when nothing else can possibly cure. Nerviline is an old-time family pain remedy, used nearly forty years with great success. The large family size bottle costs 50c., trial size 25c., at all dealers.

Trade Expansion

In a "Plain Talk on Opportunities for Trade Expansion in South America," Dr. David Kinley, University of Illinois, gives his fellow countrymen some good advice that is equally applicable to Canadians. He says:

"There is too much talk of Government initiative in this matter. We cannot build up trade by writing about it or talking about it, or by determining that 'this country' must do business with some other country. Countries do not trade. Business firms and individuals trade. If, therefore, any manufacturers or group of manufacturers is in earnest about developing trade with South America he must proceed on his own initiative. He should send sensible, responsible agents at once to report upon the conditions under which business can be done. He should find the usual terms of credit, for the conditions and methods of doing business, particularly in granting credit, are not the same in all these countries in all lines of business. These agents should report exactly what articles the people have been accustomed to buy, and what they want in style, quantity, colours, prices, and other details. The manufacturers should then endeavour to meet the wishes of his prospective customers in all respects. All this implies what a recent manufacturer has called a "network of intelligent agencies."

The Air Raid on London

One hears considerable boasting from Count Zeppelin about his contemplated destruction of London by means of airships to avenge his own [illegible] and Germany's spite against England. Well, such a raid upon an noncombative city reflects discredit both upon Germany's and the noble Count's culture and civilization. But what can one expect after the experience of Louvaine and Rheims. It seems to be Germany's policy to intimidate by means of atrocious and barbaric warfare in keeping with the savagery which dominated the dark ages; but Great Britain is proof against intimidation; she will move calmly along the even tenor of her way until Germany is defeated by the pressure of an irresistible but humane power, after which the German barbarians will have to pay the price of their indefensible and atrocious destruction. Of course, it is taken for granted that Germany's air raid upon London will be an unmolested and successful trip. It may and it may not be so. Other invasions of England had been planned in the past; there was, for instance, the Spanish Armada, and Napoleon's dream of invasion, both of which ended disastrously to the nations involved. England has not been asleep these years of air craft construction, and it is just possible that a raid on London by German air craft may meet with disaster to the participants therein.

The mysterious lifting and replacing of the pavements in Brussels is giving rise to suspicion that the Germans are mining the streets. But doesn't the same thing go on in most cities right along?

England has warned Germany to have a care not to repeat her policy of wanton destruction in Antwerp, and to be more circumspect in the use of bombs, as reprisals will be the order of the day unless the accepted rules of modern war are adhered to by the German armies.

In this hour of supreme trial for the British people the world over the Lauriers, the Pugsleys, the Carvells and the rest of that brood have come to realize that there is no room in Canada for the man who seeks to stand between Canada and the Empire.

With the flag of Drake and of Nelson flying in the North Sea and the old lion fighting the great fight for the Empire's safety, would it not have been a proud thing for Canada to have been able to say, "Here are three great ships of war. Take them."

The laying out of streets, squares and parks, and their embellishment by landscape or architectural treatment, though important, are only the commencement of city planning. The installation of the necessary utilities and their effective operation and maintenance are of fundamental importance.

The world at large is suffering from the effects of the war, which, generally speaking, the Kaiser is held responsible for. Prayers are daily offered for peace and restoration of trade and business activities. Peace will come when Germany is beaten thoroughly, and not before. She will eventually be beaten by the allies, but that result would be obtained much quicker were there less wordy admission on the part of present neutral nations that Germany is violating all treaties, and more active opposition to Saime. The Kaiser does not care one cent for hot-air protests.

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Company re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs — all young foxes— good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leaving $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:— "We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalize your concern at $90,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

CARE OF HORSES

Some sensible Facts For the Guidance of Teamsters

Load lightly and drive slowly.

Stop in the shade, if possible.

Water your horse as often as possible. So long as a horse is working water in moderate quantities will not hurt him. But let him drink only a few swallows if he is going to stand still.

When he comes in after work sponge off the harness marks and sweat, his eyes, his nose, and mouth, and the dock. Wash his feet, but not his legs.

If the thermometer is seventy-five degrees or higher, wipe him all over with a wet sponge. Use vinegar water, if possible. Do not turn the hose on him.

Saturday night, give a bran mash, cold; and add a tablespoonful of saltpetre.

A sponge on top of the head, or even a cloth, is good if kept wet. If dry, it is worse than nothing.

If the horse is overcome by heat, get him into the shade, remove harness and bridle, wash out his mouth, sponge him all over, shower his legs, and give him four ounces of aromatic spirits of ammonia, or two ounces of sweet spirit of nitre, in a pint of water, or give him a pint of coffee warm. Cool his head at once, using cold water, or if necessary, chopped ice wrapped in cloth.

If the horse is off his feed, try him with two quarts of oats, mixed with bran, and a little water; and add a little salt or sugar. Or give him oatmeal gruel or barley water to drink.

Huge Sums For Racing

Statistics relative to prize money allotted by the various racing clubs at Australia show the great strides made in the Commonwealth of late years. For one racing season the prize money amounted to a grand total of $4,111,165, while the combined race clubs of Great Britain and Ireland disbursed $2,792,986, a record amount.

FUR INDUSTRY

Fur-bearing Animals Lead in Aggregate Natural Wealth

That the fur industry of the North American continent is not likely to become extinct, nor are the fur bearing animals being killed off the various parts of the country, is the view of dealers in raw furs. There are more animals killed and thus the collection is greater, but in spite of the fact that thousands upon thousands of animals are being killed every year still the supply does not seem to be lessening. But whatever may be the condition of the raw fur collections, there is no question but what the demand of fashion, the competition of the large circular houses and the general utility of fur garments have sent the price of furs to an enormous height. Thus a clever trapper can make a small fortune, if he handles his catch properly. The fur trade has rightly been called the greatest of our natural resources. No industry, agricultural, mineral or otherwise, has been the origin of so much wealth to Canada as the fur industry. Before a single field was cultivated, a single mine opened, or a single railroad constructed, the fur bearing animals of this country were the only source of revenue. This was one of the main reasons for the rapid colonization of our country, especially of the West. It was the [illegible] trail that formed the path of the first highway and the trapper's fur that formed the first cargo that was ever freighted on any of the inland waters. It was also the trapper's catch that brought the first foreign wealth to this country, and ever since America has been practically supplying the world with furs. No other of our natural resources have been productive for so long a time or have yielded such an aggregate wealth as the fur bearing animals so after all, the fur industry is not dying out.—Fur Magazine.

DOMESTIC CATTLE

The Ayrshire Came to Nova Scotia in 1821

Although the Spaniards may have introduced cattle into the western hemisphere during the 16th century, Canada may claim to have the honor of being the first part of America, north of the Gulf of Mexico to receive domestic cattle. The Plymouth Fathers did not have any until 1623. Up to 1734, New France and Acadia together boasted 35,000 cattle. From the year 1831 the growth of herds in Canada was rapid. Until 1840 Lower Canada held premier place, after which Upper Canada rapidly overhauled her rival province, with the result that in 1861 Upper Canada had 451,640 head against 328,370 in the lower province, with 69,000 in New Brunswick, 110,500 in Nova Scotia, 60,000 in Prince Edward Island and about 7,000 in the Prairie provinces. Between 1871 and 1901 the growth of milch cow herds in all provinces excepting Nova Scotia was steady, the total in all Canada in 1901 being 2,408,677. The coming of the celebrated breeds that comprise this country's herds is of interest. Next to the French and United States cattle, the Ayreshire was introduced. Through the instrumentality of Lord Dalhousie, they came to Nova Scotia in 1821. They were imported into Ontario, by Mr. J. W. Ewert in 1845, and after that large numbers came to Ontario and Quebec. The Jersey breed arrived first in 1839, when Mr. Harrison Stephens of Montreal stocked the farms of his two sons with herds from that island. The Guernsey breed was introduced by the late Hon. John Abbott in 1878. The Holstein, or Holstein-Fresian, came in 1882-3, five Ontario farmers embarking on the enterprise at the same time. Pure bred Shorthorns came in 1825 into New Brunswick, and the year following several Ontario farmers imported them.

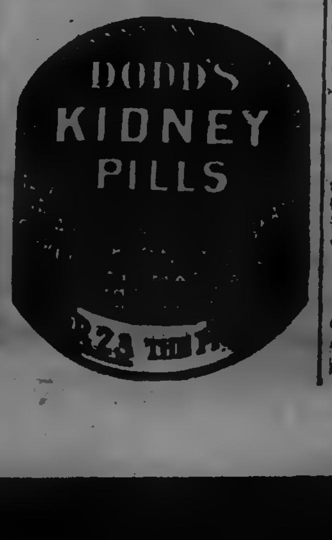
Do Animals Suicide?

The question is often raised whether animals commit suicide, and the story of the dog who some years ago held his head under water in the Frog Pond till he was drowned is brought up. The Journal of Paris tells us that a giraffe—an unusually fine specimen—in the museum of that city grew melancholy and moped for several days. At last it swayed its neck, slowly from side to side. The movement became quicker and the animal nearing a wall, smashed its skull against it.

Mushroom Mines

Abandoned mines in Akron, New York, are being profitably used in growing mushrooms. The mines were damp, cool, and dark, and a shrewd man saw that they were ideal places for mushroom culture—better even than hothouses in certain ways. Three crops a year are harvested from these supposedly useless mines.

An ornament for women's hats which can be made of as costly material as desired has been patented to hold a feather at any angle.



PROF. J. W. ROBERTSON ON TECHNICAL EDUCATION

Our whole civilization moves under the influence of the fishermen of Galilee, the tent-maker of Tarsus, and above all the Carpenter of Nazareth.

In Ireland in 1899 there were only about 2,000 pupils in industrial continuation schools, chiefly in the north of Ireland; by 1910 there were 65,000 pupils enrolled under the schemes of the Technical Instruction branch.

After the hand work for boys was introduced into the schools of Munich, of the 2,300 boys who left school the first year thereafter, no less than 2,150 went at once into hand work in skilled employments.

What is required is that individuals and communities possess intelligence, practical ability and co-operating good will. These are not inherited.

The development of labor for the carrying on and carrying out of undertakings in connection with the natural resources is a most important duty, and at the present time is pressing upon the people for discharge. It presses upon the people both as individuals and communities.

The schools do not teach a trade, but give a good preparation for the learning of a trade immediately after the children leave school.

The fruits of technical education would be found in the circumstances and homes of the people and in the residuum of intelligence, practical ability and good will.

Hereafter the top of the ladder will be in every kind of institution where a man or woman is needed and can be trained for efficient service in agricultural work, in industrial work, commercial work, or housekeeping work.

Please Read Carefully and Note!

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascer-tained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. Dunn chose wisely in the selection of the now famous Monarch well. WINDSOR OILFIELDS, LIMITED, has holdings located close to the Monarch.

THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). If a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

Our holdings consist of 1380 acres, carefully selected and judiciously spread over the entire oil field.

When the afternoon tea was served the hostess observed that the old man gulped down his before she could serve the other guests. Again and again the farmer passed his cup to be refilled. At the ninth cup the lady, becoming uneasy as to the supply on hand, ventured to ask:

"How many cups of tea do you take, John?"

ANIMAL NAMESAKES

Rachel Was a Hebrew Word For Ewe Lamb

Did you ever think about the women's names that owe their origin to animals? It is a strange gathering of [illegible] such [illegible] if we do stop to think of them.

For one, there is the name Rachel, which the Hebrews gave in honor of the lamb—surely a good enough symbol for any woman. For Rachel meant a ewe lamb to the Hebrews. Agnes, too, is a name that owes much to the lamb, although Agnes is not really a lamb—it means purity—both the name Agnes and the Greek word for lamb came from the source. All through the ages, too, Agnes has been considered as the equivalent for lamb, and if so many persons had not always thought that Agnes actually was first given in honor of this gentlest of beasts, it is quite likely there would never have been so many Agneses.

The dove, too, is another likely member of the animal kingdom to have human namesakes. There is the Hebrew dove, Jemima, and there is the Latin dove, Columba, neither very usual names to-day. It is somewhat strange that there have not been many Columbas in Canada and the United States. Surely the dove is worthy enough, and any American Columba would be honoring good old Christopher Columbus as well as the gentle bird.

The bee is about the only insect that ever gained feminine namesakes. Deborah was a name given by the Hebrews for the bee, and owing to its popularity among the Puritans there is still to be found an occasional Deborah in Canada. Melissa, the Greek name for bee, is seldom found nowadays, although sometimes we come across it in romances.

Tabitha and Dorcas are both names that owe their origin to the gentle gazelle—although Dorcas in its meaning, suggests nothing of the animal's gentleness, for the name signifies dark and beautiful eyes.

SOME SHORT CUTS IN FIGURING INTEREST

The following will be found to be excellent rules for finding the interest on any principal for any number of days. When the principal contains cents, point off four places from the right of the result to express the interest in dollars and cents. When the principal contains dollars only, point off two places and proceed as follows:

Two per cent.—Multiply the principal by the number of days to run, and divide by 180.

Two and one-half per cent.—Multiply by number of days, and divide by 144.

Three per cent.—Multiply by number of days, and divide by 120.

Three and one-half per cent.—Multiply by number of days, and divide by 102.86.

Four per cent.—Multiply by number of days, and divide by 90.

Five per cent.—Multiply by number of days, and divide by 72.

Six per cent.—Multiply by number of days, and divide by 60.

Seven per cent.—Multiply by number of days, and divide by 51.43.

Eight per cent.—Multiply by number of days, and divide by 45.

Nine per cent.—Multiply by number of days, and divide by 40.

Ten per cent.—Multiply by number of days and divide by 36.

Twelve per cent.—Multiply by number of days, and divide by 30.

Fifteen per cent.—Multiply by number of days, and divide by 24.

For example: Find the accrued interest on $1,500.00 for 123 days at 6%. Point off two places, multiply 1.23 by $1,500, the result is $1,845.00, divide by 60, and you have $30.75, which is the correct sum in dollars and cents.

THE WEALTH OF BRITAIN

A British Bluebook on the occupations of the people of England and Wales, recently issued by the Census Bureau, gives figures which indicate how large a proportion of the population is engaged in personal service, ministering to the wants and whims of the rich. Female domestic servants number 1,360,673. In one borough, that of Hampstead, a suburb of London, 757 families out of every 1,000 keep one or more domestics. The other extreme is found in the industrial north. In many small Lancashire and Yorkshire towns there are less than 30 domestics per 1,000 families. The charming gardens of the well-to-do cost an enormous sum to maintain. There are no less than 118,739 gardeners employed under the [illegible] result of the labors of this army is the most delightful countryside to be found in the world. A summary of the total number of persons, male and female, engaged in domestic service gives the following figures:

Male indoor service	[illegible],765
Female indoor service	1,360,673

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

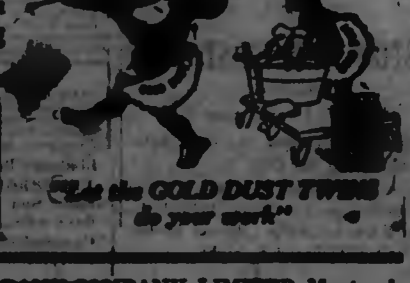
As light as lager, but better for you.

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles.

Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, Gold Dust will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.



Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always effects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale [illegible] or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

See that breeching straps are tight enough to back the wagon instead of by saddle or crupper.

See that the turn buckle is adjusted properly, and thus avoid pole being carried by horses.

See that the blinders are properly adjusted and do not rub the eyes. (The use of blinders should be discouraged.)

When putting a team in harness see that reins are buckled together first, and pass same on to driver's seat, then fasten breast straps—next fasten the holdbacks and then hook the traces.

When unhitching a team—see that traces are unfastened first—then the holdbacks—next the breast straps, then unbuckle the reins when ready to unhitch—this precaution will prevent many accidents.

Walk horses when leaving stable for a few blocks, also after watering, and thus avoid serious illness.

When horses go lame—first examine feet, and remove shoe if necessary.

Never drive with a slack rein.

Never jerk your horse with reins.

Never strike your horse over the head.

Never allow anyone to tease or tickle your horse—the horse only feels the torture and does not understand the joke.

Never beat or permit anyone else to beat your horse, as nothing so soon makes him permanently vicious.

Never stand your horse in a draft.

Never start your horse with the whip.

Never back your wagon with the brake on.

Never drive your horse with a shoe off; if too far to drive to stable, go to the nearest horseshoeing shop and have it attended to.

Always water horses before eating.

CREED FOR A FARMER

I believe in a permanent agriculture, a soil that shall grow richer rather than poorer from year to year.

I believe in 100-bushel corn and 50-bushel wheat, and I shall not be satisfied with anything else.

I believe that the only good weed is a dead weed, and that a clean farm is as important as a clean conscience.

I believe in the farm boy and in the farm girl, the farmer's best crops and the future's best hope.

I believe in the farm woman, and will do all in my power to make her life easier and happier.

I believe in a country school that prepares for country life, and a country church that teaches its people to love deeply and live honorably.

I believe in community spirit, a pride in home and neighbors, and I will do my part to make my community the best in the province.

I believe in the farmer, I believe in farm life, I believe in the inspiration of the open country.

I am proud to be a farmer, and I will try earnestly to be worthy of the name.—Frank I. Mann.

Remarkable Headgear

Strictly speaking, however, the contrivance on her head is not a bonnet. It's the baby's basket.

This custom of carrying baby, basket and all on the head, is a custom of the Baralong tribe in South Africa. The basket is made of reeds, bound around with goat's skin. The inside, however, is thickly laid with downy feathers, so that baby has a beautifully soft nest.

CATTLE VERSUS SHEEP

Profitable Raising Depends More on the Man Than Animal

There is always more or less discussion as to which is the more profitable the cow or the sheep. This, like all other live stock and agricultural comparisons, depends more on the handler than on the stock.

All kinds of farm animals will succeed and become profitable when properly handled. This we see on all sides; it has been proven. The question nowadays is, will the owner or handler of live stock make a success out of the business of handling stock? The business itself is a success, but the handler often does not know anything about the business of handling stock, and therefore fails in obtaining the best results or even moderate results.

The sheep is a profitable animal on the farm and has made a very profitable animal on the range when systematically handled. The cow is a profitable animal on the farm when used as a dairy feature, and the farmer who has an aptitude for dairy management and dairy work will make a success with the cow in this line of industry.

The relative cost of keeping the cow and the sheep cannot be figured accurately, owing to the variation in the size and feeding capacity of these animals. The experiences of those who have thought they observed tests closely are widely different in their estimates, ranging all the way from five to ten sheep, as an equivalent to a cow in matter of food consumed and expense of keeping. All sheep and all cows are not on an equal basis in consumption of food. It is fair, however, to presume that on an average of six sheep can be kept on the feed required for a 1,000-pound cow.

The keeping of a few sheep on the farm where there are pastures fenced to hold them is a safe proposition of any farmer. Even the dairy farmer may find it profitable to keep a few sheep, as they are good weed destroyers, and in wool and mutton will return a good profit for feed consumed. They are not injurious to cow pastures, as many believe, especially where but few are kept. The keeping of cattle and sheep on the same pastures at the same time is not recommended; yet all over the eastern sheep-raising districts the cow pastures were usually the run of a few sheep of extra quality, these being given a little extra care for show or breeding purposes. The keeping of a few sheep in the herd was not alone the question of profit, —also of the matter of whether you would like to engage in sheep-raising as a business. —The Maritime Farmer.

CANDLING OF EGGS A SIMPLE PROCESS

W. A. Brown, B.S.A., Gives Some Timely and Valuable Suggestions

As regards quality, an egg is one of the most difficult of food products to grade. Fortunately an egg is semi-transparent when held before the light and permits, if carefully rotated, of even minor defects being seen. Many appliances for commercial and private use have been invented for the detection of bad eggs, and it is now possible for anyone with a little practice to tell at a glance the main points between good and bad eggs.

In order to teach the proper methods of examination, there was prepared, under the direction of the live stock commissioner, a pamphlet by Mr. W. A. Brown, B.S.A., chief of the poultry division.

It is not necessary, says Mr. Brown, to use an extremely powerful light. An ordinary kerosene lamp, a gas jet, or a 16 candle power incandescent bulb are the sources of light most generally used in commercial work.

From time to time various appliances have been invented to facilitate the candling of eggs in quantities. These have proven serviceable for the simple detection of bad eggs, but have not been found satisfactory for the purpose of fine grading.

It is necessary therefore in commercial work as well as in private practice for each and every egg to be passed separately and with a quick turning movement before the light. In the large wholesale produce houses where large quantities of eggs are handled it is remarkable how expert some candlers become. They pick up regularly from two to three eggs in each hand and depending upon the season candle from 25 to 35 thirty dozen cases per day.

The size of the air cell, the consistency of the albumen, the color and mobility of the yolk and the general transparency of the whole egg are the factors most generally recognized as determining the quality.

The contents of an egg, just laid, completely fill the shell, but as cooling takes place contraction occurs and an air space about the size of a five cent piece is formed. The yolk is only slightly perceptible and should swing readily in the albumen when the egg is turned around.

A stale or shrunken egg may be detected by the size of the air cell. The shell is porous and evaporation takes place whenever the egg is surrounded by a temperature above freezing point. Even in the low temperature of a cold storage house a certain amount of evaporation occurs. The higher the temperature and the more rapid the air circulation the greater is the evaporation. Accompanying the evaporation a staleness of flavor soon develops, and if the egg is held in the presence of moisture or packed in dirty fillers it is apt to become musty. As the egg grows staler the albumen tends to lose its consistency and often becomes quite watery. The yolk may also break down and in extreme cases mix with the albumen.

A bad egg or an egg which has been incubated may be readily detected from the fact that the clear transparent part has become dark and opaque. Many other forms and degrees of decomposition occur, but the above are those most commonly seen.

Many simple devices and appliances have been devised for the candling of eggs. Probably the simplest method is to place the egg between the thumb and first finger and hold it between the eye and the light, using the free hand to shut off as much of the surrounding light as possible. A better method is to hold the egg at the end of a long paper or metal tube. Another simple means is to take a piece of cardboard or folded sheet of newspaper, cut a hole in it about an inch in diameter before which the egg should be passed with a gentle turning motion, between the eye and the light.

Perhaps the most serviceable of home-made appliances may be constructed from an ordinary tin biscuit box which can be used in conjunction with a kerosene lamp or an electric bulb. The polished tin surface reflects the light and increases greatly the efficiency of the apparatus. A hole one and one-eighth inches in diameter should be cut in one side of the box, three and a half inches from the bottom. To obtain the best results this hole should be faced with thick paper or felt. When a lamp is used it is necessary to cut an additional hole in the bottom large enough to admit the burner and another in the lid through which the chimney may project.

It is possible for anyone with a little practice to tell at a glance the main points of difference between good and bad eggs.

India Wants Canadian Ties

A Vancouver firm received from the Bengal and Northwestern Railway Co. of India an order for 100,000 creosoted railway ties. The specifications called for the best quality of seasoned Douglas fir, to be treated with 12 pounds of creosote per cubic foot, under specified temperature and pressure conditions. If the Douglas fir ties prove satisfactory for railway construction in India it is probable that other large orders for similar supplies from British Columbia will follow, and the creosoting industry of the province will be given a decided impetus from India.

AN EASY WAY TO STOP HEAD NOISES

Good Advice For Those Who Fear Deafness

Men and women who are growing hard of hearing and who experience a stuffy feeling of pressure against their ear drums, accompanied by buzzing, rumbling sounds in their head like water falling or steam escaping should take prompt and effective measures to stop this trouble. Headnoises are almost invariably the forerunners of complete or partial deafness and most deaf people suffer from them constantly. Sometimes these head noises become so distracting and nerve racking, with their never ceasing "hum," they drive the sufferer almost frantic and complete nervous breakdown and even violent insanity have been known to result.

Thanks to a remarkable scientific discovery made recently in England it is now possible to almost instantly lessen the severity of these headnoises and in a very short time to completely and permanently overcome them. With the disappearing of the head noises, the hearing also greatly improves and very frequently can be restored to normal. This English treatment is known as Parmint and can be easily and safely self administered at home. Leading druggists in Peterborough and vicinity now have it in stock. Get from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength) and mix it at home with ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar. Stir until dissolved and then take one tablespoonful four times a day until the noises disappear and hearing improves. Parmint is used double strength in this way not only to reduce, by tonic action, the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian tube and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear and the results it gives are both remarkably quick and effective.

PACIFIC COAST TO SUPPLANT EUROPE AS TOURIST MOCCA

Toronto, Oct. 9.—A telegram received by the local Grand Trunk Railway officials to-day confirms the opinion already held by transportation experts that the European war is likely rather to increase travel to the Panama Pacific International Exhibition, opening in San Francisco on Feb. 20th, next year, than reduce it. The flood of American and Canadian tourists to Europe will be far less than in ordinary years, and the inquiries flowing into headquarters in San Francisco prove that the thousands of travellers who ordinarily flock to the various pleasure resorts on the Continent will turn their faces toward the Pacific coast in 1915.

"Under worst possible conditions," wires Mr. G. H. Perry, Director of Exploitation for the Exposition, "we shall lose only about 6 per cent. of our promised exhibits from Europe, and we have the assurance, from all participating nations, now involved in the struggle, that their plans will not be seriously interfered with. We have heard from Exhibitors Committees in both Great Britain and Germany within the past few days, requesting that the space originally reserved for them be held and in the case of the German Committee an intimation was given that increased space might even be asked for. Requests for space and for additional space from manufacturers and producers in this country and in South America and of European nations not at war show marked increase since the war broke out."

Antwerp Surrendered to the Germans
King Charles of Roumania Died Saturday
Reported Declaration of War by Portugal

Antwerp Surrendered Saturday Belgian Army Escaped in Safety

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The City of Antwerp surrendered to the German besieging army this morning at nine o'clock. There was only a defending garrison of some five hundred men in the City when the Germans took possession. All the inner forts left intact after the furious bombardment had been destroyed by the Belgians. The main Belgian army which escaped from Antwerp have successfully joined the British relieving force, which is now marching toward Antwerp for attack on the enemy.

HOLLAND GIVES WARNING

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 11.—Holland has notified Germany that the Kaiser's troops must not use the River Scheldt from Antwerp to the sea.

BRITISH AEROPLANE SINKS ZEPPELIN

LONDON, Oct. 10.—It is reported here to-night that a British naval aeroplane fought a German Zeppelin over the North Sea to-day and sunk her with all hands.

PORTUGAL DECLARES WAR

MADRID, Oct. 11.—According to information received here to-day Portugal has declared war with the Allies against Germany. Portugal is bound by treaty with Great Britain to take this course.

GERMANS RUSHING FORCES BY BOAT

ROME, Italy, Oct. 10.—(via London)—German reinforcements are being rushed to the Russian frontier, not only by train, but by sea from Stettin, Stralsund, Danzig and all other available Baltic ports.

BELGIANS BRING DOWN A TAUBE

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 10.—A despatch from Ghent says that the bombardment of Lokeren was distinctly heard there. A Taube aeroplane which flew over Ghent in the direction of Bruges was brought down, the pilot being killed.

Although Brussels has been revictualled, Ghent is suffering from a lack of provisions. All milk and eggs are reserved for the hospital patients.

BELGIAN KING AT SEIZAETE

LONDON, Oct. 10.—An Amsterdam despatch to the Reuter's Telegraph Co., dated Friday, quotes the Nieuws Van Der Dag of Ghent as saying that King Albert left Antwerp yesterday morning and arrived at Seizaete, a village near the Dutch frontier town of Sas Dan Genet.

THREE KILLED; 14 WOUNDED

PARIS, OCT. 11.—GERMAN FLYING MACHINES TERRORIZED THE PEOPLE HERE IN THE EARLY HOURS OF THIS MORNING BY CIRCLING HIGH ABOVE THE CITY, AND DROPPING BOMBS. ABOUT TWENTY OF THE DEADLY MISSILES IN A VERY FEW MINUTES HAD KILLED THREE PEOPLE AND SERIOUSLY WOUNDED FOURTEEN OTHERS.

NEW BRITISH GUN DISCOUNTS ALL OTHERS

New Warships to be Launched Within a Few Weeks—Carry Guns Capable of Throwing 1400 lb. Projectiles a Distance of Twelve Miles—Present British Naval Guns Unequalled by Any Navies in the World.

London, Oct. 10. Within a week or so the British navy will receive a considerable accession to its strength by the delivery of two new battleships—the Queen Elizabeth and the Warspite. They will be the first to carry the new 15-inch gun which is without a doubt the world's deadliest weapon. As the first lord of the Admiralty recently pointed out, it is the best gun we have ever had. It reproduces on a larger scale all the virtues of the 13.5-in. gun. Its power may be measured by the fact that, whereas the 13.5 in. gun hurls a 1400 pound projectile the new gun discharges a projectile a ton in weight (2000 pounds) and can hurl this immense mass of metal twelve miles.

The high explosive charge which the 15-in. gun can carry through and get inside the thickest armor afloat, is very nearly as large again in the 15-in. gun as was the charge in the 13.5 inch.

As stated the Queen Elizabeth and the Warspite will be the first vessels to carry this new gun, but already we have in our firing line thirteen ships mounting the 13.5-in. gun, which is without its equal in any of the navies of the world. Germany, in fact, has no ship carrying a heavier weapon than a 12-in. gun, which ceased to be our primary battle armament in 1909.

ALD. STRATTON'S CAR DESTROYED

Ald. A. H. Stratton sustained a heavy loss by fire on Saturday night. The wooden sheds to the rear of his handsome residence at 373 Park street were almost entirely destroyed, and in the garage were stored all the window sash, screen doors, one hundred feet of new hose, and worst of all, his large touring car. The inflammable nature of the sheds and garage made a very hot and fierce blaze. Flames lept skyward rapidly and illuminated the entire western part of the city. So intense was the heat that neither the auto or other contents of the burning buildings could be saved. It is thought that the origin of the fire is attributed to a bolt of lightning. The car is a total wreck. The fire brigade were quickly on the job and did splendid work. Ald. Stratton is absent with the Jack's Lake Hunt Club, but was sent for immediately, and until he returns further particulars as to loss and insurance are not available.

With the Death of King Charles Roumania May Attack Austria

LONDON, October 10.—It is officially announced that the King of Roumania died at 5.30 this morning.

The death of King Charles removes the great obstacle in the way of Roumania entering the war. The late King was a member of the Hohenzollern family and his sympathies were completely with Germany.

But the people are closely allied to Russia in thought and action, and ever since the outbreak of the war have with difficulty been kept in restraint. It is more than likely that the country, which is powerful and prepared, will shortly declare war on the side of the Allies. Russia also has held out the bait of large pieces of Austrian territory as a reward. Developments must come soon.

AUSTRIA ISSUES HUGE CASUALTY LIST

VENICE, Oct. 11.—(via Paris)—A large number of wounded soldiers are being brought daily to Vienna but the newspapers of the Austrian capital are no longer permitted to report their arrival.

The nineteenth official Austrian list of killed and wounded and missing so far as published has occupied twenty-four columns in the Vienna newspapers, and the publication has not been completed.

BELGIAN QUEEN TAKES REFUGE IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The Queen of the Belgians is reported to have passed through Folkestone from Dunkirk, last night, proceeding to London. The greatest secrecy surrounds the movements of Her Majesty.

GREATER PART OF BELGIAN ARMY ESCAPE

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Refugees who arrived in London this afternoon from Antwerp bring the report from Ostend that a greater part of the Belgian army had escaped from Antwerp.

AID FOR BELGIAN SUFFERERS

TORONTO, Oct. 10.—Parties interested in the scheme of sending supplies to aid Belgian citizens who have suffered in the war will do well to consult the Ontario Department of Agriculture. The offer made by Premier Murray of Nova Scotia to find room in a special admiralty vessel for Ontario contributions may not be acted upon for a week or ten days yet.

The nature of the supplies will be pretty well confined to clothing and foodstuffs, and as to the particular character of these the Department of Agriculture is willing to advise. Appeal is being made for the patriotic spirit of Ontario residents to be directed in this channel, for it is designed to bring earliest relief to those suffering from the war in Europe.

ALLIED TROOPS WILL REMEMBER ALL ATROCITIES

Montreal, Oct. 10.—"Other things I would tell if the Almighty gave me permission. They are horrible!"

This is the concluding sentence of a letter from Lieutenant Bagot of the Montreal police force, who is now in France serving with his regiment, one of the reserve corps, to Capt. Baudsignault, and his comrades at No. 6 station.

The letter is dated at Nantes on Sept. 17, and gives a vivid idea of the terrible conditions following in the wake of the German advance through France.

He tells of a young girl who was captured by the Germans. She was stripped to the waist and in sight of horrified refugees a German soldier held her arms behind her back while another brandished his sword and cut both breasts from her body. Her body was then thrown into the river.

Germans Destroying Bridges In Their Retreat From Lyck

PETROGRAD, Oct. 10.—The following communication under date of Oct. 9, has been made public by the Russian general staff: "The combat at the East Prussian frontier continues with the same obstinacy. The German troops are retiring from Lyck and are blowing up the bridges behind them.

"In several passes, between Ivangorod and Sandomir, artillery battles are occuring with the enemy which is approaching the Vistula."

WHAT WILL THE UNITED STATES DO ABOUT IT? PROTEST! AS USUAL

Germans Did Not Respect U.S. Flag Flying Over Oil Tanks in Antwerp for Protection--Washington Seeks More Details at Once--Of Course Berlin Will Explain, and Repeat Similar Acts as Occasion Offers.

Washington, Oct. 10.—German artillery fired upon and set fire to the oil reservoir tanks in Antwerp, which are now in flames, in spite of the fact that the United States flag was flying above them. This was the announcement cabled to the state department to-day by Consul-General Diedrich. Representations to the German Government are to be made through Ambassador Gerard at Berlin.

Immediately on receipt of the despatch the state department set determinedly to work to gather more details. The consul-general's cablegram was meagre, and coming as it did through London it was thought it might have been subjected to the work of numerous censors. Confirmation of the report is eagerly awaited.

The oil reservoirs are believed to be the property of The Standard Oil Company.

The fact that they were American owned is not regarded as the principal matter in issue, but if the American flag was flying over the property and the German guns were deliberately trained on them, an explanation will be asked from Berlin.

At neither the German nor the British Embassies has any word of the reported attack been received. Minister Havenith at the Belgian legation declared he was without any word from his government.

Toronto Doctors Pass War Exams.

London, Oct. 10.—At the special war examinations of the Royal College of Surgeons and the Royal College of Physicians, held on Friday and Saturday, the following Canadians were admitted members of both colleges:

Lyle John Cameron, Manitoba University and London Hospital; William John Cook, McGill University and London Hospital; Robert Owens Fisher, Toronto University and Middlesex Hospital; and Arthur Baker Le Mesurier, Toronto University.

Mr. A. Evan moore, manager of the land department of the Canadian Pacific railway in Great Britain will sail for Canada in a few days and on November 14 will be married in Vancouver to Miss Kathleen Barnard, of that city.

THE DEATH OF P. C. PATTERSON

The local police force has lost a valued member and the people of this city a splendid fellow-citizen in the person of Policeman Wm. Patterson, who passed away on Saturday morning in Nicholls' Hospital, after a comparatively short illness of typhoid fever. Five weeks ago the late Wm. Patterson was married to his charming bride, just arrived from Scotland. The many friends, who extended their congratulations to the happy couple only five weeks ago will regret Mr. Patterson's death. He was popular and highly respected amongst his fellow policemen and all who knew him. Mr. Patterson was also a member of St. Paul's choir, where his services were much appreciated.

Deceased was born in Scotland and before coming to Canada was a member of the Fife County Constabulary. He came to Peterboro' over a year ago.

He is survived by his sorrowing wife and both parents in Scotland.

The body will be taken to Knox Presbyterian Church to-day, escorted by members of the local police force, and buried under Masonic auspices at 2 in the afternoon.

Papal Secretary of State Died In Rome Saturday

ROME, Oct. 10.—Cardinal Dominic Ferrata, the papal secretary of state, died to-day.

Cardinal Ferrata was stricken with appendicitis soon after his appointment by Pope Benedict on Sept. 4, to the office of papal secretary of state. The Cardinal was born at Montefiascone, Italy in 1847. He was the delegate to the world's congress at Malta in 1913.

GERMANY EDUCATED FOR YEARS TO CRUSH BRITAIN AT ALL COSTS

England Stands in the Way of German Ambition for World Dominion--Bernhardi Wrote That England Has Failed to Link Her Empire for Either Commercial Purposes or Defence--He Also Taught That Peace is Stagnation.

Two remarkable books on the mind of Germany are now being very widely read. They are "Germany and the Next War," by F. Bernhardi, "Germany and England," by J. Cramb (John Murray). These volumes have proved to be a correct forecast. Before the war they would have been read with incredulity, but now a veil is raised and the foresight of the authors is vindicated. Mr. Cramb's book is made up of notes from lectures delivered by him at Queen's College, Harley Street, London, n the beginning of last year. Unfortunately, the lecturer's health had already begun to fail when he commenced his task, and in October, 1913, he died. What we have here was taken from scattered notes and from reports. Even under such disadvantages the book has distinct value and vitality. The work of General Von Bernhardi is more limited in scope, but it gives in a clear though diffuse style the views of a distinguished German soldier, who represents the fervent faith of tens of thousands of Germans. Behind Bernhardi there is a philosophy derived from Nietzche and Treitschke. Of Nietzche and his views we say nothing. Treitschke is regarded as the Macauley of Germany. He has written the history of his country, and has had a profound influence on the German mind. Treitchke became almost stone deaf when he was a mere child, and there is something lonely, defiant, and remote about his work. But he never leaves us in doubt of his governing idea. That idea is "the greatness of Prussia, the glory of an army which is a nation, and of a nation which is an army." Such in his view is the glory of Germany that there must be no rest for the German people till Germany in her shining armour assumes the dominion of the world.

The chief obstacle to this consummation is the present world predominance of Britain. That predominance, in the opinion of these German writers, is out of all proportion to the real strength and value and worth of Britain. Britain is a sham which had endured for a time but cannot endure for ever. Mean, sordid, hypocritical, corrupt, and rotten, Britain is the curse of the earth, and must at all costs be abased in the dust.

DUCHESS' TALE OF WAR HORROR STIRS MOTHER

Newport, October 10.—Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, at Marble House, has received a number of letters from her daughter, the Duchess of Marlborough who has engaged in Red Cross work in the hospitals of London with the sick and wounded troops of England and Belgium. One of these, a distressing letter, has caused Mrs. Belmont to start a fund for the distressed relatives, wives and children of the wounded Belgian troops, as England has much to do for her own wounded and their families, although England is caring, says the Duchess, for Belgian reservists' families and their wounded.

The Duchess tells of the arrival at the Red Cross hospitals in London of doctors and orderlies from the field who have had their hands chopped off by German troops. One Red Cross nurse was brought to one of the London hospitals with one of the tendons of her hands cut by German troops to prevent her helping wounded Belgian soldiers.

The letters have so affected Mrs. Belmont that she has abandoned her plans to go to her Hempstead residence for the winter, but instead left for New York to take up this work.

English Sport Took Shape When Wild Deer Disappeared

The fox was hunted in England in olden times, indiscriminately with the deer, stag and hare, though not merely for amusement but for extermination. He was hunted or shot or trapped because of his raids on the poultry yards and sheep-folds. Not until the end of the seventeenth century did fox-hunting become a sport in itself, and then only because of the lack of wild deer to be chased. And so by degrees the fox, formerly execrated as "a beast of stinking flight," has become the deity of sportsmen, and to kill him by any means but the hounds a crime unspeakable. Sacrosanct to sportsmen, he is preserved only to be properly loosed, chased and killed according to rule. John Warde, of Westerham, is generally believed to have been the father of fox-hunting, says an English gossiper. He was Master of the Hounds for over half a century, and then he sold his pack for the record price of $10,500. This mighty hunter died in 1838 at the ripe age of 86, at his house in Charles street, Berkeley Square.

AN ECCENTRIC PLAYER

Recruit Catcher Had Queer Ideas and Had Trouble With Trunk

Most ball players have peculiarities of one kind or another. But it remained for a player named Evans, a former Cub catcher recruit, to have a number of them. On a spring training trip several years ago he had the boys wondering what he would do next. Evans was a confirmed pipe smoker. It was seldom out of his mouth. When the other men would be rehearsing on the ball field Evans would be sitting on the bench pulling at his pipe. One day Frank Chance, becoming irritated, ordered him to get behind the plate during batting practice.

The recruit lazily donned his shinguards and chest-protector. Then, keeping his short black pipe between his teeth, he caught for nearly fifteen minutes, puffing away in a most contented manner.

At Vicksburg, Miss., one day some of the Cubs noticed Evans dig up a little dirt near the plate, place something carefully in the hole and cover it up with exceeding care. He repeated this trick at every stop. Finally they discovered it was a signet ring. He chose this method of protecting it against loss or injury.

He also carried an old trunk along on the trip, bearing a large sign. The motto was, "Handle with care." In this he had nearly five quarts of beef, iron and wine for the purpose of building up his system. He had nearly as much dope as Trainer Semmons had for the entire team. This extract he took religiously three times a day.

One trip his trunk was badly smashed by the baggagemen and several of the bottles broken. It was exceedingly annoying but Evans insisted on lugging the affair along until Secretary Charley Williams objected.

"The railroads absolutely refuse to accept that trunk," said Williams.

So Evans had to purchase another. On this he placed a new sign. It read, "Handle with care, you smashed my last one."

GOLF HAS MANY THRILLS

It has been said that golf is not lively or exciting; that it presents few opportunities for either individuals or outsiders to enthuse; that it is too quiet, etc. While there are those ardent devotees of driver and cleek willing to admit that their favorite diversion is not wildly exciting; that opportunities rarely occur for partisan crowds to display their feelings, it is also claimed that golf unquestionably has its thrills.

For those having once experienced the sensation of making a hole in 1 it is needless to attempt to describe the feeling of exhilaration experienced by the lucky player as he sees his ball disappear in the cup. Many holes have been made in a single stroke that have always been more or less doubtful. Players have played over rising ground to blind greens and after searching for a considerable length of time have at last found "a ball" in the hole. On such occasions there is always an element of uncertainty.

Furthermore, jokes have been played on unsuspecting golfers, probably the most cruel one being that at the expense of a fat man and woman at a match several years ago. As a passerby stood near one of the greens of the course in question he noticed two balls, one after the other, land on the green in front of him. They had evidently come from the tee, which could not be seen from the green. Scarcely had the balls come to rest ere a couple of boys dashed from behind a clump of bushes, picked up the balls, dropped them in the hole, and scampered away as quickly as they had come. In a few moments the pair unsuspectingly came to the green and began looking for the balls. Finally the man casually beckoned his companion to see what he saw.

"Great Scott!" he shouted. "We have both holed out in one. Did you ever see anything like that?" Then they proceeded to rush to the club house to tell the wonderful tale, which undoubtedly they are still relating.

A Nautical Innovation

A novel feature of the Royal Holland Lloyd liner "Gelria" is the manner in which the name of the liner is displayed, either when passing stations or other ships or when lying in crowded harbors, says "Electricity."

The boat is fitted between the two funnels with an electric sign lantern, 22 feet long by 5 feet deep, made of galvanized iron and bracing angles. The letters are fixed on both sides, and are colored red on the port side and green on the starboard, with white enamelled lettering for use in the daytime. The lettering is illuminated by lamps aggregating 3,000 candlepower.

Two French hospital attaches have succeeded in impregnating rubber gloves with the salts of certain metals to make them impervious to X-rays for the protection of persons handling the rays.

Brush For Wind Shields

To cleanse wind shields on automobiles of snow and sleet a Washington man invented a rotary brush which is provided with power through a flexible shaft by a car's motor.

ENGLISH-CANADIANS

Here are some excerpts from a recent sermon by Rev. Dr. J. L. Gordon, Winnipeg, on "An Englishman in Canada":

"I am not surprised that an Englishman should be homesick in Western Canada. I would be surprised if he were not. Think of England with her cathedral towns, her classic villages, her sacred monuments, her beautiful hedgelined roads, her solid splendor, her quiet dignity, her peaceful atmosphere and her ten thousand historical associations. It will be a thousand years before we will have anything to compare with the beauty —the fascinating beauty of Dear Old England.

"Yet I know certain Englishmen and Englishwomen who think and affirm that Canada is one of the finest places in the world in which to live. I have in mind at this moment one family of English emigrants of fair intelligence, average ability and less than normal health, who in a few years have purchased for themselves a modest but very comfortable home, made generous contributions to the church and kindred institutions, and induced almost a score of their relatives to join them on this side of the sea. They believe in Canada because they have succeeded in Canada (and Canada is a good country to succeed in). The emigrant who fails in Canada was a failure at home. Canada is another word for success.

"Canada is a good country. Less liquor is sold in Canada than in any other country—thanks to the 'temperance crank.' Canada has the lowest death-rate of any country in the world. There are fewer ignorant and illiterate people in Canada than in any other country. There are fewer paupers in Canada to the square mile than elsewhere. In Canada the working day is longer, the night brighter, the air more bracing, the social conditions more democratic and the prospects brighter than anywhere else on the North American continent. I believe in Canada!"

HORSE VS. MOTOR

Cost of Hay and Oats Away Above That of Gasoline

Thomas A. Edison is authority for the statement that the horse is the poorest motor ever built, and motor car manufacturers are finding that "the wizard of East Orange" knows whereof he speaks. Recent thorough research has shown that the average work horse will eat nearly eight times his own weight in a year. And yet the hauling power developed represents only about 2 per cent. of what should be expected from this expenditure.

It is safe to say that there is not a successful business man to-day who would be satisfied with a return of 2 per cent. on the money he invests in upkeep cost of any machine he operates. Any manufacturer would immediately discard a machine on which the maintenance cost was 49 times greater than the power returned. And yet because the "horse-habit" is so firmly fixed, industrial concerns pay a tremendous price for their motive power.

A horse eats ten pounds of food for every hour he works. He eats 12,000 pounds of food every year. A motor truck consumes no fuel—and this is the food of the vehicle—when it is not working. The minute this motor stops the feeding cost stops. The superiority of the motor is shown, too, in the power developed. The 35 horsepower truck will carry 1,500 pounds of merchandise from six to ten miles on a single gallon of gasoline. This is a vastly greater return in energy for the money expended than the 2 per cent. showing the horse makes.

LEARN TO RELAX

If You Are Troubled With Insomnia Rest Your Brain

Sleep is a habit. It is a very natural and beneficial habit, but one that can be easily broken through injudicious living and thinking. Poor sleepers are usually high-strung, nervous people, who have too active bodies or brains, or both, and who are ambitious and inclined to neglect themselves.

Insomnia cannot be cured by drugs. It is always dangerous to use drugs to produce sleep, and they should seldom be resorted to except in serious illness, and then only on the advice of a physician.

If you cannot sleep, and find that your sleeplessness is becoming a habit, begin immediately to go slower. Curb your ambition, leave off all unnecessary work and learn how to rest. Your body and your brain need repose and rest, but the trouble with the people who "cannot sleep" is, they do not know how to rest. (T 1)

Refreshing Sleep

A glass or two of the "Beer That Builds" at bed time, will bring restful, refreshing sleep. The tired business man—the woman who is nervous and run-down—will find this tonic and food most beneficial. Rich in food value—easily digested—and extra mild.

Beauty of Little Value Unless Backed by Brains

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

THERE was a very pleasant story in the paper this morning. It was an interview with a woman, a clever, brilliant woman of great attainments in many lines. A beautiful woman, well born and gently nurtured. A good woman and one known for works of kindness in her own land.

She teaches little orphan children how to read and how to sew; she establishes nurseries for motherless babies. She takes a great interest in sailor lads and does what she can to help those who are trying to help them in foreign ports away from home. And she has made a great name for herself in a great profession—one new to women—landscape gardening. And, being new come to America, the papers have interviewed her early and often.

What does she think of the American garden? What would she do with an American garden if she had one, and why would she do it? Did she believe in flower masses, or in separating the colors? How did she happen to take up the work?

Oh, it was all very interesting—but one sentence in this particular interview, in this particular paper, caught my eye and held it—like the glitter of a jewel in the dust of a country road—or like the glint of a tin can in a forest where picknickers have been. It was this:

"She was so intelligent and so deeply in earnest that one forgot what a really handsome and attractive women she really was."

Why Beauty Doesn't Count.

I can't get over that sentence—it haunts me. Who wrote it—a man or a woman?

A man without the shadow of a doubt. What woman would think such a thing—much less say it? Does it, then, make a woman less handsome and less attractive to be intelligent and deeply in earnest? I wonder why?

Fancy a woman going to interview a man of great attainments and saying that he was so intelligent, and so deeply in earnest, that she kept forgetting what a really handsome and attractive man he really was.

The more intelligent and the more deeply in earnest, and the more successful a man is, the more he is admired by women. Benjamin Disraeli was so ugly that it makes the face ache even to look at his photograph—and yet he was called by women the most fascinating man in England. I wonder if it was because they thought he was neither intelligent nor deeply in earnest?

I know a woman who knew Abraham Lincoln. I've heard her talk about him a great deal—I don't believe she ever said a word as to whether he was ugly or handsome, and I don't believe it ever occurred to her to think of such a thing for one instant.

The next time I go to interview the President of the United States—or the Sultan of Bismillah, or the latest Potato King, or Garlic Prince—I am going to say something about his looks, and whether he is really handsome and attractive, from a feminine point of view, or not. And the editor will blue pencil the remark—and show his good sense when he does it.

Who cares whether a man is "attractive to women" or not—if he does a man's work in the world? Why should a man care so desperately whether a woman is so "attractive to men" that he can't keep it out of a newspaper interview?

The "Clinging Vine" Passe.

Poor man—who interviewed the Lovely Lady and who forgot, for one illuminating moment, what a really "handsome and attractive woman" she was—to forget, for one instant, such a thing as that. And to forget it because the woman was intelligent and deeply in earnest.

What a benumbing influence must intelligence be—alack the day! The world is a hard place these days for gentlemen of that turn of mind.

All the pretty girls I meet—the sort an irreverent young man of my acquaintance calls "the peaches from the top of the basket"—are feminists, or something like it. Only the forlorn and the ugly and the unattractive dare to be "clinging vines," nowadays.

Have a care, young ladies, while you are going about your business laughing and singing, as is the right of your age and quality—working and striving, as is the desire of your heart—loving and giving as is the need of your nature. Have a care—some one may be watching you—and you may become so intelligent and so deeply in earnest that one forgets for one awful moment what a really handsome and attractive woman you really might be—if you were a fool.

Was it a jewel of a great truth latterly ignored that shone like a star through the everyday essence of that interview with the distinguished woman—or was it the glint of the tin can in the unaccustomed forest?

Which do you think?

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

HALF the persons one meets seem to have boycotted meat during the hot weather. Going to market, I met my old friend the Colonel. If there is a man on earth who knows good food, appreciates it and invariably has it served on his table, that man is Col. Bliss. We spoke of the heat.

"Never felt it so little any summer within memory," he declared. "Stopped eating meat the first of June, and won't have another bit on the table until October. Feel ten years younger. Better try it."

At the end of the block I met the Dietitian. He was smiling and enthusiastic. "Heat? Why, to tell the truth, I haven't noticed it this year. I think I have evolved the ideal hot weather diet. I have eliminated all animal foods, starches, sweets. I never felt so well. Unless we have a lot of heavy work to do, we don't really need such a lot of food in summer."

After all, it may be, as the vegetarians claim, too many persons have the meat habit. They eat meat just because they have always been in the habit of eating meat. They would be just as well without meat. At the same time, before you ruthlessly declare meat a non-essential, make a study of foods and find out why you eat certain ones, and what selection will furnish you with the necessary elements for a well regulated diet.

Protein nourishment is the thing to be provided for when meat is discarded. There is more protein in beans, peas and lentils than in any other vegetables, and more than there is in meat. But they must be properly prepared if one is to get the good of them.

Too many cooks lack knowledge of how to cook so as to get the best values from their foods. Especially is this true of vegetables.

Beans and peas want to be cooked slowly. It is for this reason that the fireless cooker makes them especially delicious and digestible. Green peas, properly cooked, are very nourishing.

Wheat is important. Whole wheat contains more nourishment than the finer flour. Spaghetti and macaroni are classed with wheat products. I am glad to see that the unpolished, brown rice is coming into favor and is to be found at many of the stores where attention is paid to high grade foods.

The majority of those who blue-pencil meat on the summer menu make great use of eggs, milk and cheese. Nuts and fruits, butter and olive oil are all used plentifully.

Soups from vegetables and milk are more nourishing than any made from beef. For example, try this:

Boil four potatoes and two onions very slowly in two quarts of water, strain and rub through a colander, and add a pint of milk and two tablespoonfuls of pearl tapioca to the mixture. Season with salt and pepper and a piece of butter the size of an egg, and let it simmer for 15 minutes, stirring it meantime.

Green corn is one of the most helpful vegetables to the cook who does not use meat. A splendid substitute for meat is made by grating a pint of green corn pulp, adding two beaten eggs, salt and pepper, and enough flour to make the mixture hold its shape when made into the form of cakes or croquettes. Fry slowly in butter in a frying pan until both sides are well browned, and serve immediately, for this is one of the dishes that tastes better the hotter it is.

WHEN you sail away from New York the last figure you see is that of Miss Liberty. And she is the first figure you see when you come back. But there is an image in every harbor—one that lingers most vividly, one that you carry with you on your journeys, one that burns itself into your dreams wherever you may roam. Coming HOME means seeing that image again.

The figure may take the form of a bronze statue as a matter of hard fact, but for you it simply symbolizes the ONE who is the GOLDEN girl of your life. The face of bronze softens to your rapt gaze as you watch the shores recede, just as HER face softens to a God-speed radiance at the good-by time. When you come back, and you find her face once more, what that face may say to you is the one most important circumstance in the whole game. Long before your journey has fairly begun you know that the happiest moment of all will be meeting again the girl you left behind.

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

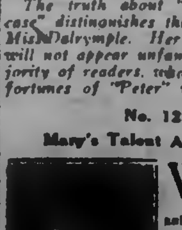
Mary's Talent Appreciated.



LEONA DALRYMPLE

"WHAT are you so glum about?" I asked, as we turned out of the street.

"Just tired," said Mary.

"It's a bully Christmas night," I said, trying to cheer her. "The air's wonderfully crisp, and I—like to see the moon sparkle on the snow, don't you?"

"Sometimes," said Mary.

"Why not tonight?" I insisted, pretty sure by now that there was something definite wrong.

"Well, I don't think," said Mary, "that it's been a particularly pleasant Christmas, do you?"

"Well," I admitted, "the turkey did burn a bit, of course, and a few things went wrong, but this was our first Christmas home, and we couldn't expect to swing the thing without a hitch."

"No-o-o-o-o, of course not," said Mary. "Everything has been a sort of disappointment."

It flashed over me that Mary was brooding over the fact that I had given her a dressing gown instead of that accursed year of art instruction that she craved. I asked her point blank.

"Well, no," she said, flushing; "it—it isn't exactly that, Peter. But—but I told mother I hadn't got it, and she was so disappointed, for she thinks I really have wonderful talent."

"She doesn't have to pay the bill," I flung out fiercely. "You can admire anybody's talent when you don't have to put up for its development."

"That's the trouble," said Mary, biting her lips, "she does."

"Does what?"

"Have to put up for it."

"You mean?"

Mary turned on me defiantly.

"I mean," she said, "that mother says I must have that art instruction at any cost—and—and she's going to give it to me for Christmas. I—I simply hate to take it from her, but she insists. I—I wish you could have afforded it."

"Well, I couldn't," I said, hotly resentful at Mrs. Penfield's officious offer, for I knew very well the general critical line of talk she had embellished it with, "and what's more, Mary, I forbid you to accept it."

Mary flashed fire.

"Peter," she said, "I think you're horribly selfish. You won't give me a thing yourself, and, then, when mother does, you won't let me take it. You—you're unsympathetic and—and one of those men who haven't any faith in a woman's ability to do anything."

"Who said that," I demanded, "your mother?" For Mary is very often a conversational parrot, and I can trace back the source of many of her platitudes.

Mary didn't answer.

"I have every confidence in the world in any woman's ability," I said, "when she delivers the goods. But I certainly do not think that the few little watercolor sketches you've made justify me in spending money on your art instruction when we're steadily going behind as it is.

"We're spending more money than I make—how many times must I say that? And we're running in debt. This money Dad gave us today is a veritable life-saver. If you can find a training school that will teach you the value of a dollar I'll put up for it cheerfully, and I imagine your father will see that your mother takes a course, too."

When we arrived at Dad's we were not speaking.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why Night Air Is Purer Than That of the Day

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

AMONG the legion of discredited, nonsensical impieties and superstitions, table turnings and voodooisms, none survive with greater doggedness and persistence than the absurd beliefs anent the dangers of night air.

Air is a chartered libertine which bloweth where it listeth. It may be warm and it may be cold, it may bite shrewdly and it may be a nipping and an eager air. Yet, if it be fresh, it matters little whether it is night air or day air.

Aches may be charmed with air, and agony with words, but the night can in no manner interfere with either. At night there's a husbandry in heaven; their candles are all out. But it is utterly absurd to believe that this very witching time breathes out contagion to the world. Night air is really the cleanest kind. There is less soot and dirt and fever germs and bacteria than by day.

In daylight, despite the purifying qualities of the sun, the diligence of trades and noiseful gain, rack and torment the harassed victim of sickness. At night, with the stirred-up dust and microbes, these are laid asleep.

In night's silent reign, few if any germs of disease invade nature. True enough, the sun is sunk, his ultra-violet rays are gone, and the cheerful brightness is no more. But the mere absence of light does not make for physical disorder. Therefore, something else is necessary if night air is to be really noxious.

The atmosphere is in no way inimical to health as long as the proper quantity of oxygen is present. This, you may be sure, does not depend upon darkness or light. It is not a question of color or beauty.

Night air is fresh, pure and sweet. It is much to be desired. It is the Sabbath of mankind, to rest the body and the mind. Any one loath to take advantage of the double shade, the starlit air, the sable period, because of the surviving fallacy that "night air" causes colds, coughs, corns and crises merely deprives himself of the dewy freshness, the serenity of yonder moon divine, the ebony sweetness of nocturnal health and strength.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

I am a girl 18 years old, and have a young man who is very bashful. When he comes to my home he doesn't care to talk much, but sits all by himself in a corner.

He seems to think every one nice but me. I am very much in love with him, and would like to know how I can cure him of such a queer disposition. He also stays out late with other girls, takes them to plays, etc.; he is a very nice dancer, musical and attractive in all his ways. What shall I do about it?

BACHELOR GIRL.

DEAR Bachelor Girl: I'm afraid you're going to stay a bachelor girl, if there's any truth in signs, for a while yet.

How can you be in love with a man who shows you in everything he does and says, and in all the things he does not do and does not say, that he doesn't care one penny for you, or anything about you?

Queer disposition—there's nothing queer about it, as far as I can see. The man doesn't care for you, that's all—you bore him into stupidity—let him alone and put your mind on some one else. You're not in love with him really—you only think you are.

Why shouldn't he stay out with other girls, and take them to plays, and do the tango with them, and make love to them if he wants to—and the other girls can stand it? What is it to you?

Do be sensible and stop making yourself believe all sorts of nonsense about this harmless chap, who probably doesn't know you're alive except when you fairly force him to talk to you.

There are lots of other men who will like you, and make themselves agreeable to you, too—don't make a goose of yourself for this one person. It doesn't pay.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care this office.

Where Elephants Are Trapped in Pits

By TEMPLE MANNING

IN Travancore, India, the natives have an interesting method of capturing wild elephants—they trap them in pits dug in the ground.

These pits are seldom more than nine feet deep, because elephants able to climb out of a nine-foot pit are too old to be easily trained, and, consequently, are not wanted. The pits are filled three-quarters full of brush wood to break the elephant's fall, and the mass of branches and leaves laid upon the top to conceal the pits is sufficiently strong to permit any animal but the elephant to cross safely.

It was once my good fortune to be in the vicinity of one of these pits when an elephant was caught, and my excited guide quickly led me where the hunting party was releasing it. He was a comparatively small beast, trying to scramble out of the pit, with his small, red eyes glaring at us and his waving trunk throwing dust all around, trumpeting with fear and rage. But he soon discovered how futile it was to attempt escape, and accepted the water one of the mahouts turned down his trunk, squirting it down his throat and over his huge body. And then the hunters set about getting the elephant out of the pit and into a cage.

One of the mahouts got a small line under the swaying neck, after innumerable failures, and a heavy cable was attached and dragged under, then thrown over the neck and drawn tight, and the other end was tied to a tree. It was then easy to get nooses over the elephant's hind legs, and the animal was ready to be released from the pit. The men threw logs and brushwood into the pit, and the elephant, trampling these under foot, soon was elevated high enough to climb out of the pit.

Trying to Climb Out.

An old tame she elephant, remarkably clever at this work, was led up, seized the head rope, and, under her mahout's direction, led the captive away to its cage. At the door of the cage the elephant balked and would not enter. But his tame relative got behind him, and with one shove of her great head threw him inside.

VIENNA HOSPITALS ARE OVERCROWDED

Venice, Via Paris, Oct. 9.—Vienna hospitals and all temporary asylums for sick and wounded soldiers are fearfully crowded. The city council has decided to build additional wooden barrack hospitals which will be furnished with 10,000 beds. Buildings of the University of Vienna have been given over to wounded soldiers.

The army of destitute and unemployed in the Austrian capital is increasing daily.

Thousands are threatened with starvation. The authorities estimate that it will be necessary to provide free meals for 100,000 persons daily.

Owing to the rapid advance in the price of meat and the shortage of live stock, the city council has asked the government to permit the importation of 1,000 tons of Argentine beef.

ANTWERP STILL RESISTS GERMAN BOMBARDMENT

London, Oct. 9.—So far as England knows this morning Antwerp, the latest of the beleaguered cities of Belgium, is still holding out against the German onslaught. King Albert has withdrawn from the city toward Ostend, where the Administration is now fully established, but practically the entire Belgian field army has remained to resist, so long as possible, the fire of the great German guns, the horrible effects of which were made so plain at Liege.

Hold Out Till Help Comes

From the standpoint of those nations opposing Germany the hope was that the defenders could hold out until the Allies delivered some decisive blow along the battle line in France, which has now almost reached the North Sea, and taken in conjunction with the fighting which extends across the Belgian frontier to the northward of Lille, makes a gigantic front sprawling like a snake half across Belgium and across practically all of northeastern France.

Although separate conflicts the siege of Antwerp and the battle of the Aisne are thus becoming more and more closely related, and both the Germans and the Allies are making the most desperate efforts to crush each other and break through the ever-lengthening right and left wings respectively.

It is contended that the Germans failed in their great effort to drive a wedge through this region and the latest Paris communication contends that the situation is stationary, although most violent fighting continues.

FRENCH LIEUTENANT ACQUITTED BY COURT

Paris Oct. 9.—Lieutenant Andre Mesureur has been acquitted by a court martial of a charge of desertion. One of the principal witnesses for Mesureur was Major Aubert, who was taken to the court room from the hospital of Val de Grace, where he lay with four bullets in his body and a broken jaw.

The Precedent of 1870

Mr. Lloyd George in his speech at the Queen's Hall, London, recently, brought out one point in the case against Germany. He said.

"This was not the only country to defend Belgium and her integrity. Russia, France, Austria and Prussia—they are all there. Why did they not perform the obligation? It is suggested that when you quote this treaty, it is purely an excuse on your part. It is our low craft and cunning, just to cloak our jealousy of a superior civilization which we are attempting to destroy.

Our answer is the action we took in 1870. What was that? Mr. Gladstone, was then Prime Minister. Lord Granville, I think, was then Foreign Secretary. I have never heard it alleged to their charge that they were ever Jingo. What did the do in 1870? We called upon the belligerent Powers to respect that treaty. We called upon France, we called upon Germany. At that time, bear in mind, the greatest danger to Belgium came from France and not from Germany. We intervened to protect Belgium against France exactly in the same way. We invited both the belligerent powers to state that they had no intention of violating Belgium territory. What was the answer given by Bismarck? He said it was superfluous to ask Prussia such a question in view of the treaties in force. France gave a similar answer.

We received the thanks at that time of the Belgian people for our intervention in a very remarkable document. This is in a document addressed by the municipality of Brussels to Queen Victoria after than intervention.

The great and noble people over whose destinies you preside have just given a further proof of its benevolent sentiments towards this country. The voice of the English nation has been heard above the din of arms. It has asserted the principles of justice and right. Next to the unalterable attachment of the Belgian people to their independence the strongest sentiment which fills their hearts is that of an imperishable gratitude to the people of Great Britain.

That was in 1870. Mark what follows. Three or four days after that document of flanks the French army was wedged up against the Belgian frontier. Every means of escape shut up by a ring of flame from Prussian cannon. There was one way of escape. What was that? By violating the neutrality of Belgium. What did they do? The French on that occasion preferred ruin, humiliation to the breaking of their bond.

The French Emperor, French Marshals, 100,000 gallant Frenchmen in arms preferred to be carried captive to the strange land of their enemy rather than dishonor the name of their country. It was the last French army defeat. Had they violated Belgium neutrality the whole history of that war would have been changed. And yet it was the interest of France to break the treaty. She did not do it.

It is the interest of Prussia to break the treaty, and she has done it. Well, why? She avowed it with cynical contempt for every principle of justice. She says treaties only bind you when it is to your interest to keep them. "What is a treaty?" says the German chancellor; "A scrap of paper."

Never Grows Old

The queer thing about Sir George Foster is that he gets younger. Each birthday seems to take a year off. He eats work. There is a theory that he breakfasts off bluebooks, lunches off a collation of statistics, and dines off more of both. He is the greatest worker in a department where hardworkers are by no means rare, and he gets through more business in a day than most men would do in three. And yet is never out of humour, unless the situation calls for it, as situations do in all walks of administrative life.

Sir George Foster today is a bigger man and a better minister than he ever was before. He has broadened with the years. They say he is more human than he used to be. They mean that his heart has warmed a bit. Probably it was always just as warm, but maybe more difficult of access—and it isn't worn on his coatsleeve now

We know of a man who has returned from the war zone in Europe and candidly admits that he wasn't arrested as a spy. His truthfulness entitles him to a medal or a serenade.

We sympathize with the Oklahoma editor who advertised in his paper: "A boy wanted," and went home to discover that the Stork had presented him with twins.

The civic pride of Canadian citizens is growing and the spirit of the movement is finding its greatest expression in the study of housing and town-planning questions.

Editors, proofreaders and linotypers will have a better opinion of the censors if the word "deleted" is substituted for Schihlischki, the name of the place where the German cavalry attempted to check the advance of the Russians.

Emperor and Marshals of France, together with 100,000 brave troops, in 1870, preferred to suffer defeat and captivity at the hands of Germany rather than dishonor their country by violating the neutrality of Belgium. Germany in 1914, deliberately violated Belgium's neutrality, and carried barbaric war into the country of a peaceful people whom they have atrociously illtreated. And, apart from the British Empirei France and Russia, the remainder of the big powers look idly on, with nothing doing but wordy sympathy for the brave Belgiums, whom in their cruel sacrifice for the principles of librty, freedom and elimination of Germany's mailed fist are the noldest of them all.

General Helovafellovitch has promised that when he captures Przemysl he will take it out of the columns of the newspapers. But what's the use. We will have to buck up against Rzeszow and Chiywziwyck and other such modest names.

The London Daily News says that the leader of the Poles in the Duma has announced the solidarity of the Poles of the Kingdom with the Russian people. The Polish nobles of the Government of Minsk, outside the Kingdom, have met together to express their loyalty to Russia. In London the Poles are considering a plan for forming a Polish legation to fight on our side. The same thing is happening in France. There is at present no indication, so far as we know, of the attitude of the Poles of Galicia. One thing is certain, they will place their own interests before everything else. It is important for the Poles to be on the side of the victors in this war. This consideration is likely to induce the Poles of Austria to throw in their lot with their brethren in Russia. Prussian oppression of the Poles has been too brutal to leave any doubt as to the attitude of the people of the Duchy, a territory more seething with aiscontent than Alsace.

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Company re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs — all young foxes— good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leavinb $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:— "We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalize your concern at $90,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

Below are the particulars of sale of a consignment of Silver Fox Furs, shipped from Prince Edward Island ranches to London, England, and sold there in March, 1910:

SHARES

Shares are selling at $25.00 each. 25 per cent. with application and the balance on or before September 1st, 1914.

Simply fill out the application form and mail to Major C. McKinnon, Secretary-Treasurer, Glenaladale, P. E. I.

All cheques must be made payable to "The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Ltd."

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you.

We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business— and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

STORM SIGNALS

Canada's system for storm warnings is quite simple but interesting. These signals are hoisted at specific places called drums and are as follows:

1. For daylight signal a bucket, shaped like a liquid funnel, right side up hoisted on a pole; and for night signal a red light indicates a gale at first from an easterly direction.

2. Same as No. 1 reversed, narrow side up for daylight; for night signal white light over the red indicates gale at first from a westerly direction.

3. Same as No. 1 but with a round shaped drum over the funnel for daylight and a red light for night indicates a heavy gale at first from an easterly direction.

4. With funnel over drum for daylight and a white light over red one at night indicates a heavy gale from at first a westerly direction.

THE SIX-O' CLOCK MAN

The Farmer's Hired Man Should Think of Employer's Interest

Did you ever notice that the man who sits on the fence for ten minutes waiting for the hands of his watch to get around to seven o'clock before he starts the day's work on the farm, and the man who would unhitch his horses at the far end of the field when the bell or whistle announced the hour of six p.m., are usually the poorest men in the field between the hours of seven and twelve and one and six? No man who is taking the interest he should in his farmer employer's work is so particular to a few minutes morning or evening. Do not think for one moment we are advocating long days. Not at all. As a general practice they are a detriment to progress. No one can blame men for not wanting to work from daylight until dark. Just be reasonable. Quit at six as a general rule, but do not object to an hour or two later if conditions demand it.—Farmers' Advocate.

Preserving Oysters

According to a French scientist oysters can be kept for two weeks in filtered water without injury or loss of weight.

Saves Much Hard Work

A gasoline engine, mounted on the frame, drives the brushes of a new machine for polishing floors, designed for places where electric power is not available.

W. A. HENRY

For eighteen years Dean W. A. Henry of the Agricultural College of Wisconsin has been trying to liberate farmers' wives from the wash tub. He recently renewed an offer made at that time of $200 for the first farm community that would start a co-operative steam laundry. He still hopes.

Easy to Move Stove

Legs have been invented for stoves which contain casters, so mounted that pressure on levers projects them and enables the stoves to be moved easily.

Protecting Wage Earners

It is estimated that 90 per cent. of industrial accidents can be eliminated, 60 per cent. by the proper training of workers.

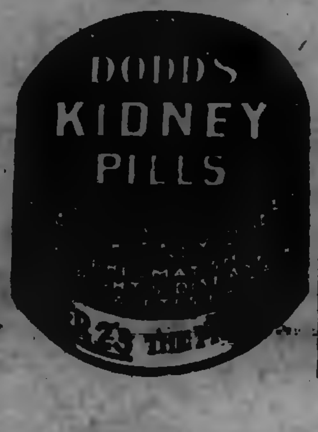
Protecting Iron With Paint

Some experiments recently carried out indicate that a single coat of paint gives iron greater protection from rusting than several coats. Different samples of iron were painted with one, two, three and four coats, respectively, and after a certain time it appeared that the iron under four coats was completely covered with rust, that under three coats was less affected, that under two coats was partly rusted, but the iron under one coat was free from rust. The theory suggested is that increase in the number of coats gives more corroding electric currents at the surface of the metal.—Canadian Engineer.

LOIS EWELL

Having studied music for a year in Berlin and Florence, Lois Ewell, the prima donna, says: "Unless a girl has infinite wealth with which to pave her way to musical success, she can hardly expect to gain it abroad. The music student who gets a European reputation gets it at an awful price."



ORIGINAL GUM CHEWERS

The Aztecs of Mexico are said to have been the first gum chewers known. The followers of Cortes reported that the Indians chewed a gum to quench thirst and relieve exhaustion. They obtained it from the sapote tree by tapping, and to-day the manner of gathering the sap is in close analogy to the process of gathering maple sap. The wood is of a reddish mahogany color, is quite hard, heavy, compact in texture, and fine grained. Door-sills and frames of this remarkable wood have been unearthed in the prehistoric ruins of Uxmal and found to be in an excellent state of preservation. The wood is in demand to-day by cabinet-makers, who employ it in the manufacture of high-grade furniture and household fittings. The fruit, the sapodilla pear, was once very popular in Latin-American markets, but the constant demand for the gum and the consequent tapping so reduced the size and quantity of the fruit that it has become almost a negligible product. The sap looks like milk at first, but soon turns to a yellowish color and thickens to the consistency of treacle. It is collected and boiled in a rather primitive manner in large kettles, and when it has reached the proper consistency it is kneaded and the surplus moisture expressed. It is then moulded into large loaves and is ready for shipment.

Wellington Campaign Plans

The map found on a captured Uhlan marked with the prearranged marches of the German troops reminds one that Wellington distrusted fixed plans of campaign. Asked on one occasion how he managed to capture Napoleon's marshals one after the other, he replied: "They planned their campaigns just as you might make a splendid set of harness. It looks very well, it answers very well, until it gets broken and then you're done for. Now, I made my campaign of ropes. If anything went wrong, I tied a knot and went on."

An Appeal to the Intelligent Investor !

Does a logical presentation of a good investment interest you? Do you believe there is an oil in commercial quantities in Alberta? If you are alive to the situation you do. Then it will pay you to investigate our proposition and our holdings.

Please Read Carefully and Note!

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascer-tained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. Dunn chose wisely in the selection of the now famous Monarch well. WINDSOR OILFIELDS, LIMITED, has holdings located close to the Monarch.

THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). If a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

Our holdings consist of 1380 acres, carefully selected and judiciously spread over the entire oil field.

LONESOME LONDON

Colonial Official Says It Chills the Visitor From Overseas

Colonials, according to Sir George Reid, High Commissioner for Australia, have their admiration for the Motherland chilled by their loneliness when they get to London.

"You can't make 7,000,000 people think over the arrival of one Australian," said Sir George. "I make that allowance. But there is a film over the British character. When it is scratched as fine a man is struck as can be found anywhere—but it has to be scratched.

"When an Englishman visits Australia he finds himself in the midst of friends anxious to take him by the hand. I want a little more of that in London, not only for High Commissioners but for the ordinary colonial."

Among men from the Overseas Dominions who do not entirely agree with Sir George is Mr. W. L. Griffith, Charge d'Affaires at the Canadian Office in London. Mr. Griffith admits that London is lonely, for the English provincial as well as the Colonial. "But," he said, "I cannot follow—perhaps I do not understand—Sir George Reid when he speaks of a 'film' over the English character.

"It is perfectly true that an Englishman visiting one of the Dominions is taken by the hand, but I apprehend that when the Australian and Canadian centres approach London in size the same inherent obstacles in the way of good fellowship will present themselves. I don't believe it is from any lack of warm-heartedness that visitors are neglected in London. The difficulty is how to get into touch with visitors. As a matter of fact, the appreciation of the people of the Motherland for the people of Dominions has grown astonishingly during the past twenty years."

The Onion

What is the reason that so few people eat onions nowadays. The onion used to be a stand-by in this country, but it is getting to be about as popular as a divorced husband at the wedding feast. There is nothing that will bring tears of repentance to a hardened sinner's eyes quicker than a stout, wide-hipped Bermuda onion with teeth like a rip-saw and a grip like an entered apprentice. One of these onions, sprinkled with tasco sauce and inhaled slowly before each meal, will cause a man to perspire at high speed when the thermometer is 40 degrees below zero. Physicians tell us that if people would eat more onions they would have fewer microbes roosting about in their systems, as onions are death to germs of all kinds. The onion is also death to the course of true love—after marriage, but not before.

PRODUCERS RATHER THAN MIDDLEMEN

W. H. Cushing of Calgary, Alberta, Speaks of the Need of Settlers on the Land

Mr. W. H. Cushing, in referring to Alberta as the land of opportunity, says:

"There is no country like it for the young man providing he is sensible and does not insist on getting rich quick. Think of it! 100,000,000 acres of the finest agricultural land in the world, and only 2,000,000 acres of it under cultivation! Too many are going to the cities and too few back to the land. We want producers more than middlemen in the West. Industry and patience are all that is necessary to win for the ambitious at least a comfortable competence in Alberta." Mr. Cushing does not see any danger ahead because of exhaustive wheat growing. Optimist that he is, he says that it is questionable whether the sponge-like soil of the prairies could be robbed of its virtue no matter how many crops were taken from it. Certainly it would not deteriorate if given proper care and a rest occasionally. Even admitting that the wheat growers were taxing their land in the effort to grow wealthy quickly, the danger faded away when it was remembered that but little over 2 per cent. of the agricultural land had yet been ploughed. "Alberta," concludes Mr. Cushing, "stands on immense beds of coal, deposits of gas, oil, etc. In the north, there are large tracts of practically pure salt and other valuable minerals abound. All this is in addition to her agriculture. Who can predict what lies in front of such a storehouse of natural wealth? As I said before, I am firmly convinced that, for the young man, Alberta is the land of opportunity."

LIFE AFTER FORTY

The best half of life is in front of the man of 40, if he be anything of a man. The work he will do will be done with the hands of a master and not of a raw apprentice. The trained intellect does not see "men as trees walking," but sees everything clearly and in just measure. The trained temper does not rush at work like a blind bull at a haystack, but advances with the calm and ordered pace of conscious power and deliberate determination. To no man is the world so new and the future so fresh as to him who has spent the early years of his manhood in striving to understand the deeper problems of science and life, and who has made some headway toward comprehending them. To him the commonest things are rare and beautiful, both in themselves and as parts of a beautiful and intelligent whole. Such a thing as staleness in life and its duties he cannot understand. Knowledge is always opening out before him in wider expanses and more commanding heights. The pleasure of growing knowledge and increasing power makes each year of his life happier and more hopeful than the last.

VICE-ADMIRAL R. H. S. STOKES who was appointed to succeed Vice-Admiral Sir C. H. Coke as senior officer on the coast of Ireland.

Perpetuating Game

Large game preserves have recently been set aside in Somaliland, Uganda and other British protectorates in Africa, in which the hunting is prohibited of elephants, giraffes, rhinoceroses and other valuable game is danger of extinction. This policy has also proved successful in perpetuating the game supply on certain Dominion Forest Reserves in Western Canada, and as occasion demands the number of these game preserves will be increased.

Look-out Towers

At a cost of only $50 the Dominion Forestry Branch recently erected a lookout tower fifty feet high, overlooking two hundred square miles of woodland. Similar towers are being built on all the Dominion forest reserves in the West in order that fires may be seen and extinguished before they have time to spread beyond control.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ⅛ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4630 or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

What Australian Province Is Doing Towards Reforestration

According to a report of the Forestry Department of New South Wales, good conduct convicts at the state prison, instead of breaking stone, are engaged in the more useful and healthful work of replanting with trees the waste lands of the state. At one prison alone 25,000 trees, mostly American ash and pines were planted in one year.

Perhaps the only city forest in Canada is that at Guelph, Ont., where a small area has been planted surrounding the springs which furnish the city's water supply. In many of the counties of eastern Canada, however, are large areas of waste land, originally forested, and capable only of producing forests. Ontario has a Counties reforestation Act making possible the acquisition of such waste land for reforestation purposes by municipal councils, but up to the present time only one county has availed itself of this opportunity. Quebec and the Dominion government have also passed legislation to encourage tree planting, and the Dominion Forestry Branch in the last fiscal year distributed nearly 4,000,000 trees from the nurseries at Indian Head for woodlot planting in western Canada.

The growing of forest trees on waste land can in most cases be made a profitable undertaking, besides providing labor to a considerable number of men, yet no extensive reforestation has as yet been done in eastern Canada.

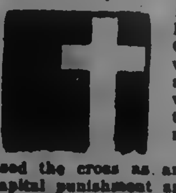
BIG PACIFIC DRY DOCK

Biggest Vessels to be Handled at Prince Rupert When Work Done

Good progress is being made with the construction of the big Grand Trunk Pacific Dry Dock at Prince Rupert. This dock, costing $3,000,000, will have an important national value, as it will be able to handle the largest vessels, either naval or mercantile, afloat on the Pacific Ocean.

The dock will have in all twelve pontoons and the first of these to be put in position is 130 feet long and exclusive of other fittings has 300,000 feet of timber in its construction. The capacity displacement of the series of pontoons will be 2,000,000 tons and each pontoon will have two powerful centrifugal pumps, so that, when the ship is in place, the water can be rapidly pumped out and repair work begun. The dock is so arranged that it can be used in three separate units or in any combination that is desired.

About the Cross



Although the cross is the symbol of Christianity, and it was used as a religious emblem long before the Christian era, it was not always an object of veneration, nor the insignia of religion.

The ancients used the cross as an instrument of capital punishment and centuries before Calvary death on the cross was considered so ignominious that only the lowest malefactors were crucified.

The Egyptian obelisks bear impressions of the cross, and the Babylonians and the Assyrians used the cross. The coins of the early Phoenicians were stamped with the cross.

INVENTOR OF REVOLVER

Birmingham Artisan Was First to Perfect Deadly Small Firearm

One of the most interesting figures in the industrial life of Birmingham passed away recently in the person of Mr. Henry Jones, who had attained the remarkable age of 102, and had almost all his life been connected with the gun trade. Indeed, he was described as "the father of the Birmingham gun trade," and for many years he was regarded among the most skilful craftsmen in the city.

When his school days were over Mr. Henry Jones was put to the gun trade, and for 85 years worked at the bench. He produced a number of epoch-making improvements in the construction of firearms and in 1835 invented the first self-acting revolver. His father conceived the happy idea of bringing the invention before the naval and military authorities of the day, and he arranged to give a lecture on "Some Recent Improvements in Gun Mechanism" at the Polytechnic, in London. That was in 1835. The room was filled with representative officers from both arms of the the service, and at the close of the lecture the revolver itself was handed round, and so great was the interest created that orders for $3,500 worth of pistols were booked in the room.

Formerly the nearest approach to this weapon was the "four-shot" pistol, made chiefly in West Bromwich—a crude contrivance in which the barrel containing the four shots had to be rotated by hand. In 1858 Mr. Jones laid the gun trade under a lasting obligation by his improvements in the mechanism of the breech-loader—improvements on the introduction of which the breech-loader became the simple, safe, and reliable type of weapon we now know it to be. That the inventor himself made little out of the idea is due to a rather singular mischance; he entered into an arrangement with a firm of gunmakers who undertook to patent the invention and share the profits. They applied for and obtained protection, but unfortunately omitted to complete the patent, with the result that after a few months the improvement became public property. Hence the inventor remained comparatively poor and lost almost in obscurity.

PIANO EVOLUTION

It Took Centuries to Produce the Instruments We Know To-day

A step forward in the evolution of the stringed instrument was made in the Middle Ages when strings were placed across a box, thus producing the idea of a sounding board. This invention, called the psaltery, was followed by the dulcimer, which was somewhat larger. The keyboard was invented in the eleventh century. The first stringed instrument to use the keyboard was the keyed cithara, a box with a cover, having catgut strings arranged in the form of a triangle. A quill plectrum attached in a crude way to the end of each key marked the progress the piano of today had made in the thirteenth century.

Next came the clavichord. In shape it much resembled a small square piano without frame or legs. The strings were of brass, struck by a wedge made of the same metal which was called a tangent. The virginal, spinet and harpsichord followed the clavichord in rapid succession. They had strings of brass with quill plectra attached to pieces of wood. The virginal and spinet were almost identical, but the harpischord was larger, and was, at times, built with two keyboards. There are several explanations as to why the virginal was so called, but the generally accepted one is that it was in honor of Elizabeth of England, the Virgin Queen.

In Shakespeare's time it was customary to have a virginal in all the barber shops for the entertainment of the customers. The spinet received its name from its Venetian inventor, Sebastian Spinetti. The harpischord was very much like our present grand piano, only much smaller.

It seems almost incredible that the manufacturers of Queen Elizabeth's time did not discover the hammer action. This great invention was left to the Italian, Angelo Christofori, who, in 1709, brought out a piano which forever did away with the scratching sound of the quill, thorn, brass or ivory plectra.

The piano did not receive a hearty welcome at first. It was looked on as a novelty. A playbill of Covent Garden Theatre, London, as late as 1767 announced: "Miss Anna Anna Brickler will sing a song from 'Judith,' accompanied by Charles Dibdin on a new instrument called the pianoforte."

THE PRICE OF BEEF

The price of Canadian beef for home consumption is determined by the price obtainable for the beef that is exported. For all practical purposes the price of Canadian beef cattle is determined in the Chicago market, and the price of beef in Chicago is determined by competition in the markets of Europe. The United States, Canada, and Argentina produce, or can produce, far more than their own people are able to consume, and the surplus must find consumers on the other side of the Atlantic, especially in Great Britain.

If the price of beef falls low in Europe the farmers of America will curtail production until the prices goes up again; if it rises high the farmers will increase their output until it begins to fall. In other words, the amount of beef produced in Canada depends on the relation between demand and supply in Europe.—Toronto Globe.

Address on Grain of Wheat

The Canadian Churchman tells of a wonderful piece of microscopic engraving accomplished by a Jewish farmer in Alberta, who wrote, on a grain of wheat, in Hebrew characters, an address of welcome to the Duke of Connaught. The address contained 300 letters, and was so fine as to require a powerful microscope to read the inscription.

THE POOR MAN'S BANK

An Institution Which Might Advantageously be Copied in Canada

The Atlanta Loan and Savings Company is the official title of an institution in the Georgia city which everyone calls "The Poor Man's Bank."

It was founded by Mr. W. W. White as a protest against the loan shark and lives up to its name in spirit and act. Its basis of credit is honesty and labor, the only capital a poor man has. To draw money from this bank all the borrower needs do is to get three reputable persons to endorse him as honest and industrious. On this security "the poor man's bank" will advance money for a term of 52 weeks on dollar-a-week payments. Eight per cent. interest is charged. Each borrower, whether his loan be large or small, subscribes for one or more shares of stock, according to the amount of his loan. This stock is hypothecated to secure the loan. At the end of the 52-week term the borrower may surrender his stock and cancel his note or he may re-invest it in bank stock. In its first year it made 1,115 loans for a total of $150,552, and it has practically put the loan shark out of business.

YUKON TIMBER WASTED

Immense Fire Damage Caused by Careless Travellers

Writing from the Yukon a gentleman interested in the conservation of natural resources, said: "I know of no other place in Canada where our limited area of timber should be so zealously guarded as in the Yukon. We have many uses for wood here, whereas it is not so necessary in other parts of Canada. We must depend entirely upon it for fuel, and we cannot import timber for mining purposes as it would be too expensive and we would have to let low grade mines remain undeveloped. Notwithstanding these facts, our timber land is burned over and thousands of cords destroyed every year. Most of this destruction could be avoided. The fires mostly occur along the Yukon valley on account of people making their way into the interior in small boats. They land on the bank of the river to cook their food. After this is done they return to their boats, leaving the fires to go out or to ignite the nearby woods just as may happen. This could be stopped, by increasing the Mounted Police patrol, and this should be done as early as possible."

What Is Butter Fat?

Butter fat is composed of several fats varying in degree of hardness, also in relative amounts. In the summer time when the cow has plenty of green succulent grass the soft fats are present in comparatively large amounts. In the winter time when the cow is on dry hay and grain feed just the reverse is true—the hard fats being relatively high. To overcome this feed the cow on corn silage or root crops to supply the necessary succulence in her feed so to keep the proper balance between the hard and the soft fats in her milk.

The plans have been submitted to the Provincial Board of Health who have approved the general scheme.

A Cheap Thief

At Saturday's police court Fred Ashford was charged with having obtained board and lodging under false pretences, claiming he was employed by Messrs. C. B. Turner & Co. The prisoner said he was guilty. The Chief remarked, "this sab has worked this game here in several places." The magistrate read the act which levies a fine of $100 for similar offences. He was given a month's meal ticket on Castle Nesbitt.

Gathering of Home Grown Flower Seeds Advised This Year

Owing to the war in Europe, flower seeds may not be so plentiful next year or the year after, in Canada, as a large quantity of the flower seed that is sold in the Dominion is grown in Germany, and the operations of growing and harvesting the seed there must have been much interrupted this year and may be carried on with difficulty next year.

Canadian grown seed has been found to give very satisfactory results and we should advise every one who has a garden to be on the safe side and save some seed this year. Even if there is an abundance of imported seeds it will be interesting to compare this home grown with that from abroad.

A Matter of Finance

At Saturday's police court, Tony Snessero or some such name, was charged with having been found drunk. Tony denied the soft impeachment. His case was adjourned as the constable who made the arrest was not present. Later Tony, after the trial evidently considered having been through a similar ordeal in the same court, a month ago, that 66⅔ cents a day would be worse than spending three days in jail. With proverbial Italian carefulness he changed his plea to guilty and was assessed $2.

TH ART OF PLOUGHING BEING FORGOTTEN

Neatness in Every Field Pays—Implement Must be Chosen to Suit Kind of Soil

The art of ploughing, if not lost has certainly been much neglected during recent years, and very few of the younger generation of farmers have really acquired it. In travelling through the country one sees repeated evidences of the lack of interest in this very important branch of tillage operations. Ploughing, as the first and heaviest operation in preparing the soil to receive the seed, should receive particular attention.

Many attribute the present-day lack of interest in ploughing to the advent of the two-furrow and machine plough. In using two-furrow or machine ploughs, it is necessary first to acquaint oneself with the workings and mechanism of the plough, to be thoroughly familiar with it when in operation; little or no difficulty will then be experienced in obtaining satisfactory results. A plough suitable to the soil should be chosen. If the soil is loamy, and requires to be turned flat, choose a plough with sufficient width of share, a board with ample turning capacity, a beam high enough to permit the use of the jointer when turning under green or coarse manure, and sufficient length of handles to enable the ploughman to control it with ease. If the soil is heavy and inclined to cement, use a narrow plough—one that will set the soil up, give a good harrow edge, and have sufficient press to the board to place the furrow over so that it will not fall back. In using either a single or two-furrow plough, care should be taken to turn over the whole furrow and to leave no part unploughed. Get away from the cut-and-cover plan. Teach the boys that anything worth doing is worth doing well, especially ploughing. The old adage that more grain grows on crooked furrows than on straight ones is a poor incentive, and is not helpful in building up a reputation as a model farmer. Plough the back field as carefully as the field adjoining the road, and see that all fields are ploughed in such a way as to attract attention by their neatness. It is cheap and efficient advertising. Good ploughing pays; if a fair crop can be grown on a field which has been poorly ploughed, a better crop can be grown on a well-ploughed field.—F. C. Nunnick, in "Conservation."

MEXICANS RAID GOLD MINE OF AMERICANS

Washington, Oct. 10.—Seizure of 500,000 pesos by Mexican soldiers from the Rea Del Monte mine, an American property, was reported today through foreign consular representatives in Mexico. The money is believed to have been taken by the same band which seized 1,500,000 pesos in which a British corporation was interested. The embassy here has made representations to the State Department. Efforts are being made through American consular agents to recover the loot.

Harrisonburg, Va., Oct. 10.—David Reid, a confederate veteran, hunting bear through the Allegheny mountains near here today thought he had his quarry up a tree and fired. To his horror Price Lilly, 23, fell dead from the boughs where he had been gathering chestnuts. Distracted with grief, Reid attempted to kill himself, but was prevented from doing so by the dead man's cousin who was nearby.

HEADACHY, COSTIVE, BILIOUS--"CASCARETS"

Get a 10-cent box.

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system, it re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months.

"Fall In"

By Harold Begbie in the London Daily Chronicle.

What will you lack, sonny, what will you lack
When the girls line up the street,
Shouting their love to the lads come back
From the foe they rushed to beat?
Will you send a strangled cheer to the sky
And grin till your cheeks are red?
But what will you lack when your mate goes back
With a girl that cuts you dead?

Where will you look, sonny, where will you look
When your children yet to be Clamour to learn of the part you took
In the war that kept men free?
Will you say it was naught to you if France
Stood up to her foe or bunked?
But where will you look when they give the glance
That tells you they know you funked?

How will you fare, sonny, how will you fare
In the far-off winter nights
When you sit by the fire in an old chair
And your neighbors talk of the fight?
Will you slink away, as it were from a blow,
Your old head shamed and bent?
Or say—I was not with the first to go,
But I went, thank God, I went.

Why do they call, sonny, who do they call
For men who are brave and strong?
Is it naught to you if your country fall,
And right is smashed by wrong?
The pub and the betting odds,
Is it football still and the picture show,
When your brothers stand to the tyrant's blow,
And England's call is God's.

Germany Educated For Years To Crush Britain At All Costs

In order to accomplish this world-Empire of Germany, the accepted morality must be decisively set aside. Bernhardi begins his book by an attack on peace. To him, peace is a petrification and stagnation. War is the fruitful field for magnanimity, heroism, and mercy. The brutal incidents inseparable from every war are negligible in view of the grand result. The State is not bound by the laws of morality. The end-all and be-all of a State is power, and he who is not man enough to look this truth in the face should not meddle in politics. It is the duty of the State, and almost its only duty to increase its power. Chief among political sins is the sins of feebleness. The State must not merely defend itself when attacked. It must also attack when there is the smallest prospect of success. The culture and the religion of Germany entitle her to a place in the sun. Needless to say, the religion of the Germany that is to be is not Christianity. Just as the Christian morality is rejected, so the Christian faith is denied and abhored. Strauss was a weakling because he clung to the ethics of Christianity while he rejected its doctrines.

In a word, the battle of the future is between Christ and Napoleon, and we are told that "Corsica has conquered Galilee." Christ is dethroned. In Germany Napoleonism, especially in Berlin, has acquired something of the cleanness and self-consistency of a formulated creed. The Germans have not forgotten—how could they forget?—that Napoleon was the tyrant of Germany and the oppressor of Europe. But Mr. Cramb tells us that in spite of this Germans "have gradually acquired a profound and ever profounder reverence for the creed and the religion towards which that great and solitary spirit perhaps the loneliest amongst the children of men, still struggled amidst the tumults and desolations, the triumphs and the glories the victory and the disaster of his tragic and brief career—a world-tragedy his, at once the Man of Destiny and the Antagonist of Destiny." When Germany subdues the world she will, we are told, not confront the twentieth century and its thronging vicissitudes as the worshipper of an alien God and the thrall of an alien morality. It is to be noted that this school is openly at war with democracy—with the power of self-government inhering the people. Bernhardi admits the difficulties in the path of Germany to world power. Austria's weakness is the admixture of the Slavonic elements. Italy's antagonism to Austria has run through Italian history, and his hopes of Italy are not bright. But he thinks that England has failed to link her vast Empire together either for the purposes of commerce or defence. Her Colonies and Dominions all tend to separation, and he foresees a great colonial war. He thinks also that we shall be opposed in war not only by the Colonies, but also by India. He admits the power of the British Fleet. As for Russia, she must be isolated by bribes. The next thing is to crush France to the very dust. This accomplished, England must be dealt with when the day and hour arrive. Perpetually we are told that Germany has the genius for Empire, and that England stands in the way. She has won one fifth of the globe by craft and violence, and is the great robber state. To sum up, there is before Germany either world Dominion or ruin, and ruin must be risked in the effort after world dominion.

Thus sharply and unmistakably are the issues put. Germany as represented by its dominant thinkers is at open war with Christ. So Corsica has not yet conquered Galilee! The newer imperative is quoted by Mr. Cramb: "Ye have heard how in old times it was said Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth; but I say unto you, Blessed are the valiant, for they shall make the earth their throne. And ye have heard men say: Blessed are the poor in spirit; but I say unto you, Blessed are the great in soul and the free in spirit, for they shall enter into Valhalla. And ye have heard men say, Blessed are the peacemakers; but I say unto you, Blessed are the war-makers, for they shall be called, if not the children of Jahve, the children of Odin, who is greater than Jahve."

As for public morality, it is at an end. The policy advocated is one of virulent attack on all those who have held out their hands in friendship. Plain dealing, generosity, and regard for human right are antiquated superstitions. It may be wise sometimes to affect regard for them in order to serve a purpose, but such conduct is merely tactical. It will also be seen that freedom under the new regime would be wholly at an end. This war is one of life or death for free institutions. The German Government is a standing conspiracy against the rights of the people.

It will be seen that we have good reason for fighting and for fighting even to the death. It is a shallow optimism which pretends that there are no great calamities in history. We are now fighting to avert one of them.

PLOWING TROPHY AN EIGHTY DOLLAR ONE

The County Championship Plowing Trophy, purchased through Schneider & Co., Jewellers, is on exhibition at the Munro House. It is a very large cup standing upon a large ebony base. The name of the champion year by year will be engraved upon a shield and put upon the base of the cup. The cup is the property of the County Council who have agreed to take charge of it and it is perpetual. If filled up with good stuff it would probably hold more than a gallon. A silver medal becomes the property of the winner. The first contest takes place on the farm of Mr. Sandy Matchett on Oct. 28th. The trophy is an eighty dollar one, not fifty as stated on the bills.

Belgium Government Removed to Havre, France

GERMANY AND AUSTRIA READY FOR THE GREAT BATTLE OF WAR

Centre Battle Line Extends Over Sixty Miles--Both Sides Manoeuvering for Stragetic Positions--Outcome of Battle Will Have Considerable Effect on the War of Wars--Russians Defeat the Enemy in Galicia

Petrograd, Oct. 13.—The general staff announced to-day the defeat of the Austro-German forces in Galaicia near the River Dan. The exact location was withheld in accordance with the new policy of secrecy regarding this campaign. It was declared, however, that the enemy suffered greatly, losing a number of guns and many transport wagons.

The attack was begun by cavalry charges on either flank, supported by infantry and artillery in the centre.

It is unofficially anounced that the German advance in East Prussia has checked by Russian victories in north-east of Suwalki district, wherein the Czar's troops also captured a number of prisoners and guns.

Great Battle of the East

London, Oct. 13.—All eyes to-day are turned to the eastward where, under conditions of the utmost secrecy, the Teutonic Allies and the Russians are preparing to engage in what may prove one of the most decisive combats of the war.

Evidence is accumulating to show that this gigantic conflict will be determined in Russian Poland and the only question disturbing British experts is as to which side has chosen the battle ground.

Berlin admits having withdrawn from the Neiman River, and at the same time discounts the whole movement in that region as being of no strategic importance.

Abandoned Przemysl

It is now clear that Russia has abandoned the narrow point in Galicia between Przemysl and Cracow. Russian forces having virtually occupied all of Galicia with the exception of these two places.

Petrograd claims this operation is due to strategic reasons, while Vienna maintains that rejuvenated Austrian armies have relieved the Przemysl It is unquestioned that the more or fortress and driven the invaders out. less demoralized Austrian forces, stiffened by German reinforcements, have resumed the offensive, but there is no information here to indicate that the Russian retirement is anything in the nature of a rout resulting from vigorous fighting.

Whatever may be the intention of the armies operating on the ends of the great Russian battlefront, it is clear that these movements have paled into insignificance beside the tremendous forward advance in the centre.

Position of the Armies

Broadly speaking, this is now the position of the antagonists awaiting the word to open the engagement. The main German armies in Russian Poland are moving toward the Vistula River on a north and south front extending throught Piotrkow, 90 miles south-west of Warsaw, Kielce and Busk, on the Bug River, 38 miles east of Lemberg. To the left of this army between Lodz and Kalisz is another German force, and on the right of the main German army is an Austrian force.

The bulk of the Russian troops are on the east bank of the Vistula, but a portion of their forces are still on the west side of the river.

The nature of the country makes it probable that the centre of the battle line will be between Sandomir and Ivangorod, both on the Vistula River and about 60 miles apart.

In order to take up these positions the Germans have been compelled to abandon strong positions along the River Warthe, and avail themselves of the transportation facilities of Russian railroads, which are incomparably poorer than what they have been accustomed to. The Russians are described as keen to engage the enemy in a country of their own choosing and near the base of their supplies.

German Batteries Captured

The Germans are still retiring in the direction of East Prussia, and in Petrograd there is a report of a Russian victory near Raczki, midway between Augustowo and Suwalki, which resultin in the sapture of several German batteries sent from Koenigsberg.

ALLIES' POSITION MUCH STRONGER

Furious Fight of the Germans All in Vain--German Failure to Burst the Ring Means Failure of Program and Collapse of Their Ambition

London, Oct. 13.—The Daily Mail's correspondent sends a despatch dated Sunday, behind the French left wing. He gives interesting news of the conditions prevailing in the field of operation, and says that since Thursday conditions for the Allies were for the worse, then again for the better, and that their position at the time of sending the letter was better than ever.

"The fighting around Arras," says the correspondent, "has been exceedingly severe since last Tuesday, and Lens has changed hands at least three times in as many weeks. If the Germans could succeed in bursting the ring at some part, their desperate programme mights prevail, but so far they have failed, and got their forces hopelessly shattered.

"It would be absurd, however, for that reason to say they are negligible On the contrary they are still capable of giving great trouble."

COL. MARITLZ IS A TRAITOR

London, Oct. 13.—A Capetown despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company says that Colonel Maritz, whose commando rebelled, proposed to establish a republic in North-west Cape Province. The scheme is declared in Capetown, the despatch adds, to be an unspeakable act of traitorism. An overwhelming majority of the Dutch are shocked. The Government of South Africa say they have no fear of the disaffection spreading.

There are regularly seven thousand British troops in the South African Union, and it is believed that in many cases the officers have been recalled to aid in the European war. The permanent force for defence is the South African Mounted Riflemen.

The boys at Harrow School, England, were told by Lord Curzon, that German Emperor's name will go down to posterity as "William the Blood-stained."

BELGIAN GOVT.' MOVED TO FRANCE

The Ministers Go From Ostend to Havre--King Stays With the Troops Care of the Wounded is Entrusted to Ostend

Bordeaux, France, Oct. 13.—It has been decided to transfer the Belgian Government to France, in order that it may have full liberty of action. The foregoing was announced officially in Bordeaux to-day.

A portion of the Belgian Government and the members of the diplomatic corps accredited to the Belgian court left Ostend this morning for Havre.

The French government has taken all necessary measures for the installation of the Belgian government on French territory.

The transportation and care of all wounded convalescents have been intrusted to the municipality of Ostend.

King Albert remains in Belgium, at the head of his army. The Minister of War and other members of the Belgian Cabinet also continue to transact business in Belgium.

BRITISH SOUTH ALRICA IS NOW UNDER STRICT MARTIAL LAW

Col. Maritz Encourages a Rebellion in His Commando, and Will be Dealt With Summarily, South African Government Has Not the Slightest Fear of Disinfection Seriously Spreading

Capetown, Union of South Africa, via London, Oct. 13.—It has been officially announced here that a commando, under Colonel Maritz, has rebelled in the north-west of the Cape Province.

Martial law has been proclaimed throughout the Union.

The Proclamation

The proclamation imposing martial law follows:

"Whereas a state of war exists between the British Empire on the one hand, and the German Empire on the other, and whereas the Government of the Protectorate of German South-West Africa has, through a widespread secret propoganda persistently endeavoured to seduce citizens of the Union and officers and members of the defence forces of the Union from their allegiance, and to cause rebellion and civil war within the Union;

"And whereas these efforts have so far succeeded that Lieut.-Col. Solomon Gerhardus Maritz, together with a number of officers and a portion of the forces under his command has shamefully and traitorously gone over to the enemy and is now in open rebellion against the Government and the people of the Union. and is, in conjunction with the forces of the enemy, invading a northern portion of the Cape Province;

"And whereas there is grave reason to think that the Government of German South-west Africa has, through its numerous spies and agents communicated with and corrupted also other citizens of the Union under the false and treacherous pretext of favoring the establishment of a republic in South Africa;

"And whereas the Government of the Union considers it necessary to take effective measures to protect and defend the interests of the Union and its loyal and law-abiding citizens against these insidous and treacherous attacks from within and without, and to that end has decided to declare martial law."

Continuing the proclamation declares that the whole Union of South Africa is under martial law as understood and administered in time of war, and dating as from to-day.

The proclamation is signed by Lord Buxton, Governor-General of the Union, and countersigned by General Smuts, Minister of Defence

The Union of South Africa was constituted by an act passed on Sept. 20th, 1909. Under the terms of the Act the self-governing colonies of the Cape of Good Hope, Natal, the Transvaal, and the Orange River Colony, became united in May, 1910, in a legislative union (similar to the Dominion of Canada) under one government under the name of the Union of South Africa.

A commando consists of an irregular body of mounted infantry numbering anywhere from 500 to 1,000 men.

The Allies Are On the Offensive Win Many Strategic Positions

PARIS, OCT. 13.—THE FOLLOWING OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT WAS GIVEN OUT IN PARIS TO-DAY:—

Allies' Cavalry Attack And Throw Back The Enemy

Washington, Oct. 13.—An official cablegram from Bordeaux to-day to the French Embassy stated that:

"Roye is still occupied by the Germans.

"The fourth corps of the German cavalry was thrown back to the north of Lys, toward Armentiers. Two other army corps were stopped between Lys and the Canal of La Basse.

"Before Lille, which is occupied by our troops, there are no Germans except in the region of Lille, Seclin (6 miles south-west of Lille) Gardin and Douai.

"On the night of October 11th we repulsed attacks on Bislee, four kilometres south-west of St. Mihiel."

This message is evidently of earlier date than this afternoon's official French statement, which says the enemy has occupied Lille.

The French Left Wing Has Been Very Heavily Reinforced

Paris, Oct. 13.—Gen. D'Amade, commanding the French left, has been sent reinforcements in the belief that the next big general conflict of the war will be staged on Belgian soil. The allied forces in this theatre of the war are said to be well situated. Cavalry encounters continue without cessation.

The rehabilitated French aeronautical division, is showing unusual activity in aerial patrol work in guarding against repetitions of the German bomb dropping over Paris the past two days.

All German Efforts Are Met

The efforts of the Germans who are fighting hard in an endeavour to effect a turninb movement to the north of the long battle line in France continue to hold the interest of the observers of the war. According to an official announcement, German cavalry some days ago had advanced in the west to as far as Cassel (27 miles to the north-west of Lille) These German forces now, however, are said to extend only to Hazebrouck (5 miles to the south of Cassel).

ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE AT GRAND LAST NIGHT

The Chamberlain Stock Co. last night presented a dramatic version of Chas. Dickens's famous novel, "Oliver Twist," to a fair sized house. While the play is not new to Peterborough it was presented in a manner entirely new. All the parts were costumed as described in the book and the special scenery used took one back to the Dickens's period. Mr. Chamberlain, in the role of Fagin, the criminal Jew, repeated his success of a year ago. Miss Millen, as Nancy, gave a loveable portrayal of one who is forced to steal because of her love for her husband. Frank Priestland, in the role of Bill Sykes, gave a splendid performance of the hot headed husband. Phrobe Marks as Oliver, and George Marks, as the "Artful Dodger" were both good. The other roles were in capable hands.

To-night the Chamberlain Stock Co. will play "The Death Chant," a drama of the South in the days of war. A story full of heart interest and dealing with the curse of the southland, that of mixing the white blood with the black. The subject is a most difficult one to handle, but in "The Death Chant," while told in a broad way, it is not offensive in any way.

Wall street relief committee is asking jobs for 500 idle clerks.

Washington is to raise a war tax on beer and whiskey and take it off gasoline.

THE PUBLIC ARE INVITED TO LECTURES ON POULTRY

A new and educative feature for our city was introduced at the Poultry Association Hall on Simcoe St., Friday evening, in the form of an illustrated lecture on the Poultry Industry.

The Association has made arrangements with the department of Agriculture at Ottawa, for a series of monthly lectures on all branches of the work in connection with the handling, housing, etc. of poultry. These lectures will be illustrated by lantern slides depicting the correct types of the various breeds, the newest and most approved methods of quickly maturing chickens for the market, and the best methods of killing, dressing and packing them. The ever interesting egg problem will also be strongly presented by a man from the Department at Ottawa.

That the enterprise of the local association will meet with approval is quite evident from the enthusiastic reception given the speaker last evening. The ladies are taking keen interest in the proposition, which augurs well for complete success.

The public at large are welcome to come to these lectures, the dates for which will be announced from time to time.

BOSTON WINS WORLD'S SERIES

The "Mack Machine" Receives Rude Jolt at the Hands of Stalling's Braves--Rudolph Star of the World's Series

Fenway Park, Boston, Oct. 13th. — Boston to-day won the world's series from Connie Mack's Athletics by grabbing their fourth straight victory from the last year champions. This is the first time in the history of the world's series that a competing team has won this premier position in the baseball world in four consecutive games.

There was little betting on the series before to-day's game, as the large majority of the fans said Boston was sure winner and no one wanted the short end. Wagers were made to-day at 10 to 9 that the Braves would capture the contest to-day.

Connie Mack caused a surprise by sending in Shawkey to pitch for the visitors, with Schang receiving. Geo. Stallings sent the reliable Dick Rudolph to do the twirling for locals, with Gowdy, the batting hero of the series, to catch.

Shawkey was replaced in the sixth by Pennock, after two runs had come across the pan, but the lead was too much, and the Braves pulled out with the large end of the score

ANTWERP SHELLS HIT ZEPPELIN; GOT HOME

London, Oct. 13.—The Evening Star's Antwerp correspondent, telegraphing by way of Amsterdam, says that eyewitnesses of the Zeppelin fights over Antwerp insist that they saw one such craft hit by shells from the forts and fall to the earth.

During the bombardment of Antwerp Thursday night it is estimated that shells fell at the rate of twenty a minute. Many civilians were killed.

In addition to this, the Law Courts and the Museum, which were damaged by shells, fire broke out at many points in the city.

To Make Hairs Vanish From Face, Neck or Arms

Keep a little powdered delatone handy and when hairy growths appear make a paste with some of the powder and a little water, then spread over hair surface. After 2 or three minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be entirely free from hair or blemish. This simple treatment is unfailing, but care should be exercised to be sure and get genuine delatone, otherwise you may be disappointed.

Remanded For Two Days

At yesterday's police court a local young man was charged with disorderly conduct, as was a young woman with whom he has been living. Chief Thompson remarked, "this man has been living on Brock st., where all the recent trouble took place over a disorderly house. We seem to close up one place and then another opens." Owing to the absence of his Counsel, Mr. O'Connell, the prisoner asked for a two days' remand. Granted.

BIG FISH CAUGHT THIS SEASON IN ONTARIO WATERS

The Bristol Steel Rod Fishing Competition for the largest fish taken in 1914 in Ontario waters, has brought forth many claims for the angler's championship honors. A beautiful fish weighing 28 pounds won premier place in the grey (lake) trout class. This was taken by Mr. Fred E. Ringwold, of New York, in the south west arm of Lake Timagami. Second place went to Mr. Frank J. Barber, Georgetown, Ont., with a 20 pound trout, caught in Ragged Lake, Algonquin Provincial (Ontario) Park, while the third prize was secured by Mr. Lawrence Brown, with a 17 pound trout from Buck Lake in Algonquin Park.

The largest entry of small mouth black bass was that of Mr. C. C. Fox of Kensington, Pa. This fish, weighing 4 pounds, 4 ounces, was caught in Rock Lake, Algonquin Park, on Sept. 3rd.

All the prize fish, it will be noted, were taken out of waters in the magnificent sporting districts opened up by the Grand Trunk Railway

HOW TO BANISH WRINKLES QUICKLY

If the average woman only knew it, it is not at all difficult to preserve the youthful contour and velvety smoothness of complexion. Every woman hates to see her face wrinkled or baggy, and practically every one has experimented with some sort of patent remedy in the effort either to remove such condition or ward it off.

As a matter of fact, the most effective remedy in the world is one that any woman can easily make up herself at home, in a moment's time. Let her take one ounce of powdered saxolite, which she can purchase at any drug store, and dissolve it in a half pint of witch hazel. Apply this harmless and refreshing solution to the face every day. The results are surprising—and instantaneous. Even after the very first application a marked improvement is apparent. The wrinkles are less in evidence and the face has a comfortable, snug feeling of firmness that is most delightful.

WASTE FROM DESKS GOES INTO BRUSHES

Remnants From One Factory Used as Raw Material For Another

Waste wood in the manufacture of school desks is used for the backs of cheap brushes. A large manufacturer of school desks in Michigan had a considerable amount of waste material in sizes which were too short to enter into the manufacture of the smallest desks, and could not be utilized further with his machinery or in his line of work. This material was all hard maple in pieces an inch thick, a foot or so long, and about three inches wide; for a long time it had been consigned to the waste pile and sold as firewood. This waste amounted to from 1,000 to 1,500 board feet each day. A nearby manufacturer was using practically this quantity of maple, which he was sawing up into small pieces for making the backs of cheap brushes. Members of the Forest Service, investigating methods of eliminating factory waste, conceived the idea that the blocks used by the brush factory could be readily secured from the waste of the school desk manufacturer, and on this basis an arrangement of mutual benefit was soon concluded. Arrangements were made so that the brush manufacturer now places orders with the other firm for its raw material and what was formerly waste is now a source of profit.

WOUNDED IN BATTLE

Bullets Mostly Strike Heads and Hands in Modern Fighting

Dr. O. Laurent, a surgeon who served as a volunteer during the Balkan War, rendered to the French Academy of Medicine a very interesting and instructive report concerning casualties in battle.

His statistics show that, in modern warfare, 82 to 84 per cent. of the wounds inflicted are caused by bullets, 15 to 17 per cent. by shrapnel, and 1 per cent. by cold steel. The penetrative force of shrapnel bullets is, he declares, very much less than that of rifle bullets—at all events, when the shrapnel bursts at some distance from the soldier; for, whereas shrapnel is often found embedded in clothing, rifle bullets never are. On the other hand, complications arise very much more frequently from shrapnel wounds than from rifle bullet wounds.

Dr. Laurent has observed that nowadays, since the soldier usually fires under cover, lying either prone or in a trench, a large majority of wounds are received in the skull and the hands, especially the left hand.

To combat this, he suggests the use of a light, resistant shield to protect the head, and that another shield should be fixed to the left hand or the rifle itself. A third might be placed in the region of the heart. Indeed, many British soldiers who fought in the Boer War owe their lives to the chance presence of a cigarette case or wad of papers in the left breast pocket.

THE BUSIEST STREETS THROUGHOUT THE WORLD

Inquiries were recently made in order to ascertain the amount of traffic passing through the principal thoroughfares of the capitals of the world, with a view to discovering which had the most congested traffic to deal with. The result goeos to show that the two busiest streets in the world are the Mansion House Corner, in the City of London, and the Place de l'Opéra, Paris; the former having the greater number of foot passengers and the latttr the larger share of vehicular traffic. Every week day 500,000 persons walk past the Mansion House, the number of vehicles being 50,000; compared with 450,000 pedestrians and 62,000 vehicles passinf through the Place de l'Opéra. After these most important thoroughfares comes the Broadway, New York, which is traversed by 480,000 foot passengers daily, although over 700,000 pass through in tram car or motor car. The next in importance is the Puerta del Sol (Gate of the Sun), Madrid, into which nine or ten great arteries of traffic discharge their streams, and which carries 360,000 people daily. Finally come the Friedrichstrasse Berlin, and the Vladimirski Prospekt, St. Petersburg, with 300,000, and the Graben, Vienna, with a daily average of 275,000 persons.

No Camel's Hair Brushes

It may sound rather strange, but it is nevertheless true that no brushes are ever made of camel's hair, yet they are asked for daily and sold as such.

There are very many kinds of hair used in the making of "camel's hair" brushes, such as bear, fox, rabbit, squirrel, etc., and, indeed, one authority states that over one hundred and fifty sorts of brushes are known as "camel's hair" brushes.

Real camel's hair is absolutely useless for making brushes, and resembles soft tow of a yellow-brownish color; the mane of a camel is the only part which could be used, and possibly a dozen brushes could be made from one mane.

As a matter of fact, there are only two specimens of brushes made from the actual hair of a camel in existence. The reason for the term "camel's hair" is the fact that a man named "Camel" was the first one to make these finer kinds of brushes, and they became generally known as "real camel's hair brushes."

CARRIER PIGEONS

Scientific Breeding of Birds Followed With Considerable Interest

The scientific breeding of carrier pigeons in France received a great impulse from their practical utility during the siege of Paris, and this industry has since been followed with much interest. While the siege was in progress, 363 carriers were sent out in balloons, of which 362 were liberated and 73 returned safely. They bore messages photographed microscopically on collodion, which were enclosed in goose quills attached to a silk thread to the upper part of the tail feathers. The success of these experiments led to the organistion in France of a military pigeon system. The minister of war maintains control over all the carrier pigeons in the country.

Careful attention is given to the feeding of birds destined for racers. Their usual diet is wheat, but as a contest approaches they are fed on small dried beans and maize, and are given water containing iron. Just before a race some amateurs give their birds beechnuts and buckwheat, which are believed to impart special strength for the flight. The training of the young birds begins when they are three or four months old. They are placed in a basket, taken a mile or so from home, and liberated. A few days later they are again transported, usually in the same direction, but twice as far and so on in successively longer stages, until they are able to fly homeward 100 miles or more. At the age of five months they can fly 300 or 350 miles in ten hours. They are not at their best, however, until the age of four or five years, when they can easily cover 600 or 700 miles. The average velocity of a good carrier is twenty-seven to thirty miles an hour, although an instance is on record where a bird attained a speed of seventy-five miles an hour. The average height in flying is 450 to 500 feet. The price of a carrier at Havre varies from $3.80 for an ordinary subject, to $250 or even more for a prize-winner in a race.

A NATURE TALK

How Ants Find Their Way to and From Nests

Not only naturalists, but everyone, who has watched ants has wondered how they find their way to and from their nests. A French naturalist, M. Cornetz, who watched ants in Algeria, tells the results of his observations. The ant, he says, in its outward journey, proceeds throughout in the direction initially chosen; on its return the insect places its body at the same angle, and walks in the opposite direction. The body of the ant would, therefore, act as a kind of compass needle. If an ant is caught at the nest and transported to a point some yards distant the insect is quite incapable of finding its way back. It runs around on the ground until it accidentally comes across the entrance to the burrow. The case is quite different if an ant is allowed to find its way to a distance unmolested. On leaving the nest it places itself in a certain direction, and holds the same, no matter what obstacles it may meet with en route, and not matter what side tracks it may occasionally strike in order to seize some article of food or of structural value fr its nest. The return is effected directly, rapidly, and without hesitation, even if the ground covered has been swept in order to change its nature. The return is obviously determined completely by the outward trip, and an ant which has left its nest on a voyage of exploration finds its way back just because it has made the outward journey.

Douglas Fir

Douglas fir is the chief timber species in British Columbia, and is third in importance in Canada, deriving its name from David Douglas, who discovered it in 1827 and introduced it into the gardens of Europe. Its adaptability and rapid rate of growth led to its being largely planted as a forest tree in Germany, France, Denmark and England, and the Indians in British Columbia sell immense quantities of seeds to European dealers every year. A Danish plantation at the age of 29 years produced 37 cords of wood, equal to an annual production of three cords per acre, which is about three times the growth-rate of white pine on average soil in Canada. The wood of Douglas fir is also considerably stronger than white pine, and is valued highly for construction purposes because of its size, strength and comparative lightness.

District of Patricia

In the 157,400 square miles added to northern Ontario there is very little timber of any present value. Mr. J. B. Tyrrell, reporting on his trip through this new district of Patricia, says: "Most of the timber was small and much of it has been burned. . . . Larch or 'tamarack' is associated with white and black spruce to the northern limit of the district, but unfortunately most of the trees are dead."

Strength of Hickory

Hickory is the strongest Canadian wood. When properly seasoned a hickory column will support a weight of twelve tons per square inch cross-section, which is considerably more than what could be borne by a pillar of cast iron or steel of the same length and weight.

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By LEONA DALRYMPLE

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

LEONA DALRYMPLE

IT hurt me more than I said to have Mary think so much of painting lessons and "At Home" days when she knew well enough that I could not afford it. It hurt me that she did not realize how steadily we were drifting behind in our domestic bookkeeping. The instalments on the new furniture were left unpaid—agents began to call with disconcerting frequency, and Mary was very much upset.

"He—he comes nearly every day," said Mary, "that furniture man. Oh, Peter, what will the neighbors say?"

"I don't care what the neighbors say," I admitted. "My chief thought is how to stop his visits in a wholly agreeable way."

"Can't you send him a check?"

"I'd like to," said I. "But a check's only good when it stands for something. I can't overdraw."

"I—I don't see why it is," said Mary tearfully.

I said nothing. Why waste words? Either Mary could not or would not understand that we were living extravagantly, that the fault was wholly hers, that she could put her shoulder to the wheel and help me economize.

"I—I don't understand financial things," she would insist when I tried to make her understand. "You know I don't, Peter. I never had to think of money at home."

"And that was a mighty bad beginning," I said pointedly.

"I don't think so," said Mary. "I don't see why women have to worry about that side. Their side is housekeeping."

"Housekeeping needs financial oil to keep the machine in order," I said.

I do not think Mary always means to be extravagant. Money slips from her fingers like rain drops from a puddle. She literally does not know where her money goes.

I gave her money for the furniture instalment—money that I saved with the most rigid economy—and it got away from her—she didn't know where.

We had a scene. I interviewed the furniture man and he refused to wait. We faced the disgrace of having our furniture taken away from us.

Mary did nothing but cry, and how in heaven's name can you reason with a crying woman. If you shoot logical facts at her when she's crying—she'll cry harder. If you shoot them when she stops crying—she'll cry again.

Mary uses her tears for a weapon. I know of no better one.

"There is only one way left," I said. "I'll ask father to go on my note at his bank."

I went to Dad and told him the facts, saving Mary as much as I could.

Dad looked grave.

"You're welcome to the money, son," he said, laying his hand on my shoulder, "but aren't you and Mary living pretty fashionably for your salary? You're travelling with a crowd that has more money—you're living up to every penny—aren't you?"

"Living one beyond the last penny," said I bitterly.

"And," said Dad, "notes are bad things. You've got to pay sooner or later, of course. It's merely postponing the day of reckoning."

I spoke of the furniture bill.

"Well, well," said Dad, "that's too bad. Let's clear up that furniture bill once for all. I'll give you a note for $250, Peter, and you'd better pay it in full."

I had only meant to ask Dad for $50—just sufficient to tide over one or two instalments. But two hundred and fifty I figured would put me safely on my feet. I thought hard for a minute and took it. Dad's eyes were very kind.

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

THE scientific housekeeper plans to so order her house during the hot weather that the work of cooking is reduced to a minimum. Electricity, gas, the fireless cooker have materially helped in the solution of the summer problem.

But in arranging household affairs so heat and work shall both be minimized, the housewife must not forget that there are certain food elements that must be incorporated in each meal, else the health and happiness of the family will suffer. Food must be selected that will furnish the needed heat and energy to accomplish the daily work of the individuals comprising the family, and supply the material for growth and repair. The work of feeding a family is not a haphazard task. There is accurately defined science in nutrition.

Perhaps there has been more progress in selecting food in the past 10 years than in the 20 previous years. And in no one way has this improvement been more marked than in the choice of the dessert which ends the dinner or luncheon.

The rich pastries and heavy puddings which once were every day factors in the average menu are practically forgotten by the modern cook. Fruits, ices, custards, lighter and more nutritious concoctions have superseded them.

Gelatine proves the foundation of so many delicious and useful desserts it has earned a well defined place in the consideration of the summer cook. It is sometimes overrated as nutriment, but it has many qualities of worth.

One ounce of gelatine will make one quart of jelly. The same rule of procedure in preparation obtains, no matter what kind of gelatine dessert is to be made. The gelatine is soaked in cold water, using half a cup of water to each ounce of gelatine until it is soft, and then dissolved in boiling water. The proportion of boiling water to be used depends upon what other liquid may be used in the flavoring.

Snow pudding is easily made and delicious.

The simplest rule calls for two tablespoonful of granulated gelatine soaked in two tablespoonfuls of cold water. Dissolve in half a cup of boiling water. Add one cup of sugar and a third of a cup of lemon juice. When the mixture begins to thicken as it is stirred, add the beaten whites of three eggs and beat with an egg beater until stiff enough to drop.

This may be molded in individual molds or in one form. It should be served with a custard sauce, made with a pint of scalded milk poured over the beaten yolks of three eggs and a third of a cup of sugar cooked two or three minutes in a double boiler. Add a pinch of salt to the milk and flavor with vanilla.

Neapolitan pudding is made as follows:

Soak half a box of gelatine in a cup of cold water and dissolve it in a pint of boiling water. Add the juices of a lemon and an orange, half a cup of sugar and pour it over a pint of preserved berries, strawberries or raspberries. When mixed, strain a portion of the clear juice into a separate dish, and when it begins to stiffen add the beaten whites of two eggs and beat as you would the snow pudding. Pour this over the other mixture, which should be allowed to harden in a mold. Whipped cream may be served, but is not essential.

Those who like the flavor of bananas should try banana cantaloupe.

Soak two tablespoonsful of gelatine in a quarter of a cup of cold water, and dissolve it in a cup of scalded cream. Add one cup of sugar, whites of three eggs, pulp of six bananas and a quarter-cup of lemon juice. As it thickens fold in a cup of whipped cream. Line a mold with lady fingers, add the mixture, chill and serve with whipped cream garnished with cherries.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

I have been going with a fellow over a year now. He has never told me he loved me, but has written to me telling me how much he cares, and he kisses me when he comes in and goes out.

But I have always distrusted him. I have thought he was not as true as he should be, and just lately I found out I was right. He goes to see another girl sometimes once a week. For two weeks he never went at all. When I told him I found out, he was awfully mad. He said he would do as he liked; it was time enough for me to tell him what to do when we were married. And then he wouldn't even be bossed by his wife. But I love him, and he says I should not distrust him so. If I loved him I wouldn't.

Do you think he is true? Would you believe in him? I think he loves me dearly—he is so good sometimes. Do you think he would go to see this girl knowing how much it hurts me? Please let me know soon.

SORROW.

WELL, little Sorrow, you have chosen your name with discretion. You will have nothing but sorrow if you stick to this man who has caused you so many tears. He is a selfish, cold-blooded brute, and he does not love you.

No man who loves a girl will treat her as you say this man treats you. Get rid of him—get rid of him now.

It won't be half so hard as you think. The world is full of nice, decent chaps who are just hungry for some nice girl to love them deeply and sincerely. Don't waste your love on such a worthless object.

Don't try to make him over, you might as well attempt to fashion a fine cloak for Sunday wear out of a worn, old potato sack. Let the man go to some one who will make him suffer as he makes you suffer now.

And some day, when you are married to the right man, at the right time, you will want to sing a song of thanksgiving every time you think what a narrow escape you had.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care of this office.

CHORUS GIRL TYPE IS CHANGING

FACE AND FIGURE GIVING WAY TO CLEVERNESS

By ELEANOR AMES

THERE are ever-changing styles in everything, clothes, jewels, motor cars, Chorus Girls. Especially in Chorus Girls. There is more difference between the Chorus Girl of today and her sister of ten years ago than there is between motor cars representing models of the same periods.

The old style Chorus Girl is nearly extinct. Her too golden hair, excessively pink cheeks, duskily shadowed eyes, pronounced curves, colorful gowns, gorgeous and flamboyant hats and scintillating jewels, exist only in memory.

In her place is a girl who might be just out of school, as she often is, or enjoying her first year in society, or earning her living in some of the arts or professions so open to well educated women.

The old style Chorus Girl was unmistakable. The new style Chorus Girl is natural. The old style girl emphasized her shape. The new girl cultivates her head.

Every little while some theatrical wiseacre, not actively in business, declares the girl has had her day, and must retire from the stage, until there is another change in the drama which will make her necessary. And, to refute such statement, some very busy manager puts on a show made up of girls. And such girls! Beautiful, clever, witty, wise, graceful, and NICE. For the Chorus Girl of today is more often NICE in the accepted meaning of the term than not.

She is just a sweet, sensible sort of girl, who has a lovely face and an attractive figure, who can dance and sing and wear clothes, and chooses the stage as the best place to have her talents appreciated. Frequently she has had a high school education. Often she has ambitions. She may want to be a leading lady, or a prima donna, and she knows that there are unexpected chances, and the best policy is to be ready to nab one, if it comes her way.

Some of the Chorus Girls who look the most stunning from the house go home after the performance and take care of the baby, and do the mending for Friend Husband.

The fact is that brains play a very important part in the career of the new type of girl. It is an everyday remark that some girl, who is asking for a chance, is "pretty enough and good figure, but she has no brains."

Speak her name as lightly as you please, and allot her a place in the froth of life, but the fact remains, when you know facts, that the Chorus Girl, in the modern play which needs her talents, has to have a lot of ability—has to be an all-round, clever, active and intelligent young person.

An inventory of one of the big Broadway successes this past season proved that one-third of the chorus girls were studying for some profession. One was taking a course in architecture. Another was studying dress designing. Several were working hard to cultivate their voices, and had dreams of going abroad to try for grand opera. Two were making a specialty of interior decorating, and one had several commissions for fitting up small apartments in an apartment hotel. Half of them were studying languages, French, German, Spanish and Italian.

The old style girl was conspicuous. The new type of girl is dignified and reserved and natural and spontaneous.

Neither one is perfect, as there is no perfection in this world, but if, when the old order changes, as change it will, it is always as much for the better as in the style of Chorus Girls, the world will not deteriorate.

Great Novels in a Nutshell

GEORGE ELIOT'S
"THE MILL ON THE FLOSS"

CONDENSED BY AUGUSTA SHELBY

CLOSE to the town of St. Oggs, where the Ripple flows into the Floss, stands Dorlcote Mill. On the green banks, by the never resting wheel, Maggie Tulliver loved to wait for Brother Tom, her hero and "big sweetheart."

Maggie was very lonesome when Tom went away to school, and she often went to visit him. There she met Philip Wakem, puny, white-faced and hunchbacked, and learned to like him. She did not love him, how could she, when she did not know what love was? But Philip loved Maggie with all his heart.

It had taken all their father's ready money to send Tom to this good school, and soon he became involved in a law suit that threatened to take even the mill away. Pivart, who had lands higher up the river, was taking water to irrigate them, and Mr. Tulliver went to law to stop him. Philip's father was Mr. Pivart's lawyer. Consequently, out of their fathers' quarrels there developed a keen antagonism between Tom and Philip.

It made Maggie doubly sad when her father commanded her not to see Philip again, or to speak to him when she went to tell Tom that he must leave school—for leave school Tom must. The blow had fallen on their father. The law suit had been decided against him, and he had lost Dorlcote Mill, the land and everything. Nothing was left.

That night, when Tom and Maggie got home, they found the sheriff in possession of the house, and there was a debt against my father, besides, for [illegible]. Tom bravely took the debt upon himself, and vowed to earn the money to clear his father's name. Against his will, Mr. Tulliver remained as Mr. Wakem's manager at the mill.

In the long months that followed Maggie sometimes met Philip on her walks through the lovely fields. He asked Maggie to marry him; she refused, and they parted, but Maggie had learned that she really loved Philip—and she told him so. It was only their father's quarrel that kept them from happiness.

In a few years Tom had paid his father's debt, but that was only the silver lining that lightened the black cloud that hung over the family. One day Mr. Tulliver met Mr. Wakem and they came to blows. Mr. Tulliver threw his rival from his horse, but the excitement ruptured his heart, and, in a few hours, he was dead.

Five years passed in Maggie's troubled life. She had grown into a beautiful girl. Philip still loved her, but worshipped from a distance, and then Stephen Guest came upon the scene. Guest was one of Philip's young employers, who now owned Dorlcote Mill, and was also an engaged man, but he fell in love with Maggie.

Maggie learned to love young Guest, but she would not marry him. She felt that his engagement kept them apart, equally with her promise to Philip. And yet Maggie and Stephen often met.

One day they went rowing on the Floss, and Stephen let the boat drift so far below the mill that they could not get home that night. He pleaded his love so ardently that Maggie listened, and, together they took ship to Scotland, to be married. But, when dawn came, Maggie declared she could never marry Stephen, and, despite his heart-broken pleadings, she left him, and returned to her own home.

It was a sad home coming. Tom would not let her return to his house, and so Maggie, under the blackest cloud a woman can know, took up her residence in a boarding house in the town. Though all the world turned against Maggie, her mother and Philip still remained true to their love for her. A few months of bitter suffering and penitence came to Maggie, and then the end of it all.

One night, in her bedroom, while reading a letter from Philip, she heard the sound of rushing waters. The Floss had broken its banks. An empty rowboat, crashing against the shutters, gave Maggie her chance of escape.

Climbing into the boat she pulled across the waste of waters to try and rescue her mother and her brother Tom. Her mother had gone away for the night, and so was safe, but Maggie got Tom into the boat. They were together once more.

Half-way to safety a vast mass of wreckage, that spanned the stream, closed in upon them and crushed their boat. In each other's arms forgiven and forgiving, Maggie and Tom disappeared under the yellow flood.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why You Rest the Best Sleeping on the Right Side

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

SLEEP has through the ages been one of the greatest mysteries of life. It has been sought by the worried, wooed by the wicked, studied by the scientists, encouraged by poisons, hypnotism and unnatural practices, and investigated by everybody.

Almost all investigators are agreed that rhythmic movements of the circulation and respiration are essential to sound sleep. Disturbed, restless slumber is indicated, if not often caused, by irregular breathing, palpitation and spasmodic muscular movements. Of the many physical misdemeanors liable to unsettle a sound sleeper, none is more frequent than turning on the "wrong side" or resting on the back. Children, until they are 12 or 14, are able with comfort to sleep on either side, but from 70 to 80 per cent. of their elders sleep best on their right sides.

Why is this so? How is it you are more refreshed and contented after seven or eight hours of oblivion on your right side, than an equal period of restlessness on your back or your left side? The answer is a complex one, and includes hypotheses as well as facts.

Except in some 10 or more per cent. of individuals, sleeping on the right side means rest on the divan-like, soft, billowy pad of muscles, always thicker on that side in right-handed people than on the back or left side. Sleep on the right side removes pressure on the diaphragm of nature's true liver pad; it obviates all interference with the stomach sadly filled with late hour rarebits from the gilded lobster palaces of the pale White Way, and of not the least moment is the remoteness of any obfuscation of the heart action—a not uncommon sense of discomfort to many persons when lying on the left side.

What a Snore Is.

A snore is nothing more nor less than a form of stertor or noisy breathing. As the rhythmical inspiration and expiration take place through the open mouth, snoring may be prevented by gluing a bit of sticking plaster or fly paper over the closed lips.

In snoring, the moving waves of air impinge upon the soft palate and the little finger of flesh called the uvula, connected with the roof of the mouth and cause the muscles to vibrate. This rate of tremulo vibration is sufficient to cause a snore.

To lie on the back is more or less conducive to snoring. The reason is not far to seek. When the body is relaxed and symmetrically placed, the soft tissues of the cheeks become, if possible, even more flabby than when you sleep on the side. The part played by the bellow-like cheeks in causing snores has been generally overlooked. To put it mildly and modestly, I believe I am the first observer to call attention to the important role taken by the cheeks in snoring.

Any one who has witnessed as many instances of stenterous breathing, and the accompanying blowing in and out of the paralyzed cheek in cases of apoplexy as I have, cannot but conclude that snores are caused as much by the relaxed cheek muscles as by other factors. True enough, any sort of nasal obstruction such as adenoids, thickened bones and membranes, overinfected tonsils and such abnormalities, all tend to incite the bugle calls of the wee sma' hours. But the intrinsic cause of the snore is, nevertheless, a complete relaxation of the cheeks, glottis, uvula and soft palate.

How to Cure Snoring.

Now, though a man may be immunized against most diseases, by the proper methods of health building, and an insomniac may by physical exercises be made to sleep, what can be done to prevent snoring? Well, much may be done. The solution can be read from the explanation of its cause. If lack of muscular tone has as much to do with snoring as other causes, such as resting upon the back, a cure may be effected by the simple procedure of neutralizing the one cause and removing the other. Thus by certain muscular gymnastics, such as blowing exercises, slapping the cheeks, rolling large marbles or licorice candies in the mouth, gargling and vocal training, the soft parts of the mouth become greatly raised in tonicity. Thus there is little chance for snoring, even though the mouth remains open.

What Back Sleeping Is.

Too much cannot be said in praise of breathing movements or physical culture gymnastics that cause deep respirations. Complete oxidation of the blood means proper tension in the muscles. Lots of breathing space in the nose and throat preclude the gaping-jaw habit. Close your mouth and lengthen your life, as well as save your neighbor's peace of mind.

Sleep is a defensive mechanism for the conservation of bodily resources. Reciprocally, automatically and vicariously, the poisons that accumulate in the tissues during waking hours produce in the living cells certain antagonistic juices or anti-fatigue toxins which lull to repose while destroying, like Mrs. Shelley's Frankenstein, the very things that created them.

As for back sleeping, it is not much better than backbiting, and backsliding. Strengthening the good right arm, the mighty biceps, the hamstrings, and the Olympic right side will soon rid your relatively sensitive back from being the body's goat. If it does not, smear a bit of mustard on it a few nights, and I'll wager a can of sardines you will have no more sleeping on your back.

Some doctors recommend that some hard substance be fastened at the small of the back—for instance, say a towel with a large knot tied so as to be in the middle of the back when one turns over, or some similar device will have a tendency to prevent sleeping on the back. There is a story of a young man who fastened his good mother's biscuit cutter to his back, by means of a towel placed around his waist, and no further reports were received from him.

The Good Night Story

The Empty Boat—By VERNON MERRY

IN the very long ago, when Evil still appeared upon the earth in person, a rich man went up to his treasury and, as he closed the door, something knocked, not on the door, but upon his heart. A voice spoke: "Have you been good to the poor; have you fed the hungry? Or are you content with your life and want more gold?"

The rich man had no time to answer, for there came another knock, this time on the door. He shouted, "Come in," and there stood a poor neighbor, who had come to him as a last and hopeless resort. All of the poor man's family were starving and he pleaded with the rich man to lend him four quarts of corn. The rich man refused to lend, but offered to give him eight quarts if he would promise to spend three nights beside his grave, when he was dead. The poor man did not like this, but he had to have the corn, so he promised.

The very next day the rich man died and was buried. The poor man found it hard for him to go and spend the night beside the rich man's grave, but he had promised and so he went. He spent that night without anything happening, and the second night passed in the same quiet way.

The third night, as he was sitting there by the rich man's grave, a soldier came into the graveyard. He frightened the poor man at first, but, when he had told the soldier why he was watching there, the soldier agreed to keep him company. Everything passed safely until the church clock boomed the stroke of twelve, and then there came a rushing through the grass.

The poor man and the soldier looked up and there stood the Evil One himself. "Get off that grave," he ordered, "I have come for my friend the hard-hearted rich man."

But the comrades would not rise. Whereupon the Evil One offered them a purse of gold, but they refused. At last the soldier agreed to get up if he was given enough gold to fill his boot. The Evil One agreed, but, not having enough gold with him, went away to get it. Then the soldier cut off the sole of his boot and hung the boot on a grave with the foot in the grass.

When the Evil One came back he poured the gold into the boot, but it did not fill it: he had to go back for more. But the more he put in the less full seemed that boot—all the gold fell through into the grass. At last the Evil One grew tired and threatened them with bodily injury, but, just as he was about to strike, the first faint rays of dawn appeared in the sky and he was forced to fly back whence he came.

Whereupon the poor man and the soldier took the gold from out the grass and divided it into two equal parts. Half they gave to the poor. Upon the remainder they lived together in happiness all the rest of their lives

NEW BRITISH GUN DISCOUNTS ALL OTHERS

London, Oct. 10.—Within a week or so the British navy will receive a considerable accession to its strength by the delivery of two new battleships—the Queen Elizabeth and the Warspite. They will be the first to carry the new 15-inch gun which is without a doubt the world's deadliest weapon. As the first lord of the Admiralty recently pointed out, it is the best gun we have ever had. It reproduces on a larger scale all the virtues of the 13.5-in. gun. Its power may be measured by the fact that, whereas the 13.5 in. gun hurls a 1400 pound projectile the new gun discharges a projectile a ton in weight (2000 pounds) and can hurl this immense mass of metal twelve miles.

The high explosive charge which the 15-in. gun can carry through and get inside the thickest armor afloat, is very nearly as large again in the 15-in. gun as was the charge in the 13.5 inch.

As stated the Queen Elizabeth and the Warspite will be the first vessels to carry this new gun, but already we have in our firing line thirteen ships mounting the 13.5-in. gun, which is without its equal in any of the navies of the world. Germany, in fact, has no ship carrying a heavier weapon than a 12-in. gun, which ceased to be our primary battle armament in 1909.

Last week Mr. James McDonald, of Lakefield, dug up a potato weighing one and three quarter pounds. Some spud, that!

DUCHESS' TALE OF WAR HORROR STIRS MOTHER

Newport, October 10.—Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, at Marble House, has received a number of letters from her daughter, the Duchess of Marlborough who has engaged in Red Cross work in the hospitals of London with the sick and wounded troops of England and Belgium. One of these, a distressing letter, has caused Mrs. Belmont to start a fund for the distressed relatives, wives and children of the wounded Belgian troops, as England has much to do for her own wounded and their families, although England is caring, says the Duchess, for Belgian reservists' families and their wounded.

An American View

An American exchange says "Wherever one's prejudices may lie as between the Kaiser and the allies, surely one's sympathies must be with the Belgians, now more than ever, as, after a brilliant defense, they are driven from their great commercial city before the guns of the invaders of their land.

However the tide of battle finally goes between the principals, Belgium has fairly earned her little place in the sun.

That she should spurn now as at the beginning a peace at the cost of honor, that not even the enormous loss of property and the tremendous sacrifice of life she has suffered should make her waver in her determination not to yield until human resistance is impossible presents to the world an inspiring lesson of patriotism seldom parallelled in its history.

If the allies win, full recognition of her sacrifices goes without saying.

If they lose, Germany could do nothing that would go farther in winning the good opinion of the world than to assure Belgium the independence she has earned by the sublime example of moral and physical courage."

We appreciate the above expressions of sympathy for the Belgians from our American contemporary. There is but one thing wrong with the article, and that is the little word "if," in reference to who will win out in the present war. There is no question as to the eventual results of the struggle. Germany has already drawn upon her last line of defence, while her three powerful opponents— especially Britain and Russia — are only so far using but the nucleus of their tremendous resources in men, wealth and armament. Germany never had any hope of success but in quickly subduing France, and in that she has been so grieviously disappointed as to bring into popularity that British song sarcasm so cuttingly applied to Germany's hopes, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary."

Sciatica Vanishes Instantly If Nerviline Is Used

CAN YOU BEAT THIS CASE?

No ordinary liniment will even relieve Sciatica. Nothing but the most powerful kind of a remedy can penetrate through the tissues and finally reach the Sciatic Nerve. You can always depend on the old-time "Nerviline." Nothing made to-day is as good for Sciatica as Nerviline was when first produced, about forty years ago. All this time the same old "Nerviline" has been curing Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism and is considered to be without an equal in relieving pain or soreness anywhere. "'Nerviline' couldn't be made stronger or better," writes James E. Edwards. "The way it cures Sciatica is to me simply a miracle. For years I suffered frightfully. I ruined my stomach with internal dosing. I rubbed in gallons of oils and liniments - none were strong enough. One good rubbing with Nerviline relieved. I kept on rubbing and shortly was cured. My fathers cured rheumatism in his right arm and shoulder with Nerviline, and my mother cured herself of chronic lumbago with Nerviline. Our family simply swears by Nerviline and we are never without a 50c family size bottle in our home. We find that for external pain, for coughs, colds, earache, such minor ills it is a veritable family physician."

Where the Fate of the Colonies Will be Decided

The fate of the German colonies will not be decided on the Pacific or in Africa, but on the European battlefields is the assertion of Dr. W. S. Solf, German Secretary of State for Colonies and one-time Governor of German Somoa. Germany fears England's sea power is another statement by the same authority. His argument really means the victory in isolated territories must be only a temporary advantage if defeat is the result where the mighty armaments, sea and land, are congregated.

The German colonial secretary is not alone as an advocate of such a view; with him are the British Government and the Canadian Government, while opposed to this view is only Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his shattered following in Canada. Victory for Britain in Europe places the German colonies at the mercy of Britain; but a triumphant Germany would soon regain any lost possessions, and in addition take from the Empire what is desired. Canada's future is being decided in the North Sea.

It was for this reason that an all-powerful Imperial navy was known to be a necessity for the Empire's preservation, and any menace to Britain's naval supremacy in Europe was an even greater menace to the Dominion's British connection than if they had been directly attacked. Colonial navies could of themselves be but commerce protectors, and only even that while the Imperial navy maintained its supremacy. Loss of the Imperial naval supremacy and the necessarily minor colonial navies would be swept aside as easily as "a scrap of paper" was in Europe two months ago.

It is for such reasons that the German colonial secretary says that the fate of the colonies will be decided on the battlefields of Europe. It is for the same reasons that the British Admiralty and the Canadian Government earnestly desired, two years ago, the immediate strengthening of the British navy at once, to be followed when any danger to its supremacy was removed by commerce protectors designed and maintained by the several dominions. New Zealand listened to the urgent call and is represented where the fate of the colonies will be decided, but, unfortunately, the desire of Canada to do likewise was thwarted.

The "Naval and Military Record" publishes an interesting calculation showing that would have been the cost of Great Britain had prices risen owing to any failure of the British navy to control the enemy's fleet. The average expenditure per week per head is reckoned at $2 and the probable rise at $1, which is thought a moderate estimate. With a population of 45,010,000, the increase would represent an extra expenditure for food, manufactured goods and clothing of $60,000,000 a week. Therefore, the navy has saved the nation about $420,000,000. The navy has saved to mount, and saved, in addition, Canada a proportionate am thousands of our producers from bankruptcy. The saving to this country in the nine weeks of the war is estimated at $72,000,000. Defeat of the British navy would mean the farmers would see their products deteriorate or waste without a market; our fishermen would be kept from the seas; our miners and lumbermen would have to cease operations, and our manufacturers would be bankrupt; artisans and labourers would be able, and the whole commercial structure of the country disastrously disorganized.

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Company re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs — all young foxes— good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leaving $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:— 'We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised.' And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalize your concern at $60,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

Below are the particulars of sale of a consignment of Silver Fox Furs, shipped from Prince Edward Island ranches to London, England, and sold there in March, 1910:

SHARES

Shares are selling at $25.00 each, 25 per cent. with application and the balance on or before September 1st, 1914.

Simply fill out the application form and mail to Major C. McKinnon, Secretary-Treasurer, Glenaladale, P. E. I.

All cheques must be made payable to "The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Ltd."

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you.

We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business— and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

POLICE COURT NEWS

At yesterday's police court John McFarlane paid $10 for being under the influence of liquor whilst on the blaklist. He said he got his liquor in an East ward liquor store.

Must Celebrate Holidays

At yesterday's police court Stephen Soorby, an Italian, was fined $3 for having celebrated Thanksgiving Day too freely. His fine, with costs, totalled $5.75. Alexander Rose was charged with having been drunk. He answered 'Wait until you have evidence.' P. C. Blade said Rose was drunk. Rose replied: 'I can't let a holiday go by without having a few drinks. I wish the hotels would not let me in.' Edward Parks was up on a similar charge. Adjt. McIlhinney spoke on behalf of Parks and the defendant was let go. Leo Holland was charged with disorderly conduct. According to the evidence of Chief Thompson the defendant, with others, went into the Ideal pool room and tried to "put it on the rough." W. Fallon was charged with being under the influence of liquor whilst on the black list. P. C. Blade said he smelled liquor on the prisoner. Detective Newhall said there was no doubt that the defendant had been using liquor, as did Detective Meagher. Fallon was fined $10.00. Holland was fined, with costs, $5.75

Wrestler Exonerated

At yesterday's police court a young man was fined $5.75 for creating a disturbance by starting a fight with Alf. Hardy, the English wrestler. It seems that defendant charged Hardy, who hails from England and has the English accent about as broad as the Atlantic, with being a German. Hardy tried to keep out of trouble but claims that defendant attacked him. When asked "Did defendant hit you?" Hardy replied, "No, your honor," he tried to but only hit the wall."

GIRLS! THICKEN AND BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

HEARING IS RESTORED TO DEAF

Thousands of people suffer from catarrhal deafness or poor hearing, who having tried specialists, advertised treatments, artificial ear drums, ear phones, electric vibrators and various mechanical appliances without success have at last resigned themselves to a "world of silence" thinking that nothing can ever restore to them their normal hearing. Yet their case is not hopeless. A remarkable scientific treatment discovered a little more than a year ago in England is making people hear after years of deafness and is also unequalled for quickly stopping the distressing head noises that are so often the companions of defective hearing. This discovery is called Parmint and has attracted widespread notice throughout Europe where reports of the remarkable results it has given to deaf people have come in by the hundred.

The effect of Parmint it seems is by tonic action to produce a stimulous necessary to reduce all inflammation, swelling, enlargement or thickening of the organs of hearing and to stimulate the entire auditory tract.

Parmint is now being sold by many leading druggists in Peterborough and vicinity and a speedy trial is urged upon all who suffer from catarrhal deafness or headnoises in any degree. Ask the druggist for 1 oz. of Parmint (Double Strength) and take it home and mix with ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz of granulated sugar until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day and you should soon find a remarkable improvement in your hearing.

An Appeal to the Intelligent Investor!

Does a logical presentation of a good investment interest you? Do you believe there is an oil in commercial quantities in Alberta? If you are alive to the situation you do. Then it will pay you to investigate our proposition and our holdings.

Please Read Carefully and Note!

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascertained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. Dunn chose wisely in the selection of the now famous Monarch well. WINDSOR OILFIELDS, LIMITED, has holdings located close to the Monarch.

THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). If a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

Our holdings consist of 1880 acres, carefully selected and judiciously spread over the entire oil field.

The Humble Onion

Many unsuspected virtues reside in the humble onion. To ease neuralgic or rheumatic pains there is nothing better than an onion poultice. Very few people know that. As a remedy for sleeplessness, try the effect of eating a Spanish onion before retiring. A few leaves of parsley steeped in vinegar and eaten afterwards will prevent any disagreeable taste or smell.

Scorched linen can be restored by squeezing the juice of an onion on thue marks. The smell of paint can be removed if a saucerful of sliced onion is placed in the room overnight.

For a wasp sting there is no better remedy than the juice of an onion. The onion is an excellent blood purifier, and its continued use makes the complexion peculiarly smooth.

A sliced onion placed in a sick room on a sheet of paper will absorb infectious odors. Burn, and renew daily. Flies will not disfigure gilt picture frames or mantels if the latter are washed in onion water.

Testing Cigars

A well known cigar expert dispels some popular misconceptions anent the fragrant weed. He alludes to the belief that the whiter the ash and the longer it holds on, the better the cigar. This is quite wrong, he points out. The length of the ash depends on the size of the pieces used in the filler, and a clear steel-grey ash denotes the best Havana. Then, again, nearly every man will reject a spotted cigar, but the spots mean absolutely nothing as regards quality. Most men think they can tell a cigar by squeezing it or smelling. Neither test is the slightest good. And every smoker believes that color denotes strength—that a dark wrapper denotes a strong cigar, a light one a mild cigar. The color has nothing whatever to do with the strength. As a matter of fact, for the average smoker there are practically no outward indications of the quality of a cigar. The only test for the non-expert is in smoking it.

Prescription by Wireless

How a ship's doctor prescribed by wireless for the sick captain of another ship was told on the arrival of the liner "Orduna" at Liverpool. Just before the vessel entered the Straits of Magellan a wireless message was received from the British steamer "Brodstone" saying that the master was ill, and asking the doctor of the "Orduna" to prescribe for him. Dr. Aylward first asked five questions, which were put and answered in twenty minutes. The doctor then prescribed for the patient, who was at least 100 miles away.

A BORN GOLFER

Francis Ouimet, who at the age of twenty won what practically amounts to the golf championship of the world, has been a golf enthusiast since he was six years old, when he would sit for hours watching the members of a club near his home playing. When only a little older, his mother was unable to prevent him becoming a caddy. He always tried to caddy for those whom he considered the best players. He used to copy them, and soon began to play himself.

Then he had to go to school, but his mother says that his heart was really in golf and nothing else. When he used to come home from school in the evenings, and after he had gone to bed, his mother used to wonder what was the cause of the noises that came from his bed room.

One night she went up to find out, and found him practising putting!

MARKINGS ON MARS

Do These Indicate Land and Water, Snow and Ice?

There is no doubt that the main features of Mars are to be regarded as well established and some astronomers have given names to all the prominent objects. The markings on the surface of the planet are of two kinds. Some of them are iron-gray in color verging on green and the others are generally dark yellow or orange, sometimes verging on white. It seems natural to think that the former represent the oceans and the latter the continental masses of Mars.

It had been noted by early observers that each of the poles of Mars was made conspicuous by a white spot. To William Herschel we are indebted for the first systematic study of these extraordinary polar caps. He discovered that these arctic tracts on Mars vary both in extent and distinctness with the seasons of the hemisphere on which they are situated, attaining a maximum development from three to six months after the winter solstice on that planet and then shrinking until they are smallest about three to six months after the summer solstice. This paralleling of the behavior of the snow and ice which surround the earth's poles is remarkable and there is scarcely any question but that the white polar spots of Mars are about like ours.

Mars having a year of 687 days, the seasons on that planet are also like the year, much longer than ours. In Mars' northern hemisphere the summer lasts for 381 days and the winter must be 306 days. During the summer time the polar cap at the north diminishes from its winter diameter of 50 degrees to about five degrees, while the south polar cap, being placed to one side of the exact pole, appears to be quite free from ice and snow once a year.—Toronto World.

"Bone-head" Column in Box Scores

"I believe," says Secretary John Heydler, of the National League, "that the day is not far distant when we will see a new column in the box score to record the errors of judgment made by ballplayers. Errors of judgment are frequent, and they have far more importance on the outcome of games than the ordinary mechanical errors a player makes. It seems to me that more attention is being given to scoring each year, and the recording of errors of judgment will follow before many more seasons."

The Homing Instinct

The story of an Airedale terrier that tramped back home 125 miles is only one of many such instances. It did the journey in twenty days. Another dog was taken a hundred miles by train, and arrived back home in three weeks. A fox terrier was taken a distance of 180 miles, but within a few days it found its way to its old home.

A farmer took a horse from an island to the mainland three miles by boat, worked it all day, and let it loose. The next morning he was surprised to find the horse grazing near his stable, though still very wet.

A tame pigeon used to accompany a boy to school, a distance of one and a half miles, remain during lessons, and return with the boy.

A grey cat was taken by train over sixty miles, and yet returned home in a few days; one walked a distance less than 283½ miles in four weeks.

Wireless Waves and Birds

Observations made in sections of world where there are many wireless stations indicate that birds are disturbed in a singular way by the wireless waves. It is stated that gulls are particularly the principal sufferers, but that also large numbers of doves are in some way prevented from finding their way home when there are wireless stations in the line of flight. This strange phenomenon is attributed to some effect of the ether waves not yet understood.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

As light as lager, but better for you.

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles.

Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, Gold Dust will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

"Clotted Sunshine" of the Ancients is Merely Fossilized Gum

Scientists have said that the high value placed on gold is purely a hereditary instinct, coming down to our present enlightened generation from our sun-worshipping ancestors, who saw, in its color, some kinship with the life-giving "orb of gold" above their heads. The same explanation has been given for the esteem in which amber has always been held—"clots of sunshine," the glowing globules have been called. Whether because it was "sun-stuff" or simply because it was pretty, the fact remains that in all ages amber has been coveted by the ladies for their adornment, and has ranked as a gem from the stone age to the present day.

Great mystery the ancients made of its origin, appearing as it did mysteriously and by chance on the shores of many seas, but amber is now known to be the resinous gum of prehistoric trees fossilized in certain strata of the earth's crust, and here and there laid bare by the gnawing of the ocean currents, to be rolled up in rounded pebbles or nuggets on the nearest strand.

Amber has been found on all the coasts of Europe, and sometimes in inland lakes and springs, or in the shafts of coal mines. The so-called amber of Burma and other parts of the East seems to be rather a non-fossil gum similar to the copal which is used in making varnish. It seems probable that all the genuine amber is directly or indirectly of European origin. The chief deposits of amber are on the shores of the Baltic near Konigsberg, the only place in the world where the collecting and mining of the precious fossil is an organized industry. From these shores the Greeks and Romans obtained their chief supply, and here it is to-day worked into pipe mouthpieces, or ground up to serve as a basis for varnish. Another use of the powdered amber is in Oriental temples, where it is burned by Mohammedans and by Buddhists as an incense.

It is as a gem, however, that amber is most attractive; and here the pale yellow product of the north is surpassed by the many-hued nuggets which the streams and shores of Sicily yield. Not only does yellow deepen into orange and orange into a dark rust-red—it even occurs in greens and mellow blues, and is rendered more lovely by the fluorescence of its surface, causing a shifting play of colors with every change of light. Such treasures, however, are rare, and when found compete not unequally with diamonds in value. The surface of cut amber dries and darkens with age, adding variety to the hues obtainable. A wide variety of objects has been found embedded in amber and much interesting knowledge of early insect life has been obtained by geologists from the specimens thus immortalized—a form of immortality which has also provided a favorite theme for the poets.

Protecting Iron With Paint

Some experiments recently carried out indicate that a single coat of paint gives iron greater protection from rusting than several coats. Different samples of iron were painted with one, two, three and four coats, respectively, and after a certain time it appeared that the iron under four coats was completely covered with rust, that under three coats was less affected, that under two coats was partly rusted, but the iron under one coat was free from rust. The theory suggested is that increase in the number of coats gives more corroding electric currents at the surface of the metal.—Canadian Engineer.

INDUSTRIOUS SETTLERS

Doukhobors, Though Sometimes Troublesome, Have Done Well

The Doukhobors, in their comparatively few years of residence in Canada, have prospered amazingly. In the Kootenay valley, near Nelson, and in the Kittle valley, near Grand Forks, the society owns 14,000 acres of the richest fruit land in the world. One of the largest brick-making plants in Canada is that founded by the Doukhobors at Yorkton. Since their immigration from Manitoba to British Columbia they have increased their landholdings, and, notwithstanding their primitive way of living, they make very successful farmers.

The Doukhobors—the name means "led by the spirit"—originated in Russia about 200 years ago. Because they denied man's right to rule man, they were exiled to the Arctic regions. That was the first of many painful pilgrimages. The English Quakers befriended the exiles and in 1899 had the entire sect, 7,500 souls, transported to Canada, where they were offered freedom to practice their religion in their own way. They made rapid progress both as farmers and artisans.

PETER VERIGIN
King of the Doukhobors

There are no idlers in a Doukhobor family, nor a Doukhobor community. Their clothing is characteristic of the sect. The women wear gorgeous colors and fantastic, broad-skirted gowns. The men wear patriarchial blue coats, with flaring pleated skirts. Their are 11,000 Doukhobors in Canada, their leader being Peter Verigin, a former Siberian exile.

THE ESKIMO'S CRUISER

Whole Family and All Possessions Carried in Big Oomiak

The oomiak may be described as the "family boat" of the Eskimo. It is used by the men in whale and walrus hunting and by the whole family during their annual summer trips, which they make to gather the winter store of fish and berries. Then it presents a spectacle not soon forgotten. Crowded to the gunwales with a mixed assortment of men, women, children and dogs together with piles of provisions and hides and all the impediments of camping, it moves slowly along. A sail of white and colored drilling, sewn in alternate strips, or even of patched skins, assists the laboring vessels through the water. Some of the occupants paddle when they feel like it, others scan the shore or watch the water rippling from the stern. If progress is too slow even for the Eskimo the dogs are put ashore, a stout line of walrus hide is attached to the bow, and they tow the boat along. Such parties are away all summer, or, rather, during the three months' interval which is not winter—a brief, beautiful season of unending delight.

Fish Worth Catching

What was said to be the largest sturgeon ever caught in the district was taken in a pound net at Old Woman Harbor, six miles from Little Current, Ont., by John Lapointe. From tip of tail to end of nose it measured 7 feet 8 inches. Its circumference behind the fins or flappers was 2 feet 8 inches; its weight 274 pounds. The value of the fish, which was shipped to the New York market was slightly over $200, it containing 51 pounds of caviare, worth $3.75 a pound.

CLEVER WORKMANSHIP

Aged Goderich Man Made Pistol From Odd Scraps of Metal

A rare example of skill, patience, and perseverance is found in a remarkable piece of handicraft by Mr. William McArthur of Goderich, Ontario.

Mr. McArthur filed and fitted without the aid of any machinery a pistol that is the admiration of everyone who sees it. But when one learns from what a miscellaneous assortment of oddities the weapon was made, one can be excused for doubting at first that such an intricate work could be performed by hand.

From a sewing machine shaft the firing barrel was filed; a rat-tail file changed its shape to a firing bolt; a flat file became the trigger; a tuning fork was utilized for the barrel-brake, while a piece of copper steam pipe was cut and fitted for the stock sides.

Nine years ago the pistol first took shape in the mind of the old gentleman, now well over the allotted span of life, and many a dreary winter night was spent filing and shaping the manifold parts that each might fit its proper place with exactness.

What is a Pullet?

There seems to be a hazy notion among some farmers as to the exact meaning of the terms used to describe young and old stock. A pullet, strictly speaking, is a female under one year old. A "large rooster" means a plump, soft chicken of four or five pounds' weight. The broiler weight in March is one and one-quarter pounds each; in April, one and one-half pounds; in May, one and one-quarter pounds to two pounds. Old cock birds have a special classification, and do not come under the head of "large roasting" fowls.

WHEAT CONSUMPTION

The Average Canadian Leads the World in This Regard

The consumption of wheat has been estimated for various countries, with results as given in the accompanying tabulation. The estimates are based upon the average production for ten years, exports or imports of wheat, including wheat flour reduced to wheat equivalent and exclusive of that used for seed. Canada is easily in the lead, an average Canadian using nine times as much wheat as a Jap in his native country. The figures in bushels are.

GOOD ROADS

Always an Inducement to Clean up the Neighborhood

Given a good highway, the farmer sets to work to rebuild tumble-down fences, to clean out ditches, to get a new coat and hat, to shave a little oftener, to carry himself straighter, and to take more pride in his house and wife and horse. Presently he is worrying about the appearance of his farm. For the first time he notices that the old home looks run down and painfully like a shack. Nothing will suit him but to change to better quarters before the year is out. Meantime a grand-new coat of paint won't be amiss, for he is now somewhat ashamed of the home which he had built with his own hands. Everybody in the neighborhood catches the improvement fever. Neighbors set to work making their collective surroundings better. The schoolhouse is the first thing that comes in for general attention. The church no longer looks so aloof in its spotlessness. In short, the good road has reformed the man, reformed the housewife, transformed the children. It has made better husbands and wives and citizens; it has cleaned out the stables and the ballot, and changed the ways of living and thinking and dealing; it has put more money into the farmer's pocket, and more pride of the genuine sort into his heart. It has been a preacher and a lecturer. It has fitted the neighborhood for citizenship, and paved the way for the world to follow. In a word, it has regenerated the community.—Thomas W. Wilby, in "A Motor Tour Through Canada."

HOW GERMANS REGARD IMPORTED GOODS

These ten commandments, an instructive circular which has been distributed throughout Germany by the Chambers of Commerce, were read in London at a meeting of British manufacturers:

1. In all expenses, keep in mind the interests of your own compatriots.
2. Never forget that when you buy foreign articles your own country is poorer.
3. Your money should profit no one but the Germans.
4. Never profane German factories by using foreign machinery.
5. Never allow foreign eatables to be served at your table.
6. Write on German paper, with a German pen, and use German blotting paper.
7. Use German flour, eat German fruit, and drink German beer. You alone give your body the true German energy.
8. If you do not like German malt coffee, drink coffee from the German colonies.
9. Use only German clothes for your dress and German hats for your head.
10. Let no foreign flattery distract you from these precepts, and be firmly convinced that whatever others may say, German products are the only ones worthy of the citizens of the German Fatherland.

Poisoned By Toadstools

Harvey William Dolly, the 3 year old son of Mr. John Dolly, Hamilton township, died on Monday. About two weeks ago he picked up a road stool, and child like, put it in his mouth and sucked it. He was poisoned from the weed, and despite all that could be done for him, he passed away.—Lindsay Post.

A Local Hint

No person shall on the Lord's Day hunt, take, kill or destroy any game, or use any gun or other engine for that purpose. This clause from the game laws is printed as a warning for some parties who seem to need more than six days a week to do their shooting. Further breaking of this law will result in prosecution.

Send Them Here

Throughout this section there is a tremendous quantity of apples for which there appears to be no sale. Some months ago buyers went through and purchased the fruit, but since the outbreak of the war many of the orders have been cancelled. We know of at least one case in Tiny Township where a farmer has 2,000 barrels left upon his hands with no prospects of sale.—Midland Argus.

Berries in October

Mr. G. A. Foy, the Hunter Street Shoe repairer had in his window yesterday a bunch of raspberry bushes carrying ripe berries. These berries were gathered in North Monaghan, and if the frost keeps off there is every indication of a second crop in that locality. The above mentioned berries grew on "wild" bushes, not in a garden.

The Gentlemen's Pool Room

Yesterday the last word in billiard circles was opened by Mr. M. Pappas above the Royal Theatre on George st. Here, on the second and third floors are nine pool and one English billiard tables, made by the Brunswick-Baulke Co., of latest design. Mr. Pappas has here one of the most completely equipped billiard rooms in the province.

A Disappointing Meeting

That the people of Lindsay are patriotic and loyal to the Motherland and to their own home land cannot be denied, but yet the citizens showed the callous spirit last night when only a small handful gathered at the public meeting, which was called for the purpose of talking matters over. However, a start was made, with the appointment of a large committee of gentlemen who will meet again on Wednesday night of next week for the purpose of extending organization.—Lindsay Warder.

John Hutchinson and Jos. Barnard.

For the War Fund

The Women's War Fund knitting committee will resume knitting in preparation for the second contingent, and all ladies willing to help are invited to meet in the recreation room at the armouries at two o'clock this afternoon. Wool will be provided. It is also requested that ladies to whom knitting needles were loaned will be good enough to return them for this meeting.

A Lindsay Mix-up

To fight or not to fight, that is the question. If one walks away he may be branded as a coward, and if one participates in a mill it means a heavy fine. What is a fellow to do under such circumstances? By paying your money you have your choice. This is exactly how the young fellows felt who were the chief actors in a drunken brawl on Saturday evening last in a shed off Kent street. Chief Short heard of it, and sent out the usual invitations for the violators of the law to call this morning at the police court. One of the parties from West Ops took time by the forelock and settled on Wednesday afternoon by admitting his guilt and a cash consideration of $13.40.—Warder.

IF CONSTIPATED OR BILIOUS "CASCARETS"

For Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Sluggish Liver and Bowels—They Work While You Sleep

Get a 10-cent box.

Take a Cascaret to-night to cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, a bad cold, are bilious, nervous, upset, bothered with a sick, gassy disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out. Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action; a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

LOCAL BREVITIES

Col. the Hon. Sam. Hughes will arrive in England to-day.

The dwelling of Mr. Henry Stevens of Minden, has been destroyed by fire.

Only one turkey was offered for sale on Lindsay market the Saturday before Thanksgiving Day.

Work has begun for paving purposes on Aylmer street north of Hunter street.

Messrs. Horn Bros. of Lindsay have received an order for 30,000 blankets for the Department of Militia.

Yesterday morning more overcoats were seen worn on our local streets than on any day since early last spring.

A young man of Lindsay, was last week fined in that town $23.50 for fighting on Kent street. Whiskey did it!

Local citizens might save those hard working men, the letter carriers, a lot of time by having suitable receptacles for mail matter.

Local Alsiki trade has been greatly curtailed by the war as Germany was our greatest buyer of that farm produce.

There was a big boquet of drunks at yesterday's police court. Few of them but smelled stronger of alcohol than they did of altar of roses!

It would seem that the Germans are about as scared to make a bayonet charge as would a Peterboro Alderman be to suggest a raise in local tax rates.

One of the cleverest vaudeville acts even seen or heard in this City is now on at the Royal Theatre. The actor does a clever song and monologue act. Each and every one of his songs and sayings are absolutely new.

By a regrettable mistake a report of the results of "Tag Day" did not appear in Monday's issue. The collections amounted to nearly $1000 which is going some for a rainy day under present financial conditions.

Perth—October 14th, 9 a.m. to 12 p.m.

Tweed—October 14, 2.30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

PETERBORO—October 15th, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Burleton Junction—October 15th, 5.30 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Bobcaygeon—October 15th, 8.30 p.m. to 3 p.m. (Oct. 16)

Myrtle—October 17th, 9.00 a.m. to 9.00 p.m.

The week ending October 24th will be spent on the main line between Toronto and Windsor, the next two weeks on branch lines in Western Ontario, and from there the car will proceed through Eastern Ontario to Quebec and New Brunswick, arriving at Amherst, N. S., in time for the Maritime Winter Fair.

The object in presenting these exhibits is to interest people generally in improved methods of producing and marketing eggs and wool.

The wool exhibit has attracted the attention of large crowds at the exhibition where it has been displayed, and contains much useful information regarding the care, uses and manufacture of this important product of the farm.

The egg exhibit, particularly the candling demonstration, is of special interest to consumers and producers, and all are cordially invited to attend.

JAPS TO BOMBARD TSING-TAU ON SATURDAY

Japanese Have Made Announcement to This Effect—Non-Combatants Given Time to Leave

Tokio, Oct. 14.—It is understood that the bombardment of Tsing-Tau by the Japanese will begin Saturday, Oct. 17th.

It is officially reported that the German commander at Tsing-Tau has agreed to the Japanese proposals, as put forward by the Emperor of Japan for the preservation of the lives of non-combatants in the German fortress, and it is expected that these neutrals will leave Tsing-Tau shortly, by way of the Shantung Railway.

London, Oct. 14.—A news agency despatch says that it is feared that two British mine trawlers have been lost in the North Sea.

DAILY MAIL DEFENDS CHURCHILL

London, Oct. 14.—The Daily Mail's military correspondent replies in effect to-day to the Morning Post's strictures of yesterday on Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, for sending a too small English force to Antwerp.

"Under the circumstances," says the correspondent, "the act was not only justified, qut of brave and honorable necessity. To have refused to go to the aid of the beleaguered garrison when asked to do so would have been an act of selfish cowardice of which no British Minister would be capable. Late we may have been, but better late than never."

COSSACKS TAKE A ZEPPELIN

Petrograd, Oct. 14.—A patrol of Cossacks, while hidden io a farest, near Warsaw, brought down a Zeppelin airship by well directed fire. The crew of the Zeppelin were saved. The shiu itself, which was not seriously damaged, has been interned at Warsaw.

BRITISH WAR OFFICE SAYS OSTEND HAS NOT FALLEN

The Fighting in Southern Belgium is Very Fierce, Allies Ambush a German Column South of Ghent--Some 600 Dead Were Left on the Field--Loss to the Allies Practically Nothing

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Denial of false reports that Ostend has been captured by German troops was made in an official statement issued this afternoon.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—(4.05 a.m.)—The Daily Sketch's Ostend correspondent says:

"Only a small Begian force and almost no English troops remain in Ostend.

"Five refugee boats left here yesterday. A number of transports which were in the hgrbor have also put to sea."

A cable sent from here to the New York American says:

"It is reported in London from authoritative sources that Ostend was taken by the Germans to-night (Tuesday)."

FIERCE BATTLE IN SOUTHERN BELGIUM

The correspondent of The Times at Ostend wires that a fierce battle has been going on in the triangle bounded by the towns of Dixmude and Ypres in Southern Belgium, and the coast city of Dunkirk, in France, on the Straits of Dover.

This, the correspondent says, is a determined effort on the part of Von Kluk's right wing to cut through the allies' lines. Thus far the attempt has been frustrated.

BATTLE SOUTH OF BRUGES

"It is reported that a heavy engagement occurred to-day near Thourout a Belgian town twelve miles south-west of Bruges. The operations around Ghent have opened favorably for the Allies. The Germans asked for an armistice to bury their dead, but the request was refused."

AMATEUR NIGHT AT GRAND OPERA HOUSE

The Chamberlain Stock Co. last night scored another success with the Southern Comedy Drama, "The Death Chant."

The story told was a most unusual one, gripping at all times, yet with plenty of comedy to keep the audience in good humor.

H. Webb Chamberlain, in the role of Wah-No-Tis, the Indian, scored another triumph, his pantomine work being excellent. Miss Rose Millen in the leading female role of Zoe the Octoroon, gave further evidence that she is an actress of more than ordinary ability. Mr. Sheehan, as Jacob McClosky, the villian, gained the hearty ill-will of the audience. Mr. Hagen as the old negro, Pete, kept his audience in roars of good humor. Mr. Frank Priestlaod, as Salem Scudder, the Yankee Overseer, got all there was in his part. The rest of the roles were in capable hands. To-night this popular company will produce the four-act comedy drama "The Yellow Streak." The scene of this play is laid in Sisterville, West Virginia in the heart of the natural gas fields. The story told concerns the hopes of Richard Morley to strike natural gas, but is forced to abandon his wells for wgnt of money just when his hopes are highest. The second act climax is sensational, and shows the actual shooting of a Rell with a nitro cartridge.

To-night also will be amateur night when a fine array of the city's best talent will compete for the prizes of bold.

YOUTH COMMITS ROBBERY TO GET WEDDING CLOTHES

Winnsboro, La., Oct. 14.—Lloyd Nesbit, the youth who confessed robbing the state of G. R. Godfrey, and who was arrested Saturday night, was to have been married Sunday.

This was learned Tuesday. The name of the girl is withheld and it is probable that there will be no wedding bells as far as she and Nesbit are concerned. She has not called on him at the jail.

It is supposed by police that Nesbit stole clothing, shoes, etc., from the Godfrey store to be outfitted for the wedding. Nesbit, however, won't say this was the reason for the alleged robbery.

German Attack on Verdun Fails Outflanked Near St. Mihiel

Paris War Bureau Denies German False Reports, German Offensive Has Signally Failed Here and There Where Made--Two of the Enemies Battalions Annihilated Near Varennes

Paris, Oct. 14.—The following official announcement was given out in Paris this afternoon:

"In the Belgian field of operations there were some encounters during the night of Oct. 12, 13, and during the day of the 13th, in the region around Ghent. English and French troops have occupied Ypres.

vious reuorts of the progress of

"Second—On the centre, pre our reports of the progress of our armies in the region of Berry-au-Bac have been confirmed.

"Third—On our right wing there is nothing new.

"While it is not our custom to reply to the inaccuracies of the German press, it seems to us proper to denounce the false news published in certain German newspapers concerning the pretended destruction of two divisions of French cavalry. This information is absolutely erronoous. The truth is that certain forces of French cavalry. This information is absolutely erroneous. The truth is that certain forces of French and German cavalry, with supports, have been engaged for several days, along the front at La Bassee, Estaires, and Baialleul. The German cavalry succeeded in making a very slight advance between the canal of La Bassee and the Lys, but they were obliged to draw back in the territory north of the Lys.

"The losses sustained by the German cavalry are assuredly as perceptible as our own. One of the German divisions suffered particularly because it was pursued during one entire day by our aviators, who did not cease to throw bombs upon the German troops.

"Another case is the fact that the Germans announce that they are undertaking the investment of Verdun. In this instance, also, to learn the truth, it is sufficient to refer to the situation as set forth, on several occasions in the French official communications.

"The Germans have not succeeded up to the present time, in hurling themselves against the fortified position, of Verdun. They have, however, made two futile efforts to envelop, at a considerable distance the French forces who are operating around Verdun. One of these forts was characterized by their attempt to go through the Argonne forest, between Binarville and Varennes. It will be recalled that this movement failed, with very important losses. We did not even announce at the time that two German battalions had been annihilated in this engagement.

"The other enveloping movement on the part of the Germans, undertaken in much greater numerical strength, was directed towards crossing the Meuse in the region of St. Mihielf If the Germans succeeded in reaching this river on the front between Maizey and Chauvoncourt, all their efforts to advance further resulted in failure. These German forces found themselves caught on the flank by detachments of our troops, which advanced from the south to the north through the southern section of the heights of the Meuse and through the southern section of the Woevre district."

REGINA CITIZENS NOW OPTIMISTIC

The business scare, which seized Canadian cities and towns at the outbreak of the war, seems to have been overcome in many cities, including Regina. The citizens of Regina are now very optimistic and have good reason to believe that the West will benefit immensely. The farmers are selling their wheat without difficulty and are realizing prices far in advance of those of last year. The Provincial Government statistics show that although the crop was not as large as in 1913, the amount the farmers will realize will be far greater than in 1913.

The Regina Municipal Stockyards, which were created in Regina to fulfil a long felt need, are proving an entire success, the farmers throughout the Province having readily taken to the Regina stockyards to market their live stock. Only two stock days have yet been held but both were successful. It is worthy of note that the number of live stock for sale on the second market day was considerably in advance of those for sale on the first day, and the indications are still greater demands will be made on the stockyards. Buyers are always on hand and exceptionally good prices have been realized on live stock marketed up to the present. No matter how large the shipments of live stock, the Regina stockyards will be Hell able to take care of them, in-as-much as the large warm stock barns at the Exhibition grounds will be used for housing purposes.

The horsemen in Saskatchewan are finding a ready sale for their horses, as the Provincial Government are buying a large number to be given to the British Government for use in the war. Buyers are scouring the Province for suitable animals, and about twenty-two high class horses have been shipped to Regina, prior to being sent to the scene of war.

The City of Regina has decided to rush through to completion the construction of a 5,000,000 gallon reservoir. At the presens time about 65 carpenters and 80 laborers are employed on this work. At the base the concrete walls are two feet nine inches thick, tapering to one foot at the junction with the roof. This wall is to be reinforced with a brick veneer one foot in thickness above ground level, and ornamentations in the shape of friezes and panelling will be incorporated in the brick work.

The new Regina Power house is rapidly nearing completion. If the work progresses as rapidly in the future as in the past it will not be a month before the building will be completed. The cost of the building will be approximately, $170,000; the cost above ground level was $90,000, in addition to $36,000 for steel. The foundations and ground floor were constructed by the City per day labor at a cost of about $40,000. Up to the present time nearly $100,000 worth of machinery has been installed.

Arrangements have been made by the City of Regina with the Bank of Montreal for a loan of $320,000, to be used for construction of improvements.

The Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company, with headquarters at Regina, are having their new office building rushed through to completion as quickly as possible. This building is of the dimensions of 125 ft. by 100 ft. and is of high class construction.

AUTO TRUCKS FOR THE FRENCH ARMY

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 14.—An evidence that France sees no immediate termination of the present war was developed here to-day when officials of a well known auto truck company announced that six hundred light trucks ordered by the French Government are now being rushed for earliest possible shipment.

NOT ENOUGH DOCTORS

Quebec, Oct. 14.—Dr. H. S. Beland, M.P.P. for Beauce county, writing to friends in Quebec, from St. Elizabeth in Antwerp, Sept. 25, says that the wounded return by the thousands off the fields and their are not enough doctors to attend their wounds. Since the fall of Antwerp no news has been received from Dr. Beland.

GENERAL MARCOTT KILLED

London, Oct. 14.—The Exchange Telegraph Company has given out a despatch from Paris saying that General Maicent, former governor of the famous military school of Saint Cyr, and one of the best known of the French generals, has been killed in the fighting in the neighborhood of Arras.

GERMAN PLAN HAS FAILED

London Oct. 14.—In a desuatch dated Monday, The Daily Mail's correspondent in Northern France says:

"The great German plan to hold the Department of Pas de Calais and deliver a crushing blow to the Allies' left wing has failed thus far. Yesterday and on Saturday our armies drove the enemy still farther back. The German army, which extended from Turcoing to Armentieres and was forced from its position last Tuesday, has again met with heavy defeat, and been beaten back northward

"The battle which has been raging at intervals near Arras blazed out again yesterday, I hear, and once more we forced the Germans back to the east and north. The German losses are said to be heavy. One force which advanced last week from the north-east on Bailleul (Department of the North near the Belgian frontier) has had to turn tail and as long ago as last Wednesday, its columns were beating a heavy retreat back whence they came to joing their supporters. Ypres was occupied yesterday afternoon by a moderate detachment of German cavalry and infantry, qut if they have not yet evacuated it they must do soon in the next few hours, as their position is untenable without very large reinforcements, and if those exist they cannot reach them now."

PRINCESS OLGA, of Russia, second daughter of the Czar, whose engagement to Prince Charles of Roumania was reported some time ago. The friendly relations existing between the two royal families is said to be dubroken in the present outbreak of war.

AUSTRIANS RE-OCCUPY LEMBERG

London, Oct. 14.—In a despatch from The Hague the correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company says the Austrian legation at The Hague announces that the Russians have evacuated Lemberg, Galicia, after a fierce fight.

Lemberg has been in the possession of the Russians since shortly after the beginning of their Galician campaign.

GERMANS MOVE ON BRUGES

The Hague, Oct. 14.—According to a special despatch to the Avondpost, no fewer than 50,000 Germans are in Ghent. Many of them, however, are leaving in the direction of Bruges.

A German officer is quoted in the despatch as saying that Ostend was the objective of the German advance.

KARLSRUHE, NANCY, IS VISITED BY AEROPLANES

Both a German and French Town Paid a Visit by Hostile Aircraft —Not Much Damage

London, Oct. 14.—Hostile aeroplanes appeared over Karlsruhe, Germany, Karlsruhe is a little over 100 miles ding to the Central News' correspondent at Copenhagen.

Karlsruhe is a little over 100 miles from the French border, and almost directly east of Verdun.

A despatch from Nancy says:—"Three bombs from German aeroplanes fell yesterday in the railway station near the bridge of the Rue de Mon Desert, in the south-western part of the city. The bombs struck a first-class passenger coach, out the telegraph wires and injured three persons."

RUMOR THAT PORTUGAL HAS DECLARED WAR IS DENIED

Mobilization, However, is Being Pushed Forward in Preparation for Eventurelities--Reported That a Portuguese Army of 250,000 Trained Men is at Britains Call - War Declaration Expected

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Portugal has not yet declared war against Germany but it was learned in official quarters to-day that a partial mobilization of Portubuese troops will be ordered to-morraw.

It is added that Portugal is preparing for all eventualities, and that if she participates in the war it will be on the side of Great Britain

THE RUMORED DECLARATION

A news agency despatch from Madrid, which is without official confirmation, said this morning that it was reported from Lisbon that Portubal had declared war on Germany.

The official press bureau here permits publication of the despatch, but without guarantee of its authenticity.

Cabling from Lisbon the correspondent of the Central News says it is reported that the German Minister to Portugal, and other Germans residing in Lisqon are about to leave for Madrid.

As a result of Cabinet meetings and conferences between the leaders of the various Portuguese parties and the President of the Republic, the corresponhent continues, it has been re-solved to convoke Congress on Friday October 16th, in order to pass a vote for the mobilization of Portuguese troops.

Lisbon, Oct. 14.—According to despatches received here from Loanda, martial law has been proclaimed throughout the Portuguese Congo.

Portugal's peace army numbers 30,000 men at home and 10,000 men in the Colonies. Conscription prevails in the Republic, however, and Portugal might be able to offer England 260,000 trained men for overseas operations.

Portugal aided Britain in the South African war by allowing British troops to pass through Portuguese East Africa.

INCENDIARY BLAZE IN WINNIPEG—$40,000 LOSS

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 13.—Damage estimated at $40,000 was done by fire yesterday to furniture, stock and warehouse of J. A. Banfield on Notre Dame and Young streets. The fire started in the stable and spread to washouse. While the cause of the fire is a mystery, incendiaries are thought to be responsible, J. A. Banfield having received, with several others, a demand for cash under threat of damage to their property, from a supposed "blackhand" organization.

Alex. Stewart, a native of Paisley Scotland, was sentenced to five years imprisonment in connection with the sending of these missives.

1 CHINESE IN "HOP" RAID HOP ON 'HOP ON'

New Orleans, Oct. 14.—Of the fifteen Chinese arrested by Federal officers and police, led by Captain W. H. Rowe, special agent of the Treasury Department, in a raid in New Orleans' Chinatown, Tuesday, on charges of having opium in their possession, three were bound over to the higher court by United States Commissioner Reginald H. Carter after a hearing Wednesday.

It is something of a coincidence that the one Chinese on whom the fourteen others sought to shift the ownership of the contraband drug or "hop," is named "Hop On." He was held under a bond of $1,000, and Fung Yip and Ham Joe were held under bonds of $500 each. All the others were discharged.

Captain Rowe said that about fifteen pounds of opium was seized in the raid. Its value is said to amount to several hundred dollars.

WASTED $250,000

Rich Man Reduced to Singing For Coppers and Asking For Crusts

A man who had been left several fortunes, and after spending all came to be charged with begging, found himself in the dock at Northwich, England.

He was John Marsh, aged sixty-nine, of St. Helens. He declared that he had been left by various relatives sums totalling $250,000, which had all been spent in drinking, gambling, and helping others. He had inherited his fathers's spendthrift nature and his mother's generosity.

He was formerly in a grocery and confectionery business at St. Helens, but now worked for farmers solely for his food, varying the monotony by singing in publichouses songs of his own composition, and dancing.

Reduced to hunger, he pleaded, he simply begged a crust. His one desire was to tide over another year to qualify for an old age pension, as he had an aversion to becoming a pauper. The magistrate gave him money to help him on his way, and dismissed the case.

TO PREVENT CANCER

Indigestion Frequently its Forerunner, Therefore do Not Neglect Stomach

Indigestion is one of the most common ills, and because it is so common many of us are apt to regard it as an inevitable result of eating for which medicine can do little good. We either suffer in silence or take a few home remedies, and let it go at that.

This is all wrong. Indigestion, however slight, should receive careful medical attention, for it is often the forerunner of gastric ulcer, and this in turn leads to a surprisingly large number of cases of cancer of the stomach.

Out of 566 consecutive cases of cancer treated at a leading hospital over 60 per cent. began with indigestion, and in nearly all of these this had been followed by chronic ulcer. Figures like these leave no doubt of tho importance of giving due attention to even the most trivial derangement of the stomach. Indigestion, dyspepsia and gastric ulcer are the warnings which nature gives us in the order named of the approach of cancer.

Added support of this idea is found in the fact that cancer is more prevalent in the country districts than in the cities. It is in these districts that the most inddigestica is found. In the rural districts over-eating, top much fried food and rich pastry ruin more stomachs than the "high living" of the cities, which is generally supposed to be so harmful.

The length of time during which indigestion is suffered from before cancer of the stomach appears is, on the average, eleven years. One reason why many persons neglect their stomachs and lay themselves open to the danger of cancer is the common belief that cancer is a hereditary disease which can hardly be escaped if it is "in the family." The most reliable authorities at the present time, however, are agreed that there is no proof that heredity plays any part whatever in causing cancer. This conclusion is of course, liable to modification, for cancer remains one of the diseases about which we have the least definite knowledge.

SCRIPTURAL NAMES

Puritans Were Fond of Old Testament Nomenclature

A certain set of Christian names taken from the Scriptures has been in use so long that we do not think of them as Adam, Moses, Samuel, David, Daniel, Solomon, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. Others taken from the Saints, like Peter, Paul, John, Stephen and Matthew, originally given to children because they were born on the saint's day, are still so common that we think of them as English names.

These names antedate the use of surnames, as may be inferred from the fact that nearly all of them have given rise to patronymics, like Jacobson, Peterson and Stephenson. In the twelfth century missionaries used to baptise whole villages at once, and to save time invested all the men with the name of John or some other saint, and the women usually Mary or Martha.

To distinguish the Johns some additional name like Short or Strong or White or Black was given him by the neighbors, and so Christian names and surnames were united.

After the Reformation it became the fashion among the Puritans to give children the names of characters in the Old Testament and odd ones like Melchizedek or Barzillai were preferred. Among these were Abel, Levi, Jesse, Amos, Asa, Isaiah, Ephraim, Gideon, Malachi, Job, Abner, Hosea, Ezekiel, Jeremiah, Zachariah, Asher, Eli and hundreds of others.

Significance of Little Things

We love little things, we hate little things, we fear little things; our lives are knit up with little things from the time we are born to the day we die.

But things draw us up to heaven or crush us down to hell. Little things live beside us on earth, eat and sleep with us, laugh and grumble with us, catch the early train with us, or make us miss it, irritate and appease us—never leave us alone for a minute.

That is why they are so much more important than the big things—the things that only come once in a while, at long intervals, and even then are nearly always the result of a hundred and one little things combined.

THE SIX-O' CLOCK MAN

The Farmer's Hired Man Should Think of Employer's Interest

Did you ever notice that the man who sits on the fence for ten minutes waiting for the hands of his watch to get around to seven o'clock before he starts the day's work on the farm, and the man who would unhitch his horses at the far end of the field when the bell or whistle announced the hour of six p.m., are usually the poorest men in the field between the hours of seven and twelve and one and six? No man who is taking the interest he should in his farmer employer's work is so particular to a few minutes morning or evening. Do not think for one moment we are advocating long days. Not at all. As a general practice they are a detriment to progress. No one can blame men for not wanting to work from daylight until dark. Just be reasonable. Quit at six as a general rule, but do not object to an hour or two later if conditions demand it.—Farmers' Advocate.

REVIVAL OF MINING

Renewed Activity Where There Has Been Quiet Since the Sixties

Many of the old mining camps of the United States and Canada, deserted years ago, are being rehabilitated and not a few districts which in the sixties were flourishing, but since have fallen into decay, are now being opened up with new life and energy. British Columbia, which, during the time of the Civil War, and later in 1895-97, was the mecca for miners, is again reviving and taking on new life that will undoubtedly bear much fruit in the course of the very near future. This is particularly true of the Windermere district of British Columbia, long known as a lead-silver mining district. In this section there are large deposits of low grade ore.

The Canadian Pacific Railway took over the old Kootenay Central and is now busy connecting up Golden and Fort Steele. Trains are operating from Golden south as far as Spillimachene, while steel has been laid much farther, and grading is progressing far ahead of the steel. Work is being urged north from Fort Steele to Golden so that this railway project, which was a dream of the early miners of the district, will be a reality. This will bring the miners of the rich Windermere silver-lead district within a range of 250 miles of the large customs smelters and within but a few miles of Trail, B.C., where most of the silver-lead smelting is done. It is interesting to remember that the silver used in coining the money for the Philippine Islands was smelted at Trail.

About fifteen years ago John Hays Hammond and Randolph Brade started operations on a series of rich claims known as the Paradise Mine. Some work was done and splendid showings were made. The ore was rich, but the transportation facilities were so poor that all of the profits were eaten up before the silver-lead got to the smelters. Pack trains proved too expensive, so the project was abandoned until time should bring railroad facilities. The Paradise Mine, according to recent advice, will be reopened in the near future. It was in the rich valley of the Columbia, however, that Robert Randolph Bruce did make his fortune. Along with many others, he recognized the possibilities of the district both as to its minerals and as to its agriculture. He has developed both and has wide holdings both in mining claims and in lands. Married recently to Lady Elizabeth Northcote, he plans to make his home at Invermore, where he will devote his attention to the development of his mines and his lands.

HEADACHE POWDERS

British Revenue Department Condemns Their Usage

The Inland Revenue Department of Great Britain has issued a bulletin calling attention to the danger attendant on the common use of various headache powders now on the market. When these are not worthless they are harmful or dangerous, and the official analysts have taken pains to point out the need of greater caution on the part of the public. The effective drugs used in headache powders are acetanilide and phenacetin, and their effect is to depress the heart action. The involved danger of injurious results is counteracted in some cases by including a stimulant in the formula. The Proprietary and Patent Medicines Act provides that when acetanilide is present in quantity above two grains to a maximum dose, or phenacetin in quantity above five grains, the fact must be set forth on a label. As the limit of dose of acetanilide prescribed by the British pharmacopoeia is from one to three grains this requirement is obviously necessary, and not unduly restrictive. About eighty per cent. of the acetanilide powders examined contained less than four grains to the maximum dose, and of the remainder very few exceeded six grainns. This record shows how dangerous is the practice of taking such powders, especially of increasing the dose beyond prescribed limits. The report condemns the pretence that drugs can cure headache, which is not a disease, but a symptom or intimation of disease or derangement. A cure is possible only when the cause is removed or corrected.

THE PACKING OF APPLES

British Importers Favor Boxes Rather Than Barrels For Finer Grades

Interviews with British apple importers on the subject of packing in boxes or barrels indicate that the package is becoming a more important factor in trade than formerly, says a report issued by the Canadian Department of Trade and Commerce. "Which is the better package" cannot just be answered categorically. One class of package suits one trade, while another class of package is looked for by a different trade, a good deal depends on what trade is being catered for. There are certain varieties of apples more suitable for the box trade, and others more suitable for barrels. Apples of coarse texture, and whose appearance, so far as color is concerned, is not so good, can very readily be packed in barrels, while the apple with good appearance, whose texture is finer, and more suitable for dessert, can be packed in boxes. It will pay to do so, even at the extra cost of the box, packing and freight.

Wouldn't You Welcome the Old Plays Back?

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

JUSTIN HUNTLY McCARTHY says that the problem play has gone out of the fashion. E. H. Sothern declares that nobody wants the sex drama any more. Good news—I hope it's true.

But before I believe it I should like to hear what Miss Mary Garden or Mr. Holbrook Blinn has to say on the subject.

I do hope it's true—what Mr. Sothern and Mr. McCarthy say—don't you? I'm so sick of the sex play that I'd rather go to the theatre and see an Irish eviction affair, red coats, absentee landlord, pretty colleen, kindly priest and Somebody the Fox—and all. Wouldn't you?

Come now, honestly, let's sit down and talk about the play we've seen that we really got the most fun out of. And by fun I don't mean laughter always, either. There's lots of fun that is as serious as a funeral.

I call it fun to curl up in the corner of a couch with a plate of apples and a box of candy and "Lorna Doone" or the "Idylls of the King"—and there isn't a real laugh in the whole of Tennyson and not many broad grins in a chapter of Blackmore.

Your First Play.

Let's see—what was the first play you ever saw? "Rip Van Winkle" was mine—teacher took us to see it, in a bunch—and the agonies we endured for a week for fear the theatre would burn down or Mr. Jefferson would hear about our coming and refuse to play just for spite, can never be told.

I can see them, every one of them, this minute, from the instant the curtain rose. Nick Vedder with his kite, Gretchen with her sleeves rolled up, little Meenie with her hair in a swirl of flax over her plump little shoulders, and, sitting on the edge of a table, clad all in hunters' brown with his drinking cup held aloft, as no other mortal on earth ever held aloft any drinking cup, Rip himself. The most alluring, enchanting, delightful rapscallion of a good-for-naught that ever laughed away a careless hour.

How we loved him—town drunkard that he was—and how we hated good Gretchen, his honest, hardworking wife, and how we cried when the lightning flashed and Rip stood in the doorway and said: "I will never darken your door again, Gretchen." It was almost intolerable to have him go—out into the rain and the storm, out upon the wild mountain. How we wished we could run after him and call him back.

What did we care whether there were any such things as goblins and dwarfs, really, or not? What was it to us that Rip Van Winkle really ought to have been sent to the poorhouse or to the county jail before the curtain rose at all—it was romance we loved, fancy—the dream—and through it, woven like a thread of silver—the haunting charm of personality.

What would you give to see Rip Van Winkle again—as you saw it that first time?

How about "Fanchon, the Cricket"? They said that Maggie Mitchell was an old woman when she played it—I thought they were joking. Old, that lovely creature with her hair in the most amazing ringlets and the little locket hung from a black velvet band at the slender throat—never! Why, she was youth itself.

Joyous Francois Villon.

"If I Were King"—ah! you both know something about that, Mr. Sothern and Mr. McCarthy. Wasn't it a joy to swagger through an evening as Villon, the beggar poet—and didn't we who sat in front love every line of the sweet romance?

No, it was not the ringing melody of your beautiful lines, Mr. McCarthy, nor yet the charm of your delightful personality, Mr. Sothern, that took us all a-gathering roses with Villon in old France. It was a combination of the two, a something that made romance—the wide vision—the life that is part of a great picture—how we all long for it—after all.

And then came the dissection school of plays—and we all had to go and spend an evening in the cancer ward, or in the wing for the hopelessly incurable, and pretend we liked it. And then arrived the sex drama—obstetrics to the foreground. Chloroform, ether, carbolic acid—why, you could fairly whiff them before the curtain rose!

Ugh—I'm glad they're gone, or going, the sex plays and the problem plays and the torture plays, now.

I'm going to get a new theatre frock, something blue with a bit of silver about it, and I shall wear roses again to the play, real ones, and take a comfort in their perfume. And in my little theatre gown I shall carry a nice, serviceable hanky—for, if the old-fashioned plays are coming back again, I expect to cry a few kindly, old-fashioned tears when I go to the theatre.

Not the cruel, acrid tears that spring from the ache of an embittered heart—I don't want to weep over [illegible] or Magda or any of the rest of the drabs—but I wouldn't mind a bit shedding a pleasant tear or so over the [illegible] of the true lovers who join hands as the curtain falls. Would you?

The Last "Head Cook"

By Ann Marie Lloyd

THE old race of English cooks, whose roast beef and puddings made English cooking famous all over the world, is fast passing away. With the death of Thomas Davey, who, for a period of 47 years, was the presiding genius of a famous London kitchen, the last of the word-known English cooks has gone.

Starting life as a cook's apprentice in a tavern in Fleet street, Davey first entered the kitchen of Simpson's in 1867 as assistant "roast" cook, but his skill soon put him at the head of the kitchen, where, until his death, he was in command of a staff of 100 men. No dish was ever sent up to the dining rooms until it was critically examined by himself, and under his superintendence 1400 pounds of English meat, 300 pounds of turbot, 100 pounds of Scotch salmon, 100 pounds of Dover soles, and two wagonfuls of vegetables were on an average daily prepared for the table.

Davey himself was British to his backbone. "Head cook," not "chef," he insisted upon calling himself, and he not only refused to have anything to do with a dinner should the menu be printed in French, but he never for a moment entertained an application for an appointment on the kitchen staff from men who did not come from some part of the British Isles.

Davey had a contempt for new-fangled methods in the kitchen, and insisted that every joint should be cooked in the true English fashion, on a spit before an open fire. It might be thought that this "king of the kitchen" was in consequence regarded as somewhat old-fashioned by other restaurants, but as a matter of fact time after time great restaurants in New York and on the continent tried to lure Davey away from Simpson's. They asked him to name "his own price," but he refused to leave the restaurant which he regarded as his home; so much so, that during his 47 years in the Strand he was only absent for six days on sick leave.

Davey had very pleasant recollections of the old days when Dickens, Thackeray, George Augustus Sala, Sir Henry Irving, and John Toole were regular frequenters of Simpson's, all of whom admired Davey's supreme skill as an English cook.

One of Davey's most interesting recollections was that of the late King Edward, who, when Prince of Wales, visited Simpson's and entertained a party of friends in private at the old house before the restaurant was rebuilt. The royal host and his guests sat at the famous round table. This mahogany, by the way, is so large that it could not be taken in or out of the room, and the new Simpson's was built around it without removal.

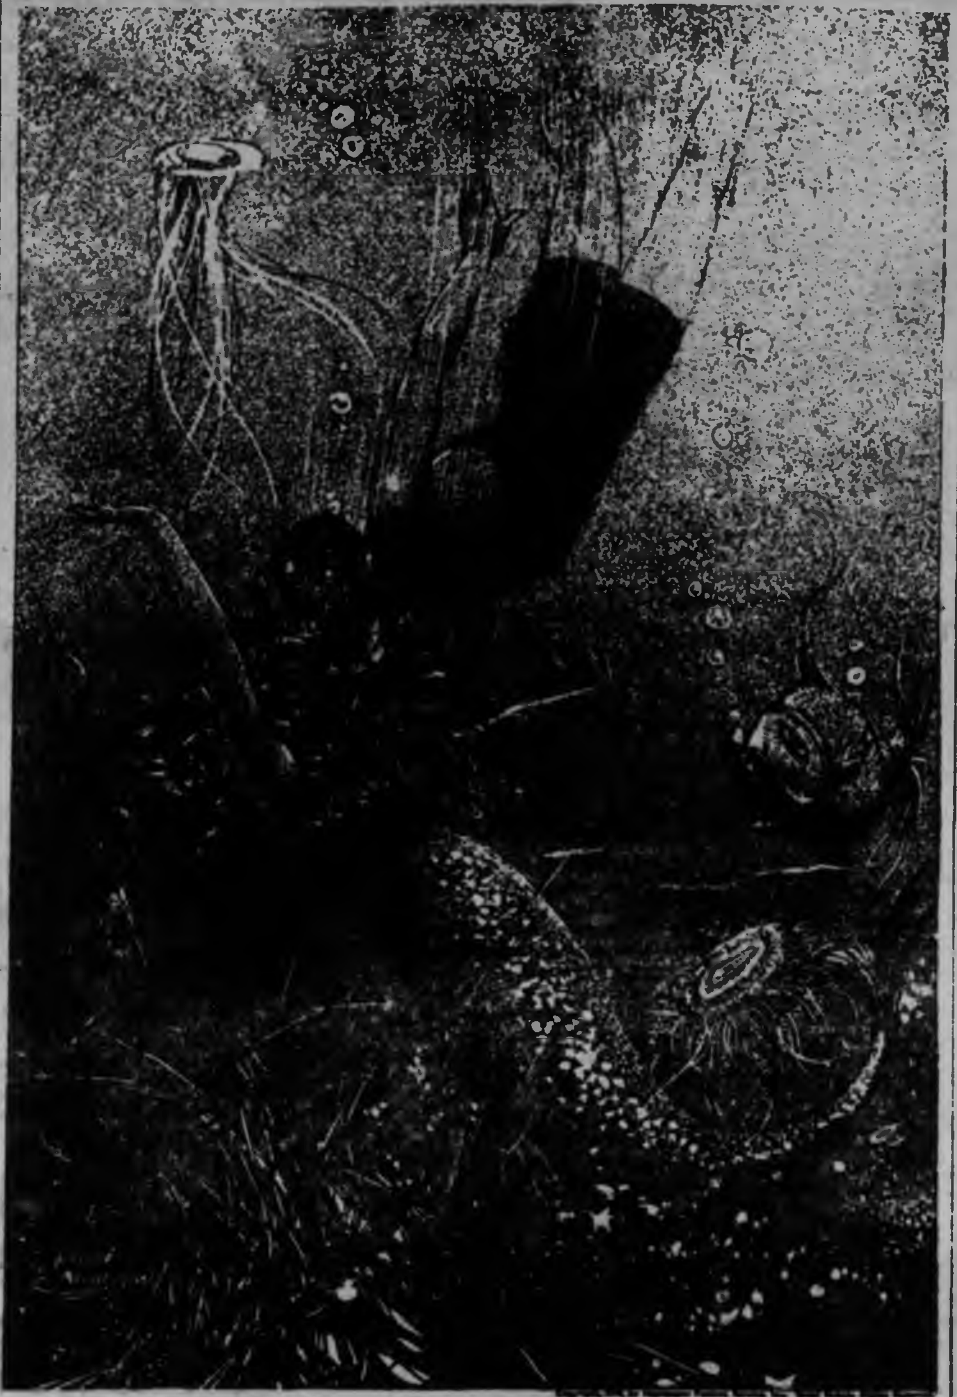
Cupid's Finish.

"He died for love."

"Yes?"

"Yes, an angry husband shot him."

THE MERMAID'S KISS :: By Michelson



IN summer time artists, like other persons, have dreams. This is one of these vagrant fancies to be charged up to the imaginative season. Probably the dream originated in the spectacle of a lusty diver staying under a long time. There is no way of knowing what a diver does when he is under water. If there really WERE mermaids there would be plenty of time for so very brief and so very wonderful an incident, though it is true that even a well-intentioned young man MIGHT stay too long.

Staying too long is a calamity in many places besides under the sea. Shimmery green water and vaguely veiled forms that MIGHT be mermaids are not the only things that have been known to make young men stay too long. The simple old moral applies. DON'T.

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

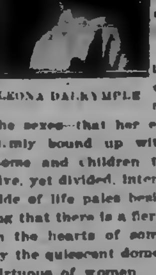
By LEONA DALRYMPLE

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

No. 114.

Mary's Cowardice.



LEONA DALRYMPLE

MARRIAGE has made me introspective. Every once in a while I take mental account of stock. And I'm learning much about the relative domesticity of the sexes.

I was brought up to believe that woman is essentially the more domestic of the sexes—that her every instinct is so firmly bound up with the thought of home and children that man's possessive, yet divided, interest in the domestic side of life pales beside it. I am learning that there is a fierce domestic hunger in the hearts of some men unequalled by the quiescent domesticity of the most virtuous of women.

After all, a woman's domesticity is almost always passive. She marries by instinct, loves by instinct, begets her children and mothers them by an instinct which doesn't always bear in it the fire of mind and spirit.

With the man his craving for home and children is a fierce hunger of his soul. It is an active, virile thing that, denied, makes him most unhappy.

And so with me.

I cannot help believing that some time in the life of every childless mortal the child-hunger comes with sickening intensity. One longs to feel that there is something in the world quite his own—some one who will reverently close his eyes at the end and mourn sincerely. What link to the future will the next generation hold for me? None. Man needs the stimulus of planning for young lives who will carry the divine fire on to spur him to the height of his endeavor.

Why did I marry? Because I have the primitive man's love for a home—because I was dazzled by my wife's beauty—and, yes—because I looked ahead and saw the rosy faces of children about my table.

And my wife refuses to accept the natural burden of her sex.

Most men love children. There are women who don't. All men want children. There are women who don't.

I sincerely believe that I would love my wife more if she were the mother of my children. I am learning much, too, about that insane glamour which sentimental youth weaves about the thought of love.

Loving your wife and being in love with her are two separate and very different states of mind.

I was in love with my wife when I married her. "Being in love" is a charming intoxication of the senses. It is bound to change. Then if a man and his wife are true friends—and friendship surely is the basis of a big love—that quieter, deeper love is bound to come, that love which is tranquil and strong and not quite so much a thing of the senses.

Time again may alter this. It may degenerate into a prosy, substantial affection. It may attain the flash of holiness that will make it endure. And the one thing that will contribute that divine flash of holiness is a common interest in something absolutely your own. There is nothing absolutely one's own but one's children.

Therefore, I am no longer in love with my wife. I do love her much as one loves a spoiled child. I can see where a great reverence might creep into my heart at the sight of a child's head on her shoulder. I can see where I shall slide into affectionate indifference if time does not bring me children.

My wife is a physical coward. She has an unutterable horror of bearing a child—she is absolutely afraid. And this again because my mother-in-law has filled her head with foolish stories from which any girl should be guarded.

And I think Mrs. Penfield's motive for her subtle discouragement is a reluctance to be called—a grandmother!

⚜⚜⚜⚜ How RIVERS Got Their NAMES ⚜⚜⚜⚜

The Broad river, in South Carolina, was so called by the whites. The Indian name was Eswan Huppeday, or "Dividing Line river," because it was the boundary between the Cherokees and the Catawbas.

The Big Sandy, in Kentucky, was so called on account of its sandbars. The Indian name Chatteroi has a similar meaning. One tribe called it We-pe-po-co-ne-re-pe-we; another the Si-ke-a-ce-pe, or "Salt river."

Hell Gate was so called by the Dutch, who applied the name to the whole of the present East river. The Indians called the neighborhood of the famous reef Mon-ah-ton-uk, "dangerous water", also, Ahton, "running water."

The Gulf of California was first called Mar de Cortez, then Mar Bermejo, the former being in honor of the conqueror of Mexico, the latter on account of the bright red color of its waters. The name literally translated means "Red sea."

The Columbia river was first called the Oregano, the Spanish name for the wild sage that grows on its banks. Whitney says that the Spanish name was Orejon, "big ear," or "one that hath large ears." An allusion to the custom of the Indians in that region of stretching their ears, by boring them and crowding them with ornaments.

The Missouri has its name from the Algonquin word Mis, "great," and the Sioux word Souri, "a muddy stream." Several different names and a great variety of spellings are noted among the early writers. It is called Wemessouret, Mine'skoghn, Oumissouret, Almihiwiki and several other names.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why Even Little Hurts Require a Doctor's Care

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

IF the number of apothecary shops is an index, the dictum of the philosopher to throw physic to the dogs has never been realized.

Curious it is to see both the public and the pharmacist each co-operating, the one with the other, to do the wrong thing about illnesses.

Druggists are skilful and full of knowledge in the compounding of drugs. They know more about what will or what will not commingle with iron; what will or will not mix with iodine, and which salves, embrocations or fluids will make a nauseous mixture than all the surgeons, physicians and bacteriologists in practice.

Yet druggists know no more about the dangers of lockjaw from a grain of dust in the eye, or the obscure possibilities of a scratch or sore throat than a milkman knows about a turbine engine.

Yet the faulty logic, defective school education and penny-wise, pound-foolish economy of ninety odd persons in the hundred sends them bird-haste into the nearest pharmacy for some remedy to "cure" wounds, sores, headaches, something blown into the eye, and even for far worse maladies.

You might just as well go to a financier to discover why a mouse spins, or ask a poet the solution of the rule of least squares. Druggists know drugs, but they know not what they do in many other things.

A wise physician, skilled your wounds to heal, is more than armies to the public weal. A druggist, though, who treats an open sore, causes unheralded consequences more and more.

It is true that the dear public are apt to consider the red lamp of the pharmacy as a symbol of the ever-ready surgery. The doctor's sign next door repels, because it conjures up a dollar note. The hospital is shunned much the same as a child does the dark, to wit: from instinct and not from reason.

The first refuge, then, is the druggist. He, poor fellow, must perforce yield his benevolent co-operation, or be like his colleague of "Romeo and Juliet."

"I do remember an apothecary—
And hereabouts he dwells—whom late I noted
In tattered weeds, with overwhelming brows,
Culling of simples. Meagre were his looks,
Sharp misery had worn him to the bones."

It is time, now, that the pharmaceutist be not annoyed and inveigled into giving so-called first aid to wounded eyes, ears, nose and flesh. He who runs must read well the lesson that druggists know drugs, how to combine them, but not how, when, where, and why not to use them.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

I am going with a young man who belongs to the same church of which I am a member. We both attend church regularly Sunday night. Sometimes he accompanies me there, but leaves me at the church door and he sits at the back with the boys.

He once told me he would never sit with a girl in church, as he had never done so yet. He has with me, but only in strange churches. Also at any concerts which we hold he is off with the boys, but always comes along in time to see me home.

I cannot imagine why he would do this, as every one around the church knows we are going together. He has taken me to his home and to those of his relatives, dozens of times. You know the impression this naturally gives me. I know the other boys tease him dreadfully (which he cannot stand).

I have never mentioned it to him. Should I?

MOTHERLESS.

I WOULDN'T waste much of my time on a man who was ashamed to show people how much he cared for me. He isn't worth it, "Motherless," not in the least worth it.

If he really loved you as he should nobody in the world could keep him away from you, either in church or out of it.

What if the boys do tease him about you—is he such a coward and such a baby that he can't stand a little teasing? If he is, he is not for you or for any sensible girl.

The girls tease you about him, don't they? I should think they would.

No, I would not let him take me home—or take me to church. I would find some one to do that who would sit with me when he got there.

Don't let this self-conscious, self-centred young man make you ridiculous once again. Make him mend his manners or else forget all about him.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care of this office.

Three Minute Journeys

Where Women Carry Babies to Work

By TEMPLE MANNING

Carrying Rubber and Baby.

ON a hunting trip in the Great African forest, where the rubber is gathered, I heard a weird chanting coming from over the river as we approached Makala. The wild voices came across the water in a monotonous chant mixed with discordant notes blown on antelope horns. It was the natives I knew, but why they sang I did not know. The chief of my carriers told me.

It was not a special festival in the worship of crops, nor an invocation of the natives of the Supreme Spirit. It was only a rubber caravan returning from a forest trip, happy at the thought of coming home.

Louder and louder grew the chant, and at last, from among the great trees the caravan wound into sight. We of our party stepped back to the side of the trail and watched the rubber carriers file past.

At the head walked a chief, resplendent in gala dress that was nearly all color decoration of a loin cloth, and following him came the gatherers. One by one they strode past, chanting their song as they marched, and on their backs they bore the rubber. The men were big, black fellows, strong and stalwart, and the women fit mates in brawn and muscle.

It will ever be an open question in my mind whether the women were not even stronger than the men. Many a woman, in addition to the heavy basket of rubber on her back, carried her little black baby strapped on her hip.

We followed the caravan into the town of Makala. There the rubber was being weighed and the cares of the trail forgotten in the time of payment. The women were all standing around the scales with glistening eyes, looking at the treasures they coveted spread out for their choice.

Cloth, salt, soap, beads are among the greatest treasures, but even more precious to these dusky women are the little bells that the white men give them to tie on to baby's tiny wrists and ankles. For, like all good mothers the world over, these black workers idolize their children.

At work in the forest camps, gathering rubber, or on the hard marches carrying the precious rubber to market, the African woman will not be separated from her baby. No matter how heavy her burden or work may be, her little black child is strapped to her hip and she croons to it as she works.

BIG FISH CAUGHT THIS SEASON IN ONTARIO WATERS

The Bristol Steel Rod Fishing Competition for the largest fish taken in 1914 in Ontario waters, has brought forth many claims for the angler's championship honors. A beautiful fish weighing 29 pounds won premier place in the grey (lake) trout class. This was taken by Mr. Fred E. Ringwold, of New York, in the south west arm of Lake Timagami. Second place went to Mr. Frank J. Barber, Georgetown, Ont., with a 20 pound trout, caught in Ragged Lake, Algonquin Provincial (Ontario) Park, while the third prize was secured by Mr. Lawrence Brown, with a 17 pound trout from Buck Lake in Algonquin Park.

The largest entry of small mouth black bass was that of Mr. C. O. Fox of Kensington, Pa. This fish, weighing 4 pounds, 4 ounces, was caught in Rock Lake, Algonquin Park, on Sept. 3rd.

All the prize fish, it will be noted, were taken out of waters in the magnificent sporting districts opened up by the Grand Trunk Railway.

Col. the Hon. Sam. Hughes will arrive in England to-day.

ANTWERP SHELLS HIT ZEPPELIN; GOT HOME

London, Oct. 13.—The Evening Star's Antwerp correspondent, telegraphing by way of Amsterdam, says that eyewitnesses of the Zeppelin fights over Antwerp insist that they saw one such craft hit by shells from the forts and fall to the earth.

During the bombardment of Antwerp Thursday night it is estimated that shells fell at the rate of twenty a minute. Many civilians were killed.

In addition to this, the Law Courts and the Museum, which were damaged by shells, fire broke out at many points in the city.

THE PUBLIC ARE INVITED TO LECTURES ON POULTRY

A new and educative feature for our city was introduced at the Poultry Association Hall on Simcoe St., Friday evening, in the form of an illustrated lecture on the Poultry Industry.

The Association has made arrangements with the department of Agriculture at Ottawa, for a series of monthly lectures on all branches of the work in connection with the handling, housing, etc. of poultry. These lectures will be illustrated by lantern slides depicting the correct types of the various breeds, the newest and most approved methods of quickly maturing chickens for the market, and the best methods of killing, dressing and packing them. The ever interesting egg problem will also be strongly presented by a man from the Department at Ottawa.

That the enterprise of the local association will meet with approval is quite evident from the enthusiastic reception given the speaker last evening. The ladies are taking keen interest in the proposition, which augurs well for complete success.

The Honor of Belgium

Belgium's case has been submitted to the world in the Grey Paper published recently. Official evidence of Belgium's strict adherence to the highest international standards of right and honor were superfluous; yet an examination of Belgium's position in this world crisis is not untimely says the Montreal Mail.

Before the present war began, Belgium was regarded as a neutral state. That was her status; and in preparing their defences against a possible attack, other and numerically stronger powers were expected to depend upon the neutrality of Belgium. We know, for instance, that France, while she strongly fortified her frontier against Germany, left the frontier before which Belgium stood undefended. She reckoned with Belgium as a neutral territory, a land which maintains its inviolability in the face of any possible attack. She went on the assumption that Belgium would not be violated by an enemy. For her assurance as to this, she depended upon the honor of nations—Germany, in particular—and the spirit of the Belgian people.

War came. What did Belgium do? She rose to the occasion. She defended her territory. She watched without flinching a barbarian invader crush beneath his heel her dearest shrines. The world has mourned the destruction of wonderful Belgian monuments of Art; what must be the feelings of the Belgian nation? Great as is our sorrow and compassion, we can but dimly visualize the revelation that Belgium has experienced. Germany failed before the test; Belgium rose to it magnificently. Glorious Belgium! So long as the British people contribute their quota to civilization, Belgium will be honored.

The national necessity of Germany demanded the violation of Belgium's neutrality. The national necessity of Germany was founded upon ambition and the desire for power, the doctrine that might is right. A more glorious and inspiring national necessity exists. It is the national necessity of Belgium to vindicate her influence as a member of the family of nations. Her own demands were small. Her own ambition was not such as to offend other nations. But she pursued the course which honor dictated.

Belgium's case has been given to the world. There was no need to make a legal argument in support of such self-sacrifice. Wherever a man values the boon of Christian civilization, Belgium's glory will be sung in an anthem of praise. To be a citizen of Belgium to-day is to be "a citizen of no mean country." Every quality that humanity admires the Belgian people have displayed in this war crisis. By publishing the documents, she has set her official seal to a record of honor.

Unfair Criticism

The Detroit Free Press thinks the fall of Antwerp a disgrace to Britain, who should, it says, have held the city. It gives credit to the glorious account of themselves given by the British forces in the field, and adds, "but what of the armies of "young men who stay at home, despite the earnest pleas of the patriotic and wise leaders, and calmly "engage in their ordinary pursuits "and pastimes while soldiers of other nations are fighting their battles "for them?"

The Free Press is laboring under an illusion common to papers attempting to criticise operations and situations beyond their sphere of understanding. The weakness of our contemporary's contentions is glaringly demonstrated in the sentence, "the British are calmly engaged in their ordinary pursuits while the soldiers of other nations are fighting their battles for them." Why, all the world knows that the engagement of British troops in Europe is in protection of France and Belgium, and not of the British Empire the interests of which are assured so long as Britain rules the waves. The British people to-day are making the biggest sacrifice in their history in defense of the weak and principles which will obtain for world-peace. Hence the Free Press' criticism is manifestly unfair and lacking in knowledge of conditions. Our contemporary's criticism leads one to another question, which in the spirit of the Free Press' adverse attitude might well be asked; and that is "why is it that France, with an advertised army of 4,500,600, needs the assistance of British land forces in repelling an invasion by Germany, with an army of possibly 6,000,000 but who has to defend two frontiers—east and west—to say nothing of offensive operations and preparations against neutral states who might any day declare war against her. And we advise the Detroit Free Press to leave the solution of such problems, together with the exigencies of the campaign, in the hands of those big military leaders who are quite unmoved by criticism of their tactics on the part of either press or pulpit. Great Britain has nothing whatever to regret in her attitude, which is "active" support of treaty obligations, whereas some powers signatory to the same treaty in question are profuse in wordy protests and sympathy, but disgracefully lacking in action. Had Britain's fine sense of honor in regard to treaty obligations actuated some other power's party to the Hague Convention, this appalling world-war would have been crushed in its incipiency.

EVER TRUST

The rain has ceased, the flowers again look up,
And raise their dewy eyes in gratitude
To Him who sends the soft refreshing showers,
The Father, and the giver of all good.

Would we but take a lesson from the flowers,
And raise our eyes to Him, though dim with tears,
In loving trust and faith look up and see
The glad, bright bow of promise that appears.

And shines through sorrows deepest, darkest clouds,
And bids us hope again for brighter days,
And know that in the storm, in the calm
Our Father guides the helm through all life's ways.

Should he, Hardy, not get a decision, against Forbes, he will give $50 to the Children's Aid Society. It will be remembered that on Saturday night Forbes and Hardy wrestled when Forbes, on a $50 side bet, failed to throw Hardy in sixty minutes.

Nerviline Ends Neuralgia, Brings Relief Instantly

No Remedy Like Old "Nerviline" to Cure Pain or Soreness.

That terrible ache—how you fairly reel with it—that stabbing, burning neuralgia what misery it causes. Never mind, you don't have to suffer—use Nerviline, it's a sure cure. Not an experiment, because nearly forty years of wonderful success has made a name for Nerviline among the people of many different nations. "There is nothing speedier to end Neuralgic headache than old-time 'Nerviline,'" writes Mr. G. C. Dalgleish, from Evanston. "It is so powerful and penetrating that it seems to eat up any pain in a minute. My family couldn't get along without Nerviline. We always keep the 50c. family size bottle handy on the shelf, and use it to end chest colds, sore throat, coughs, earache, toothache, and pain in the back. My wife swears by Nerviline. For cramps its effect is astonishing and we believe it is better and speedier than any other household family remedy."

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Company re-capitalised in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs—all young foxes—good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leaving $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:—"We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalize your concern at $90,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

Below are the particulars of sale of a consignment of Silver Fox Furs, shipped from Prince Edward Island ranches to London, England, and sold there in March, 1910:

SHARES

Shares are selling at $25.00 each; 25 per cent. with application and the balance on or before September 1st, 1914.

Simply fill out the application form and mail to Major C. McKinnon, Secretary-Treasurer, Glenaladale, P. E. I.

All cheques must be made payable to "The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Ltd."

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you.

We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business—and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

A CLEVER ANIMAL IS THE BEAVER

Country Once Swarmed With Millions of These Busy and Intelligent Little Workers

The beaver is the smartest of all wild animals. He has a mental property which corresponds to the reasoning power in man. Also he is a genuine historical celebrity. No other animal has cut such a figure in the development of the North American continent.

Before the white man came beavers were distributed over North America perhaps more widely than any other animal. The beaver population was probably densest to the south-west of Hudson Bay and about the head-waters of the Missouri and [illegible] Rivers. Along the thousands of smaller streams throughout North America there was colony after colony, dam after dam, in close succession, sometimes as many as 300 beaver ponds to the mile.

The beaver population at the beginning of the seventeenth century must have been upward of 100,000,000, distributed over an area of approximately 6,000,000 square miles.

The majority of dams are made of slender green poles, which are placed lengthwise with the flow for the bottom, and set braced with the end upstream a foot or so higher than the downstream end. With these there are occasionally used small limby trees. The large end of the tree is placed upstream and the small bushy end downstream.

If in a current these sometimes are weighted down with mud and stones. Short, stout sticks and long, slender poles are deftly mingled in the dam as it rises.

Beaver houses that are built in a pond usually stand in three or four feet of water. The foundation is laid on the bottom of the pond, of the size intended for the house, and built up a solid mass to a few inches above water level. This island-like foundation is covered with a dome-shaped house, the central portion of the foundation forming the floor of the low-vaulted room which is enclosed by the thick house walls. In building the house the beaver provides a temporary support for the combined roof and walls by piling in the centre of the floor a two-foot mound of mud. Over this is placed a somewhat flattened tepee or cone-shaped frame of sticks and small poles. These stand on the outer part of the foundation and lean inward, with upper ends meeting against and above the temporary support. The beaver then cover this framework with two or three feet of mud, brush and turf, and thus make the walls and the roof of the house. When the outer part of the house is completed they dig an inclined passageway, from the bottom of the pond up through the foundation, into the irregular space left between the supporting pile of mud and the walls. And of this space they shape a room by clawing out the temporary support and gnawing off the intruding sticks. This represents the most highly developed type of beaver house.

The room is from one to three feet high and from three to twenty feet across. The room is a kind of burrow and this is without either door or window. Half buried sticks make a comparatively dry floor, despite the fact that it is only a few inches above water level.

In many localities the canals or ditches dug and used by the beaver form their most necessary and extensive works. These canals require enormous labor and much skill. In transporting trees for food supply, water transportation is so much easier and safer than land that wherever the immediate surroundings of the pond are comparatively level the beaver endeavors to lead water out to the tree groves by digging a canal from the edge of the pond to these groves. The felled trees are by this means easily floated into the pond.

POPULAR SUPERSTITIONS

Some Signs That Most People do Not Disregard

James Russell Lowell, that calm scholarly poet, tells us that "a mythology or superstition broods over us in our cradles and mingles with the lullaby of the nurse; it is in the winter evening legends of the chimney corners and is never entirely eradicated."

From the earliest recollection of the first rehearsal of the "bogie man" down to the day when your sweetheart plucked the petals from the flower, saying "He loves me, he loves me not," there has been a strange, though at times an illogical sequence to things coupled with superstition.

What politician and candidate would not accept a bunch of four-leaf clovers from a maiden and feel convinced that fortune smiled upon him? We would like his name and we would wish to see his photograph.

What bride, whether of cottage or castle, but would feel slighted if her friends did not shower her with rice as she was helped into carriage or automobile? And what bridegroom, whether of low or high brow, would feel scorned if the old shoe were not flung at him as he drove away with his bride?

Distinguished statesmen, poets painters, orators, inventors, and merchants have attested their consideration of the popular superstitions of marriage, and have paid tribute to the goddess Superstition in their wedding gifts to their brides.

London is the chief human hair market of the world, and deals with something like $1,500,000 worth of hair every year. The hair mostly comes from the heads of peasant girls in Italy, Brittany, and the South of France.

The Largest Apple

The largest and heaviest apple ever grown in the world, says an English paper, was raised last summer in England. It was a Gloria Mundi, and was produced by the same grower who a few seasons ago raised the famous giant apple of the same variety, which measured 24 inches in circumference and weighed 27 ounces. Sent for sale in Covent Garden on October 19, 1909, it realized the astonishing price of $70 by public auction, breaking all previous records. The new record breaker weighed no less than 33¼ ounces. This wonderful apple was grown in an 11-inch flower pot, the tree producing six mammoth fruit at the same time. It was this [illegible] tree which bore the giant of [illegible]

Huge Sums For Racing

Top of Stocking is Caught in Slot of Metal Hook

Now comes a new type of garter. To the casual observer it would seem to have no particular advantage over several kinds now in use, but, at least, it is different. There is, of course, the usual elastic band to fit around the upper part of the calf of the leg and prevent slipping. From the center of this band depends a metal hook with an open end and a narrow V-shaped slot formed by this end. The feature of this garter would appear to be its simplicity, for the fastening of the stocking in it is the matter of an instant. A little end of the stocking top is gathered up, slipped into the slot of the hook, and there you are. The inventor claims that a stocking fastened in this way will not pull out and will not be damaged in the least.

VERY SIMPLE TO FASTEN.

DEVELOPING THE OYSTER

The Industry Is Important in Prince Edward Island

The Government of Prince Edward Island leases 30,000 acres, chiefly in Richmond Bay, to oyster culturists. They pay one dollar per acre. The product per acre when in condition is fifty barrels, therefore the normal yield is 1,500,000 barrels, which at $2 per barrel amounts to millions of dollars.

A great deal of work is required to develop the oyster. The spat has a leg with a gelatinous foot, with which it adheres to solid substances. It will not affix itself to anything slimy; consequently it has been found necessary to take the shells on shore, let the rain and sunshine clean them and replant them before dropping the spat.

STORM SIGNALS

Canada's system for storm warnings is quite simple but interesting. These signals are hoisted at specific places called drums and are as follows:

1. For daylight signal a bucket, shaped like a liquid funnel, right side up hoisted on a pole; and for night signal a red light indicates a gale at first from an easterly direction.

2. Same as No. 1 reversed, narrow side up for daylight; for night signal a white light over the red indicates a gale at first from a westerly direction.

3. Same as No. 1 but with a round shaped drum over the funnel for daylight and a red light for night indicates a heavy gale at first from an easterly direction.

4. With funnel over drum for daylight and a white light over red one at night indicates a heavy gale from at first a westerly direction.

WEATHER FALACIES LONG SINCE EXPLODED

There Are Some Signs, However, Which May be Taken as Usually Reliable

There are two widespread popular fallacies in connection with the weather. One is that rain may be caused by concussion. This idea, that any loud noise, such as cannonading, or even the ringing of bells, would bring rain, was suggested centuries ago. It was fully disproved in 1892 by experiments made by the United States Government. In these tests heavy charges of dynamite were carried aloft, even into the interior of clouds, by kites and balloons and exploded there but no rain resulted. The other fallacy is that the moon has an influence on the weather. This notion has been proved, by years of careful meteorological observations to be entirely without foundation. The old belief that certain crops should be planted at a certain stage of the moon is so absurd that it is no longer held by any intelligent people.

Popular Sayings

There are many popular sayings concerning the weather. Some of these are quite unreliable, and only persist because of the popular tendency to count the hits and forget the misses. No credence should be attached to the innumerable sayings regarding the character of certain seasons as determined by the weather on certain dates of the calendar. The same is true of the saying that the early appearance of winter birds denotes a severe winter. On the other hand there are many weather signs which can usually be relied upon. An observant person whose occupation takes him outdoors can very often predict the weather from one day to the next with a good degree of accuracy. Much appears to depend upon knowing one's locality, as a person who is "weather wise" at home is often decidedly off in new regions.

Some Explanations

Smoke falls before a storm, because the condensation of vapor on the smoke particles weighs them down. This increase in humidity before a storm also causes an increase in rheumatic pains, and make the walls of stone houses damp. Dew formed plentifully after a fair day and soon dissolved the next morning indicates a strong range of temperature under the clear sky of a anticyclone, and hence may fortell a day or two of fair weather. It is said that "the northwest wind is a gentleman, and goes to bed," meaning that the nights are usually calm after a northwest wind by day; this naturally follows from the diurnal variation of velocity in the clear weather of such a wind. When the wind shifts to the north with the sun (that is "veers") we usually get clear weather. This is so because it indicates that the cyclone which has brought us the bad weather has passed. If, on the other hand, the wind backs (that is goes in the opposite direction to the sun) another spell of bad weather is coming.

British Columbia Pursues Progressive Policy to Reduce Fire Menace

Much progress has been made in British Columbia in connection with minimizing fire risks through the disposal of slash resulting from lumbering operations. In one year about 20,000 acres of lumbering slash were burned in that province, and a much larger area would have been burned had it not been for unusual rain. On the Coast and in the Interior, several experimental areas were burned by the Forest Branch, which, also, in co-operation with the Department of Public Works, burned a great many miles of slash along public roads. Such inflammable débris constitutes a serious fire menace as long as it is allowed to remain undisposed of. The Forest Branch, in co-operation with private land owners, secured the burning of quantities of slash created by road and railroad construction through private lands. It was a condition of the charter of the railways building through the province, through timbered territory, that where timber is taken from Crown lands for construction purposes, the slash shall be piled and burned, scattered and burned, or lopped, according to the direction of the forest officers.

Rich Stamp Dealer

Mr. W. H. Peckitt, a famous Strand stamp dealer, retired with a fortune at the early age of forty-two. Mr. Peckitt, who specialized in British and Colonial issues, paid $130,000 for the collection of the late Sir William Avery. He also bought part of the late Earl of Crawford's collection. It is stated that the price paid for Mr. Peckitt's collection ran into six figures.

Pipes From the Garden

The Boers of South Africa, very carefully guarded calabash seeds, and high prices were obtained for the gourds to be used for pipes, before the seeds were introduced to other countries. A single African calabash vine yields as many as thirty or forty gourds. Care has, of course, to be taken to train the fruit into pipe shapes, and this is done by laying them during the growing period on small boards, manipulating it so that the gourds harden evenly. Taken when young and pliable the stem of the gourd can be trained into any pipe shape desired. Calabash pipes, as sold on the market, are, of course, fitted with fancy fittings, and the bowl is either made of meerschaum or plaster-of-Paris.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ⅛ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830 or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

SWEAT SHOP FACTS

A Woman Gets Eighteen Cents For Making Twelve Shirts

The Duchess of Marlborough gave a most remarkable object lesson regarding the English sweat shop system, at her home, Sunderland House, when a dozen representative sweated workers told their stories to a large audience.

The first woman said she had been a chain maker for fifty-two years. Holding up a heavy chain, she simply said, "This used to be 87 cents a hundred; now it is $1.25." Next she showed thirty-one links attached to a ring which were made for two cents—"a good lot," as she described it. She gave place to the match-box maker, who said she was now paid six cents a gross instead of the four cents, which was previously given. "It takes one and a half hours to make a gross, not losing a minute." Shirt-making was represented by a woman from the West End of London. Unfolding a coarse shirt, she remarked, "A dozen of these right out before earning 18 cents! Last week me and my husband sat from 5.30 in the morning until 11 at night and made fourteen dozen shirts, which came to $2.62, out of which we had to pay 37 cents for the machine, and 45 cents for cotton."

Another woman had quite a cheerful countenance. Holding high above her head the uppers of two shoes, she remarked, with a laugh, "These are what are commonly called 'pumps,' but what we call in our factories 'patent dress shoes.' I get 20 cents for twelve pairs, and it takes me an hour to make two pairs." The most I can earn is $1.50 or $1.75 a week, working very hard from morning till night, and finding my own machine and cotton.

COLORS IN PICTURES

A Violet Line Gives an Impression of Shading or Projection

In looking at a picture the eye cannot assess each color which makes up the pattern at its exact value. This is chiefly due to the irremediable restlessness of the eye, and to its memory, which is always impressed with an after-image of any color at which the eye's lens is directed. Add to this that the eye focuses differently for different colors, and that all portions of the retina are not equally susceptible to color—and it will be realized that hardly any color in a picture, or a landscape, leaves the same impression that it would have if detached from all surroundings. These are some of the obvious truths of which painters make empirical use on their canvases.

A physiological explanation is attempted regarding the violet line which the post-impressionists use to outline objects in order to give the impression, without shading, of rotundity, or of projection. The effect of such a line is best shown in one of those numerous "still-life" studies where a vase stands among fruit. If the picture is viewed at such a distance that the line just disappears the vase will not only stand forward from its background, but also will appear to be shaded at its edges. The effect is most marked if the vase is painted in a yellow, or in some color well removed from blue, or, which will answer as well, in some washed-out color approaching a grey.

There are actually several factors producing the illusion. One is that when, for example, the prevailing hue of the colorfield of the picture is yellowish, the rays reflected from the yellow are mixed with those reflected from the blue, and the retina of the eye, which is the palette where they are mixed, receives an impression of grey. It is thus deceived into believing that some space exists between the object and its surroundings.

Hot Air as a Polisher

Hot air is utilized nowadays in polishing processes. The articles to be treated are placed in a basket in a centrifugal machine driven at a very high speed, and heated air is blown from a pipe through the basket. A high polish is thus produced very rapidly. Nickel-plated articles that have become tarnished are made bright in a few minutes. Wet metal, fresh from the bath, needs no preliminary drying, for the current of air dries and polishes it at the same moment.

A Cleanable Filter

In a new household filter the filtering portion is so hinged that it may be swung out of an opening at one side for thorough cleaning.

A recent census, the first of the kind ever taken, credited Denmark with more than 5,000,000 fruit trees.

SWIMMING RECORDS AND NEW STROKES

Trudgeon Displaced by the Crawl For Speed Swimming—Old Records Seem Slow

There is no doubt that the several new swimming strokes, which have been devised in the last few years, are accountable for the number of swimming records that have been broken. The crawl and its variations have made big inroads into the time for various swims. Record holders have learned to use these strokes while still little more than youngsters in most instances, and they have improved upon them until the time made by the use of the old breast stroke and the overhand stroke had to give way, just as the improvement in automobile engines and motorcycle engines has accounted for the record-making in these branches of sport.

A glance over the record holders and the title holders of the past two decades disclosed to view two swimmers who stand out head and shoulders above the rest, one in England, and the other in the United States. From 1894 to 1897 J. B. Tyers, the great English swimmer, held every British record and championship from 100 yards to the mile, while in the States C. M. Daniels maintained the same high standard as peer of all swimmers on this side of the Atlantic, being unbeatable from 1904 until his retirement. Although there were swimmers who might have been slightly faster at some one distance than these two men, it can safely be said that for all round speed swimming they were in a class by themselves, all distances looking alike to them, each holding the sprint records and the distance marks.

Tyers' records compared with the times made by the best swimmers of to-day seem slow, but when it is considered that they were made with the trudgeon stroke, which has been generally abandoned for speed swimming the world over by latter-day swimmers, they appear all the more remarkable.

Old Strokes Abandoned

C. M. Daniels in the early part of his racing career used the trudgeon stroke exclusively, and even after he had acquired the then new crawl used the trudgeon for all swimming over the two hundred and twenty yards. It was not, however, until he took to the crawl seriously that he broke down the existing American records and a number of world's records.

The minute mark for the one hundred yards was for many years the zenith of every speed swimmer's ambition. It was not until 1902 that the one hundred yards was swam in less than a minute by V. C. Lane, an Australian. Swimming the Australian crawl he reduced the time to 59 3-5 seconds.

From 1902 up to the present every championship meeting, with few exceptions, has brought forth a new record for this distance. In 1905 Zolton de Holmay, the great Austrian swimmer, further reduced the time to 59 seconds flat. The time for the century was again brought down by Daniels in 1907 to 58 2-5 seconds. In 1908 occurred the most remarkable reduction of this oft-broken record, when C. M. Daniels, swimming against the world's best speed swimmers at Manchester, England, established the unthought-of time of 55 2-5 seconds.

Hawaiian and Canadian

This record stood until the Olympic games at Stockholm brought to the public's attention one who is considered the peer of all speed swimmers, past or present, Duke Kahanamouka, the Hawaiian. He set the wonderful time of 1.01 3-5 for the distance of 109.361 yards, and later established a new world's record of 54 3-5 seconds for the 100 yards.

Kieran established a record of 23 minutes 16 4-5 seconds for a mile in a bath, which has never been approached.

The record for the half-mile of 11 minutes 25 seconds, established by Taylor, a great English swimmer, still stands, and the only swimmer who is at all likely to break it is George Hodgson, the wonderful Canadian mile record holder.

It is in the mile event, the classic distance, that the greatest changes have taken place. Starting with Tyers' record of 27 minutes 27 2-5 seconds in 1895. It is found that it was broken eight times concluding with the marvelous swimming of the youngster Hodgson who established the new accepted figures of 23 minutes 34 1-4 seconds, a total reduction of three minutes and forty-seven seconds in sixteen years.

HINTS IN DAIRYING

How You May Increase Profits From the Dairy

Weed out the unprofitable cows.

Feed economically.

Care for the milk produced in the way that it should be cared for.

The question is not "What is the average production of the herd?" but "Is each cow in the herd a profit-maker?"

Study the feeding problem in order to get maximum returns for your outlay.

It is important to know what it costs to feed a cow, but it is also worth while knowing how much is left in your pocket after the feed is paid for.

In caring for milk, cleanliness and cold are the two great essentials.

Milk may become contaminated in many ways, and anything that we do to keep dust and dirt out of the milk-pail means milk of better flavor and better keeping qualities.

Keep the separator and its surroundings clean.

Set the separator to take a cream so rich that one gallon will make from 3 to 3½ pounds of butter.

Cool the cream to a low temperature immediately after separating.

Never add warm cream to the cool.

Stir the cream in the can thoroughly every time fresh cream is added.

Do not add sweet cream to the ripened cream the day you are going to churn.

Choose the temperature that will bring the butter in nice, firm granules in from [illegible] 20 minutes.

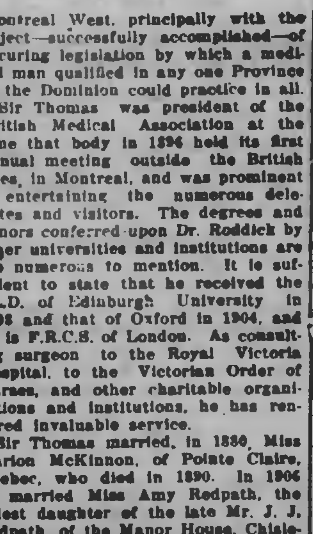
CANADIAN DOCTOR WON MANY HONORS

Sir Thomas Roddick Secured Legislation Creating Dominion-wide Standard For Medical Men

Among the medical men who have won fame and honor in Canada is Sir Thomas George Roddick of Montreal, who rendered such eminent service to his profession by initiating the law which now qualifies its members for practice in any Province of the Dominion. Sir Thomas is a native of Newfoundland, was educated in Truro, Nova Scotia, and was a distinguished graduate of McGill University, Montreal, where he rapidly became famous as a surgeon and general practitioner. He was from 1901 to 1908 Dean of the Medical Faculty of his University.

His father left Dumfriesshire to become for many years principal of the Government School at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland. During the rebellion in the Northwest in 1885 Sir Thomas organized the hospital and medical service for the expeditionary force, holding the rank of Deputy Surgeon-General. He is lieutenant-colonel (retired) of the Prince of Wales' Rifles of Montreal. He also saw active service during the Fenian raids in 1870. In 1896 he entered the Dominion House of Commons as M.P. for Montreal West, principally with the object—successfully accomplished—of securing legislation by which a medical man qualified in any one Province of the Dominion could practice in all.



SIR THOMAS RODDICK, M.D.

Sir Thomas was president of the British Medical Association at the time that body in 1896 held its first annual meeting outside the British Isles, in Montreal, and was prominent in entertaining the numerous delegates and visitors. The degrees and honors conferred upon Dr. Roddick by other universities and institutions are too numerous to mention. It is sufficient to state that he received the LL.D. of Edinburgh University in 1898 and that of Oxford in 1904, and he is F.R.C.S. of London. As consulting surgeon to the Royal Victoria Hospital, to the Victorian Order of Nurses, and other charitable organizations and institutions, he has rendered invaluable service.

Sir Thomas married, in 1880, Miss Marion McKinnon, of Pointe Claire, Quebec, who died in 1890. In 1906 he married Miss Amy Redpath, the eldest daughter of the late Mr. J. J. Redpath, of the Manor House, Chislehurst, a member of an old Montreal family.

HOPE TO FIND COAL

Fuel Supply in Canada's Northland Would be Great Boon

There is under way a prospecting expedition to Hudson Bay, the main object of which is to investigate coal deposits in that area which can be utilized in connection with the operation of the Hudson Bay Railway. A supply will also be required for the steamers. At present all the coal that is required in connection with steamer traffic to the Bay has to be conveyed there by Newfoundland sealing steamers that are used for freighting purposes in the summer months. They are the only vessels available that can withstand the wear and tear of navigation in these northern ice-laden waters.

Coal for the needs of the railway construction forces is conveyed by train from Winnipeg and Le Pas as the railroad progresses. When the line is opened to Port Nelson and terminals constructed there provision for a large storage for coal will be made. Its cost, however, in view of the lengthy transportation from Cape Breton by water and from Western Canada by rail will be a considerable item. Hence the present efforts to locate coal deposits near Port Nelson.

Protect Young Timber

Mr. Clyde Leavitt, chief fire inspector of the Railway Commission, stated, in an interview, that the railways were doing everything in their power to prevent bush fires near the railway tracks from spreading. "It seems to me," said Mr. Leavitt, "that there is too little attention paid to the fires in the cut over areas, and too much protection concentrated on the merchantable timber limits. If more effort were devoted to protecting the young timber it would give it a chance and prevent the fire from spreading to the limits where the trees are large enough for merchantable use."

Royal Baking Powder is extensively used privately and by the military forces throughout the world. Trent Canal Note

The Government dredge being taken through Bobcaygeon last Friday met the fate of being grounded on the bottom of the canal for want of water, almost as bad as the Newmarket canal. However, the stop logs were put in just below the swing bridge and the heavy barge was then towed out. It was on the way to Lake Simcoe. It took about a day and a half to get through.

Both Were Fined

Two East ward men were up before Magistrate Jackson this morning charged with disorderly conduct.

The row started over the loan of a quarter. It appears that one of the offenders [illegible] loaned the other party 25 cents and found it very laborious to collect, although he had repeatedly asked for it. Saturday night the quarter was paid back and after doing so the borrower knocked his friend down by giving him a stunning blow. He afterwards revived, when a second encounter took place, which was interspersed with rude remarks and vile epithets. Constable Wood happened along and placed the two men under arrest and handed them over to Chief Short. At this morning's court it cost the party who loaned the quarter $5.45 and the borrower $6.45.—Lindsay Warder.

Barnardo Girl Lays Charge

County Police Magistrate F. D. Moore, K.C., held court behind closed doors this morning, none being permitted to remain within the precincts of the tribunal of justice except the accused, plaintiff, witnesses and their counsels. The case which involves litigation is one of indecent assault, in which a prominent Mariposa farmer is the defendant, the charge being laid by a Barnardo girl who lives at a farm home in the village of Little Britain.

The offence was committed, according to plaintiff's statement, during a Sunday afternoon while the family with whom she resided were attending church.—Lindsay Warder.

Police Should get Busy

At 12.15 three "express carts," i. e. came down the decline on Downie st., on its east side, to Simcoe st. On the third cart, as it looped the loop, were seated two small boys. Just as the cart reached Simcoe street it upset, throwing the boys on the cement pavement. One of them was somewhat seriously hurt in his right leg. He raised cries that must have been heard at the foot of Jove's thrown. His wailing quickly attracted a large crowd of people en route to dinner. At first it was feared the lad's leg was broken. This, had it proved correct, would have been a sad calamity as the boy's left leg is paralyzed. However, no bones were broken. The police should insist that such carts be kept off the street, as they are a noisy nuisance and a menace to pedestrians.

Rifle Women at Practice

It is probably not generally known that Canada has an active rifle association composed of ladies. Yet such is the case, and the incorporation of a photograph of some of its members at rifle-practice in the cover design of the October issue of "Canada Life Echoes" is a timely reminder of the fact. The well-known little periodical this month appears in the form of a number of women, and the nature of its contents ensure that it will be read with interest by all those into whose hands it may come. The illustrations throughout are suitable and well printed and the book contains several articles of vital interest, both to women of the home and those at business. A special feature is the inclusion of a series of directions for first aid helps to the victims of such accidents as might happen about any home. This particular article gives the book a permanent value, as also does a collection of recipes of the kind that are most useful in the home and often the hardest to find when needed. A free copy of this number of "Canada Life Echoes" will be forwarded to any sending their name and address to W. R. Scadding, District Agent, Canada Life Assce. Co., Peterboro.

MOTHER IF CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grownups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Miss Ada Graham, Water street, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Stanton, Millbrook, for the holiday.

Jas Milby Not to Box

Notwithstanding that cards have been printed announcing that Jas. Milby will box Hubbard at the Rink on Friday evening, Mr. Milby called at the Times office last night and stated that his name had been used without authority. He has not the slightest intention of engaging in the athletic bouts on the occasion advertised.

Austro-German Army Suffers Enormous Losses

Allies Make Marked Gains In North of France

GERMANS LOST 15,000 MEN IN BAD DEFEAT AT ARRAS RECENTLY

Allie Forces Making Highly Satisfactory Progress North of Arras, Bardeaux Expects Rapid Developments in Favor of French and British--Foe's Advance in Belfort Distinct Meets a Check

Paris, Oct. 15.— The newspaper France Du Nord declares today that when the Germans were defeated at Arras they lost from 12,000 to 15,000 men who were surrounded by French in some marshes.

Paris, Oct. 15.—The official communication, given out by the French War Office this afternoon, is as follows.

"In Belgium, German troops coming from Antwerp, are marching toward the west, and on the evening of October 14 they reached the region of Bruges and Thielt rfifteen miles southeast of Bruges).

"First—On our left wing, the enemy has evacuated the left bank of the Lys. Between the Lys and the canal of La Bassee the situation shows no change.

"In the region of Lens, and between Arras and Albert our progress has qeen marked.

"Between the Somme and the Oise there has been no change!

The Germans have cannonaded our line without, however, delivering any infantry attacks.

"Second—On the centre, between the Oise and the Meuse, we have adpaoced in the direction of Craonne.

"To the northeast of the highway from Berry-Au-Bas to Rheims and to the north of Prunay, in the direction of Beine, several German trenches have been taken.

"Between the Meuse and the Moselle after having repulsed, during the night of October 13-14, certain attacks to the southeast of Verdun, our troops advanced on the 11th to the south of the highway from Gerdun to Metz.

"Third—On our right wing, the partial offensive movements undertaken by the Germans in the Ban De Sapt, to the north of Saint Die, has been definitely checked

"In Russia, the fighting conditions along the front, beginning in the vicinity of Warsaw, stretching along the Vistula and the San as far as Przemysl, and further in a southeasterly direction as far as the Dneister.

"There has been no change in East Prussia."

Expect Rapid Developments.

Bordeaux, Oct. 15.—A high official of the French Government declared this morning that the latest despatches from the front showed that the military situation was about to depelop more rapidly on the centre, in the region of Berry-au-Bac, and on the left, in the La Basse, Estaires and Baillued district. The allies continue to make progress, this official continued. Several hotly contested positions which had changed hands repeatedly during the past few weeks, were now strongly held by the French and the Anglo-French situation was most encouraging.

Official Orders To Cultured? Germans To Pillage, Burn, Shoot

Teutonic Forces Urged By High Authority to Kill and Outrage Non-Combatants No Mercy to be Shown Women and Children, How Long Will Nations Calmly Receive Evidence of Such Barbaric Warfare Without Active Protest?

New York, Oct. 15.—A Petrograd despatch to The Tribune says.—

The official Government organ publishes the following as a literal translation of a document found on a German officer taken prisoner:—

"Secret Beloved Defenders of the Fatherland:

"Our Fatherland has been overtaken by sorrow that involves us all. We have been compelled to go to war at a moment when we are totally unprepared, and corn lies ungarnered in the fields. To the last drop of your blood must you fight, not to surrender to the enemy.

"We have heard rumors that German troops in several places have been attacked not only by the enemy's army but by the population, and therefore I order you to shoot all inhabitants on whom arms gre found in the enemy's country, not sparing either women or children. Furthermore, in places where the population offers resistance you are to take the entire population, great and small, prisoners, and to burn their towns and raze them to the ground."

FOUND ON PRISONER.

This document, says the official journal, is signed,— but the authorities refrain from reproducing the exalted person's signature.

This extraordinary order was found on a prisoner taken in the neighborhood of Przemysl.

DEFEAT OF FOE NEAR WARSAW.

London, Oct. 15.—A despatch from Petragrad to The Messagero of Rome, says that the Austro-German army yesterday was completely defeated in the neighborhood of Warsaw, Russian Poland. The Austrians and Germans suffered enormous losses. The Russians are stated to have taken thousands of prisoners.

CIVILIANS EVACUATE GOLDAPP.

A despatch to the Reuter Telegram Company from Amsterdam says:—

"The evacuation of Goldapp in East Prussia by the civilian population is revealed by the Cologne Gazette's correspondent at Rastenburg, who says that the departure was caused by military reasons and precautions." The correspondent adds: 'All the Russian attacks on this side have been repulsed and the Russians forced back across the fronntier. It is estimated that from six to eight army corps are along the frontier from Schirwindt to a point opposite Lyck (East Prussia.)

BRITISH ARMY HAVING EASY TIME IN HOLDING THE ENEMY IN CHECK

All German Attempts to Take British Positions Prove Very Costly to the Enemy--English Aviators Credited With Skill Superior to all Competitors--A Thrilling Encounter in Mid Air

London, Oct. 15.—The official War Information Bureau issues the narrative of an eye-witness from the headquarters of the British army in France supplementing his story of October 11th of the movements of the British forces and the French armies in immediate touch with them.

The narrative is dated October 13, as follows:

"From Friday, the 9th of October, until Monday, the 12th, so little occurred that a narrative of the events can be given in a few words. There has been the usual sporadic shelling of our trenches, which has resulted in but little harm so well dug in are our men, and on the night of the 10th the Germans made a fresh assault, supported by artillery, against the point which has all along attracted most of their attention.

"The attempt was again a costly failure, towards which are guns were able to contribute with great effect.

An Encounter in Midair.

"Details have now been received of an exciting encounter in midair. One of our apiators, on a fast scouting monoplane, sighted a hostile machine. He had two rifles fixed, one on either side of his engine, and at once gave chase, but lost sight of his opponent amongst the clouds. Soon, however, another machine hove into view and turned out to be a German Otto biplane, a type of machine which is not nearly so fast as our [illegible]. Our officer once again started a pursuit. He knew that owing to the position of the propeller of the hostile machine that he could not be fired at when astern of his opponent. At sixty yards' range he fired one rifle without apparent resu,t. Then as his pace was carrying him ahead of his quarry he turned round and again coming to about the same distance behind empties his magazine at the German.

The latter began at once to descend as if either he or his machine were hit, and shutting off his engine and volplaning to free his hands the pursuer recharged his magazine. Unfortunately, it jammed, but he managed to insert four cartridges and to fire them at his descending opponent, who disappeared in a cloudbank with dramatic suddenness. When the British officer emerged below the clouds no sign of the other could be seen. He therefore climbed to an altitude of some 7,000 feet and came to the conclusion that the German must have come earth in the French lines.

"The French airmen, too, have been very successful during the last three days, having dropped several bombs amongst the German cavalry and caused considerable loss and disorder, and having by similar means silenced a battery of field howitzers."

GERMAN ARMY THROWN BACK IN ITS FORCED MARCH ON OSTEND

Struggle in Lille Going Satisfactory for the Allies--Left Wing of French and English Promises Victory at All Important Quarter of Extended Battle Line--Real Reason for the War

London, Oct. 16.— Telegraphing from Calais The Daily Chronicle's correspondent says:

The position on the allies' left wing, which is now the most important section of the long battle line, grows daily more satisfactory. The fighting around Lille has been extremely satisfactory to the allies. The Germans have been turned out of the semicircular positions which they held around Lille and the corner of French territory which juts into Belgium there.

The Germans have been pushed back as far as Courtrai (in Belgium, twenty-six miles southwest of Ghent) where they are entrenching. It appears that they will mave a stubborn endeavor to hold the line of Blankenqurghe, Bruges and Courtrai.

Make Dash on Calais.

It was the German intention to make a dash on Calais coincidentally with the taking of Antwerp. In accordance with this plan they advanced in force on Hazebrouck, Mont Cassel and Saint Omer.

The allies' guns near Mont Cassel mowed down the oncoming Germans who fell back, leaving several hundred wounded. The allies followed up their advantage, throwing the enemy back over the Belgian border.

During the fighting near Saint Omer, a bomb from a German aeroplane killed three persons and injured six others. A French aeroplane pursued the German bomb thrower and killed the pilot and companion with rifle shots

To Return Refugees.

Rome, Oct. 15.— Arrangements have been made to run special trains from the Dutch frontier to Antwerp to carry back Belgium refugees, the majority who are expected to return within a fortnight. This information is contained in a despatch received here from Berlin.

Here's the Real Reason.

Rome, Oct. 15.—The Gazatta del Popolo, a Turin newspaper, having asked King Nicholas of Montenegro, to give his views regarding the war, received an answer from General Martinoviten, who in the name of the King replied as follows:

The terrible war is the revenge — attempted throughout a century which this time we hope will be strictly defined of oppressed nationalities against nefarious work of the Vienna congress. The nationalities supported by the triple entente did not provoke the sanguinary struggle which was imposed upon them by the reactionary spirit of the German world, wishing definitely to consolidate its own region on the sufferings of the weak in contempt of international law.

THINK HARD.

It Pays to Think About Food.

The unthinking life some people lead often causes trouble and sickness, illustrated in the experience of this lady.

"About four years ago I suffered dreadfully from indigestion, always having eaten whatever I liked, not thinking of the digestible qualities. This indigestion caused palpitation of the heart so badly I could scarcely walk up a flight of stairs without stopping to regain breath and strength.

"I became alarmed and tried dieting, wore my clothes very loose, and used in other remedies, but found no relief.

"Hearing of the virtues of Grape-Nuts and Postum, I commenced using them in place of my usual breakfast of coffee, cakes or hot biscuit, and in one week's time I was relieved of sour stomach and other ills attending indigestion. In a month's time my heart was performing its functions naturally and I could climb stairs and hills and walk long distances.

"I gained ten pounds in this short time, and my skin became clear and I completely regained my health and strength. I continued to use Grape-Nuts and Postum for I feel that I owe my good health entirely to their use.

"I like the delicious flavour of Grape-Nuts and by making Postum according to directions, it tastes similar to mild high grade coffee." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

The most perfect food in the world. Trial of Grape-Nuts and cream 10 days proves. "There's a Reason."

TALENTED DRAMATIC CO.

The H. Webb Chamberlain Stock Company are being seen this week to splendid effect in the Grand Opera House. As a repertoire aggregation they are offering presentations each night that are difficult to improve upon. Last night's audience was very generous in its demonstrative approval of "The Yellow Streak," while tonight's offering of the famous comedy drama, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," is looked forward to with pleasurable anticipation by patrons of the Opera House. A matinee will be given tomorrow for the convenience of ladies and little folks.

Miss Ivy Smith is to be congratulated upon winning the Amateur Contest last night with a song and recitation.

This Leaves the Skin Free From Hairy Growths.

(Toilet Talks)

A simple method for completely removing every trace of hair or fuzz is here given. This is painless and usually a single treatment will banish even stubborn growths. To remove hairs, make a thick paste with some powdered delatone and water, spread on hairy surface and after about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This method will not mar the skin, but to avoid disappointment, be certain you get delatone.

German And Greek Steamers Are In Trouble

London, Oct. 15.—The Admiralty announces that the British cruiser Yarmouth has sunk the German Hamburg-American Line steamer Markomannia in the vicinity of Sumatra and has captured and is taking into a harbor the Greek steamer Pontports. Both the Markomannia and the Pontports have been reported previously as accompanying the German cruiser Emden. The Yarmouth has sixty German prisoners of war on board.

No Fighting Force Now Remains In Ostend Town

Folkestone, Oct. 15.—The Kenilworth, one of the last four steamships to leave Ostend, arrived early today bringing 2,000 refugees. Among them were some Belgian soldiers and as they were not wounded the infference was that the Belgians considered the taking of Ostend by the German inevitable and so caused the removal of every one who otherwise would be likely to be taken prisoner.

CALAIS IS ALARMED.

The captain of the Kenilworth said that he left Ostend at eight o'clock last night. No Germans were then in evidence, but all regular communication across the channel to Ostend has now been stopped. Three other vessels which sailed from Ostend with the Kenilworth have not yet arrived.

Another small steamer reaching here today from Ostend, by way of Calais, reported that the residents of Calais were in almost as much a panic as the people of Ostend, apparently believing that the Germans would soon be upon them.

Servian Government Says Belgrade Is Not In Danger

Aish, Servia, Oct. 15.—In an optimistic official communication given out today the Servian Government announces that 'Belgrade being no longer in danger the pensions of retired officials, beginning today, Oct. 14th, will be paid at the State Treasury in Belgrade and no longer at Nish

The communication sets forth also that the supply of cattle and food stuffs in Servia is so abundant that the export of such products is permitted.

Single Aeroplane Worth A Division Of Cavalry

Paris, Oct. 15. The activity of German aeroplanes over Paris has brought up a general discussion of the value of these machines in warfare and a recital of thrilling aerial duels between French and German machines. One French corps commander is quoted as having said that, in his opinion, a single aeroplane was as valuable as a division of cavalry. Aeroplanes are of the greatest services in preventing surprises, and few important movements of troops have been made which have not been promptly reported by aerial scouts before their completion.

A daring encounter took place recently between a German monoplane and a French biplane during a critical moment in the execution of an important manoeuvre north of River Oise. The German machine was sent sailing over the French lines just before a strong detachment of troops was to start on a movement to the north. For the success of this manoeuvre it was vital that this sentry of the air be removed, and a French biplane unnertook the responsibility.

The French machine rose from the ground abruptly and in rapid circles gained an altitude greater than that of the German, but even this advantage was not sufficient to drive the scout away. In a daring dive, in which he braved a heavy fire from the French lines, the German descended to a height of 1,000 yards and skillfully avoided the French machine. He then started to drive for the German lines. The Frenchman seemed to have the advantage in speed, which has not often been the case in aeroplane encounters in the war. For a while the German was successful in keeping out of reach of the Frenchman, but the biplane, continuing its flight at a considerable height, finally attained an advantageous position

Then there could be heard the quick and sharp reports of a machine gun on the French flier. The monoplane floated for a few moments as if the pilot had lost control, and then, fluttering like a wounded bird, on the wing, the machine started an oblique flight downward, which ended in its crashing to the earth

SPY BOAT CAPTURED BY CANADIANS

Nanaimo, B. C., Oct. 15.— The 90 ton gasoline launch Ninth was captured by Canadian authorities yesterday at Comox Spit, in Union Bay. The crew, two men and a woman, all giving the name of Kohfe, were taken in custody.

The launch had about nine months' provisions and supplies aboard, carried three auxiliary engines and was equipped with wireless apparatus. It is supposed that the crew were intercepting messages from the wireless station at Cape Lazo.

Two other men, also named Kohf, were arrested at Campbell river. They are charged with being German spies. Both parties were sent to Nanaimo to await further instructions.

ATHLETICS IN FRANCE

In the matter of training her young men for athletics France is going ahead very rapidly. At Rheims the Marquis Polignac has established a wonderful athletic college. It is the most complete school of its kind in the world—in fact there is nothing like it the world over. Every appointment for the teaching of physical training is absolutely perfect and nothing else is taught. There are now hundreds of young Frenchmen being taught physical training, athletics especially, in the college at Rheims. A large number of these coaches—that's what they are—will be graduated from the Rheims college each year and sent out to take up their work throughout France. It's not hard then, to picture the result of this—a nation of wonderful athletes. The French are taking up football, golf, tennis and other outdoor sports to an amazing extent.

PROF. J. W. ROBERTSON ON TECHNICAL EDUCATION

Our whole civilisation moves under the influence of the fishermen of Galilee, the tent-maker of Tarsus, and above all the Carpenter of Nazareth.

In Ireland in 1899 there were only about 2,000 pupils in industrial continuation schools, chiefly in the north of Ireland; by 1910 there were 65,000 pupils enrolled under the schemes of the Technical Instruction branch.

After the hand work for boys was introduced into the schools of Munich, of the 2,200 boys who left school the first year thereafter, no less than 2,150 went at once into hand work in skilled employments.

What is required is that individuals and communities possess intelligence, practical ability and co-operating good will. These are not inherited.

The development of labor for the carrying on and carrying out of undertakings in connection with the natural resources is a most important duty, and at the present time is pressing upon the people for discharge. It presses upon the people both as individuals and communities.

The schools do not teach a trade, but give a good preparation for the learning of a trade immediately after the children leave school.

The fruits of technical education would be found in the circumstances and homes of the people and in the residuum of intelligence, practical ability and good will.

Hereafter the top of the ladder will be in every kind of institution where a man or woman is needed and can be trained for efficient service in agricultural work, in industrial work, commercial work, or housekeeping work.

TOOTHACHE A BLESSING

To endeavor to console a person suffering from the torments of toothache by assuring him that it is really a blessing in disguise might result in a demonstration of a not particularly amiable character. Nevertheless, scientists assure us that it is so. In many cases the only thing that prevents a general poisoning of the system is the decaying of the teeth sooner or later leaving the nerves exposed. Then the teeth begin to ache, and the pain serves as a timely warning that there is trouble on foot. The dentist is visited in haste, and either the tooth is pulled out or the decay is removed. Thus toothache a blessing very much in disguise warns us in time to prevent serious illness.

Doctors are continually pointing out that if the teeth are not looked after properly germs collect in them and on the gums, and there are statistics available showing that quite a large percentage of sufferers from blood poisoning and other troubles became ill in the first place through harmful microbes in the mouth.

Not only toothache, however, but any form of pain, serves a highly useful purpose. An aching head is often a signal that we need more rest, recreation, and sleep; a pain in the stomach is Nature's way of calling attention to the fact that we have been eating or drinking unwisely. Most of us, undoubtedly, would have died long before our time were it not for these timely warnings which Nature gives now and then in the shape of little aches and pains in various parts of the body.

PLENTY OF LAWYERS

Toronto Has More Than Enough—Big Pay at the Top

Toronto supports about 900 lawyers. Every year adds to the number, out of all proportion to the amount of business offering. In the words of a leading barrister, "Toronto has room about for thirty per cent. of the available law offices. Excess of lawyers always means an artificial stimulation of 'custom' in the form of unnecessary processes of law."

Taking the generally-accepted opinion of professional leaders that if all earnings of barristers in Toronto were pooled the average would be found about two thousand dollars a year, it means that $1,800,000 or thereabouts is paid by the public of Toronto for legal services annually, although a generous slice of that must come from the Province of Ontario. Several hundred barristers here do not approach the two thousand salary, but their minus is considerably balanced by the reputed earnings of Z. A. Lash from his legal practice alone, which is placed at $65,000 a year, and of Mr. E. F. B. Johnstone who refuses to enter a court-room without a guarantee of from $200 to $400 per day, depending on the difficulty of the case.

Poor Stock

No dairyman should be satisfied with cows that produce much less than 300 pounds of butter fat per year. Use the Babcock test and dispose of the poor stock.

Saving Labor

In these days of high-priced farm labor or no labor at all, a little gasoline engine that costs around $100 will do more work than three hired men.

A mixture of slaked lime, linseed oil and cotton fibre is used in some portions of Turkey as a substitute for cement.

THE CHIEF OBJECT OF DEVELOPMENT

Secure the Best Use of Things For the Present and Leave Them in Best Condition For Future

"Too often and too much the eyes of public men and the people generally are fixed exclusively upon some local political programme," says J. W. Robertson of the Royal Commission on Technical Education in Canada. "The vocational training of all the people to be contributing earners, good citizens and worthy members of the race is really the world's greatest movement at the present time. All the foremost nations are on the march. The campaign is against ignorance and inability and ill-wills. The hope is emancipation from poverty, disease and vice, and the attainment of new and higher levels of happiness and power by all the people. In the freshness and vigor of its youth Canada turns readily to questions of material growth and development. Canadians feel that they are coming into their own. Yet their attention and imagination are captivated by wealth in things more than their hearts are stirred by the possession of power with knowledge and desire to use it wisely. With all the fine attributes which belong to youth the country has many of its handicaps and dangers. Hence the urgency for educational training which will be adequate not only for material progress, but for the enjoyment of its achievements and for the real advancement of intellectual, social and spiritual interests and outlook.

"The chief object of development is to secure the best use of things for the present and to leave them in the best condition for the future, to attain the best characters in the people and provide the best quality of life and opportunities for their successors. In all the provinces there is evidence of progress. The Provincial Governments are not only responding to the demands on them as far as their revenues permit, but they are leading, encouraging and guiding the local communities.

SHIRKING THE HOME

Evils of the Boarding Houses For Married People

Married persons live in boarding-houses largely because of the prevalent high rents, the excessive cost of living generally, and perpetual troubles with domestic servants. In the long run they probably escape none of these ills, and certainly if any one of them be lessened there is a generous set-off in some greater evil which they will yet be called upon to suffer. There is an even more serious cause of this rush of married people to the boarding-houses. Very many wives, particularly the newly-married, have an antipathy to housework, and shrink before the idea of struggling to build up a home. Behind these feelings, which are unwomanly, is probably defective training in the home of their girlhood. It is difficult to make girls understand that domestic work is noble work. If the income be small it is no shame to the wife to do all the housework; but some sort of artificial stigma appears to attach to toil of the kind, which it seems to be impossible to remove. A consequence is that a new race of women is adding a new terror to life. The woman of this type marries not to make a home, but to dwell in lodgings. The honeymoon is spent in an hotel in the mountains or at the seaside, and the happy young people immediately afterwards rush to permanent quarters in a flat or a boarding house. The wife, instead of making a home for her husband, makes calls in the morning, goes shopping in the afternoon, and attends bridge parties or the theatre at night. All these things may be good, and some of them necessary, but for the young married woman in a boarding house they are practically all life has to offer in the way of occupation. She ought to be making little soft garments in her own home, instead of gadding about and making life a misery to those of her friends who have homes by extolling the advantages of life in lodgings.—Melbourne Argus.

Burns of Children

That more girls than boys are fatally burned is the interesting conclusion of investigations made in England by Dr. Brend. Due reflection upon the ages at which these fatalities are recorded in the reliable statistics which the Journal of the American Medical Association presents in a recent issue discloses the reason.

The subjoined table enumerates these fatal accidents during the five years from 1906 to 1911:

Age	Boys	Girls
Up to one year.........	211	234
From one to four......	1,063	1,883
From four to five......	[illegible]	775
From five to ten.......	389	[illegible]

THE Little Boy is disappointed in the world. Things aren't, on the whole, what he thought they were. Everybody isn't perfect—even grown-ups—and there is, he is forced to conclude, a great deal of real injustice about this business we call living. For instance:

"Mother," said the Little Boy yesterday to the One Who Loves Him Best of All. "Mother, things ain't fair—about spelling.

"Now, when I spell all my words right nobody says anything to me about it. But when I spell one little teensy word wrong Teacher writes it on the board, and everybody looks at me. I think it's mean. Why doesn't she write some of my words that I spelled right on the board?"

And we all looked at the Little Boy and laughed—and then we looked at each other—and sighed. For what he said was so true that it fairly made your heart ache to hear him.

The other day a woman I know came to take me for a spin.

It was going to be a long spin—all down the peninsula. We were going to visit the cherry trees and see whether the cherries were ripe as they should be, and the plum trees, and observe as to the probabilities of the prune market, and vineyards, and see what we thought about the raisin crop for this year—and it was going to take us all day.

The Veil Girl.

"I need a veil," said the woman I know, "this one is all frazzled out."

"So do I," said I, "this one is such a slippy thing."

And so we went into a large shop to look for veils. We found the veils, and we found a girl behind the counter selling them.

"We are in a great hurry," said the woman I know, "and I want a blue veil, as near the color of this coat as you can make it. And my friend wants a blue veil, too—the color of her coat. We want them big, and pretty, and not too slippy, and not too dear—and we want them quick."

"Yes, madam," said the girl behind the counter.

And she found the veils—the blue one of exactly the right shade for my friend, the woman I know, and the blue one of quite a different shade for me—and neither of the veils was either too slippy or too skimpy—or too dear.

They were just exactly what we wanted—just exactly when we wanted them—and the girl came out from behind the counter and pinned them on our hats, and tied them in the most enchanting bows under our right ears. She smiled all the time and was so quick and so deft, and so intelligent, and so courteous—that every time I looked at her I wanted to gasp.

When we left the counter, I started for the door. The woman I know took my arm.

"Wait a minute," she said. "Where's the floor-walker?"

We found the floor-walker and my heart fairly stopped when the woman I know stopped the floor-walker and began:

"The girl at the veil counter," she said.

Could it be, I thought, that the girl had forgotten to say, "Madam"? Some people are so fussy about such things; was it possible that my friend—? It was not possible. The woman I know is not that sort of woman—she's this sort:

Embarrassed by Kindness.

"The girl at the veil counter," said the woman I know, "I never saw her before—but I've stopped to tell you that she is the most efficient clerk I ever saw anywhere in my life. She is quick, clever, good-humored, and extremely courteous."

The floor-walker stared—he was greatly embarrassed.

"I'm glad to hear it, madam," he said, "but—what can I do for you? Er-r—"

"Why, nothing," said the woman I know. "I just wanted to tell you about that girl. If she had been cross or indifferent or stupid I should have told you. Why not tell you the other thing?"

A great light broke upon the floor-walker. He smiled, and his eyes shone.

"Madam," said the floor-walker, "I thank you. I——"

But we were off—for we were in a hurry.

I'm glad we went in after the veils, the woman I know and I. She taught me a lesson. I'm going to remember it as long as I live, and the next time any one shows me particular courtesy or particular good humor, or particular intelligence, I'm going to make it my business to speak of it—and to speak of it where it will do the most good.

I'm sorry for the Little Boy, and the trouble he has when he "misses" one of those outrageous words in his little blue-backed spelling book.

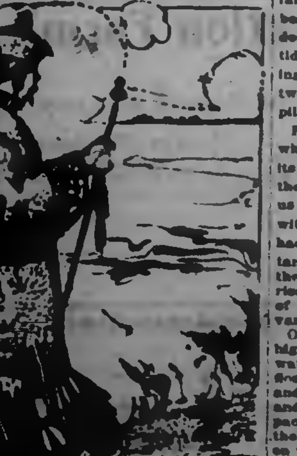
I wish Teacher had been with me that day in the shop. Perhaps she might have learned something, too—something that is not clever enough to get into the lesson books.

Three Minute Journeys

Where the Tide Comes in Like a Wall

By TEMPLE MANNING

WHILE visiting Hangkow, China, it was my good fortune to be the guest of a high native dignitary in that interesting city. Accomplished, well educated, with a wide range of interests, his hobby soon became plain in his deep knowledge of the ocean and his study of its tides.



A Rushing Water Wall.

Right at the gates of the city, he told me, there was one of the world's most famous tidal phenomena—the Hangkow bore. It was his greatest pleasure to go down to the shore of the sea, when the tide was flowing, and watch the moving wave of water come in. During my two weeks' visit with him we made the pilgrimage several times.

From the sea wall by the narrow inlet, whose constricting sides gave the water its congesting tendency, we would watch the incoming wave in silence. Beneath us the muddy sand lay oozing and slimy with sea growths left by the waters that had ebbed with the tide. Off in the distance, forming a horizon all its own, the advance guard of the bore would rise. Then we would creep to the edge of the sea wall to watch the wave's advance.

On it would rush toward us, 15 feet high at its "face," a veritable wall of water come out of the mysterious sea to flood the lowlands of the river. Rolling and hissing, a mass of milk-white foam and swirling eddies, travelling at terrific pace it would sweep in to the mouth of the river and crash against the sea wall on which we stood. Tumbling and foaming it would race up the river, and woe betide any small boat that met it.

My friend would stand there entranced and watch the bore flood into the river. He told me that he hoped to spend his old age in its study.

BEAUTY NOT BEST STAGE ASSET

Virginia Evans

What You May Achieve with Originality

By ELEANOR AMES

IT is a mistake to think beauty counts for such a lot on the stage. It is likewise a mistake to think nearly all actresses are beautiful.

An ounce of originality is worth a pound of beauty. Hard work and a sunny disposition will take you further than a cameo face and a Venus form. It is far easier for a manager to find beauty than for him to unearth ability. "It is better to be able to succeed in spite of your face than because of it. The pay envelope will visit you longer and with more regularity.

When beauty fades your day is done. Ability keeps on growing. There is always the hope of learning something, but fading beauty can seldom be brought back.

These are some of the gems of wisdom, spiced with humor, which Virginia Evans let fall, in a delightfully melodious voice, in the course of an hour's chat the other day.

Virginia Evans is more clever than beautiful. She is a natural, unaffected and sensible young woman with a shrewd head and a happy heart. She has been original from the day she took her first step, which, instead of being the tottering, little uncertain toddle of the average infant, was a steady stride forward, followed by another, and developed into a graceful and sedate walk, much to the discomfiture of her adoring relatives, who said: "It is not natural for a child to walk right off like that."

She was talking about two young girls who had just been to ask her advice about "going on the stage."

"If there is one thing I will not do," said she, "it is to give advice to young girls regarding the stage. I will give them facts, and they must act as they feel about it. There are too many girls who decide to go on the stage because they think it must be perfectly lovely to wear fine gowns, and have nothing to do but sing and dance for a few hours each day. More than half the time they can't wear the gowns when they have the chance, let alone sing and dance acceptably. And, as for the creative sense, which is one of the most important qualifications for the woman who would succeed in any work, they don't know what it means.

"When I say 'originality' I don't mean something which has never been heard of before, but something presented with a new twist. No two persons see any object exactly the same. But what is there to prevent one from hunting out the best viewpoint and accepting it? And then what is to prevent her giving it out to the world with some little frill which adds so much that it makes it seem new?

"Even imitation may be made over into originality. I am perfectly frank in saying that I have made myself up from what seemed to me the most admirable traits of the most admirable persons I know. In that way I have been able to correct some of my faults. One of the loveliest women I know always has some good word to say of every one—or else she keeps silent. I have practised that until it is almost natural, and it has helped me so much. Another woman always twists the clouds about until she finds the silver lining. I've tried that, too.

"Let the girl who wants to be a success in any work begin by being sincere with herself, her work, her friends. Let her be original and ambitious. And then let her forget whether her nose is pure snub or pure Grecian, or whether her complexion is peaches and cream, so it is clean and wholesome, or whether her figure is 'stylish' so it has strength and symmetry.

"A thought in the head is better than paint on the cheek any time."

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

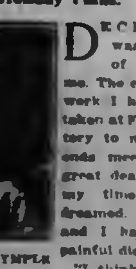
Holiday Plans.



LEONA DALRYMPLE

DECEMBER was a month of worry for me. The extra night work I had undertaken at Foote's factory to make both ends meet took a great deal more of my time than I dreamed. Mary and and I had some painful discussions.

"I think it's perfectly horrid," said Mary. "The town's full of parties and dances and things, and I do so want to go, and whenever I make any particular plans, just that night you're later than usual, and we can't go or else we get there so late that every one stares and wonders why. And I certainly don't want people to know that you're straightening out Foote's book-keeping just to—to make extra money."

"I once knew a corking little woman," I said, "who went into a book store at Christmas and sold books to make extra money for her kiddies."

Mary flushed.

"Are you hinting," she said, "that I should help earn some Christmas money?"

"Lord, no, Mary!" I exclaimed bitterly. "I surely never would dream such a thing of you. You're long on spending, but like most bully feminine spenders, you'd be short on earning."

Mary drew herself up to her full height and sailed majestically from the room. Barely three months ago such a conversation would have reduced my wife to tears. It is proof of my mother-in-law's hardening influence that Mary, in similar stress, now grows haughty and defiant, and sometimes even insolent.

Now months back, when I frankly aired certain bitter truths and Mary cried I used to feel like a brute, apologize and emulate the lowly worm in general. Mary's attitude now goads me to unbelievable indiscretion.

As Christmas approached Mary's spirits soared. Nights she was bubbling over with a sort of festive energy. She made presents for nearly every one she knew, fussy little gim-cracks such as women purchase at fairs and men deride. I recall a hideous pin cushion fashioned of a wire tea strainer, some flowered ribbon and heaven knows what else. I only know that it cost more than any such atrocious insult to the spirit of Christmas ought to cost. Nights when I came home blue and tired, wondering in just what condition the day after Christmas would find my purse, Mary fairly radiated the spirit of Christmas cheer.

Now, instead of cheering me, as doubtless such domestic atmosphere should, I must confess it merely served to make me irritable and resentful. What right had Mary to laugh and dimple and sing of Christmas when I was overworking chiefly through her extravagance and her mother's influence? How easy to flit about and buy Christmas gifts with money you didn't earn yourself? How easy to absorb the world's Christmas cheer when life laid its responsibilities so lightly upon your shoulders?

And there I'm pretty sure is the chief difference between Mary's attitude toward life and mine. She feels no responsibility strongly—I do. Worry with her is transient like a sharp pain that hurts and departs. Worry with me is permanent and an ache.

"Why," said I, the week before Christmas, "do you give so many gifts, Mary? Your list is a good page long."

"Christmas is the time of giving," said Mary, earnestly. "I can't forget my friends, can I?"

Why battle against a woman's singular conception of Christmas? Any individual who cements a friendship with a tea-strainer pin cushion would never understand the real spirit of giving.

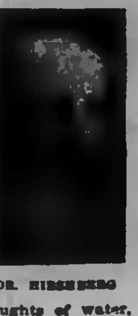
Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why Very Hot Dishes Are Bad for Your Liver

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).



DR. HIRSHBERG

THERE is a popular fallacy fostered by the supernihilists of the medical profession that "no drug in the pharmacopeia will increase the flow of bile." That is to say, the ukase has gone forth from the Agamemnons of medicine that nothing in the pharmacy will cause the bile to percolate either more rapidly or in larger quantity through the liver.

One doughty knight of the plume has even gone so far as to say that, independent of "opinions," this is a settled "scientific fact."

Yet Prof. Smiedeberg of Germany and Prof. Cushny of England, both experimental pharmacologists of distinction, have definitely proved that bile salts, ox bile and gall from sheep will measurably augment the flow of your liver juices.

Moreover, spinach, asparagus, olives, peas, copious draughts of water, whey, buttermilk, cream, oils, grapes, berries and oranges all conspicuously turn loose the liver spigots and the artesian wells of bile.

Exercise by Laughing.

However, let your liver become active by the clink of laughter and the flow of soul rather than that the blue devils of purple bile be dammed up in a cold heart. Better a deep breath which squeezes the liver like a sponge than some hated potion or loathed medicine which might do little good or much harm.

Almost any type of gymnastics which brings the chest and abdominal muscles into play, nearly all such pleasant sports as rowing, swimming, tennis playing, bicycle riding, golf, running, nay, even a modicum of shortness of breath and rolling down hill besties a sluggish liver to pour out its golden bile anointment.

Cholera and melancholia were justly so termed by ancient physicians, because if there is anything more truly associated with depressed spirits than the dammed up gall sewers of the obstructed liver, physiological psychologists have yet to name them.

The European "kurs" wrongly understood as "cures," but actually meant only as "treatments" are efficient activators of the liver, less on account of any inherent virtues of the bad salts or mineral waters, than because the sojourner at the resort drinks more water, eats less solid food, and exercises more than usual.

Price of Indulgence.

Like the rainspouts and gutters in the eaves of your house, the bile channels of the liver are easily clogged up with dietetic twigs, leaves and other clinker-like rations.

The price paid for such victualary errors is a heavy one. If in addition to an excess of food refuse there are a few stray microbes left in the gall sack or bile ravines from some old spell of typhoid, erysipelas, scarlet fever, or other forgotten ailments, not only thick bile and a slow liver is the upshot, but gall stones and bile pebbles may result.

Spices, alcoholic drinks, even the much-heralded broths, soups and hot dishes have all been indicted, haled into court and found guilty as incendiary agents of liver inflammations.

Obviously all that is needed to prevent and also to cure these uncivil sundry evils is to follow the Nippon habit of muscular training. This consists of a liberal drinking of water, the maintenance of a cheerful disposition, and the sane abstinence from alcoholic and hot drinks and heavy victuals.

Answers to Health Questions

A. B. C.—Have bad feet and they have an offensive odor.

Perhaps you have flat feet. You should exercise them more frequently and bathe them three times a day in boracic acid, massage them well with a good cold cream, and then apply vinegar with a tablespoonful of peroxide to the pint. Wear soft canvas shoes and do not stand in one position very long.

* * *

D. E. N.—My skin burns and itches at all times and I have red spots. After shaving my face has an irritated look. No face creams or lotions help any.

Calamine lotion is good to use for a few days. Then massage your flesh before shaving for five minutes with glycerine-sugar soap. After the shave use rosewater, benzoin and glycerine, equal parts.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

I have been keeping company with a young man for the last four years. He is steady, kind-hearted, and tries his best to get along, but as yet has not enough money to get married. I have been waiting for him this last two years, and he does not seem to make good.

He is very kind and thoughtful to me, and treats me better than any one I have ever met, but it is strange of late I do not seem to feel as happy in his company as when I am with some of my other friends, and when he is away for a few days I do not seem to miss him very much.

Please advise me whether you think it would be wise to wait for him any longer? I have never met any one who is so considerate and kind to me as he is, but I have met other boys whom I could like just as well. I am 22 years old.

MAY.

WELL, May, do you know what I think—and I do not pretend to be any great mind reader, either?

I think you have met some one whom you do like not just as well—but a good deal better.

I wouldn't break that good, young man's heart by playing fast and loose with him any longer. Tell him you are too young to know your own mind; break your engagement—set yourself free—and him, too.

It may be that he is not really in love with you, either, and is just hanging on out of habit, and because he does not know his own mind. Help him out by taking the first step. Talk it all over quietly and kindly; tell him you're both too young to know what you really like. Ask him to be your good friend, and put an end to what seems to be a sort of dreary farce.

You'll know well enough when you are really in love—you won't have to ask a bit of advice as to how to tell that.

Bless your heart, I hope you'll meet the right man, and that he'll find you the right girl.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care of this office.

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

DID you ever try to trace the genealogy of foods? It will result in illuminating data, and make the preparation of the daily meals far more interesting. I am strongly in favor of everything which lightens the humdrum part of housekeeping, and makes it more interesting.

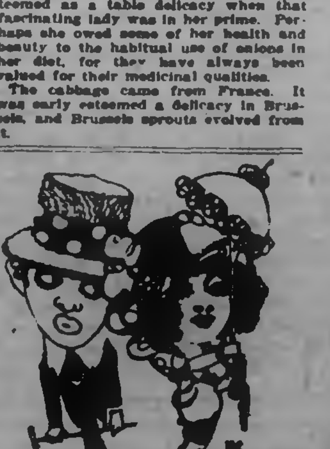
Gradually I am becoming convinced it is the fault of ourselves, if we allow such very important work as caring for the comfort and well being of the family to become monotonous or stupid. Searching out the ancestry of foods is one way to keep up interest. There is a romantic side to some of the simplest food stuffs which is all unknown to the vast majority of those who prepare them and the others who eat them.

For example, I suppose whenever you pare potatoes, if you think about them at all, the Emerald Isle comes into your mind. As a matter of fact, potatoes are natives of South America. They came from there to North America. The Spaniards took them to Europe. Sir John Hawkins, in 1565, took them to Ireland. Sir Walter Raleigh is credited with having introduced them to England.

In 1662 the Royal Society of London recommended extensive cultivation of the potato in Ireland to safeguard against famine. It did not become popular in England until the middle of the 18th century, but was regarded as a fit food for swine and cattle. A most amusing fact is that it was brought to New England from its native Peru by the way of Ireland, and did not reach that part of the country until some time in the 18th century. It is first cousin to tobacco and belladonna, and is closely related to the egg plant, tomato and capsicum.

Onions came from Egypt and Asia. There is no doubt but Cleopatra ate onions. They were cultivated and esteemed as a table delicacy when that fascinating lady was in her prime. Perhaps she owed some of her health and beauty to the habitual use of onions in her diet, for they have always been valued for their medicinal qualities.

The cabbage came from France. It was early esteemed a delicacy in Brussels, and Brussels sprouts evolved from it.



Safer.

"I hope to make my debut in opera soon."

"Why don't you let them judge your voice by phonograph first?"

REGINA CITIZENS NOW OPTIMISTIC

The business scare, which seized Canadian cities and towns at the outbreak of the war, seems to have been overcome in many cities, including Regina. The citizens of Regina are now very optimistic and have good reason to believe that the West will benefit immensely. The farmers are selling their wheat without difficulty and are realizing prices far in advance of those of last year. The Provincial Government statistics show that although the crop was not as large as in 1913, the amount the farmers will realize will be far greater than in 1913.

The Regina Municipal Stockyards, which were created in Regina to fulfil a long felt need, are proving an entire success, the farmers throughout the Province having readily taken on to the Regina stockyards to market their live stock. Only two stock days have yet been held but both were successful. It is worthy of note that the number of live stock for sale on the second market day was considerably in advance of those for sale on the first day, and the indications are still greater demands will be made on the stockyards. Buyers are always on hand and exceptionally good prices have been realized on live stock marketed up to the present. No matter how large the shipments of live stock, the Regina stockyards will be well able to take care of them, in-as-much as the large warm stock barns at the Exhibition grounds will be used for housing purposes.

The horsemen in Saskatchewan are finding a ready sale for their horses, as the Provincial Government are buying a large number to be given to the British Government for use in the war. Buyers are scouring the Province for suitable animals, and about twenty-two high class horses have been shipped to Regina, prior to being sent to the scene of war.

The City of Regina has decided to rush through to completion the construction of a 5,000,000 gallon reservoir. At the present time about 65 carpenters and 80 laborers are employed on this work. At the base the concrete walls are two feet nine inches thick, tapering to one foot at the junction with the roof. This wall is to be reinforced with a brick veneer one foot in thickness above ground level, and ornamentations in the shape of friezes and panelling will be incorporated in the brick work.

The new Regina Power house is rapidly nearing completion. If the work progresses as rapidly in the future as in the past it will not be a completed. The cost of the building will be approximately $170,000; the cost above ground level was $90,000, in addition to $36,000 for steel. The foundations and ground floor were constructed by the City per day labor at a cost of about $40,000. Up to the present time nearly $100,000 worth of machinery has been installed.

Arrangements have been made by the City of Regina with the Bank of Montreal for a loan of $320,000, to be used for construction of improvements.

The Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company, with headquarters at Regina, are having their new office building rushed through to completion as quickly as possible. This building is of the dimensions of 125 ft. by 100 ft. and is of high class construction.

England has just begun to fight and Peterborough's contribution to the war is only the first bet in a poker game.

Following Canada's Lead

Canada's example in instituting free distriqution of forest tree seellings, cuttings, etc., to prairie homesteaders for planting out as shelter-belts, etc., bids fair soon to be followed by the United States Department of Agriculture. The prospect is that this distribution will be made from the newly established Field Station at Mandan, N.D. Mr. W. A. Peterson, the Superintendent of the Station, lately visited the Dominion Forestry Branch's Nursery Station at Indian Head, Saskatchewan, in order to investigate Canadian methods of carrying out the enterprise.

United States Hard Hit

The United States is feeling the effects of the war greater perhaps than any other neutral power. She has built up her navy at the expense of her commercial requirements, with the result that foreign vessels have to be relied on to carry her exports abroad. The big bulk of those foreign carrying bottoms are British and German, with a huge preponderance in weight and numbers in favor of the former. To-day the British have a protected right-of-way across the seas, while the vast bulk of German boats are interned at home and abroad. All of which goes to show that with exceptional demand to-day for American exports, and plenty of them to hand, the interests of the United States lie in fostering the existing good relationship between herself and the British Empire. From a commercial standpoint, the great American republic to-day is absolutely helpless without the practical cooperation of Great Britain.

Then let her see to it that she so conducts herself as to merit the approval of Britain, to say nothing of keeping her people strictly within neutral bounds, and repressing Pro-German sentiment where it conflicts with her standing as a neutral power.

◆

Shipping War Munitions

The new pro-German, The Fatherland, established in New York, has urged President Wilson to request makers of munitions of war to cease shipments of them to the warring nations in Europe, as he did suggest to financiers not to loan funds abroad.

It would require too much space to print all the items carefully gathered from the shipping reports. But England has ordered from one American company $20,000,000 worth of ammunition, and another company is busy making entrenching spades. France has bought 500,000 pounds of pressed cotton in Tennessee, and also receives 3,000,000 cartridges every week from an American firm. Another plant is making 6,000,000 horseshoes for Russia, and France and Russia are buying immense stores of powder and dynamite.

An American steel plant is building motor trucks for France and tractors for siege guns, while cases of cartridges go out every day as known cargoes. There is no violation of neutrality in this, and the fact is conceded by The Fatherland, but it argues that it would make for humanitarism to have these shipments stopped, because, like loans, they serve to prolong the war. It would appear the stronger view that fighting it out would be more quickly finished by supplying the belligerents with destructive weapons and munitions. But if the chief thought is that Germany is deprived of these shipments of arms and munitions the humanitarian plea could be used to induce all the countries to quit fighting.

War Prices in Canada

The effects of two months of the world's war on Canadian prices are summed up in a rise of the Labour Department's index number from 135.5 as calculated at the end of July to 140.7 as worked out at the end of September. These numbers are percentages of the general level of prices in the decade 1890-1899 and are based on quotations from 272 articles scattered over the whole field of production and consumption.

Most of the rise took place during the three weeks following the declaration of war. In fact the last half of September saw general steadiness and even a tendency to decline in important articles like grains and cattle.

Though a rise of 5 points in the Departmental index number is very marked it is not without precedent. Canadian prices during the trade boom of 1912 went up at intervals with almost equal rapidity, and the readjustment of prices at the close of 1911 sent the index number up 4 points in a single month.

It has also to be remembered that several articles which have contributed very materially to sending the index number up during the last month are not of first importance in consumption. For example, cream of tartar, antimony, and quicksilver have all more than doubled, while a number of other secondary commodities (alcohol, solder, sulphur, etc.) went up by 20, 30 and 40 per cent. Tin and rubber went up very rapidly in August, but declined practically just as fast in September. Flour is perhaps the most important food stuff that has shown a tendency to decline. A full analysis of the prices movement by groups of commodities is appearing in the current issue of the Labour Gazette.

Retail prices, of which the Department is receiving quotations for over 30 articles in every town of 10,000 and upwards in Canada, have been on the whole steady in September after the first upward advances occurred in most of the cities, but in other commodities prices were quiet. Rents were downward in some fifteen localities throughout the Dominion.

It is interesting to note that in England the Economist's index number went up 6 per cent. during August, the rise being greatest in foodstuffs and least in minerals, while the Statist's index number went up from 82 at the end of July to 87 at the end of August. Bradstreet's index number for the United States went up 2 per cent. in August but has eased off slightly since. The crest of the high prices wave seems to have come about two or three weeks after the declaration of war.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for the opinions of its correspondents.

Editor Times:
Sir:—

It would seem, if Dame Rumor's gossip is to be believed, that this City contemplates establishing a labor bureau, to provide work for the unemployed. A good idea! A noble work! But! does not the city know that our energetic and patriotic member of Parliament, Mr. J. H. Burnham, has now in hand the formation and installment of such an office under Dominion Government auspices. Are our little local Councillors coming to saddle the city with another mill on the dollar and defeat a measure promulgated and paid for by the Dominion Government? There is every reason to believe that Mr. Burnham and the local Labor Federation will have this labor bureau opened here without costing this city a penny.

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Company re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs—all young foxes—good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leaving $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:— "We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalize your concern at $90,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

Below are the particulars of sale of a consignment of Silver Fox Furs, shipped from Prince Edward Island ranches to London, England, and sold there in March, 1910:

SHARES

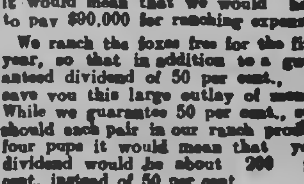
Shares are selling at $25.00 each; 25 per cent. with application and the balance on or before September 1st, 1914.

Simply fill out the application form and mail to Major C. McKinnon, Secretary-Treasurer, Glenaladale, P. E. I.

All cheques must be made payable to "The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Ltd."

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you.



We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business— and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

THE FIRST MOVIE

Don Roderick Saw Moving Pictures in a Vision

The first suggestion of the cinematograph, or moving pictures of to-day, may be found in the ancient legend of Don Roderick, the last of the Gothic kings of Spain. The king and a gay cavalcade had, against all warnings, entered through magic doors into a vast subterranean chamber. On a table lay a golden casket which the king had been admonished not to open. But curiosity urged him on despite all warnings. He opened the casket. It contained nothing but a piece of linen cloth interposed between two plates of copper. Upon this cloth were painted diminutive figures of men and horses. As Don Roderick gazed these figures became enlarged andd animated. A panoramic vision of a b[illegible] itself in which Christ[illegible] Moslems were struggling in d[illegible]flict, while the cries of the combatants, the clash of arms and the roar of battle were distinctly heard. The Christians were seen to retreat, broken and beaten, before the Moslems, and among the figures Don Roderick saw his war steed galloping riderless over the unlucky field, following which the panic-stricken king and his companions fled from the enchanted chamber. And such was the vision of Don Roderick.

DURABILITY OF TIES

The Supply of Cedar is Becoming Exhausted

The average life of untreated ties as reported by the steam roads is as follows: Cedar, 9 years; tamarack, 8 years; hemlock, 7 years; Douglas fir, 7 years; jack pine, 6 years; spruce, 6 years. As statistics bear evidence, cedar is the species principally used because of its durability, but the supply of cedar is rapidly becoming exhausted. Unless preservative treatment of ties is introduced, the short-lived species will have to be used untreated, which, on account of the necessary frequent renewal, will increase the cost of mileage maintenance. If treated ties were used, which would cost 30 cents extra per tie for creosoting and equipping with tie-plates, the inferior species, which are very plentiful and cheap in Canada, could be used with economy. With such a treatment, these woods would last at least fifteen years, and if protected from wear would probably last much longer, and would affect a very considerable saving.

ONE DRINK AT A TIME

Peculiar Rules in Vogue at Odd London Drinking Places

At a well known London public house called "Dirty Dick's," it is the rule that only one drink can be served to customers at a single visit. There is another licensed house in London where not only is a similar rule enforced, but where smoking is strictly prohibited.

The proprietors of this licensed house, which is in Artillery Lane, Bishopsgate, frankly state that they reserve to themselves the right to conduct their business upon any system they may deem expedient, and they cannot permit their rules to be broken on any account with impunity. Furthermore, they "respectfully request all persons objecting to the regulations, and who are not willing to act in strict conformity therewith, to kindly transfer their patronage to some other establishment."

For upwards of sixty years they have adopted among others, the following three rules:

"No person or party of persons can be served, under any circumstances, more than once, the rule being that he, she, or they (as the case may be) must have left the house at least half an hour before either are enabled to be served again.

"The quantity served upon any occasion, for consumption on the premises, not to exceed one gill of wine, half a gill of spirits, or one glass of malt liquor, for each person.

"Smoking is strictly prohibited at all times and under all circumstances."

Canada was the first of the dominions to establish government wireless telegraph stations.

AGED 90, SEEKS A SEVENTH WIFE

Tilton, Ga., Oct. 15.—Does any husbandless lady fancy becoming the seventh wife of a 90-year-old Georgia farmer?

"Uncle Bob," Knox, four times a widower by death, twice divorced, would once more enter the bonds of wedlock.

The lady must be pretty, and she must be young. "Uncle Bob" wants to die in harness. Other requirements are: Ability to cook and a promise not to wear peek-a-boo waists and X-ray skirts.

In return "Uncle Bob" offers a home, farm, an automobile and himself.

A newspaper correspondent was met at the station by "Uncle Bob" driving his own automobile. Off for a spin over the farm, the spry old man modestly admitted his record as a Mexican war veteran and his fame as the community poet. But when it comes to his matrimonial record shyness took wings.

At 24 Robert Knox was first married. Mrs. Knox No. 1 died, Mrs. Knox No. 2 died, No. 3 was divorced, No. 4 and No. 5 died and No. 6 whom "Uncle Bob" married when 85 years old, was divorced a few months ago.

Now he's waiting his chance, with his "intentions" well known and the chiefest of his requirements that she must be "a good looker and not too old to light my pipe for me."

LOST BOYS FOUND BY SEARCHERS IN SWAMP

New Orleans, Oct. 15.—After wandering all Sunday night in swamps near Cut-Off, six miles below Algiers, Sidney Sawyer and Phillip Hoffman, both 17 years a.o, were found in a desperate condition by Tim Bonner, one of a searching party, late Monday night.

The boys were in a squirrel hunting party that left Algiers early Sunday morning to go on a hunt along the lower coast. When they arrived at the hunting grounds the party divided to meet later at the other side of the woods. Sawyer and Hoffman went in one direction and Oscar Hoffman, Emile Muntz and Henry Tapie took the opposite route.

When dusk came and Lawyer and Hoffman failed to appear the three boys were alarmed and fired their guns as signals.

All night long a party of seventy or more searched from Algiers tramped through the swamps with torches. Guns were fired at short intervals.

In the morning reinforcements arrived from Algiers, and the search was kept up. The sun was high over head when Tim Bonner stumbled across the exhausted youths in an almost inaccessible part of the swamp near Coon Suig Cove.

The boys were taken to the Dove and, after they were revived, were taken to their homes in Algiers in a motor boat.

Tim Bonner, who found the boys, himself was lost in the swamp four daysabout a year ago.

An Appeal to the Intelligent Investor !

Does a logical presentation of a good investment interest you? Do you believe there is an oil in commercial quantities in Alberta? If you are alive to the situation you do. Then it will pay you to investigate our proposition and our holdings.

Please Read Carefully and Note!

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascertained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. Dunn chose wisely in the selection of the now famous Monarch well. WINDSOR OILFIELDS, LIMITED, has holdings located close to the Monarch.

THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). of a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

WATCH COST OF MILK

Dairy Farmer Should Know Each Cow's Production

The manufacturer perhaps more than the retailer looks closely after the matter of cost knowing that his principal hope of making a good profit lies in attaining economy in the actual production of the article, for no profit can be expected if the selling price is below the cost price. Is not the dairy farmer a manufacturer? So it would seem to be wisdom to look the more closely after cost especially as he does not expect the selling price of milk to soar. Assuming that the farm is in good condition and carefully handled, what does milk cost per hundred pounds? That can be ascertained only by keeping records of each individual cow. Cows may appear to be good heavy producers, but their value as economical producers can only be determined when their yield of milk and fat is checked up by the scales and test. Of what use is it when the factory pays 95 cents per 100 pounds to keep cows whose milk costs $1.25 per 100 pounds just for feed alone? This is what often happens till cow testing is taken up. It is quite possible to have one dollar's worth of feed return two dollars' worth of milk through good cows, that is cows selected by the test. This is both economical and profitable milk production. The average cow is not an economical producer because she has not been selected, but, like Topsy, "just growed." A dairy farmer will prove his business ability as a manufacturer when the herd is composed of economical producers. Make each cow pay a good profit.

Germs In Salt

We deem salt, of all minerals, to be an essential to health, as well as a vital necessity in the preparation of our food. Yet the pure, white, refined salt consumed by millions of people is alive with germs—mud germs. A famous physiologist states that salt is one of the most germ-ridden foods we consume.

Grey salt is made a delicate tint by the addition of mud that has gone through no refining process whatever, and which contains from 6,000 to 75,000 bacteria per gram. The refined salt is not in a much better condition. It lies in a refinery under a blanket of clay; its refinement consists of a sea-water bath. It is then dried and heated until crystallized. This latter process fails, however, to remove or destroy the 2,000 or 3,000 bacteria per gram that have been imbibed from the clay blanket.

Hole in Bottom of Sea

It is said that a hole nearly a mile deep was formed in the bottom of the sea off the coast of Panama by Central America earthquakes. As a result of these earthquakes, a submarine cable was broken, and a cable ship was sent out to make repairs. The ends of the cable were found to be buried under enormous masses of material, and, where the Government charts published in 1904 showed a depth of 1,000 feet, soundings made from the cable ship found a depth of 5,000 feet. This remarkable depression is located off Los Santos Province about 15 miles from the mainland, and is about half a mile wide.

TASTES OF THE FAMOUS

It is well known that people of artistic temperament have idiosyncracies which sometimes amount to a positive weakness. Colonel Roosevelt has put himself on record as preferring skimmed milk and doughnuts to champagne. Madame Bernhardt has an inordinate fondness for Belgian artichokes and truffles; Coquelin could make a meal on jar after jar of pate de fois gras; Byron said that he got his strongest stimulant from successive doses of Rochelle salts; Schiller had a mania for dried apples; the late Pierpont Morgan was never so happy as when leaning over a live broiled lobster and a glass of sparkling Burgundy; Balzac shortened his life by over-indulgence in the blackest of Arabian Mocha; Dr. Johnson could drink oceans of Oolong; De Maupassant wrote his greatest work while snuffing and chewing opium, and Mark Twain was seldom seen without a big black cigar between his lips.

A UNIQUE STRUCTURE

An Interesting Bridge Crosses a Gorge in Indo-China

What is claimed to be one of the most interesting railway structures in the world is the bridge over the Faux Namti gorge in Indo-China, where, owing to the peculiar difficulties in the way of building a bridge of any type, it was necessary to adopt a special design suited to the only method of erection that seemed possible.

The sides of the gorge, according to a writer in Popular Mechanics, are practically vertical and have no chance of the approach to the bridge from either side except through tunnels.

The track grade is 335 feet above the river, so that no system of falsework could be used in building the bridge, while cantilevers were out of the question owing to the lack of "elbow room."

The design finally adopted consisted of two steel trusses, each hinged at the cliff side, which were erected in a vertical position and then lowered so that the ends met, forming a structure of inverted V-shape.

The ends of the two trusses were firmly connected, steel towers were erected on the humps of the trusses and on this support the steel deck truss, carrying the track, was placed. At the beginning of the work it was necessary to let the workmen down by ropes from the tunnel mouth to prepare the foundations of the supporting trusses

The track trusses were built in the tunnels and were then moved into position on rollers. From end to end this bridge measures 220 feet 4 inches, while the distance between the heels of the supporting trusses is 180½ feet.

VERY LATEST DISEASE

Wireless Operators Are Victims Partly Because of Cramped Quarters

Every new invention seems to add at least one to the already long list of ills to which the human race is liable. Wireless telegraphy is no exception to this rule, for German physicians have discovered a brand-new disease which claims for its victims the operators of wireless instruments on shipboard.

The disease is a form of anæmia, characterised by great weakness of mind and body. An analysis of the blood of sufferers from it shows a surprising decrease in the number of red corpuscles. This "wireless debility" is believed to be due partly to the small, unsanitary quarters which shipowners provide for their faithful wireless operators, and partly to the excessive ozonising of the air by the high frequency currents of electricity required to operate powerful wireless plants.

This latter cause of the disease adds new strength to science's case against ozone. It used to be thought that the more ozone we got the better, but now it is known that except in very minute quantities it is extremely harmful.

RAINBOW POTATOES

New Variety of Tubers Boast a Vivid Color Scheme

All interested in the culinary art, will hail with delight a new potato that has been placed upon the market. Branched like a spruce tree, fluted like a shell, some specimens being as small as marbles, the new potatoes also reflect every color of the rainbow. Blue-purple potatoes with red centres, scarlet potatoes, and yellow potatoes recently flaunted their hues for the first time in public, when their propagators were awarded a gold medal at London, England. They make a welcome addition to salads, which they improve in both color and flavor.

Many people avoid the use of potatoes in the belief that they contain an excessive quantity of starch. This is a fallacy. In reality they contain less than a quarter of the quantity of starch included in bread. Potatoes can be used as the only item of diet if taken in sufficient quantities. Nevertheless, they should never be eaten alone, but consumed with other flesh-forming foods, when their value is inestimable. It is the alkaline mineral salt contained in the potato that is so valuable to man, and which cannot be obtained to the same degree in any other food.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

As light as lager, but better for you.

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles.

Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, Gold Dust will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always, affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830 or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

FROM BASE TO BASE IN TEN LONG STEPS

"HAP" MYERS

When Hap Myers of the Boston Braves, is in full stride, stealing bases, he covers nine feet, something unusual in running.

The average stride of a sprinter is about six feet, and even the "lathy" sprinter takes a comparatively short stride. Myers is a six-footer and is said to have the longest legs in the league.

Someone with a taste for statistics figured that the average base runner takes 13 steps of seven feet in going from base to base, while Myers takes but 10. He also uses a bat of unusual length.

PROMOTER'S TRIALS

McIntosh Tells How Johnson Was Lured to Australia

Hugh D. McIntosh, the Australian, tells some funny stories about his dealings with world-famous colored heavyweights. When McIntosh, who was in London at the time, first conceived the idea of taking Jack Johnson to Australia to box Tommy Burns for the world's championship, it did not take the promoter long to discern that he had a hard task on his hands. Johnson, who was spending his time flitting between London and Paris, was eager enough in a way to have a try at the championship, but he hated to leave the fleshpots of England and the wine cups of gay Paree. He was brought to the point of signing contracts and articles several times but he always contrived to delay matters and finally McIntosh had serious thoughts of abandoning his project.

One particular day matters looked far from favorable. McIntosh had placed things in such a light that Johnson seemed ready to sign up and the pair jumped into a cab and started for the office of McIntosh's lawyer where the papers were waiting and everything was to be settled.

Here is how McIntosh tells the balance of the story:

"Johnson, you know, is very superstitious. On our way to the lawyer's we rode through a back street to make a cut and Jack spied a fortune teller's sign.

"Hold on, Mac," he yelled. "I'm going to have my fortune told."

"I was annoyed because I scented another delay, but I made up my mind quickly that the best thing to do was to humor him and not let him out of my sight. I therefore said that the fortune telling idea was a good one and to show him I believe in such things I insisted on having mine told first.

"I went into the curtained recess with the lady with the red turban, and said quickly to her, 'Here, I don't want you to peer into my future, but there's a colored fellow outside who needs a sea voyage. You understand. Here's five pounds for you. See that he takes the voyage.'

"When Jack came out, I asked him what she told him.

"'Oh,' Jack said, 'a lot of stuff about fame and fortune waiting for me across the sea. I don't suppose it was on the level, but I'm going to take the trip anyhow.'

"He signed articles that afternoon."

McIntosh had one to tell on Sam McVey. The negro fighter went to Australia from France a few years ago and fought Sam Langford so many times that the sporting public lost count of the score. When McVey landed in Australia he had trouble figuring out money values. He had become used to French money and could not learn the pounds, shillings and pence system.

"For a fight at the Rushcutter's Bay Stadium, McVey's percentage was 1,500 pounds. When told the amount, he remarked, "Fifteen hundred francs isn't so much. I'd get more for a match in Paris."

When it was explained to him that each English pound was worth over a score of francs, he could not grasp the immensity of the amount. He bubbled over with delight and started out on a high old time. For a full week McVey and his trainers drank nothing but champagne. "They even had it at breakfast," said McIntosh.

Rugby Still Unspoiled

Rugby is a great amateur sport, one of the truly amateur sports in Canada. Professionalism has not invaded the field and there are no immediate prospects. It will, no doubt, be a sorry day for the game when Mr. Money-Bags forms a league and begins to swing the big bundle to lure and entice away the amateurs. The Canadian Rugby Union, which is a strong body, controls the situation and so far the game has been managed properly.—Toronto Sunday World.

RACETRACK ROGUES IN THE OLD COUNTRY

Swindling Operatives Who Happily Have Few Counterparts in the Dominion

The racecourse is notoriously a happy hunting-ground for thousands of scheming rogues, who visit the principal race meetings with the sole intention of relieving the unsophisticated sportsman of his money by fair means or unfair—mostly unfair, says a writer in the Glasgow Herald. Some of the schemes are undoubtedly clever, but others again are as old as the hills, and it is really surprising to find a public gullible enough to swallow them.

A common piece of thick tape, about two feet long and half an inch wide, is doubled up and folded round like a catherine-wheel. The operator then places it upon a table, and bets the eager onlookers odds of three to one that they cannot insert a pointed skewer in one of the loops so as to retain the garter when he pulls it. As there are about thirty similar loops visible, it is small wonder that the proprietor very rarely has to pay up.

This swindle is usually well watched by pick-pockets, as they have a splendid chance of plying their trade amongst the players.

The Race-table Swindle

The numerous race-tables scattered all over most racing grounds have an irresistible attraction for many would-be sports. Painted upon these tables are presumed likenesses of the various horses engaged in the big race for the day, and in the centre of the table is a revolving spindle.

The gentleman in charge of the gaming apparatus bets odds against the spindle stopping at any particular one of the various colored racers. His confederates stand around, and, by their remarkable luck in backing long-priced winners time after time, induce outsiders to bet heavily.

The backers never win, as the cunning race-game swindler has more than one artifice by which he can slow down the pointer to any horse he chooses.

"Welshers," or bogus-bookmakers, swarm at probably every racetrack course in the United Kingdom and they always work with half-a-dozen or more confederates who pretend to place bets with them.

Innocent Victims

When the welsher realizes that it is about time for him to disappear, a common practice is to offer his high stool to a spectator, "the better to see the race run," as he suavely puts it. Many a simpleton has had to run for dear life after availing himself of such an offer.

During the Derby won by Diamond Jubilee a welsher, about to depart for pastures new, offered his stool to a countryman standing near, who instantly jumped at the offer. He also obligingly held the bookmaker's satchel, which it is needless to say, was innocent of money. Then the welsher bolted, and the backers of Diamond Jubilee nearly killed the guileless yokel ere he was rescued by a body of police, his clothes being torn to shreds.

The Racecourse Sharper

For real cleverness, mug-lumberers, or "tale-tellers" as they are termed in the picturesque vernacular of the turf, are undoubtedly entitled to the blue ribbon of racing swindles.

A sharper of this type is an unerring judge of character, and it does not take him long to pick out a "mug," as the youth with more money than brains is known.

When thoroughly in his victim's confidence, the sharper, as a huge favor, tells him there is a great system of backing horses in existence, of which he—the sharper—is the sole inventor, and if Mr. Simple has any spare cash to invest he has a chance of making a small fortune. At first the poor victim is allowed to win a little; but gradually all the money of which he is possessed finds its way into his affable friend's pocket.

KING OF UMPIRES

Gaffney Brought Arbitrator's Work up to Modern Pitch

While John H. Gaffney, who died at his home in Worcester recently, was known as the king of umpires, he was not the first arbitrator to be honored by that title, writes Old Sport Hough in the Philadelphia Inquirer. Honest John Kelly was the original king of umpires, although it always was a question whether he was really the best of the umpires of his time. But there was one honor no one could take from him. When he was operating, he was the boss of the field, and that was long before the umpires were clothed with the almost autocratic power they are to-day. And then, think of the mobs he had to face in those days. Compared with them the most turbulent of present-day crowds are mild and orderly. But, no matter how tough the going was, nothing seemed to bother Kelly, who, on one occasion, hopped the fence in order to get at his tormentors in the right field bleachers. Gaffney, though, was the originator of modern umpiring. He was the first man to go behind the pitcher when there was a runner on, he was always over the play, and was the first umpire the Old Sport can recall who made it a point to be both blind and deaf at times.

Keeping Racing Straight

When an English racing man—owner or trainer—is "warned off the Newmarket Heath," it means that he is not allowed to attend a recognized race meeting in the British Isles; that any horse trained by him cannot compete in any recognized race, and that he cannot be even part owner of any horse eligible to compete. Apart from taking the trainer's life from him it is difficult to imagine any more drastic punishment.

Address on Grain of Wheat

The Canadian Churchman tells of a wonderful piece of microscopic engraving accomplished by a Jewish farmer in Alberta, who wrote, on a grain of wheat, in Hebrew characters, an address of welcome to the Duke of Connaught. The address contained 200 letters, and was so fine as to require a powerful microscope to read the inscription.

JOHNSON'S SPEED

Walter Perry Johnson, one of the best twirlers who ever threw a baseball, pitched his first game of ball in 1905 for the Fullerton high school nine in California. The contest went fifteen innings and neither side scored a run. Thus early in his career he showed his ability to pitch shut-out ball.

He was born in Humboldt, Kan., on November 6, 1887, and was still a youngster when his parents moved to California, near Los Angeles. He stands just one inch over six feet and weighs close to 190 pounds. He is of Scottish-Irish descent.

This speed marvel depends almost entirely on his fast ball for his success. He uses a curve, but only occasionally. One of the leading hitters of the American League describes his delivery and speed by saying that the ball comes up so fast that there is no opportunity to judge either the height of it or whether it is a curve. "You see his arm move and the only thing to do is just to take a swing at that time and your bat will cross the plate about the same time the ball reaches you. If you are lucky you may hit it."

MATTY A WONDER

Champion Shut-out Pitcher of the National League

Christopher Mathewson is the champion whitewasher of the National League. The one hurler who has blanked more teams than any other twirler in the history of the old league. No pitcher has Big Six approached in this respect in the 37 years the National has existed.

Mathewson leads all or any hurler in the old organization by seventeen games, then along come some real old-timers now almost forgotten—Jeems Galvin and Tim Keefe, these two old heroes of the diamond are tied for second place with 56 shut-out games apiece.

Mordecai Brown of present-day fame is third. John G. Clarkson and Kid Nichols are in the lists and were very handy in applying the brush in their time. But these grand old warriors of bygone days have their records dimmed and shattered by the brilliant performances of the great Mathewson and the three-fingered hurler of the Cincinnati Reds.

Here is the list, giving the shut-out games made by the expert brush wielders in the National League since its organization, all games nine innings or better:—

Mathewson	18	73
Galvin	12	56
Keefe	17	56
Brown	17	51
Clarkson	11	46
Nichols	14	44

If other major leagues are included Mathewson goes down to second place, Cy Young leading him by one game, but Young worked in 300 more games than Matty in his nine years longer of service. Eddie Plank stands third in the list, but Walter Johnson has a better record equal to Mathewson if the figures are based on the number of seasons he has been pitching. In seven years Johnson placed 40 shut-out games to his credit.

Nimrods Displaced

Hunters in the United States complain that the new federal law prohibiting the shooting of migratory fowl during the hours before sunrise and after sunset is hurting the sport. Many protests are being made on the ground that it practically amounts to a closed season all the year for those whose only time for hunting is early in the morning, or in the evening after work is over. The Government officials, however, argue that protection of the birds means, in the end, the conserving of the sport for the hunters.

Lakefield Wants Connection.

Lakefield seems anxious to have an extension of the local street car system to that place. Mayor Buller is in receipt of the following communication from the secretary of the Board of Trade, Lakefield:

Wm. Buller, Esq., Mayor,
Peterborough, Ont.,

Dear Sir:—At a meeting of the Lakefield Board of Trade held last Friday evening it was reported that you were advocating the extension of the Peterborough Street Railway to Lakefield and other points, and it was the feeling of the meeting that it would be greatly to the advantage of the village to have such an extension.

I was instructed by the Board to write you and ascertain if any progress had been made in this regard, and to ask if you would kindly advise us if there is any prospect of such an extension.

Yours very truly,
W. MORRISON,
Secretary.

GIRLS! DRAW A MOIST CLOTH THROUGH HAIR

Try this! Hair gets thick, glossy wavy and beautiful at once—Stops falling out.

Immediate—Yes! Certain!—that's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few week's use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

INTER-PROVINCIAL NEWS PARAGRAPHS

Toronto, Oct. 15.—The annual convention of the W.C.T.U. just ended here saw the passage of a number of resolutions framed in the interest of morality. Deep indignation was expressed at the failure of the Methodist conference to grant women the same voting rights as laymen, especially as almost three-fourths of the vote was in favor of the extension of the franchise. One delegate said that the action of the conference had strengthened the hands of those in the hotel trade whose businesses were protected by a three fifths vote, as they could now urge that those who had fought for the abolition of the three fifths vote, had themselves hidden behind a still more unequal minority vote.

Chicago, Oct. 15. Now that the women of Illinois have the vote, the big trouble facing the suffrage leaders is to get their sisters out to register and avail themselves of the franchise they have so long fought for. In the furtherance of this object every minister in Chicago has been asked to set aside next Sunday to a special appeal to women to register and after having registered, to vote. Every women's organization in the city, social, philanthropic, religious and political has also been recruited in an effort to stimulate registration. The suffrage leaders are keenly disappointed so far at the apparent lack of interest the women are taking in the ballot.

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—The prospective members of the Canada's second contingent which is to be sent to the seat of war will hear with pleasure that preliminary training will be carried out at the headquarters of the several military districts instead of at Valcartier as was the case with the first contingent. This will give soldiers the benefit of many home comforts during the period of training, which they otherwise would not enjoy.

Cobalt, Oct. 15.—The Ontario License Department has 50 informations against blind piggers in the Porcupine gold camp, and the cases will commence Wednesday. This is the second big raid since July when 51 defendants appeared and 47 convictions were recorded.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—A prohibition against the use of tobacco in any form about the premises of the Y.M.C.A. here has been passed, with the result that a large percentage of the membership are very much disgruntled. A number of ministers were accustomed to using the smoke room of the institution and these, rather than submit to such an arbitrary measure have resigned their membership. The action of the directors is accepted as concrete evidence of the oft repeated statement that prohibition of tobacco was to be sought if a sufficient measure of success attended the passing of prohibitory laws on alcoholic beverages throughout the country.

Rome, Oct. 15.—So acute has the European situation become, that the mobilization of the Italian army has commenced and 550,000 men are now under arms. If a declaration of war is made, it will be in favor of the Allies, for Italy's treaty with Germany stipulates that her aid can only be sought in hostilities of a defensive nature.

Walkerville, Oct. 15.—Proponents of the referendum as a municipal system must feel chagrined at the result of the Hydro vote taken here. Although the sum of $26,000 was involved in the passage or defeat of the by-law, only twenty-three voters came to the polls, two to vote against it and twenty-one to vote in favor.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The annual report of the comptroller of the currency shows that the average savings deposit of the people of the United States last fiscal year was $439.07. That Prohibition is the natural fore runner of prosperity as is so often stated, is not borne out by the figures from the department for the average savings deposit of the people of the state of Kansas is but $231.69 and Prohibition has been in force there for more than thirty years.

London, Oct. 15.—Petitions for both a local option and a license reduction contest will be circulated in this city as the temperance party is divided as to which would stand the best chance of passing. Owing to the determination of the party to hold a contest the Red Cross fund will be $3,000 short, for the hotelmen had indicated their willingness to devote the whole of their war chest to the fund with an understanding that the funds so subscribed would not be needed for the purposes of defence of their business at the January election. This was refused.

"There's Tamagno and Plançon, Patti and Melba who still sing for me just as I used to hear them, at their best, although two are now dead and one has permanently retired from the stage. United States Rebukes Germany And Interns Boat

Washington, Oct. 16.—Rear-Admiral Moore, commandant of the naval station of Honolulu, was ordered today there within twenty-four hours, unless the company gave a satisfactory explanation of the sending of a wireless despatch, announcing the arrival of the German gunboat Geier

When half of the amount of coal that could be allowed her under international law had been taken abroad the German gunboat Geier which put in here yesterday suddenly halted operations last night, and it is said the warship will be interned here until the end of the war.

The Geier came from Tsing-tau, in company of the German steamer Locksun, which had been impressed into service as a collier.

GERMS HERE SAY CRITICISM IS UNFAIR

Canadian Press Charged With Not Doing Justice to German Civilization—False Representations They Say Will do Harm to Canada's Growth

Ottawa, Oct. 16.—An extraordinary petition has been received by Sir Robert Borden from the German-Canadian Alliance of Saskatchewan. The petition objects to statements in the Canadian press in regard to Germany and asks that the Dominion Government impose restrictions upon the English-speaking press of Canada.

The petition adds: "These papers are not doing justice to German civilization, but are bound to do harm in this country by stirring up race hatred and ill-feeling."

Would "Hurt" Canada.

The petition adds that the work of up-building Canada will be endangered if the press should continue "unnecessarily to hurt the feelings of a considerable percentage of the total population of Canada."

Complaint in made in the petition that great hardships has overtaken the German population of Western Canada as a result of the war.

ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE AT THE GRAND

The Chamberlain Stock Company presented the H. Webb Chamberlain Version of Robert Louis Stevenson's novel, Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

It is true the play has been presented here in the past but never was it received with such enthusiasm as last night. The several scenes were run without a moment pause

Mr. Chamberlain in the difficult dual role of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde fully maintained his reputation as Canada's most versatile actor, his reading and interpretation of the gentle natured Dr. Jevyll was as beautiful as his Mr. Hyde was repulsive, his interpretation of the part will long be remembered. Miss Millen as Sybill Leigh was sweet and winsome. The support rendered by the balance of the company was up to the usual high standard of this Company.

For the Matinee today they are playing the comedy melodrama "Struck Gas."

Tonight this popular company will close its engagement here with the roaring farce comedy "My Uncle from Japan" This comedy has had long runs in Chicago at the Great Northern Theatre, The Howard Theatre, Boston, and the Old Murray Hill Theatre in New York City. Comments on the play prove it is more laughable than Charles Aunt.

Four Hundred Canadian Yachtsmen Has Volunteers

Toronto, Oct. 16.—Mr. Armilius Jarvis, who has charge of the formation of the Great Lakes Naval Volunteer Corps, stated to the News today that the plan had by no means been dropped.

A halt had been called, however, owing to the fact that it had been impossible to secure competent instructors. The British Admiralty had intended last spring to send over men for this work, but the offer had been withdrawn later when the situation in Europe became unduly strained, as it was necessary to have every competent naval officer on hand in England.

Mr. Jarvis still has hopes, however of being able to secure the services of a capable instructor who, through some, disability, hasnot been called to active service

Meantime St. Lawrence Market has been secured for use as training quarters, and four hundred men, many of them members of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, are awaiting the acquisition of an instructor.

The Pending Battle Near Ostend Finds Allies Ready and Confident

Seasoned Troops in Strong Positions Await the Stock of German Reinforcements--German Occupation of Ostend Not Taken Seriously--Violent Battle Northwest of Lens is Reported

Paris, Oct. 16.—The French War Office made an official announcement this afternoon as follows :—

The progress indicated in the communication of yesterday has been confirmed.

On our left wing the field of action of the allied forces extends at the present time from the region of Ypres to the sea.

In Russia on the left bank of the Vistula River, the Russian troops during the day of October 13 repulsed the German attacks on Warsaw and Ivangorod.

PARIS NAILS NEW TEUTON LIE.

Washington, Oct. 176.—The following statement was issued by the French Embassy today :

"An official telegram received this morning at the French Embassy, states that there is no truth in the report from German sources that 'close to Rheims Cathedral two French heavy batteries have been located and light signals from one tower of the cathedral have been observed.'

"It seems from the spreading of this report that it has come to the knowledge of the Germans that the destruction of the cathedral has been less thorough than they contemplated and that they mean to perfect their work, placing, as usual, the blame on the sufferers."

VIOLENT COMBAT IS REPORTED.

Washington, Oct. 16.— Captdre of Henneskamps, southwest of Arras, by the allies, and an advance by the Germans from Audenarde to Courtrai, were announsed in an official despatch made public here today by the French Embassy.

"The Germans have advanced from Audenarde toward Courtrai. The enemy occupy a line of defence, Mercin-Armentiers-Givench. To the west of La Bassee he is in contact with our troops between that locality and Arras. A violent combat took place northwest of Lens to Vermelles, which resulted in our favor."

SHIPS SHELL GERMAN FORTS.

Tokio, Oct. 16.--An official announcement says Japanese and British warships bombarded Iltis and Huichuan forts at Tsing-tau, October 14, and that an aeroplane destroyed parts of the batteries of the forts. In fighting, one British seaman was killed and two seamen were injured.

Germans Approach Ostend.

London, Oct. 16.—As was the case just a week ago with Antwerp, so it was today with Ostend. That is to say its occupation by a German army is momentarily expected and, being directly across the channel from England as a bird would fly almost opposite the mouth of the Thames. British followers of the great war centred their gaze there regardless of whether or not the taking of the city would mean much from a military standpoint or hasten or portract the struggle, now is in its seventythird day.

The latest developments available in London early today said that the Germans were within ten miles of the city, having occupied Blankenberghe, a small town on the Belgian coast and connected therewith by stream tramways. Thus it would seem that the taking of the popular seaport by about ten miles northeast of Ostend, the invaders is a foregone conclusion within 24 hours, if not already effected as this is written and the news delayed as it was when the forts at Antwerp fell before the terrible fire of the German siege guns. The last of the refugees have come from that city and steamer service to and from England has been suspended until further notice. Thousands have already reached the British Isles adding to the hord of unwillingly expatriated Belgians which the German invasion of their country has created.'

The British press today is inclined to class the taking of Ostend with that of Antwerp. In other words they concede it is a moral and spectacular victory for the Germans, but of no great strategic significance. Whether this be as future events can only show, but the British contention is that with the sea binding the German right it losses a weapon, heretofore, used so effectively. It is pointed out that the chief successes the Germans have attained in the past have been derived from the tactics of envelopment. The channel barrier now prevents this and a decisive blow from the Germans, it is argued, must be delivered only after the allied front has been penetrated.

The arrival of the Germans near Ostend, however, straightens out their line so that now runs almost due south, connecting with their forces in France. Being jam up to the coast at the north leaves the Germans without a flank anywhere. With no flank to turn it will be necessary for the allies to break the line somewhere and the fiercest fighting to effect this is likely to continue to centre around the Belgian frontier.

Makes Face Young—Tightens Love Ties

A fretful expression, a wrinkled face and a faded complexion, do more to rive the male members from home than is commonly supposed. It was one of my greatest difficulties to appear smiling, fresh and elegant when my dear ones were with me. But I have overcome all that. I have changed my mental attitude and I now find it second nature to look cheerful. Due partly to this, partly to a remarkable treatment recommended by a friend, my appearance has so improved I look fifteen years younger than before.

A simple face lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in half-pint witch hazel, proved a wonderful wrinkle-chaser. I still use this occasionally. To renovate my complexion I purchased an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax at my druggist's and before using this up, a marvelous transformation had taken place. It was like removing an unsightly mask, revealing a new face, a youthful complexion of distinctive delicacy, clear, white and velvety. I merely applied the wax like cold cream before retiring, washing it off mornings. Ten days' treatment sufficed.—"Ausilla" in Clubwoman.

GERMANS RUSH GUNS TO WESTERN FRONT

Three Hundred Thousand Men Reported to be on Way to Belgium

London, Oct. 16.—"Important German reinforcements, especially artillery, have been sent to the West, front," cables the Copenhagen correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Co. "My informant who has just returned here, met at Brendenburg, 28 trains of reinforcements in one hour, all packed with men and horses. He estimated the number of troops to be between 300,000 and 400,000."

FIGHT 8 MILES FROM WARSAW.

Petrograd, Oct. 16.—Fighting between Germans and Russian troops is now going on within 8 miles of Warsaw, Russian Poland.

The official decision to defend the city of Warsaw is regarded here as important in two ways. First, it indicates that the Germans have been thwarted in their attempts to straighten their front along a north and south line so that it would extend from Ostrolenka, 60 miles northeast of Warsaw, through Sandomir into Galicia, and second, the Germans have been obstructed in their plan to use Warsaw as winter quarters.

FIRST REFUGEES FROM BELGIUM ARRIVE

Montreal, Oct. 16.—The Canadian Northern Railway steamer Campanello which has arrived from Avonmouth, brought a party of Belgian refugees, who had lost everything through the war. The parents of a young girl in the party were killed at Louvain.

An Antwerp family, (after their home had been destroyed by a Zeppelin, were compelled to live in the streets until they escaped to England.

One of the officers of the steamer said a little Belgian girl being cared for by friends at Liverpool had had both arms cut off at the elbows.

GOULD WINS SUIT TO GET $1,200,000

New York, Oct. 16.—A verdict in favor of Edwin Gould in his suit against F. Augustus Heinze for the recovery of $1,200,000, part of the purchase price of stock in the Mercantile National bank with interest thereon, was returned by a jury in the state supreme court here today.

While the jury was out Justice Page sent in instructions that the jury must bring in a verdict for the whole amount or nothing.

Justice Page had been informed that some of the jurors desired to bring a verdict of $140,000, representing 155 on each of the 9000 shares involved in the transaction, and an appeal was made to the court to learn if a partial verdict could be made. The jury was out about two hours.

At the request of Edward T. Brackett, counsel for Heinz, a thirty-day delay of execution was granted.

Canadian Soldiers On English Soil Assures Empire Loyalty

London, Oct. 16.—In a leading article on the arrival of the Canadian troops, The Daily Mail pays Canada a splendid tribute. "What Plymouth was privileged to witness was something more than the arrival of so many thousand of hardy natural soldiers." The paper says it was a living picture of Empire in action, the scattering of all illusions of imperial disintegration with which the Germans have amused themselves. This was a spectacle hardly to be paralleled since the Crusades.

"For all that Canada has done in this war; for her splendid troops; her gifts; her instinctive comprehension of the stake that is on the table; and above all for the spirit in which she has asserted her right to take a hand in the game, the British people are profoundly grateful. Never was the assistance she has so lavishly offered, more welcome, never was it more needed."

"The presence of this splendid body of men," says The Daily News, is an inspiration and assurance that however long the war lasts there can be but one end to the struggle. These Canadian troops are the practical embodiment of Empire devotion."

GERMAN SUBMARINE SINKS ANOTHER BRITISH CRUISER IN NORTH SEA

H. M. S. "Hawke" the Victim, Was Practically an Obsolete Type of Boat Twenty-Five Years Old--But British Admiralty Must Wake up is Cry of London--Britishers Tire of Naval Inactivity

London, Oct. 16.—The British cruiser Hawke has been sunk in the North Sea by a German submarine. Out of a crew of 400 men 50 were saved. This is officially confirmed.

The Admiralty Statement.

The Admiralty has given out the following announcement concerning the loss of the cruiser Hawke.

His Majesty's ship Theseus, Captain Hugh Edwards, was attacked by a submarine in the northern water of the North Sea yesterday afternoon, but was missed. His Majesty's ship Hawke, Captain M.P. E.T. Williams, was attacked about the same time and was sunk.

The following officers with 49 men of the crew have been landed at Aberdeen from a trawler: Boatswain Sydney Austin, Gunner James Dennis, and acting Gunner Harry E. Gitt. The remaining officers and men are missing.

Further particulars will be published as soon as available.

The Hawke was a cruiser built in 1890.

The Hawke is the British cruiser which collided with the White Star Line steamer Olympic, September 10, 1911, near Osborne Bay, on the north side of the Isle of Wight. She sustained serious damage.

The cruiser Hawke was of 7,350 ft. long, of 60 feet beam and drew 23 feet of water. She was a sister ship of the Edgar, Endymion, Grafton, Theseus and Gibraltar, and was launched in 1891.

Her armament consisted of two 9.2 inch guns, ten 6-inch guns, twelve 6-pounders, five 3-pounders, two machine guns, and two torpedo tubes. Her complement is given as 541 men, but she may well have had fewer on board when she went down.

The disaster of the Hawke follows by about three weeks the sinking in the North Sea of the British cruisers Aboukir, Hogue and Cressy. These vessels succumbed to the attack of a German submarine, and with them some sixty British officers and 1,400 men went to their death.

GERMAN FACTORY RAIDED, ROOF WAS CONCRETE

London Police Make Important Discovery--Arrest Twenty-Two--Paris Premises of Same Firm Blown Up Recently

London, Oct. 16.—The police have found at Willesden, a suburb to the northwest of London, a building occupied by Germans with foundations and roof of heavy concrete. They arrested 22 Germans on the premises.

The premises were being used by C.G. Roeber, a German music publisher, as a factory. The police said their plans and conducted a successful raid. In large force they surrounded the building and then entered it and took into custody 22 German subjects. The factory is of one story. Within they found very thick concrete foundations, and it was discovered the roof also was of concrete, and between three and four feet thick. The site of this factory at Willesden commands several important railroad junctions.

The Paris premises of this same firm were blown up recently on orders issued by the French Government.

NORTHERN ONTARIO HAS GREAT FUTURE

Uninhabited Wilderness of Forests and Lakes Being Transformed Into Peopled Region

Without attracting much notice from the older and more settled parts of Canada, the northern portion of Ontario is being gradually transformed from an uninhabited wilderness of forests and lakes into a civilized region dotted with small towns and homesteads with a strong individuality of its own.

A traveller who recently visited Northern Ontario expressed himself enthusiastically with regard to the prospects of that portion of the Dominion.

"In ten years that country will be like a new Province," he said. "It will not be like old Ontario—not in the least. Neither will it be like the Western plains or like British Columbia. I am not speaking in a partisan way when I say that the future administration of old Ontario will have to stretch their powers and their imaginations in order to do justice to this new region. In fact, it is going to be hard to treat it as part of old Ontario. That clay belt will support an enormous population. There will be great cities up there and whole counties that know not Toronto, except as a far-off report."

The speaker went on to point out that when New Ontario is once developed it will have a strong set of characteristics of its own. He pointed out that the very toil which is necessary in order to clear the land will call for the best kind of settlers and will bring out rugged qualities in the children of these settlers. The population of New Ontario is still small. It is getting a splendid type of settler, chiefly from Old Ontario, but many are men from Europe, who have been employed in the mines to the south, and who have reverted to the soil. The farmers of this region are producing excellent foodstuffs and finding ready markets in the mining camps to the south. They pay little attention to wheat growing except on a small scale. Practically every farm, no matter how small the clearing, is going in for mixed farming.

MAINTAIN THE WOODLANDS

Too Little Attention to the Subject by the General Public

Prof. E. J. Zavitz, Provincial forester, in speaking of the results of co-operative work in forestry in Ontario, said two hundred thousand tree had been placed last year in 29 counties of the province. The department had a plantation in every county, and the trees put out have been planted in waste types of soil, in blow sand, steep hillsides, etc. They prove a big factor in the protection of roads from the drift sand and landslides. There is only nine per cent. of woodlands in southern Ontario, less even than in closely populated Great Britain, the speaker said. The quality of our forests also is not improving, as the best trees are being cut down and not replaced. Labor, or the want of it is partly to blame for the fact that we do not keep up our woodlands, but the professor hinted that indifference, and the fact that there was no immediate return, was the chief factor. In Norfolk County there are one million trees in the nurseries and sixteen thousand acres in connection for experimental planting. Prof. Zavitz, however, is quite frank about the fact that but little encouragement, much too little, is given by farmers and the general public on the subject of reforestation. Especially is this pronounced when we consider that trees can be had for the asking.

EXTENT OF FISHERIES

Canada's Industry is the Most Extensive in the World

To say that Canada possesses the most extensive fisheries in the world is no exaggeration; moreover, it is safe to add that the waters in and around Canada contain the principal commercial food fishes in greater abundance than the waters of any other part of the world. The extraordinary fertility of what may be called our own waters is abundantly proved by the fact that, apart from salmon, all the lobsters, herring, mackerel and sardines, nearly all the haddock, and many of the cod, hake, and pollock landed in Canada are taken from within our territorial waters. The coast line of the Atlantic provinces, from the Bay of Fundy to the Straits of Belle Isle, without taking into account the lesser bays and indentations measures over 5,000 miles; and along this great stretch are to be found innumerable natural harbors and coves, in many of which valuable fish are taken in considerable quantities with little effort. On the Pacific coast, the province of British Columbia, owing to its immense number of islands, bays and fiords, which from safe and easily accessible harbors has a sea-washed shore of 7,[illegible] miles. Along this shore and within the limits of the territorial waters, there are fish and mammals in greater abundance, probably than anywhere else in the whole world. In addition to this immense salt-water fishing area, we have in our numerous lakes no less than 220,000 square miles of fresh water, abundantly stocked with many species of excellent food fishes.

RURAL SECURITY

It has, singularly enough, come to pass that we have allowed the industry of our farms to lag behind the other activities of the country in its development. I need not stop to tell you how fundamental to the life of the nation is the production of its food. Our thoughts may ordinarily be concentrated upon the cities and the hives of industry, upon the cries of the crowded market place and the clangor of the factory, but it is from the quiet interspaces of the open valleys and the hillsides that we draw the sources of life and prosperity, from the farm and the ranch, from the forest and the mine. Without these every street would be silent, every office deserted, every factory fallen into disrepair. And yet the farmer does not stand upon the same footing with the forester and the miner in the market of credit. He is the servant of the seasons. Nature determines how long he must wait for his crops, and will not be hurried in her processes. He may give his note, but the season of its maturity depends upon the season when his crop matures, lies at the gates of the market where his products are sold. And the security he gives is of a character not known in the broker's office or as familiarly as it might be on the counter of the banker.—Woodrow Wilson, to Congress.

Fertilizing Use of Peat

The most important use to which peat is put in this country is as a fertiliser, the annual consumption for that purpose being, according to Popular Mechanics, 41,080 tons, while only 1,300 tons were used for fuel, 3,000 tons for stock food and 2,000 tons in the manufacture of paper. In preparing peat for use as a fertiliser the field bearing the peat deposit, unless it is already under cultivation, is thoroughly drained and plowed, and planted for one or two seasons with some crop which destroys or disintegrates the coarse material and aerates and improves the upper layers of the peat. It is then plowed and harrowed and allowed to dry thoroughly, and, after being scraped into windrows, is hauled to the factory for further drying or storage. The drying is completed by passing the material through long rotary cylindrical driers, through which the heated air and gases from furnaces are forced by fan blowers. This process requires a somewhat expensive plant. In preparing peat for fuel it is made into the form of cylinders.

Poultry Food

The value of grains as poultry food, and which they relish the best, are: wheat, oats, corn, barley and buckwheat. Rye is of the least value, and fowls very seldom eat it, and then only when very hungry.

POPULAR SUPERSTITIONS

Some Signs That Most People do Not Disregard

James Russell Lowell, that calm scholarly poet, tells us that "a mythology or superstition broods over us in our cradles and mingles with the lullaby of the nurse; it is in the winter evening legends of the chimney corners and is never entirely eradicated."

From the earliest recollection of the first rehearsal of the "bogie man" down to the day when your sweetheart plucked the petals from the flower, saying "He loves me, he loves me not," there has been a strange, though at times an illogical, sequence to things coupled with superstition.

What politician and candidate would not accept a bunch of four-leaf clovers from a maiden and feel convinced that fortune smiled upon him? We would like his name and we would wish to see his photograph.

What bride, whether of cottage or castle, but would feel slighted if her friends did not shower her with rice as she was helped into carriage or automobile? And what bridegroom, whether of low or high brow, would feel scorned if the old shoe were not flung at him as he drove away with his bride?

Distinguished statesmen, poets painters, orators, inventors, and merchants have attested their consideration of the popular superstitions of marriage, and have paid tribute to the goddess Superstition in their wedding gifts to their brides.

London is the chief human hair market of the world, and deals with something like $1,500,000 worth of hair every year. The hair mostly comes from the heads of peasant girls in Italy, Brittany, and the South of France.

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By LEONA DALRYMPLE

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

Dark Skies

LEONA DALRYMPLE

THE weather grew very cold—snow came. December was a month of wind and blizzards. Mary began to talk of Christmas and the present she wanted—a year's instruction with Casetti, the artist. I am not blind to what this means. It is merely a pandering to vanity. Mary has no talent whatever. If she paints a long while she may evolve anaemic snow scenes and postcard effects. Her training will never be worth the money spent on it.

About this time I began to cast about for a way to earn some extra money. If we were going to have any Christmas at all it was absolutely imperative that I find extra money.

Night Book-Keeping.

My opportunity came from the treasurer of a small manufacturing plant. They were just beginning, had a limited amount of capital, and but a few men. They desired to eliminate the expense of a book-keeper.

"If I could find a man or a girl who'd take an hour or so every night and run over them," said Foote, the superintendent, "that would be sufficient I'm sure."

"I'll do it," said I, and we settled the thing then and there.

I told Mary I would be an hour later every night.

"What time will you be?" asked Mary.

"Seven o'clock," I said curtly. "Maybe later."

"Oh, dear—why?"

"Simply because," I said, "I must earn more money if we're going to have any Christmas at all. I'm going to do extra work."

"Nobody need know it, need they?" asked Mary anxiously.

I turned and left the room.

I may be growing inordinately sensitive, but Mary is constantly hurting me. She had no thought of the extra hour or so of work—no thought of my sacrifice to make ends meet. Her first thought was a snobbish reluctance to let people guess we needed money.

Seventy-five per cent. of the snobbishness in the world, I believe, germinates among women. Only the exceptional women will admit that she can't afford a thing. The average man will own to it with a regretful grin.

A Hard Task.

At 6, therefore, every night, I went over to Foote's grimy factory office and fixed up his books. They were in a horrible mess. Everybody had taken a shot at them from the shipping clerk down to the office boy.

It was a worse grind of work than I had imagined. I began to lose weight, though I didn't mind it in the least. People, however, began to comment upon it, and that I did mind.

I expected Mary to wait until 7 o'clock for me and then we'd dine together. What man wouldn't expect the same? I found it was entirely too much to ask.

"I get so hungry," Mary said, "that my headaches. I simply have to eat."

"Very well, then," I said, "eat by all means. I don't mind." And mentally I added, "that is, I don't mind very much." For I did mind. After a day's work, and the added hour over Foote's incomprehensible book-keeping—after a walk through the cold and sleet—I did mind a lonely dinner. And more and more my mind went back to those days at home with mother. We had an old-fashioned supper at night, and such cheerful tales of the day. And mother would wait for dad no matter what the hour was. How we would listen for the sound of the carriage wheels. And mother would say: "Never be a doctor, son. Father works too hard."

I am blue and discouraged.

BUZZ!—no, it's more like a purr. At least that buzz sounds just like the softest purr to occupants of a car who may be utterly absorbed in each other. Call it a kind of music. Call the green and yellow and blue of the scene a chromatic whirr. These two really see and hear nothing but themselves.

They don't know about that unseen passenger. Perhaps they haven't even become accustomed to the name that passenger owns.

When Love rides, the speedometer and the emergency brake are extremely important. But they don't get much attention. That's the odd thing that isn't odd at all.

Is Love reckless? Maybe not. But you remember that, by all accounts, he is BLIND.

Common Origins

People say "God bless me" after sneezing from the fact that in the days of the plague this terrible malady began with violent sneezings and other indications of cold. The exclamation was thus originally a prayer to be delivered from the plague.

The bow is first seen depicted on Egyptian monuments about 2000 B. C. Its form then did not differ greatly from that in use among boys at the present day. It was used in European warfare as late as 1640, and was deemed quite as effective as the arquebuses then employed.

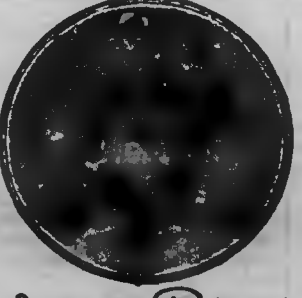
The Thanksgiving proclamation was originated by Francis Bernard, "Captain General and Governor in Chief in and over His Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts Bay." It was issued Nov. 4, 1767, and the form was that which has been, in substance, adhered to ever since.

How Easy It Is for the Man

By WINIFRED BLACK

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.



Winifred Black

SHE killed herself three months ago—the pretty little woman I've known ever since I went to her wedding, when she was twenty and as sweet as a brier rose, as pretty as a pink and just as good as gold.

She was a good deal worried about the wedding—she was very much in love with the man she was going to marry, and the man she was going to marry was very much in love with her. And there was a secret in her life—such a poor, pitiful, forlorn, tragic secret.

I knew her when she was fifteen years old, and even then she was trying to forget the secret. She was the favorite pupil in the high school in her little village circle and she thought the principal of the school was the greatest man who ever lived. He was so wise and so kind and so patient. And then one dreadful day she suddenly awoke out of a foolish, wicked little dream, and found herself in dreadful disgrace.

And the mother who bore her, who was too busy being president of the Ladies' Aid Society and secretary of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions and alto in the choir and leader of the Boys' Club, to watch over her own simple-hearted, loving, trustful little girl—turned her out into the street.

Her Wages of Sin.

The school principal gave her just money enough to get away to the nearest big city, on condition that she didn't speak to any one before she went—and that she would keep his secret as well as her own. She came to the city—alone, in terrible pain, friendless—with just money enough to get a carriage and drive to a newspaper office where she had read of the name of a woman whom she thought might help her.

She was fifteen years old when this happened, and her hair was down in curls around her pale, terrified little face, and her dress did not come quite down to her shoe tops. But she found friends at the newspaper office and they took her to shelter and protection; and when she was able to be about again they found her work where she could keep her little boy with her—yes, she had a little boy, and she was nothing but a child herself. She worked, oh, so faithfully, to take care of him, but he died, poor little chap, and some people said they thought it was a good thing that he did.

But when she was twenty—oh, so old and so experienced and so lonely—one of the clerks in the office wanted her to marry him. And she said, "No." But the clerk in the office would not take no for an answer—he begged and begged.

He told the little girl that he could not live without her, that if she did not marry him he didn't care what became of him—and the little girl cried and was very much distressed. And so the man in the office asked her again.

She told him that she did love him—she loved him truly, deeply, as she had never loved before and would never love again—but that she could not marry any one. And the man of the office laughed and said that he would marry her, even if she was a convicted murderess.

The little girl cried and laughed—both together—and then she came and we talked it over together—she and I—the two who knew the reason why she thought she ought not to marry. She told me that she had tried to tell the man and he would not listen—and, oh, she loved him so and she would be so true and so good—and he wasn't a very clever man. He was just good and faithful and she loved him. She knew she could help him so much in his work and look after his health, for he was not very strong, and help him take care of his mother, who was an invalid.

And so they were married—and for fifteen years that woman was a faithful, devoted, loving wife.

She fairly made a new man of the kindly, easy-going fellow she had married. She had three children—two girls and a little boy—and they had a pretty home and they were all very happy. And then all at once things were different.

The man was cross and disagreeable; his wife thought at first that he was worried about business—for he had begun by this time to have quite a large business of his own which she had helped him to get. Then she thought he was ill and she cooked special little dishes for him and rang him up at his store and made him go out for long walks, and she persuaded him to join an athletic club to see if that wouldn't make him better.

But he grew worse and worse—moody, irritable, cold—until his wife was so worried about him she hardly knew what to do. Then one night after a revival meeting at the church to which the two belonged the husband told his wife what was the matter with him. He was worried about her, he said.

He couldn't bear to go to church, he said, or to pray, he felt so wicked. And finally the man told the woman that she would have to go away somewhere and leave him with the children—and that night the woman stole out of the house and went and drowned herself. That was three months ago.

His Happy Lot.

Yesterday I went past the little church where the man and woman used to go and the door was open and I stepped in to see what was going on.

And it was a wedding, and the bridegroom was the man whose wife had killed herself—and the bride was a young girl nineteen or twenty. Where had I seen her before? Oh, yes, I had sat behind her and the man at the theatre some six months ago and the man took great pains to tell me that he had just dropped in by accident and happened to find one of his Sunday school class in the seat next to him. And wasn't she the same girl I saw walking with the man out on a lonely country road—one Sunday, way last fall?

I wonder if she had anything to do with the man's sudden spell of conscience.

Of course—you couldn't blame the man—could you? They say he was rather a wild chap when he was young—his wife never believed any of those stories, though—but, of course, it's different with a man—isn't it?

I do hope whoever brings up those three motherless little children will be sure to teach them how very, very different it is—with a man.

I'm sure the gentle mother who died of grief and humiliation would want them to know.

In France it is believed that when a white pigeon settles upon a chimney the incident betokens speedy death for some inmate of the house.

It is a common belief in the rural districts of all countries that when hogs carry straw or sticks in their mouths rain will soon follow.

To kill a martin in all folklore is considered unlucky.

There is a superstition among many colored people in the South that to meet a frog is a lucky incident, indicating that the one thus favored is about to receive money from some unexpected quarter.

Among the country people of England there is an idea that to touch food which has been nibbled by a mouse will result in a sore throat.

In the New England states of this country there is a superstition that bees will never do well if the people of the house quarrel about them.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why Your Nose Lining Demands Strict Care

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

CHAUCER was the Canterbury poet who knew men and medicine better than the doctors of his day. He even anticipated the French physicist of yester-week, who discovered that nose-piece for telephone service is superior and helpful to the mouthpiece. Thus:

"Full well she sang the service divine,
Entuned in her nose most sweetly."

This poesy is the first written word that calls physiological attention to the fact that the nose is an aid to a pure voice. When you hear musicians or doctors say: "He is singing through his nose," be up and at them. Everybody sings and talks through the nose. The so-called nasal twang, the stage-voice of Yankees and down-easterners is, after all, the voice of nasal obstruction.

Any interference in the nose or the "pharynx"—the back part of the nostril cavity—creates the same tonal troubles which a loose piano string does. The pure musical tones are broken up into discordant overtones.

The nose, as hilly an eruption as it is amid the valleys of the face, is a much neglected part of the human make-up. Commonly supposed to be ornamental, for smelling and for "catching cold," the nose is really an important structure. Like many other valuable, but undignified, articles in this world, as much respect must be paid to the nose as to other more popular organs.

Why Care Is Needed.

Defective ailments, in their assault upon the nose, usually attack the red, membranous interior. The inside of the nose is like a rumpled carpet, namely, full of folds. Thus nature presents a surface as large as Dido's cowhide for the foundation of Carthage. Frigid winds are thus forced to blow over a large area of warmed nasal lining before they dare leave this scarlet mass to purify the lungs. Ere this, the Arctic air has become as balmy as a June zephyr. The interminable meshes of "mucous" membrane in the nose have heated it.

When you consult a nose specialist about obstructed nostrils—this may be due to chronic colds, cysts, a broken partition or other irritation—do not call him a "nosologist." Nosology is an ancient medical term. It means classification of diseases as you would animals into varieties, species and genera. Therefore, all nosologists are not nasal experts.

Strange as it seems, the teeth are cleaned several times a day, yet the nose, which takes in more dirt and dust and is exposed all the time, is rarely washed.

Oils and oily sprays, whether harmlessly mild or saturated with antiseptics, should not be used in the nostrils and nasal caverns. The habit of using an oil atomizer, advised by doctors until a year or so ago, has been discovered to coddle the membranes too much. Disinfecting nasal sprays are now taboo.

Method Prescribed.

The nose should be rinsed out and cleaned at least once or twice a week. It is true that even this is overdone at times. When a sound nose—one that warms the incoming air, allows you to recognise odors and is open for good breathing—is irrigated or washed out every day, even with salt water, the lining becomes flabby and soggy. Injury, of course, follows.

When your voice has a "nasal tone" to it, one of several troubles is present:

1—An inflamed "mucous" lining.
2—A fresh "cold."
3—Swollen or enlarged "turbinates."
4—The middle partition pushed too far into one nostril.
5—"Mucus" cysts—little bladders of mucus; bags that fill the cavity.
6—A swollen "pharynx" or lining.

The maroon lining of the nostrils is always at work "oiling" its own surface with a thin, gelatin-like fluid called "mucus." Most of the inner membranes of the body manufacture this "mucus." Hence they are called mucous membranes.

This mucus not only helps to wash off the dust and dirt which are always pestering your nose, but it mixes with cold air and helps quickly to warm it to blood heat.

Fresh air, sunlight, cold applications to the outside of the nose, cold water washes and the removal of all the clogging internal strangers, means health to the whole body. When you suspect such trouble in the nose, when you smell a rat, as it were, do not hold your nose to the household grindstone, but hie you to your friendly Galen. Thus will you keep the breath of life, which God breathed into Adam's nostrils, pure and undefiled in your lungs.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

I have at last decided to come to you for your advice upon a subject which I have been trying to consider for myself for some time now.

I am keeping company with a very nice young man whom I think a lot of. I have also a very dear friend who lives in another city. Do you think it is wrong of me to keep in correspondence with him, and also to receive presents from him?

I have told him that he wasn't to send me any thing more, but he still persists in sending me presents. What do you think is best for me to do?

ISOBEL.

WHAT do you mean, Isobel, when you say you are "keeping company" with a man?

Are you engaged to him, and do you expect to keep your engagement? If you are, then you certainly ought not to keep up your correspondence with your other friend without the consent of your fiance.

The young man in another city may be just a friend; in that case there is no reason why you should hurt his feelings for a foolish idea.

Why don't you talk the whole thing over with your real sweetheart, and then do what he says is best? It seems to me that's the sensible way out of the difficulty.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care of this office.

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

COOKED cucumbers taste better than they sound. Also they are becoming more popular as a table delicacy. Persons who have never been able to eat raw cucumbers without suffering the pangs of indigestion, enjoy them cooked with no fear of unpleasant after effects.

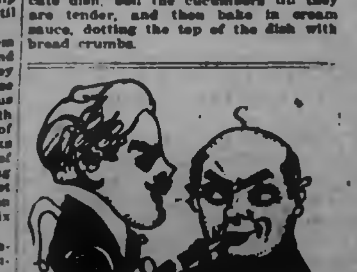
One of the simplest ways to cook them is to cut lengthwise in quarters, dip them in batter, and fry in deep fat until they are a delicate brown.

Another simple way of preparing them is to pare, cut in lengthwise strips and steam them over boiling water until they are tender, then serve with Hollandaise sauce. To make this most delicious sauce, which is useful to serve with many vegetables, cream half a cup of butter and add, one at a time, the yolks of two eggs, a pinch of salt, a dash of pepper and a fourth of a cup of boiling water. Cook this mixture over hot water, stirring until it thickens, then add a tablespoonful of lemon juice, mix well, and pour over the cucumbers.

Scalloped cucumbers make an agreeable vegetable entree. Three large cucumbers pared and cut in cubes will be enough for a family of four. Arrange layers of the cucumbers in a buttered baking dish and on each layer sprinkle salt and pepper, and a little finely chopped onion. When the dish is filled, pour a cup of milk over the whole and cover the top with bread crumbs, buttered and seasoned, and bake in a hot oven. Chicken soup stock or white sauce may be substituted for the milk.

Plain boiled cucumbers are good, if well cooked. There is one thing to remember in cooking cucumbers, and that is don't let them get so soft they will be mushy.

Boiled cucumbers should be peeled and quartered, and cooked in boiling salted water for 20 minutes. They may be served simply with drawn butter or with a cream sauce on toast, the same as asparagus. If you wish a more delicate dish, boil the cucumbers till they are tender, and then bake in cream sauce, dotting the top of the dish with bread crumbs.



Makes No Difference.

"No man is a hero to his valet, you know."

"What difference does it make. The valet doesn't mind."

The Good Night Story

The Golden Mountain :: By Vernon Merry

IN the long ago there were two brothers who lived on adjoining farms, and one of them was very rich and one very poor. The rich brother never gave his poor brother any help, and was as mean as he could be whenever they met.

One day the poor brother went far out to the great forest that lay at his door to gather firewood for the winter. He found some good wood near a mountain, back from the road. Soon he heard a voice shouting:

"Open Golden Mountain! Open thyself wide!"

The poor man looked and saw 12 men riding into the heart of the mountain that had opened at their command and closed behind them. After a while the mountain opened again, and the men came riding out with well filled bags on their saddles. When they had gone the poor man wondered what these men had brought away, so he determined to try the magic himself.

He shouted to the mountain, exactly as he had heard the 12 men shout, and the mountain opened and in he went. There, in the mountain's heart, he found great stores of gold and silver, and huge piles of diamonds and precious stones. Taking what he could carry in his hands he went out and called to the mountain to close itself again. Then he drove home, and his wife and family were very happy, because they knew they would never be hungry again.

The next time the poor man went to the mountain he borrowed from his rich brother a bushel measure in which to carry some gold away. When he returned the measure the rich brother looked carefully in it and found, between the meshes, a piece of gold. His suspicions were aroused, and he went to his poor brother and made him tell him where he had got the gold.

Then the rich brother went off himself, with the biggest measure that he had, to bring back all the gold and jewels he wanted. He said the right words when he wanted the mountain to open and let him in, but when he saw the gold and jewels in its heart they made him forget how to get out.

Then the 12 men came. "You're caught at last!" they cried. "You need not think that your visits passed unnoticed. The first time and the second time we could not catch you, but now, it is the third time, and you must pay the penalty."

The rich brother pleaded piteously, saying that it was his poor brother, but the 12 men would not believe him. They cut off his head. But the poor brother, who was now rich, lived happily, and never forgot to be kind to poor people.

INTER-PROVINCIAL NEWS PARAGRAPHS

Toronto, Oct. 15.—The annual convention of the W.C.T.U. just ended here saw the passage of a number of resolutions framed in the interest of morality. Deep indignation was expressed at the failure of the Methodist conference to grant women the same voting rights as laymen, especially as almost three-fourths of the vote was in favor of the extension of the franchise. One delegate said that the action of the conference had strengthened the hands of those in the hotel trade whose businesses were protected by a three fifths vote, as they could now urge that those who had fought for the abolition of the three fifths vote, had themselves hidden behind a still more unequal minority vote.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Now that the women of Illinois have the vote, the big trouble facing the suffrage leaders is to get their sisters out to register and avail themselves of the franchise they have so long fought for. In the furtherance of this object every minister in Chicago has been asked to set aside next Sunday to a special appeal to women to register and after having registered, to vote. Every woman's organization in the city, social, philanthropic, religious and political has also been recruited in an effort to stimulate registration. The suffrage leaders are keenly disappointed so far at the apparent lack of interest the women are taking in the ballot.

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—The prospective members of the Canada's second contingent which is to be sent to the seat of war will hear with pleasure that preliminary training will be carried out at the headquarters of the several military districts instead of at Valcartier as was the case with the first contingent. This will give soldiers the benefit of many home comforts during the period of training, which they otherwise would not enjoy.

Cobalt, Oct. 15.—The Ontario License Department has 50 informations against blind piggers in the Porcupine gold camp, and the cases will commence Wednesday. This is the second big raid since July when 51 defendants appeared and 47 convictions were recorded.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—A prohibition against the use of tobacco in any form about the premises of the Y.M.C.A. here has been passed, with the result that a large percentage of the membership are very much disgruntled. A number of ministers were accustomed to using the smoke rooms of the institution and these, rather than submit to such an arbitrary measure have resigned their membership. The action of the directors is accepted as concrete evidence of the oft repeated statement that prohibition of tobacco was to be sought if a sufficient measure of success attended the passing of prohibitory laws on alcoholic beverages throughout the country.

Rome, Oct. 15.—So acute has the European situation become, that the mobilization of the Italian army has commenced and 550,000 men are now under arms. If a declaration of war is made, it will be in favor of the Allies, for Italy's treaty with Germany stipulates that her aid can only be sought in hostilities of a defensive nature.

Walkerville, Oct. 15.—Proponents of the referendum as a municipal system must feel chagrined at the result of the Hydro vote taken here. Although the sum of $20,000 was involved in the passage or defeat of the by-law, only twenty-three voters came to the polls, two to vote against it and twenty-one to vote in favor.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

Forest Destruction

The Trent watershed is a sample area of thousands of square miles in other parts of the eastern provinces, and the conditions in this watershed are by no means extraordinary. They repeat themselves wherever axe and fire have been permitted to destroy the original forest growth, that is to say, wherever lumbering under the license system has been permitted, without safeguarding the property as a producer. The sequence of this mismanagement is everywhere the same. The removal, either of the best or of all timber, without disposing of the debris, leaves a slash which invariably becomes a prey to fire; after this, a loss of interest takes place on the part of the licensee and, what is still worse, on the part of the government. Nature then attempts to reproduce the forest, only to be followed by a repetition of the fires, which kill the seed trees and seedlings of the better kinds. The ground is then re-covered by aspen and birch for a time; but, through repeated conflagrations, it is finally rendered useless for any productive purpose. A similar sequence takes place in connection with the small-farm portions: at first, through the home market made by the lumberman, a fair living may be made by the occupant; gradually this market vanishes and the soil becomes worked out; the surface wears away, the rocks are exposed, and the people are left destitute and miserable.

War Songs And Music

What tunes are most in favor among soldiers in battle?

What tunes do men like best to die to?

Decidedly it is not the "high brow" brand that they demand.

The finest marching tune in the world, according to Colonel Roosevelt, is "Garry Owen," which is an Irish folk dance.

What the Highlanders whom Napoleon referred to as the "barelegged savages," love to march to is some weirdly infectious lilt skirled on the bagpipes. It was the "Cock O The North," played by Piper Findlater when he had both legs shot from under him, that piped the intrepid "Laddies" against the Afridis in the pass of Darghai.

But Findlater afterwards sought to capitalise on his bravery and played "Cock O' the North" in vaudeville, which caused not only a fall from grace, but his complete ostracism from the Gordon Highlanders and their friends. They are very jealously proud of the honors earned in battle.

Napoleon had good reason to appreciate the effect of music upon soldiers in war time. When his Swiss soldiers heard the "Rans des Vaches" they were so overcome that whole regiments of them deserted and he had to make it a crime punishable by death to play it in their hearing.

During the Civil War it was not the Battle Hymn of the Republic that the soldiers of the North marched to. Their favorites were "The Girl I Left Behind Me" and "Yankee Doodle."

There is something saucy, something "devil may care," needed when men are going to meet the foe, some not to return.

"Dixie" did more to stiffen the backs of Southerners than all the eloquence of statesmen ever could.

To-day, in France, the favorite British war song is, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary." This is not in any sense a military song; it is Irish vocal comedy, pure and simple applied in a spirit of sarcasm to the frustrated efforts of the German armies to capture Paris by a given date.

Lame Back Strengthened, Stiffness Taken Right Out

Was Relieved in An Hour, and Cured in a Night

A lame back? Quite unnecessary. All you have to do is to rub on Nerviline. It's simply a wonder for backache relieves after one rubbing. "Nothing possibly could cure an aching back faster than Nerviline," writes Mrs. Arthur Kobar of Lower Chelsea, N.S. "I caught cold and was so prostrated with pain I could not bend over. We always have Nerviline at home, and I had the painful region rubbed thoroughly with this grand liniment. At once the pain departed. The lameness was rapidly reduced and in an hour I was able to be about my housework. I was rubbed again just before retiring, and awoke as usual in the morning without a sign of my back trouble."

There is no sort of muscular pain that Nerviline won't cure quickly. Thousands swear by it for rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and lumbago. It sinks to the core of the pain—right through muscle, tissue and nerve—it penetrates where no oily greasy liniment can go and invariably cures quickly. If you have an ache or a pain anywhere—use Nerviline—it will cure you. Family size bottle very large 50c; trial size 25c, at all dealers.

Historical Viewpoint

History very often has a viewpoint different from that of contemporary opinion, says the Montreal Mail. When, in the future, historians look back to the present war they may attach less importance to the immediate causes preceding the actions of the different nations and base their judgment upon the larger aspects in each case.

Take Britain and Germany. They are at war. The immediate, direct cause was the violation by Germany of Belgium's neutrality, which Britain had sworn to protect, and the yielding by Great Britain to the cry of Belgium for assistance against the invader. But, back of that, there is another reason why Britain and Germany should be at war, why a clash between the two Empires was inevitable. That reason is found in a conflict of rights as to the possession of sea power.

Kaiser William the Second, a few years ago, announced that Germany's future was on the ocean. Germany had built up a very large and valuable commerce and claimed the right to protect it. She aimed to become a world-power, so that, in the words of the Kaiser, no great decision could be taken anywhere without consulting Germany and the German Emperor.

Germany's claim, therefore, was the right to build a large navy for the protection of her ambitions, commercial and political. What was Great Britain's claim?

Great Britain claimed simply the right to exist. Her fleet was the bulwark of her Empire and the safeguard of her heart's blood. Should foreign power grow to a strength great enough to challenge her with prospect of success, she would face humility and disaster, perhaps starvation in "hub" of her Empire. The "German scares" of which we formerly heard so much were absolutely logical. They were prophetic. They were the first distant lightning flashes which anticipated the storm which now has burst in all its fury. Unless Germany is not the same nation to-day as she was in former years, [illegible] this war is the German scare in very truth, and this is the "emergency" come true. It will not matter in history what chip was knocked off who's shoulder. It will matter only in so far as Britain and Germany are concerned, that two Empires grew until they clashed, one claiming the right to exercise ambition, natural energy and industry, but disregarding the right of another Empire, more glorious in achievement and more humane in Government, to exist.

Thus, Britain may submit her case to history, in its larger aspects, with confidence. The marvellous illustration she is furnishing an admiring world of a score of races, black and white, rushing to her flag will be part of her case—it will vindicate her right to the Imperial perogative, it will dwarf the claim of Germany that she should be permitted to further ambitions which are incompatible with the healthy life of a more deserving Empire than she possesses or than her statesmen have ever shown the ability to govern.

Editorial Comment

Austria appears to be bracing up—probably the effect of German tonic.

The province of Ontario has licensed more than 30,000 motor cars, most of them made in the United States.

The Baltimore News says: "Perhaps the least justification for the belief that German militarism must be destroyed is the proof of the terrible efficiency which it has attained."

The Philadelphia Inquirer says: "There is not the shadow of an excuse for the invasion of Belgian soil. The crime of it will live in history for its very horrors. It cannot be defended, it cannot be atoned for."

The United States is now a 100,000,000 country. The census bureau estimate of population for October 1 was 99,451,000. This was exclusive of the population of our island possessions.

The day-and-night activity of Charles W. Fairbanks in the Indiana campaign is generally interpreted as meaning that he is in the field for the next Republican nomination for President of the United States. He is making "welcome home" speeches calculated to soothe the passions of the Progressives.

Speaking of the tremendous verbal activity of the British and the German stay-at-home university professors, the Dallas News pertinently remarks: "They are hurling polysyllables at one another and each side is accusing the other of trying to assassinate culture." We wonder whether these learned German and English professors have ever heard of Chicago, a place where, according to an official announcement years ago, they "make culture hum!"

DONT'S FOR GUN-USERS

Legislation, in some degree, may prevent a good many incidents. The remedy, however, largely lies with the individual himself and at the risk of repeating what may seem like a list of platitudes, the following "don'ts" are set down for the consideration of sportsmen readers:

Don't point a gun at any person in fun. It is always the gun that "we did not know was loaded" that goes off. Then only time to point a gun is when you intend to kill.

Don't carry a loaded gun or rifle in a buggy, automobile or any other kind of vehicle.

Don't forget to "break" your gun when standing with others or crossing a fence.

Don't pull a gun from a boat by the muzzle.

Don't drag a gun under a fence with muzzle pointed towards you.

Don't allow your boy to handle a gun without first drilling him thoroughly in the way it should be used. To allow him to pick up his knowledge in his own way is courting disaster.

Don't use a cheap gun. They are apt to explode when using heavy charges.

Don't rest on the muzzle of your gun.

Don't load your gun until you actually get to business. At all other times it should be empty.

Don't get intoxicated.

VALUABLE STAMPS

Big Fortunes Tied up in Tiny Pieces of Paper

Huge, though the sum of $100,000, which was paid for part of the late Earl of Crawford's collection of stamps, may seem, it is by no means a record. As much as $225,000 has been realised for individual collections, and $122,500 was paid in 1909 for the late Sir William Avery's stamps. One of the enormous specialised collections brought together by Mr. H. Castle, the doyen of British philatelists, brought nearly $150,000, and its value, if disposed of to-day, would be very much higher. As a matter of fact, the $100,000 paid for part of the Earl of Crawford's collection only represents about half the total value, for the late Earl gathered together a mass of rare and valuable stamps which is unique in the history of philatelic enterprise, and must have cost him at least $200,000.

The most valuable collection in the world, however, is that which belongs to a Frenchman, M. Philip La Renotière, who started collecting stamps in the middle of the 'sixties, and who has probably spent nearly $1,500,000 upon his collection of 120,000 stamps. And as an illustration of how stamps increase in value with time, it might be mentioned that M. Renotière purchased outright the collections of two presidents of the Royal Philatelic Society—Sir Samuel Cooper, Bart., whose collection in 1878 he bought for $15,000, and Judge Philbrick, for whose collection, in 1882, he gave $40,000. To-day those two collections would probably bring $100,000 and $250,000 respectively.

Football Not Pingpong

In a Yale scrimmage practice one big chap smashed through a guard and lit into the man opposite him in rugged fashion. He helped his opponent to his feet at the end of the play, saying: "Excuse me, old man. I didn't mean to get into you so hard." Coach Jones heard the remark and strode into the mix-up. "Here you," he said, calling to the humble one, "what are you excusing yourself for? This is a man's game. I don't want to hear any more of this 'excuse me' business. Now give us your signal. Mr. Quarterback."

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Company re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs—all young foxes—good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leaving $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:—"We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalised company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalize your concern at $60,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

Below are the particulars of sale of a consignment of Silver Fox Furs, shipped from Prince Edward Island ranches to London, England, and sold there in March, 1910:

SHARES

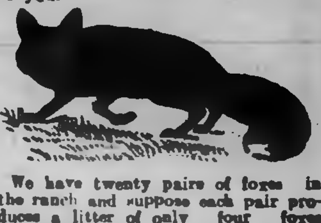
Shares are selling at $25.00 each, 25 per cent. with application and the balance on or before September 1st, 1914.

Simply fill out the application form and mail to Major C. McKinnon, Secretary-Treasurer, Glenaladale, P. E. I.

All cheques must be made payable to "The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Ltd."

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you.



We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business—and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

CANADIAN TROOPS EXPRESS DELIGHT ON BEING LANDED

Plymouth Folk Who Went Early to Bed Had Strange Lullaby in Demonstration of Overseas Men As They Reached Station—The Opinion is Canadians Will Not Need Much Licking into Shape

Plymouth, Oct. 16.—Residents around the railway station at Plymouth, who sought their beds before the small hours, had a strange lullaby in the uproarious demonstrations of the Canadians, who were being packed into troop trains and sent inland. The men were half frantic with delight at release from the troopships And vented their complete approval of a change of program in shouts sufficient to make Israel's army blush.

Thousands of Plymouth people assembled as near the railway station as the authorities would permit and shouted a genial mixture of chaff and good wishes to Canada's lads as kit in hand, they marched into the depot.

The work of entraining went on right into the small hours, none of the men being aware of their destination.

The feature which appears to have struck competent observers of Canada's contingent most favorably is the general atmosphere of maturity about the men.

"These fellows will not take much licking into shape," declared one grizzled non-com. who doubtless has been induring some trying moments recently in training the new home levies into shape.

Other comments are less worthy of consideration and it is evident that some folk are apparently surprised that the Canadian contingent has appearance pretty much akin to our own territorial army instead of being something like a filiqustering expedition or a circus show.

These things, of course, are merely amusing.

GUELPH—Oct. 24, 9.00 a.m. to 6.00 p.m.

The week ending Oct 31st will be spent on the main line between Toronto and Windsor, the next two weeks on Branch lines in Western Ontario, and from there the car will proceed through Eastern Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick, arriving at Amherst, Nova Scotia, in time for the Maritime Winter Fair.

The object in presenting these exhibits is to interest people generally in improved methods of producing and marketing eggs and wool.

The wool exhibit has attracted the attention of large crowds at the exhibitions where it has been displayed and contains much useful information regarding the care, uses and manufacture of this important product of the farm.

The egg exhibit, particularly the candling demonstration, is of special interest to consumers and producers and all are cordially invited to attend.

AN EASY WAY TO STOP HEAD NOISES

Good Advice For Those Who Fear Deafness

Men and women who are growing hard of hearing and who experience a stuffy feeling of pressure against their ear drums, accompanied by buzzing, rumbling sounds in their head like water falling or steam escaping should take prompt and effective measures to stop this trouble. Headnoises are almost invariably the forerunners of complete or partial deafness and most deaf people suffer from them constantly. Sometimes these head noises become so distracting and nerve racking, with their never ceasing "hum" they drive the sufferer almost frantic and complete nervous breakdown and even violent insanity have been known to result.

Thanks to a remarkable scientific discovery made recently in England it is now possible to almost instantly lessen the severity of these headnoises and in a very short time to completely and permanently overcome them. With the disappearing of the head noises, the hearing also greatly improves and very frequently can be restored to normal. This English treatment is known as Parmint and can be easily and safely self administered at home. Leading druggists in Peterborough and vicinity now have it in stock. Get from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength) and mix it at home with ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar. Stir until dissolved and then take one tablespoonful four times a day until the noises disappear and hearing improves. Parmint is used double strength in this way not only to reduce, by tonic action, the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian tube and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear and the results it gives are both remarkably quick and effective.

MARKET GARDNER IN TROUBLE.

Last night at 8 o'clock a market gardner of Monaghan was driving in a buggy along Hunter Street. As he arrived in front of Fontaines livery stable, an automobile, the number of which begins with 77—— was going in an opposite direction. The driver tooted his horn but the gardner took no cognizance of the alarm. He drove his rig right into the auto. No one was hurt but one of the auto's front lights was broken and two wheels of that buggy would make good wood for matches. The horse escaped injury.

A Peculiar Accident

A somewhat funny stunt was pulled off at Norwood fair. A farmer's horse was tied to a telephone pole in the grounds. The horse, taking fright gave a jump. The pole, owing to that position of it in the ground, broke off. Fortunately the upper portion caught in the overhead wires. Thus a probable injury to hundreds of visitors was averted.

Does a logical presentation of a good investment interest you? Do you believe there is an oil in commercial quantities in Alberta? If you are alive to the situation you do. Then it will pay you to investigate our proposition and our holdings.

Please Read Carefully and Note!

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascer-tained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). if a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

MONARCHS AND THEIR WEEDS

King Edward VII., who was quite an exceptionally heavy smoker, favored cigars of surprising length and thickness. These cigars were made specially for him in Havana by the same manufacturer that the Kaiser patronises. The cigar in which the Kaiser indulges, however, is much smaller than that which was smoked by his uncle, and much more moderate in price. The King of Spain is a slave to the insidious cigarette. He rarely smokes anything else, and his chief objection to Court functions is that he cannot attend them with a cigarette between his lips. The Tsar, too, is very fond of cigarettes, those which he smokes being made of a choice Turkish tobacco grown and selected exclusively for his own consumption. The Emperor of Austria is distinctly plebian in his taste for tobacco, the only thing he ever smokes being that long thin black cigar, which is to the working classes in Austria what the "fag" is in Britain.

The editor of a daily paper appearing at Gary, Indiana, after attempting to satisfy the demands of his polyglot readers by publishing news in Italian, Czech, Croatian, Polish, Hungarian, and English, was challenged to a three-cornered duel by two subscribers because he failed to print columns in Russian and Serb. Even in happy Indiana editors can't please everybody.

Few persons ever heard of a defunct geyser, but they are not uncommon. It is said that that beautiful widening of the Mississippi River known as Lake Pepin is really a defunct geyser or perhaps the crater of a volcano, but the most remarkable one on this continent is near Banff, the Canadian summer resort.

Here is a large cave or chamber within a mountain, and in its centre is a small, hot lake. The domelike roof comes to an apex some twenty feet above the water, and in this is an opening, or vent, two feet or so in diameter, which pierces the rock roof six or eight feet until it reaches the outer air. This is thought by scientists to be an extinct geyser, and that the vent in the roof has been caused by the eruption of the waters.

One reaches this hot pool now by means of a tunnel, but formerly it was necessary to descend through the vent, and a story is told of a distinguished Canadian official who, some years ago, tried to make the descent. Half way down the shaft this corpulent person stuck—to the alarm of himself and friends. He remained a fixture for some time, in spite of strong language on his part and various devices used by outsiders for his extrication.

The entrance tunnel was afterwards constructed by the Canadian Government, but the process of squeezing through the hole, leaving some cuticle in the descent, and the knowledge that a slip would mean a ducking in a hot lake below was a novel experience that the tunnel cannot furnish.

FIRST WORLD SERIES WON BY HAMILTON

Baseball Tournament a Continuous Performance With Weird Rules When This Happened

The interleague struggle for supreme baseball honors, the world's series as it is known to-day, began in 1884, but the first series for the baseball championship dates back to 1865, and James Conaty, now a cobbler in Kansas City, was the hero of the occasion, pitching and winning seven straight games in one week. Conaty, now old and bent, with his weight of seventy-seven years, told in his little shop at New York the story of his great record, which, however, failed to win the pennant for Detroit. Hamilton, Ont., took the pennant and the world's championship.

Conaty, then a rollicking young Irishman, just home from the war, joined the Detroit White Stockings in the spring of 1865. The baseball fever ran high in Detroit, and during the summer a committee of business men arranged for a big baseball tournament, the first world's series, to be held, in the early fall. Two teams were entered from Detroit and one each from Chicago, Pittsburg, Albany, Toronto, Quebec, Montreal, Buffalo, Boston, New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Hamilton and Cleveland.

"The series began the morning of Sept. 5, 1865, the White Stockings opening with the Brooklyns," Conaty said. "Because of the great number of teams entered, the games were only three innings long. The rules were vastly different then, too. We won 3 to 0 and I pitched and won the next six straight. I don't remember what teams came up in order. We didn't figure percentage in those days like they do now. My team won 30 games if I remember right, losing 24. The tournaments lasted six days, each team playing 42 three-inning games, the tournament being a continuous performance.

"In those days three strikes were out, and one retired the side. If a fielder muffed the ball, he threw it at the runner, and if he hit him the runner was out. Each inning was counted separately, the best two out of three winning the game. There were no such things as gloves, masks or pads in those days, and many fine players retired with broken hands. If a base runner was injured while making the circuit he could be tagged out, unless he was on a base, for no one was allowed to run for him. A case of that kind was what nearly cost the Hamilton unknowns the championship.

"A player named Richardson came to bat in the last game of the series, in which the Unknowns and the Buffalo Reds had each taken one inning. He was a poor batsman and the crowd began to leave the field as he came up, as it was late and they believed the Reds had the game won, having scored six runs in their half. The Unknowns had scored three when Richardson came to bat. But as luck would have it he hit the ball a terrific wallop that sent it over the fence into the weeds, and won the world's championship for Hamilton, Canada."

CAR OF HORSES

Some sensible Facts For the Guidance of Teamsters

Load lightly and drive slowly.

Stop in the shade, if possible.

Water your horse as often as possible. So long as a horse is working water in moderate quantities will not hurt him. But let him drink only a few swallows if he is going to stand still.

When he comes in after work sponge off the harness marks and sweat, his eyes, his nose, and mouth, and the dock. Wash his feet, but not his legs.

If the thermometer is seventy-five degrees or higher, wipe him all over with a wet sponge. Use vinegar water, if possible. Do not turn the hose on him.

Saturday night, give a bran mash, cold; and add a tablespoonful of saltpetre.

A sponge on top of the head, or even a cloth, is good if kept wet. If dry, it is worse than nothing.

If the horse is overcome by heat, get him into the shade, remove harness and bridle, wash out his mouth, sponge him all over, shower his legs, and give him four ounces of aromatic spirits of ammonia, or two ounces of sweet spirit of nitre, in a pint of water, or give him a pint of coffee warm. Cool his head at once, using cold water, or if necessary, chopped ice wrapped in cloth.

If the horse is off his feed, try him with two quarts of oats, mixed with bran, and a little water; and add a little salt or sugar. Or give him oatmeal gruel or barley water to drink.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830 or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

FORTUNE SPENT FOR DOZEN PLAYERS

Some of It Was Real Money, But at Any Rate the Prices Were Record Breakers

A baseball statistician has completed figures to show that $144,000 was spent by major league clubs for a dozen players in the past few years. It doesn't seem so very long ago when the sporting world was agog over the announcement that $15,000 was paid for Jouet Meekin and "Duke" Farrell by the New York club. And the $10,000 paid for the famous Mike Kelly was thought to be a figure that would never in all the world be approached.

But big figures seem to talk these days. The rising market for "big-priced" ball players, or the lottery, as it might be called, started when John McGraw paid $11,000 for "Rube" Marquard. For two years "Rube" was hardly worth his traveling expenses. But he came around, and he lived up to his price.

Then along came Barney Dreyfus with his $22,500 beauty, Marty O'Toole, and his $7,000 catcher, Bill Kelly. That's "high," and it's probably going to stay right there. The nearest approach to it was when Charles Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox was reported to have paid $18,000 for Outfielder Chappelle. Other "big prices" were marked, including $15,000 the Giants were supposed to have paid for "Rube" Schauer, $6,000 the Yankees gave for Marty McHale, and the $12,000 the same club handed over for Thirdbaseman Fritz Maisel.

In these transactions, or in the majority of them, there has been more or less work of the imaginary kind. No such amount of cash as $10,000, $15,000 or the like was ever turned over for any player. The club getting the young star very probably handed over players who were figured as so much cash, and then some real, sure enough money in the bargain.

However, here is a list of the players whose combined abilities are reputed to be worth $144,500 in the aggregate:

Name and team	Price paid
Marty O'Toole, Pittsburg	$22,500
Larry Chappelle, White Sox	18,000
Rube Shauer, Giants	15,000
Ray Schalk, White Sox	15,000
Lefty Russell, Athletics	12,500
Rus Blackburne, White Sox	12,000
Fred Maisel, Yankees	12,000
Rube Marquard, Giants	11,000
Elmer Brown, Superbas	7,000
Bill Kelly, Pittsburg	7,000
Rube Benton, Reds	6,500
McHale, Yankees	6,000
Total	$144,500

GOOD PINCH HITTING

On a Few Occasions It Has Saved No-hit Games

It is seldom that an emergency hitter shatters a pitcher's bid for a no-hit game as Larry McLean, of the Giants did when batting against George Tyler, of the Braves. The last time anything like this happened to the Major League was on July 28, 1909. Lefty Pastorius, of the Superbas, then was pitching against the Phillies, and he held them hitless until the ninth. Then Billy Murray, manager of the Quakers, lifted John Titus out of the controversy and delegated Dr. Leon Martel to bat for him. Martel responded with a triple, and Pastorius did not get his portrait into the pitchers' Hall of Fame.

Heinie Berger, of the Naps, was headed toward a no-hit game on Sept. 26, 1907, while twirling against the Yankees, until Clarke Griffith requested Norman Elberfeld to bat for Jack Chesbro in the ninth. Elberfeld made a single and Berger's chance was gone. That same season, on May 20, Tom Hughes of the Nationals had a similar experience when Harry Bemis of the Naps did a pinch hitting trick for Glen Liebhardt in the third inning.

On Sept. 10, 1907, Joe Doyle of the Yankees confined the Nationals to one safety, made by Mike Kahoe, who got into the game because Jack Warner had been injured.

The only National League contest in which both teams were held to one hit took place between Pittsburg and Chicago on the morning of July 4, 1906. Lefty Leifield and Mordecai Brown were the pitchers and the safeties were made by Jim Slagle and by Leifield himself.

Charley Buffinton of the Phillies, is, so far as is known, the only National League pitcher to hurl two one-hit games in succession.

Keep to the Course

During a discussion over long driving, Harry Vardon, the crack English golfer, gave views on the subject which differed materially from those generally entertained. He said:

"There are any quantities of golfers who hit at times very long balls, but where do they land? Nine times out of ten, you will find them in the rough. That is not the [illegible] to my way of thinking. When I drive, I do not try to hit the ball as hard as I can. I'd rather keep on the course. The long ball is one that has length and direction. Give me the [illegible] eighteen tee shots on the course of more than average length, and I will take him against the longest slugger in the world who brings up in the rough."

In Canada it usually costs only 25 cents to see a bicycle or motor-cycle race, but in Paris the Frenchmen pay $4.50 for seats in the oval. It is carpeted there and otherwise made attractive, wines and refreshments being served within the exclusive area.

ROUGH TACTICS WIN PENNANTS

Baseball General of Bygone Day Believes in Real Warfare on the Diamond

Patsy Tebeau, one of the gamest of old-time managers, has no use for "kid glove" baseball. When he heard that President Ban Johnson regarded Manager Birmingham's Cleveland players as "too rough" Patsy expressed the opinion that the mollycoddle days had come.

"Show me a ball club that is fighting every inch of the way and I'll show you a team that is after the pennant," he said. "This having players shaking hands every time they meet is foolish. It gives the fans the wrong impression. You've got to get the fighting spirit to win.

"We never thought of greeting our opponents. Our idea was to get out and beat them. I can see a runner sliding to first with me playing the bag and getting his head pumped with the ball. Think I'd apologize? Not Patsy Tebeau! 'Get your head out of the way and you won't get hurt,' would be more like it. About a year ago I saw a fellow steal second. He came up all dust, and what do you think happened? Why, the second baseman helped him dust his uniform. And that team finished last in the race. That isn't my brand of baseball.

"Rush the other fellows off their feet. Make them think you're tough.

PATSY TEBEAU
Fighting manager of the old Cleveland Spiders.

Scare them to death and you've got them licked. We used to sit on the bench and file our spikes. They had to be sharp to give when they cut into the ground and at the same time the other team knew we wouldn't give an inch in a pinch. One day I was sharpening my spikes when I heard a man on the other team say, 'When Tebeau slides into ? you bet I'm going to get out of the way.' I had him scared, see?

"There's a difference between rowdyism and aggressiveness. The aggressive player will be on top when the parlor boy is at the bottom. Off the field, oh, well, that's different. On the field fight them to the last."

BEN TINCUP IS RICH

Indian Pitcher Plays Ball Only Because He Likes It

The majority of ball players are in the game for the amount of money they can get out of it; a few play it because of their love for the pastime. Ben Tincup belongs to the latter class. Tincup is a Cherokee Indian pitcher the Phillies picked up. He hails from Texas, and is said to be the richest ball player in the world, and probably one of the wealthiest men in baseball.

When the Indian comes of age in a few months his yearly income will be over $50,000 a year. He already has $20,000 stored away in a bank, besides being the possessor of 400 acres of valuable oil lands in Oklahoma, which the Government is leasing for him. So if Tincup fails to make good in the big leagues he won't have any cause to worry.

Since he is one of the few remaining Cherokee Indians, all the Oklahoma lands are held in trust for him. As soon as he is 21 years old he will go to Washington to collect the dividends which are accumulating for him. As Tincup's allotment of land was among the oil fields he is wealthier than many of the other survivors of the Cherokee tribe.

Preparing In Time

Antwerp has already commenced to prepare for the Olympic games, to be held in that city in 1920. A committee has been formed, and the support of the most influential persons in Belgium obtained.

The town authorities are to obtain a vote of several million francs for the expenses, and everything is being done to make the event a huge success. In recent years Belgium has come to the fore in international sports.

Forgot Bride For Dog

So anxious was Charles Humer, of Carlisle, Pa., a noted wing shot, to recover a black and white pointer that he had lost that he forgot that it was his wedding day. When he was told an hour before the wedding by his kennel keeper that the dog had disappeared he rushed out of the house and started hunting through the woods of his estate and the wedding party was getting nervous when he was reached by phone after finding his dog. He hurried to the bride's home to explain as best he could that he had "forgotten."

It Pays to Advertize

When a duck lays an egg, she just waddles off as if nothing had happened.

When a hen lays an egg there's a whale of a noise.

The hen advertises.

Hence the demand for hen's eggs instead of duck's.

WHIPPET RACING AN ENGLISH SPORT

Speedy Little Animals Very Popular in North—They Get the Very Best of Care

In England, the racing dog, or whippet, might almost be called the poor man's racehorse, for these races are particularly popular amongst the workingmen in the North and Midlands, and also, to a lesser degree, in the South. The whippet resembles a miniature greyhound; he wears a neat cloth coat and a perforated leather muzzle. This prevents him from picking up stray scraps of harmful food, which would not be good for him when training. It also prevents "doping" just before a race.

The different competitors in a race are distinguished from one another by means of different colored collars; and, in order to judge the winner, the judge has a small pit prepared in a line with the winning-post, so that, when he gets into pit he is on a level with the dogs, and can see which first crosses the line without any difficulty.

The length of a whippet race is generally from 100 to 200 yards, and the heavier dogs are handicapped when racing against lighter competitors. Each dog is held by a man who acts as starter, and this starting of the whippets is in itself quite an art. The starter holds his dog by the back of the neck and the base of the tail. At the sound of the starting-pistol the man slightly raises the dog from the ground, and tosses him forward. The idea is to drop the dog so that his hind legs touch the ground first, and he can then take up his stride at once.

A good whippet will complete 200 yards in 12 seconds, or 16 yards 2 feet per second. Whippets are trained to race by means of what is technically known as the "rag," or, in other words, a piece of cloth. The animal is taught to run to the man who waves a "rag" at him, and it is in order to reach the rag-wavers that the whippets run down the racecourse at full speed.

The men with the rags stand on the far side of a line ten yards beyond the winning-post. The rag-wavers are placed thus, instead of standing at the winning-post, because the dogs then pass the post going at full speed. If the rag-wavers stood at the post, the dogs would naturally slow up before they reached them, and the race would consequently be spoiled.

The little whippet has a very good time in his master's house. He is very carefully looked after, and is often the pet of the whole family. His diet probably consists largely of bread and mutton, and he is taken out for systematic gallops after the rag. He is groomed as carefully as a racehorse by his devoted owner.

TENNIS FOR LONG LIFE

Thirty Ex-champions Sat Down Together at Banquet

In point of physique and weight, Maurice E. McLoughlin is the most youthful tennis champion the United States ever had. He is only twenty-three years old, and at his best playing weight he tips the scale at 150. The muscular though short Beale C. Wright, the strong William A. Larned, the tall, graceful William J. Clothier, all were mature when they carried the laurels now held by McLoughlin, and all of these champions of a few years ago scaled, when playing tennis, at over 160 pounds. Wright, on one occasion, lost eight pounds in one championship match.

No stronger contrast of tennis champions was ever presented than when, with the exception of three, every champion of the United States for the past thirty-three years sat around a table to celebrate the return of the Davis Cup. If any recommendations were needed for tennis that table loudly voiced its claim. There is probably no other sport that can show such a clear roll-call of champions for a similar length of time. McLoughlin promises to be another physical advertisement for tennis. He is rugged and strong, never afraid of donning the gloves in a friendly bout and can hold his own in a number of other sports. Certainly his physique belies any hint that tennis is a game for the weakling.

CHANCE'S BIG INCOME

Some eight years ago Frank Chance was made manager of the Cubs. At that time he had a bank account of $7,000. When Charles Taft and Charles Murphy bought Hart's interest in the Chicago team they declared Chance in for 10 per cent. of the stock. He paid for it with his dividends. Chance admits that he is now worth $200,000. For looking into the lens of a moving picture camera for 25 minutes he was paid $1,000. His salary for his first season with the New York Americans was $25,000. He owns a 24-acre orange grove in California, and modestly calculates that his yearly income is about $55,000.

Must Pay Real Players

"You can't do anything with cheap talent," says Frank Chance, manager of the New York Americans. "You've got to pay top-notch players big salaries to keep them going. I'd rather have five $5,000-a-year men on my club than fifty $2,000-a-year men. The high-priced man usually plays major league ball." Chance's method of rebuilding a team is simple. He believes in buying every man, without regard to price, that appeals to him.

A BRONCHIAL COUGH, PERHAPS WEAK THROAT USE "CATARRHOZONE" DEAD SURE CURE

Wonderful Success Reported in Thousands of Bad Cases.

How many thousands are there who would gladly pay any sum to be cured of bronchitis or catarrh. Many could be cured if they would just use common sense in selecting their remedy.

Bronchitis of course is an inflammation of the bronchial tubes which were made for the passage of air alone, and neither the moisture of an atomiser nor the liquid of a cough syrup can get where the trouble really is. The diseased parts can only be reached by a remedy that can force its way through all the breathing organs. Doctors who have used "Catarrhozone" say it is the only rational cure for bronchitis. It cures by inhalation.

You breathe in its healing balsams, inhale its soothing antiseptic vapor and relief is immediate.

Simple to use, delightful and pleasant—nothing compares with Catarrhozone which is the cure of the day for all bronchial and throat troubles.

Mr. H. B. McLaughlan, the well-known representative of Parks and Blackwell, Toronto, says: "I have used Catarrhozone for years and can honestly say it is the only remedy that relieves me from a painful attack of Bronchial Catarrh. The inhaler for Catarrhozone is always in my pocket and I simply couldn't get along without it. I firmly believe Catarrhozone is a wonderful remedy."

Large size sufficient for two months' use, guaranteed, $1.00; small size 50c; sample or trial size 25c. Sold by dealers everywhere.

Four German Destroyers Sunk Off Holland Saturday Britain Has 1,200,000 Men Ready, Which is Only The Beginning--No Decisive Battle For Weeks Yet

GERMAN OFFENSIVE IN WEST VIGOROUSLY CONTESTED BY ALLIES

Stupendous Battle in South Belgium Probably Now in Progress--Allies Holding Their Ground and Making Substantial Gains--Gen. Joffre Confident--No Early Decisive Results, However, Are Looked for

London, Oct. 17.—Within a hundred miles' of London, the most critical battle— viewed from its effect on the immediate fortunes of armies— which has marked this colossal campaign, is at present ebbing and flowing along a line stretching through Belgium and further westward, into the French department of the north.

The Germans have prepared for a renewal of their vigorous offensive by joining their victorious troops from Antwerp to the main army.

Much more is published in British newspapers of German reinforcements than of accretions to the ranks of the allied armies.

Meanwhile the German offensive is meeting just as strenuous an offensive from the allied left, which remains the most important position as it has been through the campaign. Everywhere our ground has been held and at some points ground has been gained, is the latest report from Gen. Joffre, commander in charge of the French army, on the operations in this particular field.

The latest German official statement is silent regarding events there, The British war information bureau also is sphynxlike as to the current events, contenting itself with giving the nation trivial sidelights having no direct bearing on the campaign.

Bordeaux Not Hopeful for Early Results.

Bordeaux, Oct. 17.—An early and decisive conclusion of the fighting in northern France is not expected in competent military circles here.

It is believed that the situations of the opposing armies will remain unchanged for some time to come. Damp fall weather has now set in, and the roads are heavy and the air laden with mists making extended operations difficult

British Unions Deny That Britain Is Responsible

London, Oct. 17.—The General Federation of Trade Unions, representing more than 1,800,000 trade unionists, today issued a long manifesto, addressed to its members and to affiliated bodies in Europe and America, explaining that its attitude in the present crisis has not been against the British Government, as has been represented in Germany and Austria.

While working men deplore the war, the manifesto says they did not think responsibility for its rests upon the conduct or the policy of Great Britain. The document urges co-ordination of all branches of existing charities and relief funds to meet the distress created by the war, and declares that the funds subscribed up to the present time are inadequate. "Even the Prince of Wales' fund, large as it is, will only relieve the distress which already exists," the manifesto sets forth. Referring to the fact that the government has commandeered railroads, since the outbreak of the war, to meet its needs, the manifesto says: "If the railroads can be nationally and effectively controlled and worked under abnormal war conditions, they can be so dealt with under the easier conditions obtaining in times of peace."

Government subsidies for persons in distress shodld be increased it is urged in the manifesto, which says further, "Wherever trade unions have securities not easily realizable, these should be taken over by the state and the unions given the equivalent in cash."

Demonstrative Advance Near Mlawa Northeast of Warsaw in Hope of Filling Gap in German Lines--Costly Crossing of River Vistula

Petrograd, Russia, Oct. 17, via London.—According to Russian information the Germans are making a "demonstrative" advance near Mlawa. northeast of Warsaw which is intended to fill the gap between the East Prussian front and the main front which extends north and south on a line across Russian Poland.

The German army, by continuous manoeuvring under heavy artillery fire, still is endeavoring to follow out possible chances to cross the Vistula. Refugees from that neighborhood say that until three days ago all German attempts to cross the River have been repulsed with heavy losses.

The Germans found the river too wide for pontoonsand numbers perished in attempting to ford it.

Poles in that region are said by the refugees to be hampering considerably the German advance by destroying all shelter and provisions, leaving waste lands for the invaders.

German Forces Acting Better No Looting In Ghent Town

Amsterdam, via London, Oct. 17.—The Sluis, Netherlands, correspondent of The Telegraaf says that General Jungh is appointed commander of the German garrison at Ghent, which numbers 4,000 men. The soldiers are not quartered in private houses but in public buildings. No alcohol is sold to the soldiers, who are under the strictest orders to prevent looting.

Ghent had to produce hostages who however, says the despatch, are permitted to stay in their own houses. The Germans seized the post office and the town treasury. The schools fic between Brussels and Ghent. have been re-opened and the Germans hope soon to resume the railway traf-

Large supplies of provisions and clothes have arrived at Sluis for the Belgian refugees. A majority of the fugitives have no idea at the present time of returning to Belgium.

The situation at Brubre is quiet.

A Light British Cruiser Engages 4 German Destroyers Off Holland

The German Boats Were Sunk With All Hands. The British Cruiser is the "Undaunted" of 3800 Tons. She Was Accompanied by Terpedo Boat Destroyes "Lance," "Lennox," "Legion" and Loyal". Battle Took Place Off the Dutch Coast

London, Oct. 17.— By Central News Cable.) — Four German torpedo boat destroyers were sunk off the coast of Holland this afternoon, according to a statement given out by the official press bureau tonight.

The official statement says: "A ligot cruiser, accompanied by destroyers, engaged four German torpedo boat destroyersoff the Dutch coast this afternoon. All the enemy's destroyers were sunk."

The secretary of the British admiralty announces that the British light cruiser Undaunted, accompanied by the torpedo boat destroyers, Lance, Lennox, Legion and Loyal, engaged four German torpedo boat destroyers off the Dutch coast this afternoon. All the German destroyers were sunk.

The British cruiser Undaunted, a vessel of 3,800 tons, was commanded according to the latest information by Captain Cecil H. Fox, who commanded the cruiser Amphion, which after sinving the German armed cruiser Koenigin Luise, was itself destroyed by a German mine.

The destroyers that accompanied the cruiser have an armament of three 4-inch guns, and an equipment of four 21-inch torpedo tubes in pairs. The destroyers are 250 feet in length, aod have a speed of 28 knots an hour. They each carry 100 men.

NOTHING CAN ARREST BRITISH ARMY'S GROWTH

London, Oct. 17.—The Times' military correspondent replying to the Frankfurter Zeitung's statement that Great Britain was unable to raise more than 600,000 troops, says:

"We have at the present moment exactly double that number, namely 1,2800,000 men, and the number grows almost faster than we can cope with it. This is only the beginning.

"It is our way to begin to raise our armies after war breaks out, and to go on raising them until our ultimate ends are achieved. With 1,200,000 men at home, the army in the field and the hundreds of thousands forminL in India, Canada, Australia, and elsewhere are merely the nucleus upon which other armies will eventually be built.

"It is only a question of time. It stands to reason that an Empire of 200,000,000 can never lack men. This war for us has hardly begun.

"We have sent merely an advance guard into France. In the Spring the remainder of the advance guard will follow and somewhere toward the end of 1915 the main body will begin to come within view.

"We are sorty for the allies that we are even slower than Russia in making our weight felt, but a year or so gence, when the allies need a rest, we shall be in a position to make good war.

"Nothing can arrest the steadily ascending figures of our army. There cost is of little account since Germany will ultimately have to pay — in territory as well as money.

"Imagine things at their worst. Imagine the last Cossack on the Urals, and the last French doorkeeper evicted from Bordeaux. Then Re would begin a maritime war against Germany and still be no worse off than when we beban war against Napoleon."

COL. MARITZ THE BOER TRAITOR WILL RECEIVE VERY SHORT SHRIFT

Overwhelming Majority of Boers are Loyal to Great Britain--Gen. Botha in Supreme Command of South African Expeditionary Force--Fairness of British Rule Vindicated by General Smuts, a One-Time Enemy of the British

The action of Colonel Maritz and his commando in joining forces with the Germans in the North West Cape Province of South Africa has naturally created surprise among the Boers. Doubtless Colonel Maritz's action was stimulated by the resignation of General Beyers of his position as Commandant General of the Union Defence Forces. General Botha has taken supreme command of the South African Expeditionary Force and, as an overwhelming majority of the Boers are loyal to Great Britain, Colonel Maritz will receive a short shrift. In tendering hit resignation to General Smuts, Minister of Defence, ex-General Beyers stated that to his utmost surprise, parliament confirmed the resolution adopted by the Government namely, to conquer German South-West Africa without any provocation towards the Union from the Germans. Government must be aware that by far the great majorit of the Dutch-speaking people of the Union decidedly disapproved of their crossing the frontier. The fact that three Ministers of the British Cabinet had resigned showed that, even in England, there was a strong minority who could not be convinced of the righteousness of a war with Germany. It was said that war was being waged against the barbarity of the Germans. He had forgiven but not forgotten all the barbarities perpetrated during the South African war. With very few exceptions all farms—not to mention many towns—were so many "Louvains."

The allegations made in Parliament—namely, that the Germans have already violated their frontier, were undergrounded. Apparently the Government longed for some transgression by the Germans of German South-West Africa, but had been disappointed in this, for so far not a single German soldier had crossed our frontier.

The reply of the Minister of Defence emphasises in the most complete and unquestionable manner the crushing contempt of the South African Government for the insignificant number of malcontents, represented by men of the Beyers and Maritz type.

[illegible] by a man who, fifteen years ago, was one of the most active of the Boer Generals against the British forces it is all the more remarkable in its vindication of the fairness of British rule General Smuts wrote as follows under date of Pretoria, September 19th

"Sir,—

"It was with regret that I received your letter of the 15th instant tendering your resignation as the Commandant General, Union Defence Forces, and as an officer of the Union.

"The circumstances under which that resignation took place and the terms in which you endeavor to justify your action tend to leave a very painful impression. It is true that it was known to me that you entertained objections against the war operations in German South-West Africa, but I never received the impression that you would resign. On the contrary all the information in the possession of the Government was communicated to you, all plans were discussed with you, and your advice was followed to a large extent.

"The principal officers were appointed on your recommendation and with your concurrence, and the plan of operations which is now being followed is largely the one recommended by yourself at a conference of officers. My last instructions to you before I left for Cape Town to attend the special session of Parliament were that in my absence you should visit certain regiments on the German border and it was well understood between us that immediately the war operations were somewhat further advanced and co-operation among the various divisions would be practicable, you you should yourself undertake the chief command in German South-West Africa. The attitude of the Government after this remained unchanged, and was approved by Parliament after full discussion. One would have expected that that approval would make the matter easier for you, but now I find that you anticipat- son for your unexpected action.

"In order to make your motives clearer, the reasons for your resignation were explained in a political argument which was immediately communicated to the Press and came into the hands of the Government long after publication. I need not tell you that all these circumstances in connection with your resignation have made a most unpleasant impression on my colleagues and myself. But this unpleasant impression has been aggravated by allegations contained in your letter. Your bitter attack on Great Britain is not entirely baseless, but is the more unjustifiable coming as it does in the midst of a great war from the Commandant-General of one of the British Dominions. Your reference to barbarous acts during the South African War cannot justify the criminal devastation of Belgium and can only be calculated to sow hatred and even division among the people of South Africa.

GERMAN OFFICER THINKS BELGIUM WILL BE GERMAN ARMY'S GRAVE

Thinks Kaiser's Forces Advanced Into France too Quickly for Victorious Results Whole Regiments Descriminated by the Allies. Germans Killed and Wounded by Their Own Gun Fire

London, Oct. 17.—The war information bureau has made public an account of the German advance through Belgium, contained in a diary found on a German officer on a recent battlefield. The account begins on August 9, and ends with September 25, some time after the Germans withdrew from the vicinity of Paris. Speaking of his experiences, the writer relates that villagers often snipped the advancing Germans, making it necessary to kill them and to set fire to their houses. "At one place, in Belgium," writes this officer, "sixteen villagers were drawn in three ranks and one shot did for three at a time, Our men are absolutely mad at this sneaking way of fighting, and they want to burn everything.

"August 26—We are billeted at Guedoseus. Inhabitants fired at our men again. At Lette, apparently 200 villagers were shot. There must have been some innocent among them. In the future, we shall have to hold an inquiry as to their guilt instead of shooting them."

The diary refers frequently to looting, and the writer adds that he could not resist taking mementos himself. He also refers to several occasions upon which, owing to confusion, Germans were killed and wounded by their own gun fire.

"September 3—Dethat—The middle-class of France have magnificent furniture. We found stylish pieces everywhere, but in what a state, good God." Up to September 8, the writer of the diary goes on, the 17th Regiment alone had over 1,700 wounded in addition to the killed. After the retreat began, this officer wrote, there was a rumor that the first army had been in disastrous fighting. "I am terribly depressed," the writer says. "Everybody thinks that the situation is critical. The uncertainty is the worst part of it. I think we advanced too quickly, and we are worn out by marching too rapidly, and fighting incessantly.

"September 16—Our last officer has fallen, shot through the head.

"Our artillery has been shooting dangerously short The French are better at street fighting, and in any fighting in which they can make use of obstacles, for cover.

"September 22—I am convinced that this country will give us all a grave."

Gigantic Battle Preparing In Eastern War Theatre

London, Oct. 18. Berlin announces that a gigantic battle is preparing in the eastern theatre where the Austrian German forces have taken positions along the Vistula and San Rivers

Vienna states officially that fighting continued Thursday along the entire battle front from Stry and Sambor, both to the southeast of Przemysl and to the mouth of the San.

The most recent advices from Petrograd claimed Russia's successes in Russian Poland. All sources agree that there is a lull in the struggle on the East Prussian frontier, followinb battles in which neither army won a decided advantage. A correspondent at Flushing, Netherlands, reports that the greater part of the German army, after the occupation of Ostend, left for the east

GERMAN BANNER MUST FLY OVER THE CITY HALL

Or Mayor of Montreal Will be Assassinated, Declares a "Black Hand" Document Sent in by Nameless Correspondent

Montreal, Oct. 17.—Being Mayor of Montreal, is a strenuous and nerve-wrecking task, according to the way things have been going since the inauguration of the new Martin regime last April. Threats to put the chief magistrate out of this vale of tears are of regular occurrence. Indeed Mederic Martin is quite alarmed if a week goes by without anyone penning him an anonymous threatening epistle. When they come he hands a copy to the press and goes on his merry way.

So far, however, no one has died as the result of the threats. The latest recipient of the black hand documents is the acting mayor, Ald. Georges Vamdelac. He has been warned that he is to depart this life if he does not put a German banner on the roof of the city hall, where the banners of almost all Europe float now. When the war was declared the civic fathers ran up on the towers of the civic pile the flags of the allies. As fast as a new nation comes to the help of the smashers of the kaiser the banner goes aloft. Then one day the Irish struck a fine blow for Great Britain so Mederic added the green ensign to the collection. Now the nameless scribe threatens to send the mayor "on a long, long trip" if he does not put up the flag of the kaiser there too.

There is no German flag there yet; and no one has been slain either.

GERMANS EXAGGERATE NUMBER OF PRISONERS

Paris, Pet. 17.— From more than one account it seems, that the German authorities are not above resorting to tricks of the circus to create the appearance they are taking a vast number of prisoners, A Dutch friend writes from The Hague that recently at Aix-la-Chapelle he saw a Belgian whom he knew and who had been captured, pass through the streets with a number af other prisoners no fewer than five different times and on each march the populace went wild with delight, firmly believing they were seeing a fresh batch of captives each time.

WASTED $250,000

Rich Man Reduced to Singing For Coppers and Asking For Crusts

A man who had been left several fortunes, and after spending all came to be charged with begging, found himself in the dock at Northwich, England.

He was John Marsh, aged sixty-nine, of St. Helens. He declared that he had been left by various relatives sums totalling $250,000, which had all been spent in drinking, gambling, and helping others. He had inherited his father's spendthrift nature and his mother's generosity.

He was formerly in a grocery and confectionery business at St. Helens, but now worked for farmers solely for his food, varying the monotony by singing in publichouses songs of his own composition, and dancing.

Reduced to hunger, he pleaded, he simply begged a crust. His one desire was to tide over another year to qualify for an old age pension, as he had an aversion to becoming a pauper. The magistrate gave him money to help him on his way, and dismissed the case.

ADDRESS ON "CANADA" TO SCOTCH AUDIENCE

Near and Dear to the Scots—Most Akin to Scotland, of all Colonies

At a lecture on Canada given in Penicuik by the Rev. W. Baird, of Edinburgh, the chairman, Mr. W. Lindsay, introducing the lecturer, said that Canada was near and very dear to all Scots, for out of the many colonies of the Empire it stood foremost and most akin to us. Why? Because though first discovered by a Genoese trader from Bristol, and afterwards successfully settled by the Norman-French, it was not until that outstanding Scotsman—rather Franco-Scot—John Law, an Edinburgh goldsmith—who found it convenient to transfer his interests to Paris, where he founded a famous bank—turned his attention to colonising Canada with Scots, that thus began the westward trend of our race. Then followed the rush of Scots exiles after the Jacobite Rebellion in 7715, and anew began the interest of the Scots in the St. Lawrence. This exodus was followed later, and especially after 1745, by many Scots to seek fresh fortune in the West. Previous to this, however, and in the reign of James VI. and I. of England, Sir William Alexander secured a charter to found Nova Scotia, or New Scotland—the territory to be an appanage of the Kingdom of Scotland, and to be erected into two chief districts, viz., (1) Caledonia (now Nova Scotia) and (2) Alexandria (now New Brunswick.) To further make it homelike for the Scot some of the rivers were renamed, Tweed, Clyde, Forth, etc., but to still further popularize the movement a new order of baronets of Nova Scotia was instituted.

A Great Movement

Then commenced the great movement of Scots to the new Acadia, and from time to time they were followed by other bands of determined Scots, until about the years 1782-4-5, when the clearance of the Highland glens took place, and the Scots surged across the Atlantic to form that well known settlement, Glengarry, Ontario. Thereafter ship after ship brought its contingent of clansmen from old Scotland's shores. The names of the clans were: M'Donald, M'Donell, M'Millan, M'Dougall, M'Rae, M'Leod, Grant, Cameron, M'Gillis, Kennedy, M'Lennan, Campbell, M'Intosh, M'Gillivray, M'Kinnon, M'Pherson, Fraser, M'Phee, M'Intyre, Ross, Chisholm, M'Gregor, Ferguson, M'Laren, M'Kenzie, Morrison, M'Cormick, M'Martin, M'Kay, M'Arthur, M'Lachlan, Cattanach. In 1852 they numbered 9,965 souls in Glengarry, Ontario. Thus did the Scots win the East, but no less had they since won the West, and at the present time over a million Scots were located in and over the Dominion of Canada, and it may be taken as a surety that very few homes in Scotland at the present time but had some relationship with Scots o'er the water.

Who Should Emigrate

The chairman, in moving a vote of thanks, said that no one should emigrate unless he felt his present position did not give him cope for his abilities, nor afford sufficient remuneration for his toil. Nor should anyone emigrate if his circumstances were such that he is well off in this country. However, if after careful consideration of the matter and good prospects were held out by friends already settled across the seas, then it might be well to go forth with the hope of some success. It was important, however, to emphasize what the lecturer had said, that it must not be expected when they reached the other side they would find "a land flowing with milk and honey. They would find a land of opportunity for those who were willing to tackle hard work, and who had plenty of grit and courage to face difficulties.

SENSE OF HUMOR

Laughter One of the Finest Tonics For Jaded Nerves

Women ought to develop a sense of humor, because laughter was one of the finest tonics for jaded nerves and tired-out systems, said Professor Earl Barnes, of Toronto, in a lecture on "Recreation as a Constructive Force in Life." The human system broken down either by overwork or by working in one particular groove to the detriment of the other parts of the nervous system demanded, said the professor, a "pick-me-up" of some sort, and one was laughter. A man or woman with a tired-out feeling might work himself or herself into a second or a third wind as it were, and in the end accomplish something brilliant, but that was more frequently than not the way to physical and mental destruction. Men and women must have a distinct change of life after an arduous day's work. Merely going off to sleep was not sufficient. Dealing with the problem of recreation as a form of rest, Professor Barnes said England had $250,000,000 invested in permanent paid players engaged in sport, and Scotland out of her 16,000,000 acres devoted 3,000,000 of these to sport. It was a pity that women had so little interest in organized sport, which was a recreative of marvelous power. Music and art were not forms of recreation unless those educational senses had been trained. When men and women balanced their lives with a sufficient amount of recreation they had arrived at a very large solution of the problem of human life.

CANDLING OF EGGS A SIMPLE PROCESS

W. A. Brown, B.S.A., Gives Some Timely and Valuable Suggestions

As regards quality, an egg is one of the most difficult of food products to grade. Fortunately an egg is semi-transparent when held before the light and permits, if carefully rotated, of even minor defects being seen. Many appliances for commercial and private use have been invented for the detection of bad eggs, and it is now possible for anyone with a little practice to tell at a glance the main points between good and bad eggs.

In order to teach the proper methods of examination, there was prepared, under the direction of the live stock commissioner, a pamphlet by Mr. W. A. Brown, B.S.A., chief of the poultry division.

It is not necessary, says Mr. Brown, to use an extremely powerful light. An ordinary kerosene lamp, a gas jet, or a 16 candle power incandescent bulb are the sources of light most generally used in commercial work.

From time to time various appliances have been invented to facilitate the candling of eggs in quantities. These have proven serviceable for the simple detection of bad eggs, but have not been found satisfactory for the purpose of fine grading.

It is necessary therefore in commercial work as well as in private practice for each and every egg to be passed separately and with a quick turning movement before the light. In the large wholesale produce houses where large quantities of eggs are handled it is remarkable how expert some candlers become. They pick up regularly from two to three eggs in each hand and depending upon the season candle from 25 to 35 thirty dozen cases per day.

The size of the air cell, the consistency of the albumen, the color and mobility of the yolk and the general transparency of the whole egg are the factors most generally recognized as determining the quality.

The contents of an egg, just laid, completely fill the shell, but as cooling takes place contraction occurs and an air space about the size of a five cent piece is formed. The yolk is only slightly perceptible and should swing readily in the albumen when the egg is turned around.

A stale or shrunken egg may be detected by the size of the air cell. The shell is porous and evaporation takes place whenever the egg is surrounded by a temperature above freezing point. Even in the low temperature of a cold storage house a certain amount of evaporation occurs. The higher the temperature and the more rapid the air circulation the greater is the evaporation. Accompanying the evaporation a staleness of flavor soon develops, and if the egg is held in the presence of moisture or packed in dirty fillers it is apt to become musty. As the egg grows staler the albumen tends to lose its consistency and often becomes quite watery. The yolk may also break down and in extreme cases mix with the albumen.

A bad egg or an egg which has been incubated may be readily detected from the fact that the clear transparent part has become dark and opaque. Many other forms and degrees of decomposition occur, but the above are those most commonly seen.

Many simple devices and appliances have been devised for the candling of eggs. Probably the simplest method is to place the egg between the thumb and first finger and hold it between the eye and the light, using the free hand to shut off as much of the surrounding light as possible. A better method is to hold the egg at the end of a long paper or metal tube. Another simple means is to take a piece of cardboard or folded sheet of newspaper, cut a hole in it about an inch in diameter before which the egg should be passed with a gentle turning motion, between the eye and the light.

Perhaps the most serviceable of home-made appliances may be constructed from an ordinary tin biscuit box which can be used in conjunction with a kerosene lamp or an electric bulb. The polished tin surface reflects the light and increases greatly the efficiency of the apparatus. A hole one and one-eighth inches in diameter should be cut in one side of the box, three and a half inches from the bottom. To obtain the best results this hole should be faced with thick paper or felt. When a lamp is used it is necessary to cut an additional hole in the bottom large enough to admit the burner and another in the lid through which the chimney may project.

It is possible for anyone with a little practice to tell at a glance the main points of difference between good and bad eggs.

India Wants Canadian Ties

A Vancouver firm received from the Bengal and Northwestern Railway Co. of India an order for 160,000 creosoted railway ties. The specifications called for the best quality of seasoned Douglas fir, to be treated with 12 pounds of creosote per cubic foot, under specified temperature and pressure conditions. If the Douglas fir ties prove satisfactory for railway construction in India it is probable that other large orders for similar supplies from British Columbia will follow, and the creosoting industry of the province will be given a decided impetus from India.

Poor Stock

No dairyman should be satisfied with cows that produce much less than 200 pounds of butter fat per year. Use the Babcock test and dispose of the poor stock.

Saving Labor

In these days of high-priced farm labor or no labor at all, a little gasoline engine that costs around $100 will do more work than three hired men.

A mixture of slaked lime, linseed oil and cotton fibre is used in some portions of Turkey as a substitute for cement.

Lens For Railway Lights

For railroad signals and locomotive and car marking lamps a lens has been invented that spreads the light over an angle of 90 degrees, making it visible in any position it is likely to be needed.

Refreshing Sleep

A glass or two of the "Beer That Builds" at bed time, will bring restful, refreshing sleep. The tired business man—the woman who is nervous and run-down—will find this tonic and food most beneficial. Rich in food value—easily digested—and extra mild.

What Should You Spend On Your Beauty Aids?

By LUCREZIA BORI

Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York.

Special arrangements have been made with Senorita Lucrezia Bori, the famous prima donna soprano, who has created a wonderful impression in Europe and New York on account of her remarkable beauty and artistic attainment, to write for this paper a series of articles on beauty. There is probably no authority her equal in giving the newest and most approved methods of attaining and preserving "the divine right of women."

LUCREZIA BORI

HOW much money is a business woman justified in spending for toilet luxuries?

"Is it good sense for a woman who has her living to make to pay for beauty culture? How much of a factor in business success is so-called beauty?

"If a woman does the work required of her better than any one else that could be hired for the same money, do you think it matters whether she has the wrinkles ironed out of her face or her hair dressed in the latest fashion?"

These are some of the questions asked in a letter received from a woman who tells me that she is "40 years old, looks it, and doesn't care, earns $[illegible] a year, and has no sympathy with all this foolish twaddle about beauty and youth."

She must be a capable woman to earn that salary, but if she is sincere in her contempt for the effort to look one's best she is pitifully short-sighted. Also, it is not beyond the possibility of happenings that she will wake up some day and find some woman who believes in looking attractive as well as competent walking away with her job.

Look Your Best.

I think it is of the utmost importance that the business woman shall keep her figure, her complexion, her youth, her charm. It is part of her business equipment. The man who earns a good salary and has a good position, or a business of his own, keeps himself looking worthy of his place in the business world. He knows it will gain him more consideration and respect, and give him more assurance.

Business people are human. They like to have their business associates look like the kind of beings they are proud to know. A business office that is clean and in order and well furnished, filled with fresh air and sunshine is more inviting than one that is dirty, dingy, disordered, isn't it?

Given your choice of firms, occupying the two offices, and you would choose the pleasanter one, wouldn't you? The dingy office may house more brains than the sunshiny one, but it won't make the appeal.

It is the same with the business woman. She should take care of herself in every way, and make herself as attractive, in appearance and character, as she can. If she wants to be thought a person of some consequence she must look as if she cared enough about herself to make a good appearance.

It depends upon how much money a woman makes when it comes to spending it on toilet luxuries. And do you really mean luxuries or necessities? I class good soap and creams and toilet waters and such aids to good looks as more or less necessities. So, too, is the Turkish bath, the manicured hands, the occasional visit to masseuse or hairdresser.

Gentlewomen in Business.

I have never advocated the spending of large sums of money in a reckless pursuit of beauty. I have tried to tell you that right living, taking care of your health, being careful about your diet, keeping your system in order and being cheerful would make for good looks. And that is not so expensive, but nearly every one can follow the rules.

Most successful business women are wise enough to try to look well. They dress becomingly. They keep the wrinkles out of their faces, and their complexions clear and fresh. They take care of their figures. They want to look trim, active, energetic, competent.

The new type of successful business woman is not a freak. She is a well-poised gentlewoman. There is nothing to distinguish her from any well-bred woman in what is known as "society." She is no different from her sister of like intelligence who is not in business. All intelligent persons recognize the fact that it pays to put one's best foot forward in this world.

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

"DOING my own washing" is the limit of economy and martyrdom in the eyes of many housekeepers. Yet, washing is not such a mountainous task if one goes about it with a calm spirit, a level head, good cheer and willingness, and regards it more as a scientific performance of a necessary and important household duty rather than an unworthy drudgery.

Head work is just as important in washing as in any other achievement. The great painter said he mixed his paints with brains. Mix your soapsuds and do your washing with brains and see how much easier it is.

First, sort your clothes. Select the ones that are the most soiled and those that are stained, and lay them aside for special treatment.

Wash table linen by itself. Wash handkerchiefs alone. Don't use soiled suds for washing colored clothes unless you expect them to be muddy looking. Don't wash stockings after other clothes, such as flannels, unless you want them covered with lint.

Prepare the water for washing with some harmless washing fluid which will loosen dirt without eating the clothes, and soak the very soiled clothes. Turpentine is one of the most useful of washing aids. It will loosen dirt without the slightest injury to fabrics.

An excellent washing fluid is made by dissolving two pounds of soap in three gallons of water, adding a tablespoonful of turpentine and three tablespoonfuls of household ammonia. Soak the clothes in this for two or three hours before washing.

Clothes treated in this way will not need boiling. They can be put in the water when one first rises, and by the time the breakfast is out of the way they will be ready.

Another good washing fluid for very soiled clothes is made with equal quantities of turpentine, kerosene and lime water mixed. Wet the soiled garments with the mixture and after letting them stand in water enough to cover them, wash with warm suds.

All soaps are better if they are shaved and dissolved in the water. Soap jelly is made by shaving a bar of soap and letting it simmer in boiling water till it becomes thick like jelly. A teaspoonful of borax will soften it.

There are several meritorious washing machines on the market. One of the things to remember in using any of them is that the water should be boiling, and that the machine should be worked as rapidly and as long as is called for in the directions.

In washing, always try to have the water the same temperature throughout the wash. Before washing, all clothes should be wet thoroughly with cold water, and should be "set to boil" in cold water.

In removing clothes from the line, much trouble will be saved if they are pulled into shape and folded smoothly. Especially is this true of table linen and bed linen. In ironing table cloths and napkins be sure to iron with the warp. They should be ironed first on the wrong side and then on the right.

One of the things to remember on wash day is to have the kitchen freed of other work before the washing begins. Do up the breakfast dishes and get them out of the way. Of course this applies to the apartment or the small house where there is no separate laundry, the tubs being in the kitchen.

In starching fine things where only the stiffness of new finish is desired, a cup of gum arabic dissolved in a quart of boiling water is better than starch. Squeeze the articles, instead of wringing them, shake out the wrinkles, and hang them to dry with due regard to the warp of the material.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

For nine months I have known a sweet, pretty girl who works in our office. She is so simple and modest that I love her with all my heart. I think of her all day and dream of her all night.

But the other day when I bowed to her on the street she let me pass her. Could it mean that she does not want me? It is very hard for me. What shall I do?

AGE 19.

WELL, Nineteen, can't you talk English? Can't you smile, can't you say it's a delightful morning? Can't you even look pleasant every time you see the girl, and see what that will do?

What do you expect her to do—rush wildly after you and beg you to speak to her?

Probably she didn't see you—that tragic moment when you met her on the street, and she "let you pass." She was probably trimming her holiday hat in her mind's eye, and trying to decide whether dark blue or light blue would be the most becoming.

Don't take the affair so seriously—be nice to the girl and she'll be nice to you. But, after all, you know, you're just 19. And if she's the first one you ever really loved you are pretty apt to find some day that she is—just the first one—after all.

"Did he?"

"No. The dear boy said I had enough now."

GARLANDED GOWNS LATEST MODE

Chiffon Roses on Soft Tulle the Summer Fad

HERE is a new imported gown, presented as a refutation of the charges of improper dressing which are made from time to time against the American woman.

Could anything be more simple and charming? It is one of the trousseau gowns for a young woman whose position in life is such that she can have practically everything or anything in the way of clothes that her fancy dictates. She is invariably notedly well dressed. Yet not one of her gowns is any more conspicuous than the one shown.

This gown is developed in pale pink charmeuse of the most supple and exquisite quality. It is of that peculiar shade of pink which holds a hint of creamy-gray in its folds.

The tunic and bodice are draped in one piece, the folds being left at the waistline so there is no need of a girdle. The edge of the tunic is left selvage after the mode of the present making. The underskirt has the effect of draping, which is a matter of shaping rather than of actual tucking-up in any given place, and has the clinging lines at the hem.

The tunic slopes gradually and with a most graceful line from the front to back, reaching long enough at the sides, so as not to mar the line over the hips.

The bodice is sleeveless, and is draped across the bust and over the shoulders with loose folds of tulle. While the draping of the bodice is close enough at the waist to outline the figure it is left in slightly full folds over the bust, and is adorned with pink chiffon roses with silver hearts set at regular intervals. Nothing could be simpler and nothing more becoming to a woman of almost any age or type.

It is perfectly in style, yet there is nothing to criticise in its lines.

In speaking of the charges made against the American woman's dress, an American modiste who goes abroad twice a year to buy French models says: "It is the fault of the buyers more often than the fault of the makers, and still more the fault of the wearer when gowns are such that the words 'immodest' and 'indecent' can justly be applied to them."

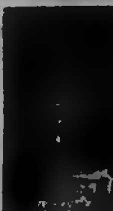
No. 118

Mary's Christmas List.



LEONA DALRYMPLE

MARY'S Christmas list grew. Finally in a spasm of desperation I picked it up from the library table one night and looked at my wife who was embroidering an initial on a towel for somebody on the list.

"Mary," I said patiently, "you've simply got to cut out some of these people. I can't afford to give you any more money for Christmas, and you might as well make up your mind to it at once."

Mary's color rose.

"It seems to me," she flashed, "that Christmas is the one time you shouldn't stint money if you do every other month and week in the year."

"You don't 'stint' money any month in the year," I shot back. "I've told you that I have father's note to meet the first of January. That's for $[illegible], and I must pay something on it——"

"I don't think your father ought to expect it," said Mary, resentfully, "when he knows the Christmas season is a period of such expense."

"He hasn't mentioned that he expected it," I flared angrily; "it's an honorable business obligation that I shan't ignore merely because the other party happens to be my father." I glanced indignantly down that fool Christmas list. "Just why do you give Mrs. Rayner a present of any sort? You hate her."

"She'll talk about me if I don't," said Mary.

"She'll talk about you if you do," said I bitterly. "If you give her an expensive gift she'll say you're spending more than your husband can afford—if you give her some simple, little thing, she'll swear you're a tight wad. I've met that type of woman before."

"Well," said Mary, flushing, "cross her off the list then, if you feel so cranky about it."

I crossed Mrs. Rayner off with a black mark that betokened considerable energy.

Very carefully then I went over my wife's Christmas list. Eighty per cent. of it I refused to regard as legitimate. Eighty per cent. of it had been inspired—not by motives of good feeling and generous giving—but by a grudging sense of obligation.

"I can't afford to have you lavishing gifts upon people merely to satisfy an ignominious sense of Christmas pride," I said. "It would please me most if you would narrow your Christmas list down literally to my people and your own. I can't afford to have it otherwise."

And after much tearful debate we revised the Christmas list at last to my approval. But even then Mary had wasted money on some foolish things that she eventually gave to a church fair, where doubtless they trapped some honorable, decent man with a silly wife into a spasm of profanity.

Littleness—that surely is the word for the mind that thinks of Christmas in terms of pin cushions. Littleness is the word for the energy that eats up time, money and patience for an unworthy cause.

Some one has said that Christmas isn't a season—it's a feeling.

And after all my trouble and worry, Mary deliberately spent the money I gave her for the payment on Dad's note, on Christmas baubles.

Tearfully one night—it was Christmas eve, I think—she confessed it.

"I—I thought your father could wait," she said, "and I—I did have to buy holly and wreaths and bells and everything to make the house look pretty, didn't I?"

I was too angry to answer. I merely whistled.

What Our River Names Mean

The strait of Juan de Fuca was named after an old Greek sailor who explored its shores in 1592.

Pecos river, Texas, was so named by the Spaniards from its appearance, pecos meaning "freckled."

Lake Memphremagog, in Vermont, was originally called Mem-plow-boque, a large body of water.

Lycoming, the name of a Pennsylvania river, is a corruption of Leganihanne, "sandy stream."

The Connecticut river took its name from an Indian word, Quonaugticot, meaning "river of trees."

The Catawba river, in North Carolina, was named for the tribe of Indians that lived on its banks.

The Minnesota river was named by the Indians from the words, Minni-Sotah, meaning "green water."

The Menominee, in Wisconsin, was named from a tribe of the same name. The word means "wild rice."

Massachusetts bay was named from two Indian words, Mais Tchuseag, meaning "this side the hills."

The Catawissa river, in Pennsylvania, was named from an Indian word that means "getting fat."

The Cattaraugus, in New York, has its name from an Indian expression signifying "bad smelling banks."

The Platte river was originally named the Nebraska, from an Indian word meaning "shallow water."

The Housatonic, in Connecticut, was called by the Indians Wussiadenex, the "stream beyond the mountains."

The Delaware bay gave its name to the state. The bay was named from Thomas West, Lord De La War.

The Chickahominy had its designation from an Indian word, Chik-a-maw-hony, "the place of turkeys."

Appalachie Bay, Florida, was variously termed Apahalachie, Abolachie, Apesiatel, Palaxy, Palatcy, and so on.

The Neversink was not named because its waters do not get low, but from the Indian Na-wa-sink, "mad river."

The Pascagoula, in Mississippi, was named from the Indians called the Pascagoulas, or "the bread-making nation."

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why the Handerkerchief Is Considered Unsanitary.

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

THE Queen's lace handkerchief may or may not have been responsible for one of the wars between France and England, but that plain, everyday handkerchief of yours is responsible for more maimings and deaths than a dozen wars.

The linen handkerchief is an anachronism in these days of hygiene and bacteriology. In the pre-Pasteurian days, when germs and microbes were mere theoretical figments of a few super-heated imaginations, handkerchiefs were all very well in their way.

But nowadays, when each little drop of mucous, of perspiration, and of pretty much any spot of the body is known to reek with multitudes of microbes, the unhappy consequence of wiping your mouth, your nose, your forehead or any other fragment of your anatomy with a linen handkerchief, or, for that matter, any other kind, is to catch up the ultra-microscopic animalculae and bacteria and spread them to the next spot touched.

Say what you will against the pesky housefly, with its habit of spreading germs with its feet, its delicate tread and minimum of foothold places for bacteria to cling, yet its opportunities to extend diseases, bad as they are, are negligible compared with the overlooked pocket handkerchief.

When, in addition to its usual usufructs, the host of influenza bacilli and other "cold" causing bugs are poured into the folds of this all too handy mop, it needs no elastic imagination to realise what contagions are thus spread broadcast each time this white badge of iniquity is waved.

A Recent Inquiry.

Dr. Carl Hewson, a young bacteriologist, recently investigated and counted the number of bacteria in hundreds of freshly laundried handkerchiefs. These were compared with a similar examination of ordinarily soiled handkerchiefs. Finally a third research was made upon the handkerchiefs used for "colds," "coughs" and "sore throats."

The pathologist found that even the cleanest and sweetest of newly ironed linens had a large group of microbes in them. Happily, most of these were of the harmless, non-disease forming kind.

The handkerchiefs which most persons use and soil in the usual course of human events had all sorts and conditions of bacteria upon them. There were small ones and large ones, thin ones and fat ones, pus germs and blood poisoning ones, in short, those which cause boils, pimples, blackheads, dandruff, pink eye and other minor diseases.

Of the third group, the linens used by individuals sick with various ailments, almost all varieties of vicious bacteria from tuberculosis to diphtheria were present in abundance.

The Modern Substitute.

"What shall I do?" you ask fondly, "with my old family friend, the handkerchief? What is to replace it?"

Is it really necessary? If you needs must use something in lieu of the handkerchief to wipe away the briny tears, cast your clean lace, linen and paper kerchiefs into the garret, and take up the use of little tampons of sterilized, absorbent cotton.

Envelopes to fit milady's hand satchel with bits of cotton in them are now available. These may be had at sundry places. The eyes, nose, lips, ears or face may be mopped with them. They are then returned to the miniature envelope or package. At an opportune time these are burned with all the associated microbes of disease.

Tuberculosis, erysipelas, carbuncles, pneumonia, "colds" and all the infectious human ills are now borne by the respected handkerchief. Many victims of these maladies would have escaped their ravages had bits of absorbent cotton, or even paper ones, been in use and immediately thereafter burned.

The Good Night Story

The Golden Heart—By Vernon Merry.

A LONG time ago a young farmer, out hunting, met an old woman, who asked him for charity, because she had nothing to eat and had no money. He was good-hearted, so he gave her some of his money, and she thanked him with these words:

"Down the road you will see a tall tree, and in that tree nine crows fighting over a cloak. Take your gun and shoot into the flock; one of the crows will fall dead with the cloak at your feet. Keep the cloak, for it is a wishing cloak, and take out the bird's heart and carry it always with you. Put the heart under your pillow, and every morning you will always find a gold piece there."

The young farmer did exactly as the old woman had told him. He shot the crow and took its heart and carried the wishing cloak home with him. Next day he put on the wishing cloak and made a wish. In a second he was standing before a castle, talking with a beautiful girl.

Now, the young girl was as good as she was beautiful, but her stepmother was a wicked witch, and made the girl do what she wanted her to do. The old witch made the girl try to get the golden heart and the wishing cloak. To get it the pretty girl told the farmer that she would like some of the emeralds that were to be found on the distant mountain, but that she had never been able to go there because it was so far off. Distance, of course, was nothing to the farmer. He took the girl into his arms and wished himself there, and instantly they were standing on the mountain.

After they had gathered all the emeralds that they wished the poor young farmer fell asleep, because the old witch had given him a bottle of magic water to carry. When he fell asleep the beautiful girl took the golden heart and the cloak and wished herself back again.

When the farmer awoke he felt very badly over the lovely girl's treachery, and did not know what to do with himself, because he had lost every treasure that he had. Then, while he was sitting on top of the mountain, a cloud came along and carried him away. It dropped him in a garden.

In this garden he met again the old woman to whom he had been so good in his own country, and he told her his troubles. She gave him two cabbages, and told him exactly what to do to get his treasures back.

Without much trouble he found the castle where the girl and the wicked witch lived, but he disguised himself so that they did not know him. He invited them to eat a salad which he made from the cabbage, and, instantly, they were turned into donkeys. He drove them to a stable, and told the man there to take care of them, but to beat the old donkey every morning, as she was a very bad animal. Then he went back to the castle.

After some days the stableman came and told him that the old donkey was dead, and that the young one was very sick. Now, the farmer still loved the beautiful girl, so he had her brought to the castle, and fed her with the second cabbage the good woman had given him. Instantly she was turned into her own lovely self again.

She was so sorry for what she had been made to do to the young man that he forgave her, because he loved her very much. She found his cloak and the golden heart for him, and they were married and lived happily ever afterward in the castle.

GERMANS HERE SAY CRITICISM IS UNFAIR

Ottawa, Oct. 16.—An extraordinary petition has been received by Sir Robert Borden from the German-Canadian Alliance of Saskatchewan. The petition objects to statements in the Canadian press in regard to Germany and asks that the Dominion Government impose restrictions upon the English-speaking press of Canada.

The petition adds: "These papers are not doing justice to German civilization, but are bound to do harm in this country by stirring up race hatred and ill-feeling."

[illegible] Canada.

The [illegible] that the work of up-b[illegible] will be endanger-ed if [illegible] could continue "un-necessar[illegible]rt the feelings of a considerable percentage of the total population of Canada."

Complaint is made in the petition that great hardship has overtaken the German population of Western Canada as a result of the war.

GOULD WINS SUIT TO GET $1,200,000

New York, Oct. 16.—A verdict in favor of Edwin Gould in his suit against F. Augustus Heinze for the recovery of $1,200,000, part of the purchase price of stock in the Mercantile National bank with interest thereon, was returned by a jury in the state supreme court here today.

While the jury was out Justice Page sent in instructions that the jury must bring in a verdict for the whole amount or nothing.

Justice Page had been informed that some of the jurors desired to bring a verdict of $440,000, representing 155 on each of the 2800 shares involved in the transaction, and an appeal was made to the court to learn if a partial verdict could be made. The jury was out about two hours.

At the request of Edward T. Brackett, counsel for Heinz, a thirty-day delay of execution was granted.

Residents of Lindsay are vigorously kicking because their street lights are extinguished at 5 a.m., long before old Sol has got out of bed.

The Eyes of the Fleet

In some quarters too much importance is put upon the loss of a cruiser or two on active service. 'Tis true that loss of life is always deplorable, but in war such eventualities must be expected. One cannot make an omelette without breaking an egg, and the British fleet cannot expect to blockade Germany and protect the British Isles without some loss. A significant fact in the loss of British cruisers by submarine attacks is that they all were obsolete types of boats, taking the place of more valuable war craft on patrol duty; and this goes to show that Admiral Jellicoe understands thoroughly the risk of modern patrol operations, and is not endangering in such work the safety of his best cruisers. Cruisers are in reality the eyes of a fleet, and as such are exposed to much risk in protecting the fleet. The British fleet to-day in the North Sea is a blockading force in open and exposed waters, and thus exposed to submarine raids from an imprisoned enemy. The German fleet is a bottled up force in protected waters, and unattackable unless they issue forth from their base. Under such circumstances the British fleet is putting up the bravest, noblest and most self-sacrificing fight the world has ever seen in protection of her country's interests as a whole. But the time will surely come when our navy will have an opportunity of engaging in manly combat with the enemy, in which event all the pent-up enthusiasm and activity of John Bull's sea-fighting force will find vent in a repetition of Nelsonic victories. And may it come soon!

Germanic False Assertions Prevail the World Over

The German scheme of systematic perversion of facts seems to prevail the world over, wherever German blood is found. The boldness with which some Teutons will deliberately attempt to "lie" themselves into sympathetic endorsation from neutral peoples is marvellous—one almost feels disposed to qualify their effrontery as admirable, so recklessly persistent are they in the art of prevarication. As an instance of this General Beyers, the Boer malcontent, in resigning his command of the South African Union Defence Forces, said in part that he had forgiven but not forgotten British barbarities in the South African war, when, with few exceptions, all farms, not to say towns, were so many "Louvains." The most polite way of answering Gen. Beyers is, "that amongst other facts he has either deliberately forgotten to speak the truth, or is afflicted with a dangerous and malicious type of mental disease, which must be curbed." It is a matter of history now that Great Britain waged war in South Africa upon the most approved humane principles, and, that her respect for public institutions—religious and civil—and her protection of private interests won for her the appreciation of the world, together with the admiration and gratitude of her foes.

The Belgian Government has called every male Belgian to the colors. Is not this militarism something awful?
